TEXT OF ADDRESS.
The text of President Roosevelt's speech will be found on Page 12.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Sept. 23.—With a mixture of satire, whimsey, and anger, President Roosevelt tonight defended the New Deal against the slashing Republican attacks of the last month in his first avowedly political speech of the fourth term campaign.

The chief executive spoke in the Statler hotel here before the International Brotherhood of Teamsters, Chauffeurs, Warehousemen and Helpers [AFL], which also sponsored the first speech of his third term campaign four years ago. The address was broadcast over two of the four major networks and is to be relayed to soldiers overseas.

Gets 41 Laughs.

The speech—the first public address Mr. Roosevelt has delivered while seated—was enthusiastically received by some 800 picked union leaders. He drew almost as many laughs—41—as he did bursts of applause—42—in the address which ran 35 minutes.

Mr. Roosevelt received an ovation as he was wheeled to his place at the banquet table between Dan Tobin, union president, and William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor. Nearby were Dave Beck, Seattle union leader, and Henry J. Kaiser, ship builder.

Demonstration for Him.

A five minute demonstration greeted the President when Tobin, in a 10 minute introductory speech, warned against taking a gamble on false prophets and urged reëlection of the man who he said would "gladly give his life, if need be, so that others might live in peace." Another long demonstration followed the end of the President's address and continued as the President was wheeled out.

Members of the audience found the President somewhat thinner and more worn than when he addressed them four years ago. However, those who have seen him more often agreed he looked better than he has on some occasions. His voice seemed to have recaptured most of its old fire and there were but few faults of delivery as compared with the many in his last speech in the Bremerton, Wash., navy yard.

Obviously Angry.

Angrily he branded as a "callous and brazen falsehood" Gov. Dewey's charge that the New Deal plans to keep men in the army when the war is over because there will be no jobs for them. He also labeled as a lie Republican charges that the New Deal failed to prepare for the war.

He accused Dewey, without mentioning his name, or employing the propaganda technique of Hitler—never use a small falsehood—but always tell a big one and repeat it over and over.

In a whimsical mood he charged that the G. O. P. has adopted the New Deal's labor relations, wage and hour and social security legislation as its own, saying that many marvelous stunts have been seen at the circus, but no performing elephant could turn a hand spring without falling flat on its back. He said the alleged Republican imitation of the New Deal was a "fraud."

Mr. Roosevelt returned to the whimsical late in his speech to defend his dog, Fala, from Republican attacks. He charged Republican leaders have not been content with attacks on himself, his wife, or his sons, but had to concoct the story that a destroyer was sent back to the Aleutian islands because the Scottie was reportedly left behind during the President's Pacific tour.

Not the Same Since.

Candidate Roosevelt said the dog has not been the same since. He said he was accustomed to hear falsehoods about himself, such as that he has represented himself as indispensible, but feels that he has a right to resent libels against his dog.

In hurling ridicule at the opposition, he pointed to leaders who he said had kept their heads buried in the sand while the war storms of Europe and Asia raged and laughed at Republican opposition to lend-lease and the munitions program.

Bare UNRRA Confusion and Inefficiency

BY WALTER TROHAN.

Washington, D. C., Sept. 23.—A secret and confidential report on the chaos and inefficiency in the united nations relief and rehabilitation administration was secured today by THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE. It was prepared by American members of the UNRRA staff and made available to key members of congress.

"There is much trouble with the proper functioning of UNRRA," the report stated, "which, in the main, seems to be lack of proper policy, lack of direction, lack of organization, a personnel in many spots incompentent, the place honeycombed with petty jealousies—a lack of understanding of the proper qualifications needed for the field personnel in foreign countries, a lack of understanding of foreign peoples and foreign requirements, and too many Englishmen in key positions; also, too many foreigners in positions of trust, some of them hardly able to speak English, who will have charge of spending good American dollars, which comprise more than 60 per cent of the many billions of dollars appropriated by the 44 nations who contribute to the general fund.

Rights Surrendered.

"While we contribute the lion's share of funds for UNRRA, and should therefore play the leading role in planning and administration, having all the key positions filled by able, far-sighted, competent Americans with a world-wide point of view, we seem to surrender most of our rights and prerogatives to others who have no interest or intent at all in seeing American interests protected.

"In the reconversion of Europe America will have practically no share, except in Russia, and most contracts will go to Great Britain."

The United States has made available 800 million dollars of the total 1 billion 350 million dollar UNRRA fund. Besides the United States, only the United Kingdom and Canada have made available the full amount of their obligations to the fund under the plan calling for each country whose home territory has not been invaded by the enemy to contribute 1 per cent of its national income. Britain has contributed 320 millions and Canada 77 millions.

Some Contribute Nothing.

South Africa has advanced 1 million, Iceland $50,000, and Liberia $15,000 against their obligations. The rest of the 44 nations participating have contributed nothing.

The administration of affairs in the Balkan countries has been placed almost entirely in the hands of British officials, according to the report. In Italy large industrial enterprises have already been taken over by British cartels, such as Sniaviscosa, largest Italian cellulose and rayon concern which has been absorbed by Courtauld, Ltd., leading British rayon concern, the report says.

Headed by Britisher.

In the Balkans the UNRRA mission is headed by Director Matthews, a titled Britisher. His director of industrial rehabilitation is F. Thrupp, another Englishman, who speaks several languages. Thrupp will be in a position to secure large private industrial contracts for equipment in reconstructed, rehabilitated, new, or expanded plants for English firms at the expense

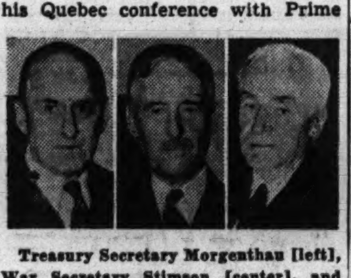
CABINET SPLITS ON PROPOSAL TO RUIN GERMANY

Break Up Industry, Morgenthau Asks.

Washington, D. C., Sept. 23 (AP).—President Roosevelt's cabinet committee on German peace policy has split wide open, it was learned today, over a plan sponsored by Treasury Secretary Morgenthau for completely destroying Germany as a modern industrial state and converting it into an agricultural country of small farms.

Morgenthau's plan, drawn up after his recent return from European battlefronts and England, is reported to have had the general approval of the President since before his Quebec conference with Prime Minister Churchill. It has failed to win support, however, from Secretary of State Hull and is violently opposed by War Secretary Stimson.



Treasury Secretary Morgenthau [left], War Secretary Stimson [center], and Secretary of State Hull.

Hull, Stimson, and Morgenthau form the cabinet committee.

Ties Up 3 Power Plans.

For the time being the dispute over the Morgenthau plan has so snarled up treasury, war, and state department work on detailed arrangements for post-war control of Germany that three power planning by this country, Britain, and Russia on long range German policy also has virtually stalled.

This planning, carried on thru the European advisory commission, had been proceeding along lines other than those advocated by Morgenthau, so far as American leaders were concerned.

Mr. Roosevelt presented the Morgenthau plan to Prime Minister Churchill at Quebec. Morgenthau and British Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden were present. Stimson and Hull were not.

Morgenthau came away from the conference with the impression that Churchill found his proposals acceptable, especially since Eden is reported to have held somewhat similar views.

What Premier Stalin plans with respect to Germany apparently still is not known here.

A Guess About Russia.

Morgenthau based his plan on three assumptions with respect to Russia: [a] Russia wants East Prussia and most of Silesia to go to Poland to offset Poland's loss of eastern territory to the soviet union; [b] Russia wants German labor battalions put to work on the soviet union reconstruction; [c] with her own huge needs for man power, Russia is not interested in prolonged military occupation of Germany and would be willing to have Britain, the United States, and other allied countries do the job.

Secretary Hull is known to be determined that whatever plan is decided on finally here must be agreeable to Russia. He feels that it is essential to have British-American-soviet coöperation in immediate post-war Europe as a basis for long range coöperation in a world security organization.

The Morgenthau Plan.

Morgenthau's plan as understood by those who have followed its development from the first to provide:

1. Removal from Germany to devastated countries of whatever industrial machinery those countries want; destruction of the rest of Germany's industry.

2. Permanent closing of whatever mines remain in the territory of the post-war German state.

3. Cession of the Saar and western German industrial areas to France as well as cession to Poland of eastern German areas which Russia might want handled that way.

4. Dissolution of large German land holdings into small farms which would enable the 40 to 50 million people remaining in Germany to exist largely on an agricultural basis.

5. Refusal by other countries to extend any assistance, economic or otherwise, to the people of Germany so that they would have to make

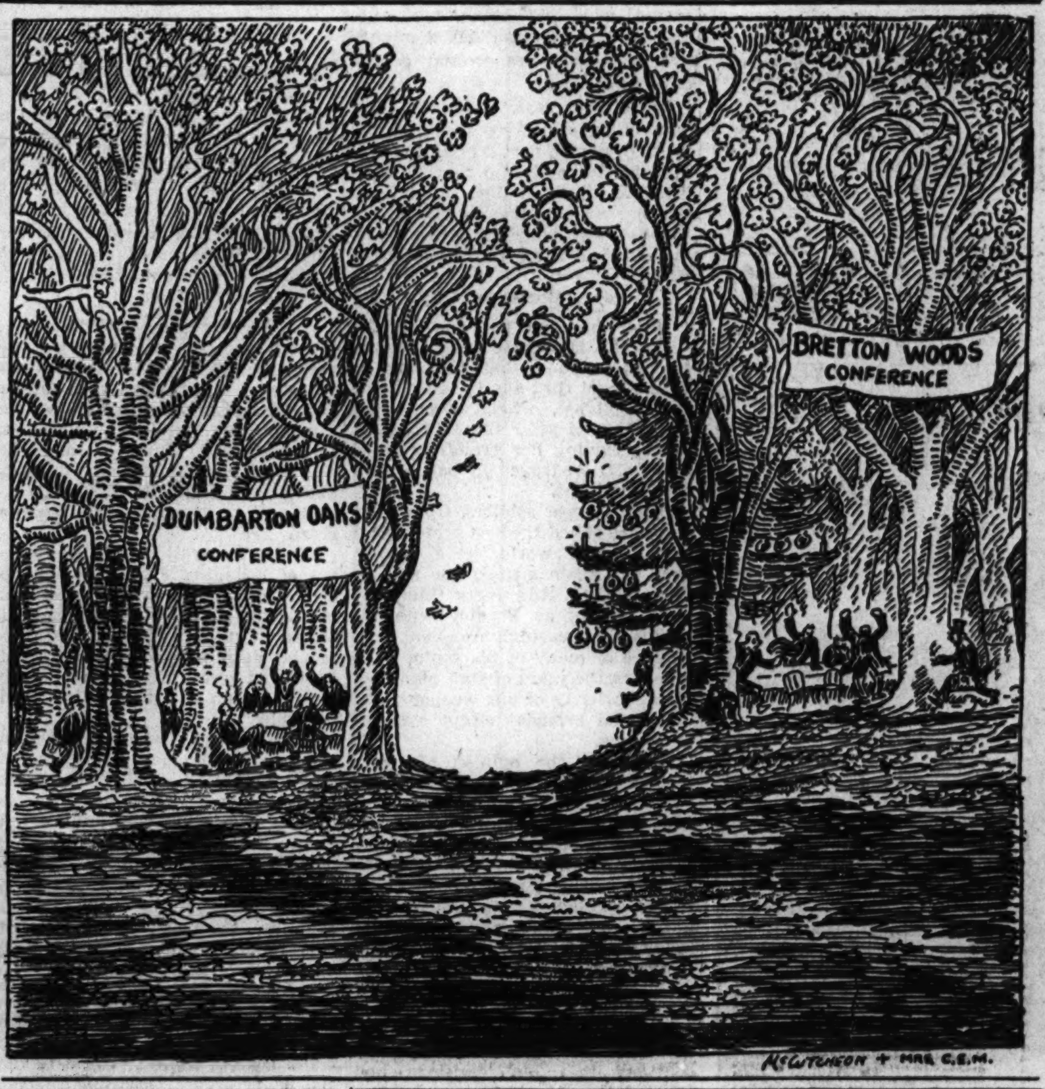
SHADY BUSINESS



Anti-4th Term Texans to File 3d Party Slate

Austin, Tex., Sept. 23 (AP).—A new party that will file its own slate of Presidential electors was organized here today by a group of Texas anti-Roosevelt Democrats in a closed convention.

A spokesman for the meeting released a formal statement saying the convention was called to form a party "since the name Democratic has been stolen from us by those new members of the party who believe in state socialism."

The anti-fourth termers announced their plan of action a few hours after the state Supreme court unanimously ruled that the pro-Roosevelt electors nominated by the September state Democratic convention, and not the anti-Roosevelt electors chosen at the May convention, should be certified for printing on the Nov. 7 ballot as the Democratic electors.

Assail Reds and CIO.

The new party's statement said it believed that a large majority of Texas people "resent and condemn the usurping of the Democratic party name by Communists, big city machine politicians, Bronx Negro politicians, and the CIO political action committee."

The May electors were instructed by that convention not to vote for the national nominees if the nation convention failed to fulfill certain conditions. These conditions were rejected.

The anti-Roosevelt forces met immediately after the court's decision was announced. J. Hart Willis of Dallas, a spokesman for the meeting, said the session was under the chairmanship of Edgar Townes of Houston, with C. C. Renfro of Dallas as secretary.

Monday Filing Deadline.

Willis said it had not been decided under what party name the anti-Roosevelt electors would be filed with Secretary of State Sidney Latham. Monday is the last day for such filing.

The effect of today's Supreme court decision was to expunge from the Democratic column the names of Presidential electors who have said they would not vote for Roosevelt and Truman.

The court closed its doors to further litigation in the row, which twice has come before the court, by announcing it would not grant a rehearing.

"Party Has Spoken."

The opinion by Chief Justice James P. Alexander held that withdrawal of the original nominees who would not support the national convention's ticket, and substitution of others by the September convention, "was clearly a matter within the inherent power of the party."

"The sufficiency of the cause for the withdrawal of the nominations is not a matter for this court to determine," he wrote. "That was a matter that rested entirely with the party. The party has thus spoken its will."

How We Got That Way

An Editorial

It is only a few years since the Germans, the Japanese, and their allies were dominant on every fighting front. They held the initiative. The war was 3,000 miles and more from Tokyo. The Germans controled all of Europe from Brest to Stalingrad and from Narvik to Crete, and were within a few days' march of the Nile. What broke them? What force has sent them reeling?

The answer is the United States.

Part of the story can be told in numbers. We have more than 10,000,000 men in arms. No army or navy was ever as well equipped and supplied as ours. We have built more than 200,000 planes for our own forces and our allies, and 60,000 tanks. More than 10,000,000 rifles have been turned out and some 2,000,000 machine guns of various sorts. We have built 8,000 big ships and more than 50,000 landing craft, and nearly 400,000 big guns, according to recent tabulation.

All along the line an industrial miracle has been performed. It is paralleled by the agricultural miracle of producing two successive bumper crops, the largest in our history. All this has been accomplished when 10,000,000 of our men have been taken from the farms and factories for military duty.

Part of the story cannot be told in figures. It wasn't their numbers that kept the marines fighting at Guadalcanal when the reënforcements didn't arrive and food and ammunition were running short. It wasn't numbers alone that won at Tarawa and Saipan and drove the Japs from Midway. It was courage, individual initiative, determination, organization, and team-work.

The same qualities have given Americans the post of honor in almost every critical engagement in the European theater. Our men were assigned to the toughest landings in North Africa. They were responsible for the break-thru before Mateur which brought the end of the African campaign. Our men led the assault on Sicily and again at Salerno, and once again they bore the brunt of the invasion of Normandy. Our forces broke thru at St. Lo.

How did America get that way? Only by conferring upon her citizens the largest measure of freedom any nation ever enjoyed; by giving encouragement to individuals to make the most of their talents; by restricting the right of government to meddle in private affairs. That is why America, despite eight years of New Dealism, was the most advanced nation in the world in industry and agriculture when the war came. That is why management knew how to meet the demands of this war and why there was a labor force ready for the emergency.

And that, too, is why our fighting men have their surpassing quality. They are free men and the sons of free men. What we are and what we have been able to show the world in this war we owe to our institutions, especially our political institutions. Other parts of the world have natural resources to equal ours. Our blood is the blood of the old world. It is only in our political institutions and the social tradition that flows from them that we differ markedly from the old world.

The effort of the New Deal for nearly a dozen years has been to force America into the old world pattern. The fundamental question to be decided at the forthcoming election is whether we are to continue to lead the world. Are we going to preserve the Republic, with all the material and spiritual strength it has given us, or are we going totalitarian with Browder and Hillman?

20 Year Old Yank to Die for Killing English Girl

LONDON, Sept. 23 (AP).—Augustine Guerra, 20 year old United States army air force private from San Antonio, Tex., has been sentenced by a court-martial at Ashford, Kent, to hang for the strangulation murder of 15 year old Betty Green. A companion faces trial on similar charges.

ROME, Italy, Sept. 23 (AP).—American forces have smashed thru the center of the German Gothic line and are looking down on the Po valley of northern Italy, it was disclosed tonight, while the British 8th army on the east coast, fighting out onto the Po plains, pushed the Nazis out of strategic road and rail positions.

Sid Feder, Associated Press correspondent with the 5th army, said the exact location of the new American positions could not be disclosed.

Heart of Line Believed Ripped.

"It seems safe to say," he added, "that the smash which carried 5th army troops over some of the tallest peaks in Italy to where the broad Lombardy plain, with Bologna at its gateway, lies unfolded before them, tore the heart out of the Gothic line at a point where it was probably the deepest."

Previous reports had put the Americans 28 miles south of Bologna at the southern threshold of strategic Futa pass.

The American advance was rammed home with one of the heaviest artillery concentrations of the war, with some German prisoners reporting the shellfire had cut some of their battalions to as few as 60 men.

[Another dispatch quoted Lt. Col. George Walker of Des Moines, Ia., as saying that in one German battalion one company had 11 men, another eight, and a third two.]

Brazilians Drive at Port.

The Brazilian expeditionary force, operating northwest of Pisa, drove to within 23 miles of the port of La Spezia.

Lt. Gen. Oliver Leese's 8th army routed the last enemy troops south of the Marecchio river, which flows thru Rimini, and was swiftly deepening the bridgehead across the stream that puts it on the Po plain.

As they fought onto the Via Aemilia, a highway to Bologna, 75 miles northwest, British and Canadian troops rounded up an increasing number of prisoners.

Other 8th army forces were fighting north toward Ravenna, 34 miles beyond Rimini, driving before them concentrations of enemy troops who were raked yesterday by the fire of the British destroyer Loyal.

Straddle Railway to Milan.

The advances also put the 8th army astride rail lines which run northwest to the big Italian industrial city of Milan.

[A London dispatch said the Rome radio reported last night the allies were mopping up German troops in the tiny republic of San Marino.]

Bombers attacked dozens of bridges from northeast of Venice westward to Milan.

Headquarters reported that the United States destroyer Ludlow, bombarded enemy transport and rail yards at Ventimiglia, near the French-Italian border, on Wednesday.

The allied command paid tribute to the Canadian 1st infantry division for leading the smash that broke thru the Adriatic sector of the Gothic line.

It said the division, commanded by Maj. Gen. Christopher Vokes, with attached Greek units and the British 21st armored brigade, had advanced thru "fiercer artillery and mortar fire than any previously faced in Sicily or Italy."

[Germany's war report said yesterday: "To the north of Lucca and Pistoia, enemy thrusts remained unsuccessful. Battles in the northern sector have flared up to the greatest violence."]

CHEVALIER SAFE IN SO. FRANCE, SAYS MANAGER

PARIS, Sept. 23 (AP).—Maurice Chevalier, French screen actor, is living with friends at Mauzac in southwestern France, the actor's business manager, Max Ruppa, said today. Ruppa said he had received a letter from friends of the actor who are with him. There have been varying reports concerning Chevalier since the liberation of Paris. One report said he had been shot.

PATROLS CROSS RHINE; GLIDERS BRING IN HELP

SUPREME HDQ. ALLIED EXPEDITIONARY FORCE, Sept. 23 (AP).—British 2d army patrols tonight forged a tenuous link with units of the "lost division" of air borne troops in the Arnhem sector in Holland, and thousands of British and American glider troops, with large amounts of supplies, were flown in despite strong opposition to reënforce Lt. Gen. Miles C. Dempsey's hard slugging rescue troops.

A late front dispatch said the situation in the Arnhem sector remained serious, even as the 2d army, after a bloody six mile relief march, hurled shells across the river into enemy lines ringing the valiant sky troops just a quarter of a mile away from the hard won British position on the north bank of the Rhine.

The British advance was punched out thru enemy strength, and extremely heavy fighting continued in the whole sector tonight.

Probably Crossed Bridge.

British tanks and infantry and the American sky troops who fought thru stand-and-die resistance apparently sent their patrols across the river at the Arnhem bridge. A link-up in force would signalize a great allied victory on the Ruhr valley route to Berlin.

The British army's long corridor of supply once more was intact, for 30 miles south of this critical front British forces rushed up and chased away SS [elite guards] troopers and 200 tanks slashing across the highway at the Dutch village of Veghel. Rocket-firing Typhoons in great strength helped smash the German attack. The corridor was widened with the capture of the town of Beek, three miles southeast of Nijmegen, and two other small towns two to three miles east of Mindhoven and the same distance west.

Morale Still High.

Supreme headquarters, which had described the Arnhem positions as "critical" only Friday, breathed more easily and from the commander of the British division in Arnhem came word that after six days of isolation "morale is high— we will hold out."

En route to the north branch of the Rhine, which winds along the southern suburbs of Arnhem, the British and Americans made a union with hard pressed Polish reënforcements who had landed two days earlier to take some of the pressure off the Tommies in Arnhem.

[A Berlin broadcast said the fighting "will determine the fate of the whole western front," and one commentator said the British now held only the suburb of Oosterbeek on the west of Arnhem. The city itself was pictured as a "smoldering ghost town."]

Prepare New Rhine Defenses.

A press dispatch from the 1st army positions inside the Siegfried line—southeast of the battle for Holland—declared the Germans were feverishly digging in on the east bank of the Rhine indicating the high command foresees the collapse of fortifications to the west.

Standing at bay on their home soil, German troops gave no indication of flight even tho they finally were routed from Stolberg, the city six miles east of the Siegfried line's fortified outpost of Aachen.

On the plains of Lorraine east of Nancy the biggest tank battle ever fought on French soil thundered into its fifth day. Sixty more enemy tanks were knocked out by the 3d army.

Drive Six Miles.

Third army armor churned forward thru a sea of mud in a 6 mile push, capturing Buriville, 6 miles north of Baccarat and about 30 miles east of Nancy. The remainder of the 3d army front was stalled by rain and stiff resistance.

The fighting in Holland, however, was an indication of the German will to resist.

Hundreds of Hitler's soldiers died rather than retreat as the British 2d army fought up opposite Arnhem. The Tommies traveled over a road where fighting still raged on both sides and where the Germans often were close enough to sweep it with artillery.

The base of operations at Eindhoven was widened a mile or so on both sides, with the British advancing well beyond Vessem, eight miles to the west.

A Dutch government spokesman said the Germans had flooded the entire western stretch of Holland from Amsterdam 70 miles south thru Utrecht and Breda, isolating the big city of Rotterdam.

This broad flood zone, which the Dutch estimated would ruin the soil for cultivation for the next 10 years, covered the retreat of the Germans pulling out of northwestern Belgium across the Schelde river.

Radio Orange, free Netherlands station in London, reported the Germans were preparing to destroy the great harbor works at Amsterdam.

Yanks Repulse Attacks.

The Canadian 1st army wiped out the last German positions south of the Leopold canal and pressed enemy remnants into a narrow strip 28 miles long on the south bank of the Schelde from Zeebrugge eastward to Terneuzen.

Doughboys of the 1st army, who conquered Stolberg after four days of sanguinary street fighting found the city a smoking ruins from days of shelling.

Southeast of Stolberg, concentrated artillery fire broke up a big German counter-attack with heavy losses. A counter-attack also was checked north of Stolberg near Gielenkirchen.

The enemy threw more tanks and infantry into a strong counter-attack east of the Luxemburg town of Diekirch, forcing the Americans to give some ground. Resistance also was stiffening near the Siegfried line fortress of Prum, to the north of this fighting.

[The Berlin radio said that in fighting in the Diekirch area the Americans were driven from German soil at the frontier village of Wallendorf and lost 41 tanks.]

3d Army Smashes Attack.

Southward on the 3d army front, American troops broke up a German counter-attack five miles south of the French railway city of Metz, which still is in enemy hands.

Along the Riviera, 7th army units captured the resort town of Menton, at the Italian border.

Along the coastal flank Canadians wiped out the last German positions south of the Leopold canal, boxing Nazi remnants into a thin strip along the Schelde estuary between Zeebrugge and Terneuzen.

Cap Gris Nez, Nazi holdout point midway between Calais and Boulogne, was reported captured.

[The Berlin radio said that on the southern coast of Brittany the allies had opened attacks on the submarine bases of Lorient and St. Nazaire. It declared Lorient was under artillery fire and the St. Nazaire garrison repulsed attacks "by stronger forces."]

GERMAN WAR REPORT.

Following is the German Saturday war bulletin broadcast by Berlin and recorded by the Associated Press in New York:

"While our defensive front north of Nijmegen withstood heavy enemy attacks, our formations attacking from the east and west have succeeded in cutting communications between enemy forces in southern and central Holland at Veghel.

"All enemy attempts to enlarge his penetration of the area at Eindhoven were frustrated with severe losses to the enemy. In central Holland, 30 enemy tanks were knocked out Sept. 21.

"In line with our detaching movements in western Holland, a protective division of the navy, in vehicles of all varieties and defying enemy air raids and bad weather, has carried strong troop formations and their equipment back across the Scheld estuary.

"Strong enemy attacks in the area southeast of Aachen were beaten off in heavy fighting. Our own counter-attack threw the enemy back to his initial positions.

"On the Eifel front our counter-attacking troops recaptured ground on the westwall which had been temporarily lost, and cleared the remainder of the enemy bridgehead across the Sure river northwest of Echternach.

"South of Metz there was local fighting activity. Heavy fighting continues in the Luneville area. Our own counter-attack south of Chateau-Salins threw back major enemy forces.

"On the upper Moselle there was fluctuating fighting at Epinal and Remiremont. South of Remiremont several enemy attacks were repulsed.

"Fortified harbors in the west, in particular Boulogne, Calais, and Dunkerque, continue to be subjected to heavy enemy artillery fire and continuous bombing raids."

MICHIGAN YANKS FILM BATTLE FOR NIJMEGEN BRIDGE

U. S. AIR BORNE HDQ. IN HOLLAND, Sept. 23 (AP).—Two Michigan military photographers covered the final stages of the battle of the Nijmegen bridge with motion picture and still cameras Thursday from a point in range of enemy small arms fire. They are Corp. Dan Bost of Detroit, and T/5 C. C. Shirley of Flint.

Early in the morning Bost and Shirley borrowed a Dutch motor car to move their equipment and found a house overlooking the bridge approaches. They stayed in the house all day and recorded highlights of the fight, climaxed by the successful British armored dash across the span.

Once "German machine gun bullets ripped a frying pan in which we were cooking onions right out of our hands," Shirley said.

Both are members of a parachute detachment. The jump over Holland was Bost's 158th and Shirley's 106th.

103 DAYS PROVE YANK IS NAZI'S MASTER IN WAR

BY JOHN THOMPSON.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

[Here is a story just released by the censors covering the period up to Sept. 16 of how United States troops smashed to points inside Germany only 103 days after they stormed onto the Normandy beaches.]

WITH THE U. S. 1ST ARMY, IN THE SIEGFRIED LINE, Sept. 16.—One hundred and three days ago assault battalions of the United States 1st army stormed onto Normandy's beaches in the bloodiest amphibious battle ever launched by American arms. Today, after one of the most brilliant campaigns ever waged by any soldiers, this army has broken several gaps in Germany's western wall and is carrying out a mighty ground attack deeper and deeper onto enemy soil.

Local historians, proud of their own units, still were bickering tonight over who first crossed the German border and who first bumped into the Siegfried line. But no historian ever can dispute the magnitude of the American army's performance on these European battlefields.

Power Buries an Alibi.

Hitler has not yet run up the white flag. But there is no doubt in any one's mind that Germany is doomed, not thru any so-called home front collapse, which became the German alibi after the 1918 defeat, but by having her armies knocked apart and destroyed in battle with the Americans.

Hitler's finest soldiers, from what was once called the best professional army in the world, were thrown time and again against the men of Gen. Bradley. And every time they were beaten, as Bradley with his genius, the amazingly excellent competence of many of his senior commanders, the years of staff planning, the superiority of our weapons, and our aerial armadas swept over all resistance.

Today, in the opinion of many trained observers who have spent years studying and following German and British armies and who know something of the Russian, there is no army that can equal the American. These men refer not only to the excellence of our equipment but to our training, our stressing of individual initiative, and the sound tactical thinking of our commanders.

Nazis' Finest Surpassed.

They maintain, now that almost every command has been shaken down and some of the generals relieved, that our divisions and corps, without exception, have unusually superior commanders. They declare, too, and with ample proof, that no German division today can compare with our finest, with troops like the 1st, 9th or 4th infantry divisions or our 2d and 3d armored.

They talk of the exploits of the 3d army under Lt. Gen. Patton and the 1st under Lt. Gen. Hodges and then the fine points of discussion come out, because it was with the United States 1st army and Hodges, who took command when Bradley was given command of the 12th army group, that American arms are believed to have reached their top performance, at least in the European theater.

This 1st army broke open the gateway to France by absorbing Hitler's heaviest defenses in the Atlantic wall. It linked its two beachheads, moved south to join the British, and then swept across the Cotentin [Cherbourg] peninsula in a matter of days and stormed north to capture Cherbourg.

Great Dash Prepared.

Contained for a while by the cream of the German troops in the peninsula, this army, then under Bradley's personal direction, staged a magnificent break-thru west of St. Lo and swept south, opening the way for Patton's 3d army to dash around the end with little opposition and push on to the Moselle river.

While this army was in the process of swinging around to entrap the German 7th between it and Gen. Montgomery's British 1st army, it already was preparing for its spectacular dash across the Seine, thru Paris and across the rest of France thru Belgium and into Holland and Germany.

While we were watching the 1st army batter the German 7th in the Argentan-Falaise pocket, we were told to expect something spectacular within a short while. We didn't know it then, but despite what looked like insurmountable difficulties of supply the quiet, soft spoken Hodges was getting ready for his dash to Germany, a drive that would outshine any cavalry man's maneuver.

Germans Clearly Outfought.

At every stage of the campaign we found Hitler's supreme command issuing frantic "stand to the last man" orders. Occasionally some Germans would obey. But most of the time we had them completely disorganized and surrendering without do-or-die fanaticism.

On D-day, June 6, for example, Gen. Von Rundstedt as commander in the west, at 4 p. m. was telling the commander of the 7th army that Hitler desired the Anglo-American beachhead annihilated by nightfall. Some hours later the colonel general who then had the 7th army was screaming for the help of the German air force, only to be told by Field Marshal Rommel, who had army group B under Von Rundstedt, that the luftwaffe was busy changing its fields.

At midnight that night German orders were issued to counter-attack and reach the coast at all costs. But there was no communication with the infantry division manning the coastal defenses. That division was being destroyed by 1st army assault waves.

Nazi Records Tell Story.

On June 9, even while we were closing on Carentan, the 7th army chief was telling Germany's 84th corps commander that his paratroopers there must hold at all costs. A few hours later Rommel and his aides were debating how to meet the latest threat by the Americans, who had crossed an inundated area and were fighting north toward Montebourg. Day after day in in that period, the German command's own records show, the Nazi situation deteriorated.

Always there was American air superiority making any daylight German movement impossible. The Germans were plagued by lack of transport and fuel and by incessant American attacks. They were forced to strip anti-tank guns from units coming up and to rush these weapons to the front, and on June 11 Gen. Marcks of the 84th corps reported that his 352d infantry division no longer was of any combat value. At 9:20 a. m. Rommel was informed that a direct hit had knocked out the headquarters of the panzer group in the west.

American power kept on punishing the Germans, giving them no rest and ripping their communication lines. Then came the breakthru west of St. Lo, the turning point in the entire continental campaign, for it enabled Gen. Bradley to break his forces into the open with ample room for maneuvering and with Berlin as his goal.

German Leaders Confused.

On July 31, after the break-thru, we had captured Coutances and Granville and were going for Villedieu and Avranches, which fell later that night. By this time, too, Marcks had been killed and replaced by Von Choltitz. Hausser had taken the vacancy caused by the death of the commander of the 7th army, and Von Kluge had taken over from a weary Von Runstedt.

In their conversations with one another the German commanders constantly mentioned that the situation was completely unclear and that the high command should be notified that the left flank was collapsing. They visualized Villedieu as the key to the whole situation, saying it must be held at all costs because it was the springboard to the east and the south as well as the key to the anchor of the Brittany peninsula.

They demanded reënforcements and sought permission from Hitler to use navy personnel and luftwaffe as ground soldiers. And always they talked of the "unprecedented" American fighter-bomber attacks which paralyzed their activities.

At 10:45 a. m. that day Von Kluge talked with the general who was Hitler's representative. He attempted to shift part of the blame for the situation to the 7th army, which had been ordered to attempt to break out to the south instead of standing firm.

FREE TRAPPED MARAUDERS IN FACE OF FIRE

Fury of Night Attack Shakes Earth.

How deadly mortar fire by Merrill's Marauder's freed one of their trapped platoons is told in this, the seventh chapter of the thrilling story of volunteer American jungle fighters who smashed Jap supremacy in northern Burma last spring. The narrator, a Chicagoan, was with the Marauders thruout the campaign.

As Told to CHARLES LEAVELLE.
[Copyright: 1944: By The Chicago Tribune.]

We seemed to be in for it in a big way. The thunder of mortar shells and the rattle of rifle and machine gun fire must have been clearly audible in Walawbum, a couple of miles off to the south. We were sure the already large force of Japs opposing us soon would be reënforced.

Walawbum, the object of our first big mission for Lt. Gen. Stilwell, was in effect a bottleneck on the road from South Burma, over which all supplies and reënforcements for the Japs north of us would have to pass. The Japs up there now were closing in battle with Stilwell's Chinese forces. If we could cut their communications Stilwell could wipe them out and move into Walambum without restistance.

Jap Firing Ceases.

But the Japs in front of us were not reënforced. Instead, as our fire grew in volume, theirs diminished. Presently it ceased. Except for the cries of our wounded and the thrashing about of injured and mired pack animals, there was silence in the growing dusk. We settled down for the night after sending out patrols who found the Japs had melted away again. We went to bed supperless. We had been out of food since the previous afternoon, but we were so close to the Japs we could not risk letting supplies by air drop down for us. The drifting parachutes would have disclosed our exact position and their number would have indicated the size of our force.

Across the Nambyu river, about 100 yards away, the platoon of Lt. Logan E. Weston, a combat officer who was dubbed "the Fightin' Preacher," also dug in. At dawn they began moving southward to a bend in the river from which they could command a wide area. But they had no sooner started digging in on the point of the bend than all hell broke loose. The Japs had crossed to the Walawbum side during the night and apparently planned to wipe out our forces over there, then riddle us from the cover of the underbrush if we should try a crossing with our main body.

Caught by Gunfire.

We advanced until we were opposite Lt. Weston's men. We saw "the Preacher" and Sgt. Paul Mathis of Grey Eagle, Minn., dragging in a wounded man. He was Pvt. Peter Leitner of Okeechobee, Fla., a scout who had been caught by machine gun fire. When the Preacher realized our presence and saw we were unopposed he asked on the walkie talkie radio that we turn our mortars loose. This we had been ready to do, but we hadn't known where to fire. We couldn't see the Japs and we didn't know how far Weston's men were spread out. But the Preacher fixed this.

Gun Fire Shakes Earth.

The walkie talkie began sending positions to be jotted on our grid map of the area. One of 81 mm. mortars opened up. The first two shells went wide. But with the dull thud of the third blast, we saw a Jap hurled high into the air. We had spotted them. Two more 81s started firing. Lt. Bill Woomer—we called him "Woomer the Boomer"—was shouting directions to the mortar crews. They raked the entire area—with the exception of the spot occupied by the Preacher's men. The very earth seemed to shake.

But the Japs were undeterred. We learned later they were veterans of the Maylay States drive, Singapore, and the Dutch Indies. They were tough men.

They ignored our mortar shells, crawling directly into the area where the bursts were thickest. Their machine gun and rifle fire grew in intensity. It quickly became obvious that keeping the Preacher and his men on the west bank—now that the Japs had gone over—was an unnecessary waste. They were ordered back. We would cover their retreat with our fire. Then we could strike straight south to a spot opposite Walawbum.

The Japs were on both flanks of Weston's men as they started across. Two of his fellows ripped off their white undershirts and hung them in trees, marking the start of the Jap held areas. Woomer's mortars started blasting again. One burst flung two Japs high above the underbrush. For an instant they were silhouetted against the sky, clawing the air wildly. Then they fell. Bullets from our Brownings and M-1s whistled over Weston's men into Jap areas.

Wounded Come First.

The wounded came out first, on litters made by thrusting bamboo poles thru buttoned up field jackets. It will always be a source of pride to us that never during the entire Burma campaign did we let the Japs get one of our wounded men. We all felt we had rather die trying to save them than to go on knowing we had left them to the mercies of the Japs. The enemy killed many of us, but they never captured a single one, wounded or unwounded.

Pvt. Norman [Chief] Janis, the Sioux Indian from South Dakota, walked alongside the litter in which Corp. Werner Katz and Pvt. John Clark of Windsor, Vt., were carrying Leitner. When the Chief reached our side he stood and watched the platoon wading across. Suddenly he threw his rifle to shoulder and fired. The din was so great I didn't hear the shot, but I could see the fire leap from the muzzle.

On the other bank, a Jap leaped up from behind a screen of reeds, clutching his stomach. In his agony he kicked over a Nambu light machine gun which he had trained upon the wading platoon. It fell into the muddy river with his body. The Chief's face remained impassive. He stood watchful until the last man got over. This man was Lt. Weston, looking pretty weary.

"The Preacher only saved his life twice today," said one of his men. "And—a funny thing—he didn't apologize to us either time."

Natives Evacuate Wounded.

Our next job was to get the wounded back for evacuation. Since we couldn't spare men for litter duty, arrangements were made with the Kachins [Burmese hill billies] to take them back to spots where they either could be put aboard trucks or be flown out by Taylor and Piper cubs which were able to land in and take off from rice paddies. To pay the Kachins, several of our officers carried bags of 100 silver rupees each. The natives had no use for paper money.

When our casualties had been started back, we buried our dead and resumed the march to the south. On the opposite bank of the Nambyu the Japs licked their wounds, but didn't bother us much. On Saturday evening, March 4, 1944, we pulled up along the river bank, just across and less than two city blocks from Walawbum. We sent out patrols to probe the area north and south of the settlement. We expected big doings on the morrow.

MARINES GAIN ANOTHER MILE ON PELELIU ISLE

Take Town; Control Three-Fourths of Island.

PACIFIC FLEET HDQ., Pearl Harbor, Sept. 23 (AP).—The tempo of American conquest of Peleliu Island quickened Friday as Yank marines advanced northward almost a mile and captured the village of Garekuro, on the west coast, the navy announced today. The marines now hold three-fourths of the island.

The headquarters bulletin said the marines also occupied a small unnamed east coast island one thousand yards north of American occupied Ngabad Island.

American carrier-based planes bombed Yap Island Thursday. They found few worth while targets and met only moderate ack-ack fire.

Destroy Jap Barges.

Yank patrol vessels sighted seven Japanese barges Friday in the narrow channel between Peleliu and Ngessebus islands. They sank one and forced the others onto Peleliu beaches, where they were destroyed by bombing, strafing, and gunfire from surface ships. There was no indication whether the Japanese were attempting to use the barges to reënforce the Peleliu garrison.

The navy reported that enemy dead on Peleliu totaled 7,020 up to Friday, while Japanese fatalities on Angaur, six miles southwest, numbered 950.

American Liberators bombed Chichi Island in the Bonin Islands, 615 miles southeast of Tokyo, Thursday. They sank a barge and scored a near miss on a freighter. Large explosions were observed in the harbor area. Pagan, Anatahan, Rota, Marcus, Ponape, and Jaluit islands also were raided.

Philippines Declare War.

A declaration of war on the United States and Britain by the Japanese puppet regime in the Philippines was reported by the Nippon radio today following smashes against Manila military targets by American carrier planes.

The war declaration, broadcast by the Japanese news agency Domei, emphasized increasing invasion jitters in Tokyo and among the Philippine puppets who were handpicked by Nippon militarists in the fall of 1943 to head a so-called "independent republic."

Will Draft Filipinos.

The Tokyo broadcast said the Japanese government was determined to assist the regime of President Jose P. Laurel under a "pact of alliance." Laurel stated previously that Filipinos would be conscripted for "defensive" military service to fight beside the Japanese in case of invasion.

Another Japanese broadcast disclosed the Japs were giving special attention to the danger to the homeland. The governor of the Tokyo metropolis, Gen. Juzo Nishio, will assume jurisdiction over air defense and economic affairs of Tokyo, in a move "expected to do much in adjusting the air defense structure and to stabilize the economic life of Tokyo citizens," the dispatch said.

MacArthur Raids Borneo.

ALLIED HDQ., New Guinea, Sept. 24 [Sunday]—(AP).—The first allied air action in weeks over Borneo, a rich Japanese oil center, was reported by headquarters today among aerial strikes at 13 Nipponese points from the Philippines to Bougainville Island.

Navy planes sank a 1,000 ton freighter in Darvel bay, northeastern Borneo. Others sank a 2,000 ton vessel and a small freighter off Davao, southern Philippines.

Land based bombers continued raids over other key points, including the Moluccas and islands in the Banda sea. Naval units sank five supply laden barges north of Morotai strait.

Headquarters announced an additional 835 Japanese have been killed in mopping up operations on New Guinea and 210 more prisoners have been taken.

CLAIM 3D MANILA RAID.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

The Berlin radio said yesterday a third American air attack against Manila took place Friday afternoon.

"No details are yet available," said the report.

BRITISH TROOPS GAIN 32 MILES IN INDIA AND CAPTURE TOWN

SOUTHEAST ASIA HDQ., Kandy, Ceylon, Sept. 23 (AP).—The British 14th army has driven to a point 7 miles above the Japanese base of Tiddim in Burma, capturing the town of Tongzang and chasing a Japanese rear guard into the jungle, Adm. Mountbatten's headquarters announced today.

After taking Tongzang, 15 miles above Tiddim on the main road southward from Imphal, troops of the 14th pushed southward another 8 miles, headquarters announced. This put the allied force 32 miles inside Burma in its drive toward Tiddim, the main objective in the present phase of the Chin Hills offensive.

It was from Tiddim that the Japanese launched their drive into India last spring.

YANKS CAPTURE 36,389 GERMANS IN FALL OF BREST

Second Largest Prisoner Bag in France.

BREST, France, Sept. 20 [Delayed] —(AP).—Maj. Gen. Troy Middleton, commander of the 8th corps of the United States 9th army, announced today that 36,389 Nazis were captured at Brest, the second largest prisoner bag of the war.

Middleton said three German divisions—the 26th infantry; 343d infantry and 2d paratroop—had been "entirely erased from the troops' list of the German army" in 26 days of the bitterest fighting, climaxed by the fall of Brest and its harbor last Monday.

This was accomplished by the 8th corps and three infantry divisions, the 2d, 8th and 29th, which took over the campaign after the 6th armored division bottled up approximately 40,000 Germans on the Brittany peninsula. The Yanks have evacuated 2,000 German casualties and about 800 German graves were counted.

46,000 in Falaise Pocket.

The only prisoner bag in France which exceeded this was the 46,000 taken in the Falaise pocket. The Cherbourg total ranks third—about 30,000.

Middleton announced that three Nazi generals and one colonel were captured in the last phase of the Brest campaign. They included the elusive 56 year old Lt. Gen. Hermann Ramcke, supreme commander of the defense of Brest and a parachute troop leader in the invasion of Crete. Ramcke escaped from Brest Monday but was caught on Crozon yesterday by the 8th division in a sweep over the peninsula.

The other high officers captured were Lt. Gen. Rausch, commander of the 343d division; Maj. Gen. Van Der Mosel, Ramcke's chief of staff, and Col. Kroh, regimental commander of the 2d paratroop division.

Harbor Is Damaged.

German demolitions have damaged the harbor facilities of Brest. The city itself is so badly battered that Capt. Forest Butler, Coral Gables, Fla., assistant engineer of the 2d infantry division, said it appeared the only thing to do would be to tear down the remaining wreckage and build a whole new city. Army engineers have cleared the main streets of the debris left by the 26 day siege.

Chicagoans Call It Mess.

"A mess? It's worse than that," said Pvt. Anthony Esposito of 1426 S. Ridgeway av., Chicago, who was unshaven after several days of fierce fighting.

He puffed on a cigar left by Germans.

"This Heinie cigar stinks," he said. "Even our two for a nickel kind back home are better than this."

Esposito kidded Pvt. Ernest Stumpo of 1516 W. Congress st., Chicago, about his "Heinie pants." Stumpo wore the gray green trousers of a German soldier to replace his own, torn in the fighting.

Pvt. Leonard Hankman, 2634 W. Ogden av., Chicago, wanted no part of the spoils left by the Nazis.

CROIX DE GUERRE AWARDED TO 48 YANKS BY KOENIG

A U. S. BOMBER BASE IN BRITAIN, Sept. 23 (AP).—Lt. Gen. Joseph P. Koenig yesterday presented the croix de guerre to 48 officers and enlisted men of the 8th air force who helped plan and execute secret operations in which supplies and ammunition were flown to French forces of the interior.

Three generals, Lt. Gen. James H. Doolittle, Brig. Gen. August Kissner, and Brig. Gen. Orvil Anderson were among the 10 receiving the highest degree of the croix de guerre with palm.

The others were Colonels Delman E. Wilson of Ephrata, Wash., Frank B. James of Huntington Park, Cal.; Lieutenant Colonels Roberts W. Fish of San Antonio, Tex.; Robert L. Boone of Berkley, Cal.; Rodman A. St. Clair of Alton, Ill.; Majors Edward C. Tresmer of Temple City, Cal., and Charles T. Teer of Lexington, Tenn.

Carries Rosary

VATICAN CITY, Sept. 23 (AP).—Pietro Caruso, Fascist police chief or Rome, held a rosary sent him by Pope Pius with a special benediction when he was executed by a firing squad yesterday at Fort Bravetta, the Vatican newspaper Il Osservatore Romano, said today. The paper said Caruso had sent the jail chaplain to the pope beseeching pardon for breaking into a church to seize refugees and the pontiff, in granting his appeal, had sent him the rosary.

NAZI SITUATION HOPELESS, SAYS EISENHOWER

BY JOHN E. LEE.

[Representing the Combined American Press.]

GEN. EISENHOWER'S ADVANCED COMMAND POST, France, Sept. 23 (AP).—Exuding quiet confidence, Gen. Eisenhower declared today that Germany's military situation was hopeless.

The length of the European war depends, he continued, on two main factors: First, how long the Germans can stand the terrific pounding that they are taking from the west, south, and east, and, secondly, how long the Gestapo remains in control of the reich.

The general, who has been troubled by a stiff right knee for the last few weeks, received a few correspondents at this command post informally and discussed the war, mostly off the record. He expressed surprise at recent reports that he had been unwell and indicated that, except for his knee, he was in excellent shape.

Knee Hurt in Plane Mishap.

It may be revealed now that his knee was injured early this month when he was returning to headquarters in France from a trip aboard a light liaison plane.

Arriving at an air strip near headquarters, the pilot found the weather unsuitable for a landing, so he put down at a near-by beach under difficult, cloudy conditions. Altho he made an excellent landing, the plane rolled close to the surf at the end of its run.

Eisenhower and the pilot dragged the plane away from the water. While doing so, Eisenhower accidentally twisted his knee, which has bothered him ever since. Despite the mishap, however, he has made several aerial trips.

Allies Now Moving Slowly.

In reply to the questions of correspondents, Eisenhower said the advance in Europe was moving slowly at present and refused to commit himself on whether the war in this theater will end this year.

From a professional military viewpoint, he said, the Germans now have no hope of mounting any really effective counter-blow. Therefore, militarily, it is useless for them to continue fighting, he said.

Continued resistance, he added, also is detriminetal to the reich, since it means additional destruction, with the final result still negative from the Germans' viewpoint.

However, Eisenhower pointed out, the Gestapo still holds the reins in the reich and its agents have nothing to gain by surrendering.

Italian Fascists Execute 20 for 'Subversive Acts'

LONDON, Sept. 23 (AP).—The Italian Fascist radio said tonight that 20 persons had been executed in North Italy and 30 had been sentenced to life imprisonment for "subversive activities." The broadcast made no mention of the execution in Rome of Pietro Caruso, Fascist chief of police. The Fascists had threatened mass reprisals.

ENGLAND DOTTED WITH PILLBOXES HIDDEN SINCE '40

BY E. R. NODERER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Sept. 23.—Details of cunningly camouflaged pillboxes and road blocks which were set up overnight thruout Britain, including the heart of London, in the days when a German invasion was more than a possibility, were disclosed for the first time today.

Built at the time of Dunkerque and manned by the home guard as well as the regular troops during the danger period, these contrivances are described as works of some of Britain's cleverest camouflage experts, who supervised the job of fitting them into the environs of the streets and countryside.

One in Parliament.

One strong point built into the walls of the houses of parliament dovetails into the surroundings so perfectly that careful examination is required to see that the massive stones really are only painted canvas draped on concrete.

In Trafalgar square a building labeled "Information" attracted innumerable strangers, but when they got to close quarters they discovered the inconspicuous notice, "Closed on Sundays—not open during the week." Nothing has been said, however, about the contents of this structure.

Thatched Pillboxes.

In the country pillboxes were thatched and made to appear like rustic cottages. If invading Germans had passed that way bullets from machine guns, poured out of ports in the latticed windows, would have given them a hot reception.

Nazi Evacuation Ship Blasted at Aegean Isle

CAIRO, Egypt, Sept. 23 (AP).—The Germans suffered another blow to their efforts to evacuate the Aegean Islands yesterday when rocket firing Beaufighters scored a dozen hits on a 1,000 ton vessel at Samos Island and left it wreathed in flames, it was announced today.

MINES, TRAPS FACE 7TH ARMY INSIDE EPINAL

Yanks Hold Most of City; Take Remiremont Hill.

BY SEYMOUR KORMAN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

WITH THE U. S. 7TH ARMY, Sept. 23.— Epinal and Remiremont were concentrations of mines, booby traps, barricades, and snipers' nests today and from their Vosges positions on the east the Germans hurled artillery and mortar shells on Yanks who had entered the cities and were fighting fiercely to increase their holdings.

The Americans fought their way into Epinal from the southwest and another unit approached from the northwest. The doughboys held most of the city south of the Moselle river, being astride the railway and having patrols at the canal just below the river.

Engineers Remove Mines.

But from hill emplacements and from the old fortifications and newly constructed pillboxes in the portion of the city north of the Moselle the enemy laid down deadly fire. Thru it all our combat engineers worked to remove the mines and clear a path for our armor and made surveys for bridges to replace the destroyed ones which had joined both sections of the city.

In reaching Remiremont, 15 miles southwest of Epinal, the Americans won Hill 807 [height in meters], artillery and tanks driving the enemy from the summit. We took some prisoners but many Germans were killed and we had a number of casualties.

Capturing 807 gave us an observation point covering a considerable mountain area to the east. As in Epinal, the Germans still resisted in Remiremont and from near-by defenses.

The mine fields in and about the two cities are the most wide-spread since the bitter Italian hill fighting.

Terrain Slows Advance.

The rocky terrain, which has slowed the Yank advance and bad weather have been enemy assets and have given him time, as was anticipated, to establish powerful defenses on this front. The Americans have gained about 20 miles toward the Vosges mountains in the last week.

The difficulty of approaching the Belfort gap indicates how tough it will be to crack that position. Enemy anti-aircraft fire from Belfort also is a hazard to our fighters and fighter bombers. But rainy weather has been the biggest detriment to the Yank air force. There were only two days in the last seven suitable for a full schedule of offensive sorties.

Allies Smash Beyond Gothic Line in Italy

Developments reported yesterday from fighting in central Italy.

SALVAGE SQUAD IN ITALY SAVES U.S. $18,000 A DAY

Repairs Clothing and Other Equipment.

BY CLAY GOWRAN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

WITH THE U. S. ARMY AT THE GOTHIC LINE, Italy, Sept. 23.—In a little village not far from the Gothic battle line, a unit of 400 Americans today was hard at work saving an average of $18,000 daily for United States taxpayers.

The soldiers, who include many Illinoisans, form the 5th army quartermaster salvage division. Two hundred of the men are members of the salvage collection company and the other half is in the salvage repair company. Since they arrived in Italy last November they have collected and put back into serviceable condition a daily average of $18,000 worth of army clothing, shoes, helmets, tools, stoves, tents, mess kits, canteens, and cots.

100 Italian Women Work.

Without such a salvage unit the equipment would have ended as junk scattered from the toe of Italy to the Gothic line.

Master Sgt. Hobart White of Butler, Pa., in charge of all repair work, explained the operation of the unit, which is located in a big warehouse formerly used by the Germans. In one huge room 100 Italian women were working at sewing machines, while other women sorted thru great piles of the clothing.

"Our trucks pick up torn or abandoned clothing at collecting points just behind the front," White said, "then it is washed and examined to see what repairs are needed, and finally turned over to the seamstresses. We hire new women as we move up. They furnish their own sewing machines and receive 75 cents a day.

Even Kitchen Stoves.

"After the repairs are made the clothing is pressed and sent back to the quartermaster for a reissue."

In another room a complete shoe repair shop was staffed with both Italians and expert soldier shoemakers who could turn out 700 pairs of repaired shoes daily. Next was a "hat shop" where steel helmets were fitted with new straps, then repainted. Then came the tool shop, where thousands of shovels, picks, axes, and trenching tools were painted and given new handles. In another section mess kits were cleaned with acid, their dents beaten out and made new again.

"We had a terrible time with the canteens at first," said White. "We could not figure any way to straighten out the dents in them. But somebody thought of using air pressure."

Blows Up a Canteen.

White pointed to a bench where a heavy rubber hose was being coupled to the opening of a badly dented canteen. The soldier repair man made sure the coupling was tight, then turned on the air under 300 pounds pressure. Magically the dents disappeared and the canteen resumed its original shape.

Capt. Charles Deecan of Nashville, Tenn., commands the collecting company and Capt. Alfred Bartlett of Memphis, Tenn., has the repair outfit. Illinoisans are Staff Sgt. Howard Davis, Waukegan; Sergeants Melvin Lawrence, Jerseyville; Clarence Lavallier, Chenoa; Ray Rasane, 901 Wrightwood av., Chicago.

Privates from Chicago.

Corporals Freeman Christensen, 4526 Magnolia av., Chicago; Herbert Steevens, Salem; Privates Eugene Sasey, Quincy; Joseph Sivright, De Kalb; Frank De Pauw, Moline; Karl Degner, 4418 N. Kildare, Chicago; Rowland Grimm, Peoria; Paul Hanna, St. Elmo; Chester Ankotovitch, 5534 S. Hehmitage av., Chicago; Edward Kasper, 4512 S. Justine st., and Albino Finiello, 4418 N. Kildare av., Chicago. Lt. Robert Brasel comes from Chester, Ill.

Statistics for a recent day's work give an idea of the importance of the unit's work. On this day they repaired $19,967 worth of salvaged equipment.

Among the items were 329 blankets worth $2,263; 930 wool shirts worth $3,310; 1,050 pairs of wool trousers worth $5,071; 312 pairs of shoes worth $1,141; 50 kitchen ranges worth $1,600; 250 gasoline cans worth $2,250 and 18 typewriters and adding machines worth $1,460.

27 GERMAN PLANES BAGGED IN BATTLES OVER NETHERLANDS

LONDON, Sept. 23 (AP).—American planes swarmed out across the channel from Britain today as the German radio sounded alarms against renewed two-way poundings of the reich from the west and south. At least 27 German planes were destroyed in dogfights over Holland.

The Mediterranean based forces, which have been hitting Hungary and Yugoslavia daily, struck in medium strength at industrial targets in Sudetenland, Rome announced, and also hit railway yards in southern Austria and seven bridges in northeastern Italy. The Sudetenland targets were bombed thru intense anti-aircraft fire, overcast and a smoke screen.

Fires still burned in the Kassel and Munich industrial areas as results of Friday's heavy attacks by 1,200 American heavy bombers from the south and west.

The air ministry announced that reconnaissance photographs showed that 80 per cent of the buildings in Emden and nearly 75 per cent of those in Munchen-Gladbach had been either "destroyed or severely damaged" in repeated air raids.

SKY FILLED WITH FLAK AS GLIDERS REACH ARNHEM

LONDON, Sept. 23 (AP).—An eyewitness account of this afternoon's air borne show over Holland was given by Sgt. C. A. Pearce of El Reno, Okla., who from his observation plane could see the skytrain stretching almost all the way from England to the Dutch coast.

"The sky was filled with flak from small arms over the dropping area," he said, "but the big C-47s skimmed along thru it at an altitude of 500 feet while the gliders cut loose and nosed down. They landed from all directions, kicking up clouds of dust as their noses skidded across the ground.

Lt. Harry A. Kues of Southgate, Ky., a navigator, said the gliders seemed to drop in good formation and most of them seemed to be intact despite the heavy flak.

Capt. William H. Graffic of Chicago, Ill., said he believed most of the ships got thru. "The area for miles around seemed to be covered with the colored parachutes in which supplies had been dropped," he said.

SIX SMALL NAVAL VESSELS LOST IN MEDITERRANEAN

Washington, D. C., Sept. 23 (AP).—Loss of six small naval craft—two mine sweepers, an LST and three torpedo boats—in action in the Mediterranean was announced by the navy today. They were the minesweepers 21 and 24, LST 282 and PT boats 202, 218 and 555.

Lt. Samuel Robert Pruett, 24, Kellyton, Ala., commanding officer of the sweeper 24, was reported killed in action. Both Pruett's shop and the sweeper 21 under command of Lt. Thomas Sutherland Rothwell, carried crews of about 30 men. Rothwell was not a casualty.

Lt. Lawrence Edwin Gilbert, 26, Havana, Cuba, skipper of the LST, was reported wounded when his vessel, which carried a crew of 64, was lost. Names of the commanding officers of the torpedo boats were not available.

WARNS BRITONS AGAINST RACKET IN SMALL FARMS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Sept. 23.—A ministry of agriculture official warned Britons today to beware of land speculators selling plots too small to yield a living. "Speculative agents are breaking up farms," said Geoffrey Clarke, its official, "and selling the land to poor devils who want to get out into the open spaces. They are dividing 50 acre dairy farms into 12 or 15 miserable little plots so that nobody can make a living." City victims of the blitz and flying bomb attacks, he said, are the chief targets of the racket.

FRENCH STEEL TOWN BECOMES ALMOST NAZIFIED

Families Encouraged to Take German Names.

BY ROBERT CROMIE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

HAYANGE, France, Sept. 16 [Delayed].—Technically this is a French town, but you drive down Adolf Hitler strasse, Hermann Goering strasse, or Rudolph Hess strasse past shops which invariably have German names. And most of the residents speak both French and German. Hayange lies in the Thionville-Metz area.

Lt. Col. John Libcke of Detroit, Mich., who is in charge of the civil affairs unit, says the Germans made a determined effort to make Hayange a part of the third reich. They taught German in the schools and even went so far as to encourage the French families to adopt German names.

Hayange is in the center of the steel mill area and is flooded with Poles, Czechs, Russians, and others brought here by the Germans to work in the mills. Lt. Col. Libcke says the French Red Cross estimates that there are perhaps 18,000 displaced persons in the area who will have to be repatriated. Meanwhile industrialists have agreed to feed, house, and employ them until arrangements can be made for their removal.

Hayange now is in the process of becoming French once more. The Germans left, reportedly taking with them at bayonet point many able bodied men for use in labor corps. French officials now are installed in place of the former German ones.

There is a fair amount of food and the town has electricity and water. Part of the food—most of which normally was from Germany — is now being supplied from huge refrigerators in the nearby town of Homecourt from which the Germans fled so hastily they were not able to take 1,200 tons of frozen beef. The town officials managed to be unable to find sufficient trucks to permit this meat being removed and the Germans did not destroy the refrigerating machinery thru some un-Nazi like oversight.

CONGRESSMEN IN LONDON AFTER VISIT TO FRANCE

LONDON, Sept. 23 (AP).—Ten United States congressmen—five Democrats and five Republicans—returned to London today from a tour of France and Rep. Mundt [R., S. D.] declared "all of us came back with a vivid appreciation of the problems facing the army and the splendid job it has done." Yesterday they lunched with Gen. Eisenhower and his staff and Mundt said "the greatest impression of the entire tour was the degree to which Eisenhower has the interests of the individual soldier at heart." The health, security, food, and housing conditions of the army are excellent, Mundt added.

"Gen. Eisenhower outlined the campaign plan which is extremely economical of man power," Mundt said. The tour included the invasion beaches, Cherbourg, army supply depots, and Paris.

Gen. Eisenhower's headquarters disclosed today that civilian business men—American, British, and others alike — have been banned from the military "forward zone" and added that a "thoro investigation" will be made of assertions the ban has been violated.

Report North Italy Strike Hits at German Retreat

ROME, Italy, Sept. 23 (AP).—The clandestine pro-allied radio in northern Italy, Radio Milano Liberta, reported today that a general strike had broken out in Piedmont to hamper the German retreat toward the Brenner pass. The broadcast said the Nazis had been moving out supplies and troops for several days. There was no immediate confirmation.

BROTHER LEADS RESCUE OF YANK IN SEIZED TOWN

NINTH AIR FORCE LIGHTNING BASE, France, Sept. 23 (AP).—Lt. Donald Eberhardt, Redwood City, Cal., forced to bail out over German territory after a dogfight, was freed by an American column that entered the town where he was hiding—and riding in the lead vehicle was his brother, Lt. Harry Eberhardt. The pilot shot down two enemy planes and probably a third and then bored headon into a fourth, a Focke-Wulf 190, which he sent crashing into a spin. Eberhardt went over the side and landed near a French village, where a young girl hid him for a week from German patrols.

Allied Flyers Fire Italian Cruiser Held by Nazis

ROME, Sept. 23 (AP).—Three formations of Mitchell bombers struck at the German-held Italian cruiser Taranto at La Spezia today, leaving her in flames from hits across the bow, amidships, and stern. The 3,184 ton Taranto was formerly the German cruiser Strassburg, allotted to Italy after the first World war.

BAX
THE *Complete VITAMIN CAPSULE
supplies ALL the established vitamins

HOW TO GET MORE OUT OF VITAMINS—FOR YOURSELF AND YOUR FAMILY

MANY VITAMIN PRODUCTS are incomplete. Some contain only a few vitamins —some only B-complex. Why risk missing one or more important vitamins? BAX—the Complete* Vitamin Capsule—gives you all the known established vitamins.

BAX supplies not only the important B-complex factors, but other vitamins equally valuable. A, B_1, C, D, B_2(G), B_6, Niacin, Calcium Pantothenate.

BAX has other advantages, too. You don't have to take 2 or 3 tablets or capsules a day—just one tiny BAX. And compare the cost. The big family-size BAX costs less than 2⅔¢ a day.

Government authorities have proved that most people don't get enough vitamins—also that vitamin shortages usually mean several vitamins are lacking. Protect yourself and your family with BAX—the Complete* Vitamin Capsule. See if it doesn't make a difference. BAX is sold only by drugstores. A product of McKesson & Robbins.

*Each BAX capsule supplies at least the full adult minimum daily requirement of the known important vitamins needed in human nutrition.

REDS SEIZE 2D ESTONIAN PORT AND TRAP NAZIS

Berlin Tells of Drive Toward Hungary.

LONDON, Sept. 23 (AP).—Russian troops racing across Estonia reached the coast today, capturing the port of Parnu on the Gulf of Riga and sealing off thousands of Germans caught between there and fallen Tallinn, Estonian capital 72 miles to the north.

Premier Stalin announced the capture of Parnu, Estonia's second port, after the Berlin radio had said that the Red army had begun a major attack near the Hungarian annexed Transylvanian capital of Cluj aimed at trapping all axis troops in eastern Hungary and Slovakia.

Border Reported Crossed.

Moscow dispatches said an entry into pre-war Hungary was imminent, and an unconfirmed French radio broadcast said the Red army had crossed the Hungarian border and was "advancing in the direction of Budapest," Magyar capital.

The fall of Parnu in Estonia represented another 50-mile leap by Marshal Leonid A. Govorov's Leningrad army forces in 24 hours. The port is at the northeastern end of the Gulf of Riga 97 miles north of the Latvian capital of Riga.

The fall of Riga appeared imminent as Russian units were fighting in Riga's outer southern defenses and Red artillery was shelling the city.

At sea Red naval planes pursued German ships that escaped from Tallinn with troops aboard. They sank 11 of the vessels on Friday and thousands of Germans apparently perished in the Gulf of Finland.

Berlin said battles of "tremendous violence" were being fought west of Valga, 87 miles northeast of Riga.

Clear Path for Fleet.

In the gulf of Finland, off Tallinn, soviet minesweepers began clearing a path for the Red Baltic fleet, which has been bottled in its Kronstadt lair near Leningrad. The capitulation of Finland and the reconquest of the north Estonian coast opened the fleet's path to the Baltic sea.

Russian engineers went to work on the graveyard of German ships sunk in Tallinn harbor. Berlin said it would be weeks before the Russians could use the port.

Russians are again crossing the Vistula river at Warsaw, capital of Poland, and "heavy fighting is going on in sectors of the western bank where the soviet units are landing," a broadcast bulletin from Gen. Bor's Polish Partisan headquarters announced.

GERMAN WAR BULLETIN.

Germany's broadcast bulletin said yesterday:

"The ordered disengaging movement in northern Estonia progressed according to plan and was undisturbed by the enemy again yesterday.

"German fighters destroyed an enemy formation of seven torpedo carrying aircraft in waters off Memel, thus preventing an attack on a German convoy."

ALLIES COMPILE LIST OF BULGARS CRUEL TO FLYERS

FIFTEENTH AIR FORCE HDQ., Italy, Sept. 23 (AP).—An allied commission is busy compiling a list of Bulgarian war criminals for trial in connection with the mistreatment of American and British air men recently freed from that country's prison camps and brought back to Italy on Sept. 17.

Interrogation of the flyers disclosed 22 articles of the Geneva convention for treatment of war prisoners were broken at the three camps and hospitals where they were confined, and that no effort was made to notify the International Red Cross of the captures until visits by Swiss representatives.

The names of the few Bulgarians who were kind and helpful to the prisoners also are being recorded.

ASK OUSTER OF POLISH GENERAL TO PLEASE REDS

Exile Cabinet Calls on President to Act.

BY WILLIAM STRAND.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Sept. 23.—The first decisive step toward the settlement of the Polish question has been taken by the exile government in London, it was learned today. The cabinet under Prime Minister Stanislaw Mikolajczyk has voted unanimously for ousting the Polish commander in chief Gen. Sosnkowski, who has criticized the nature of the help being given the Warsaw garrison by the allies.

The matter now goes before President Raczkiewicz, the only one under the 1939 constitution empowered to appoint or remove a commander in chief. It is expected his decision will be announced early next week.

British Piqued at General.

Sosnkowski's removal is desired both by the British and the Russians. The British are particularly piqued by his derogatory statements on the lack of support for the Warsaw defenders. The exile government must retain British support in its current fight for survival against the rival Lublin government which has an agreement with Russia and is prepared to satisfy soviet territorial aims against post-war Poland.

It also is necessary for the exile government to placate the Russians as much as possible to pave the way for a settlement between the two Polish governing groups. The London cabinet already has made proposals for the formation of an all-party compromise government which would include representatives of the committee of national liberation in Lublin as part of the deal. Formal acknowledgement of these proposals has been received from Moscow by whom they were forwarded to Lublin.

Dismissal Seems Assured.

Dismissal of Sosnkowski, which is regarded as the first requirement before there can be a wider settlement of Polish political problems, including relations with soviet Russia, now appears certain. The prime minister had a long meeting with the president both last night and today. It is believed the president is bound by the cabinet's decision by virtue of an agreement in which the chief executive avowed his determination to follow the cabinet's advice on the posts of all officers in key positions.

It is expected that the ouster of the aristocratic soldier from his top ranking job also will mean an increase in national party representation in any new government formed as a result of the negotiations with the Lublin party.

Meanwhile, today, the charge was made by a Polish socialist leader who is an avowed champion of permanent friendship between Poland and soviet Russia, that Germany always will remain an enemy of these two nations. He was Jan Stanczyk, former trade union leader and minister of labor, who said he was a "fervent protagonist" of a permanent understanding and lasting friendship between his country and Russia.

During the present period of confused relations between the two countries there is a wide belief that the Polish Socialists hold the key to the solution of the various problems hindering a final settlement because they hold the balance of power in the cabinet. They have three ministers and it is generally conceded that their views on cooperation with the Communists will prevail.

500,000 British Women Face Loss of War Jobs

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Sept. 23.—The jobs of half a million women in war factories, some of whom earn up to $35 a week, probably will terminate by Christmas. Thousands of employers all over the country have been told by the government that war contracts will have to be canceled as the military situation improves.

Sweden to Shut Eastern Ports to Foreign Ships

Poison Gas Released in Germany by Allied Bomb

STOCKHOLM, Sweden, Sept. 23 (AP).—Germany's first gas alarm was sounded during an allied air raid last week on Darmstadt, when a bomb hit a chemical plant, releasing poison gas, the newspaper Aftonbladt said today. Some deaths were caused.

REPORT SPANISH LOYALISTS SEIZE CONSULATES

PARIS, Sept. 23 (AP).—Reports by travelers today said Spanish Republicans [Loyalists] who fled their country in 1939 when Francisco Franco won the civil war are striking back by seizing his consulates in a number of French cities. The Republican flag, banned in Spain, was said to be flying over consulates at Pau, Perpignan, Toulouse, Marseille, Bordeaux and other cities.

Fleeing into France when their side lost in the civil war, thousands of Republicans spread over the country and upon the collapse of France in 1940, joined the underground.

Reports from Vichy said Spanish Republicans were among F. F. I. units that liberated the former Petain capital. Headquarters of the Falange [Spanish Fascists] in Paris were taken over by an anti-Franco organization.

LE HAVRE CENTER IS PILE OF RUINS, SAYS PORT CHIEF

By Wireless to the N. Y. Times and The Chicago Tribune.

PARIS, Sept. 23.—"The whole center of Le Havre is a pile of ruins," said Herman du Pasquier, president of the port authority of Le Havre, who was in Paris today. "Thousands of persons are homeless as a result of three days of heavy bombardment by aircraft and naval guns," he said. The suggestion has been made here by allied observers that New York might "adopt" half of ruined Le Havre and that other American towns might likewise encourage and aid other towns in Normandy that have borne the brunt of the invasion, such as Cherbourg, Falaise, Caen, Lisieux and St. Lo.

Tenderly they lifted the new First Mate of Music aboard

IN WALLA WALLA, WASHINGTON, there's an up-and-coming Junior Chamber of Commerce that believes in killing two birds with one stone. Recently this group sponsored a Scrap Paper Drive among the school children of the city . . . Net results—several tons of paper for Uncle Sam and about $500 for his "nephews" in the Navy.

SKIPPER AND CREW VOTE FOR "MUSIC"

It was suggested that they donate the money to a new LST (Landing Ship Tank) soon to be launched at the Evansville, Ind., shipyards. Unanimously, the crew voted to spend the sum on a "fine record player" that could be hooked-up to the ship's public address system.

. . . AND SO TO LYON & HEALY'S

Presently, two young officers set off, like homing pigeons, straight for Lyon & Healy's. There, they felt sure, they would find the best in phonograph-radios if there were any to be had . . . and they were not disappointed. In fact, their hearts were set on the Magnavox Belvedere, once they had heard its sweeping music, punched radio buttons off and on, tried the automatic record changer . . . and the sturdy cabinet was voted shipshape for heavy weather . . . and so bon voyage to the boys and their "first mate of music."

'DEATH MARCH' HERO TELLS OF EPIC ESCAPE

One of 10 Who Fled Japs, Now Back in U. S.

El Paso, Tex., Sept. 23 [Special]. —Escape of 10 enlisted men from the Philippines after more than a year as prisoners of Japan on Negros Island and several months in the hills and jungles with guerrilla forces has been revealed here by the story of one of them—Sgt. Howard T. Chrisco, 25, of Salem, Mo.

Sgt. Chrisco is a patient in William Beaumont general hospital, the army's hospital here, where in an interview just cleared by army public relations officers he has given an eye witness description of the famous death march from Bataan and told of his experiences in the hands of the Japanese, his flight from Jap custody and eventual escape to Australia.

Reached Australia in May.

The sergeant reached Australia May 19 of this year and then spent a five week hospitalization period at Brisbane. He arrived in this country in time to reach the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. D. B. Chrisco of Salem, at 3 a. m. on July 16, his birthday.

His parents were not aware that he had returned to the United States, he said, and his father was so excited upon recognizing him that he almost forgot to unlatch the screen door.

The sergeant gave the names of his nine companions in the break from Japanese custody as follows:

Corp. Floyd Reynolds and Ramon Caona, New Mexico; Sgt. Robert L. Young, Washington; James Dyer, Alabama; Gavin White, Mississippi; Richard Jensen, Logan, Utah; Corp. Frank Boylan, Maryland; Sgt. Irvin Joseph, San Francisco; J. R. Snell, New York.

All Are Now Safe.

Altho the men separated after getting away from the Japs, Chrisco said, he has since learned that all of them were able to leave the island and are now safe in allied territory.

The description Chrisco gave of Japanese brutality to American prisoners during the Bataan death march agreed with that told by the late Lt. Col. William Edwin Dyess, who took part in the march and escaped from the Japanese in the spring of 1943. Col. Dyess' account of the Jap atrocities was told exclusively to THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE.

Chrisco said that during the death march, when prisoners from Bataan were forced to walk to their first prison camp, he was compelled to drive a truck up and down the road and on one occasion, because of congested traffic, was forced to run over the body of an American soldier.

Yanks Died Like Flies.

"American prisoners were given one handful of rice every six days," he said. "They died like flies. I have seen them so sick they could hardly walk and when they would stop to rest I saw Japs take the butts of rifles and knock them in the head.

"I often saw groups of two or three American soldiers get down together, as if they were getting a drink of water. They never got up again. Often the stench from the dead bodies was so strong that I would have to roll up the windows of my truck."

For 15 months, Chrisco was in Japanese hands and during all of that time was alert for a chance to escape, he said. He was put to work driving Japanese trucks and teaching Japanese soldiers how to drive.

"Often for only small mistakes and misunderstandings, the Japs were cruel to us," he said. "One day I saw one of my companions savagely whipped with an American Sam Browne belt by a Jap over a trivial misunderstanding."

Prisoners Paid 5 Cents a Day.

Rice and dried fish constituted the steady diet for Americans, he said, altho occasionally they were allowed to visit a nearby market where they could buy bananas, other fruit, and some meat. He said the prisoners were at first paid 80 centavos a day, equivalent to 40 cents in American money, but this was eventually reduced to 10 centavos, amounting to 5 cents.

The opportunity for escape came in the summer of 1943 when Chrisco and nine other American prisoners were stationed in a garage of the Manila Motors company in Bacolod, a town of 20,000 population. They made their break on a day when most of the Japanese garrison had gone downtown. Six Japs had been left to guard them, he said, three at the front and three at the rear of the garage building.

Chrisco said he and his companions placed rifles and 76 rounds of ammunition in a truck, concealing them just as a Japanese soldier strolled up and began watching them. One of the Yanks pretended he was fixing a tire, Chrisco said, while he himself picked up a piece of iron pipe with which he intended to silence the Jap if he became suspicious.

The soldier finally walked away without giving trouble, however, and the Yanks then climbed into the truck and drove out, explaining to guards they were taking the truck out of the garage in order to drive another one in. Passing a Jap officer, they saluted and drove on.

For the next 10 months, Chrisco said, he lived in bamboo huts with guerrilla forces. He ate grasshoppers fried in coconut oil, rice, and dried buffalo meat. He drank water from mountain streams. On one occasion a Jap soldier who tried to recapture him wounded him in the arm.

He told of a hike of 135 miles thru jungles and over mountains which he made in nine days as a portion of his journey toward freedom. He walked barefoot the last two days of this hike, he said, because rawhide slippers he had purchased from a native had worn to shreds. He made this trek with 2d Lt. Russell Forsythe of Long Beach, Cal., the two men existing on rice obtained from friendly natives.

VETERAN AUSTRALIAN NEWS CAMERAMAN KILLED IN PELELIU

New York, Sept. 23 (AP).—Damien Parer, 33, Paramount news war correspondent, has been reported by the navy department as killed by enemy machine gun fire on Sept. 17 while filming front line operations at Peleliu Island, Paramount news announced today. The Australian-born camera man, his office said, had done more front line filming than any other camera man in this war.

When the war started he covered the opening of the Kokoda trail across New Guinea. Recentliy transferred to the central Pacific, he filmed the recapture of Guam.

From 1940 until 1942 Parer filmed important actions in North Africa from Fort Capuzzo to Tobruk and Bengazi in Libya. He also covered the Greece and Syrian campaigns.

JAPS BELIEVED TO BE PREPARING ALL-OUT DRIVE FOR KWEILIN

CHUNGKING, China, Sept. 23 (AP). — The Chinese high command announced tonight that fighting was continuing against the Japanese on the Hunan-Kwangsi railway 40 miles northeast of Kweilin, strategic defense center.

Failure of the Japanese to advance on that front in the past few days was regarded by observers in Chungking as an indication that they were assembling forces for an all-out push.

The Chinese high command meanwhile confirmed loss of Jungyun, Kwangsi province town 60 miles southwest of fallen Wuchow,

CHINESE LEADER OF REDS DENIES ISSUES SETTLED

[By Wireless to the New York Times and The Chicago Tribune.]

YENAN, China, Aug. 15 [Delayed]. —Taking sharp issue with the optimistic statement regarding the Kuomintang-Communist negotiations made by Information Minister Liang Han-chao on July 26, Chou En-lai, Communist party leader, said today that the negotiations have yielded no result.

The statement was made in an interview with the official New China News agency. Regarding the alleged improvement of relations between the two parties, he said this was true insofar as negotiations were going on but that not one problem such as establishment of connection between Yenan and Chungking, free use of the mails, the release of arrested personnel, has been settled.

Liang's statement that "there are no serious differences between the government and the Communists" he branded a deliberate attempt to mislead people here and abroad.

ALL CHURCHES IN JAPAN ORDERED TO UNITE IN ONE

New York, Sept. 23 (AP).—The Japanese government has ordered the dissolution of "all existing federated church organizations" to facilitate the creation within a week of a government controled, government financed war time patriotic religious society designed to "increase the fighting strength of the people thru religious fervor," a Domei broadcast said today. Religious teachers representing 13 Shinto, 28 Buddhist, and two Christian sects have been instructed to organize the new society by Sept. 30, according to the broadcast.

Flying Bombs Again Hit Britain in Brief Flurry

COL. LANZA SAYS M'ARTHUR HEADS FOR MINDANAO

Koror Likely to Be Best Base in Palaus.

BY COL. CONRAD H. LANZA.

[Regular contributor to the Field Artillery Journal and recognized as an authority on military matters.]

New advances have been made by American forces, in preliminary moves which are pointing to an attack on Mindanao, the most southerly of the main islands of the Philippines. About 540 miles to the east, Adm. Nimitz' amphibious forces are engaged in attacking Palau. Only 300 miles to the south-southeast, Gen. MacArthur's forces have seized Morotai Island, the nearest part of Halmahera to Mindanao.

Palau is a group of islands, extending generally northeast and southwest. They are of the volcanic type, but no elevations exceed 700 feet, and this only on the main island. Coral reefs line the shores. On the west side is a second barrier reef three to 10 miles off shore. Inside this is excellent shelter for ships and sea planes.

Air Field Is Goal.

The main American landing is on Peleliu Island next north from Angaur, which is the end island on the south. Peleliu is only some 10 miles long and less than half that in width. It is neither as large as Saipan, captured island of the Marianas, nor as hilly. Tho small, Peleliu is large enough to have an air field. This is exactly why the island was attacked. As soon as the air field is ready for use by our own planes, new American attacks can be expected against the remaining islands of the group.

The main island is Bablethuap, 30 miles northeast from Peleliu. At its south end is Koror Island. Here is where the main Japanese base is supposed to be. And it probably will be the best base for us when we get it. Peleliu is a temporary base necessary for supporting the main attack which will come later.

Cannot Be Reënforced.

It's hard to see what Japan can do about it. The American fleet and air force are so enormously superior to anything the Japanese have, that all they can do is resist until the last man in their garrisons is killed. What troops they have on the islands now, can fight on. But they cannot be reënforced, whereas the American forces can be if necessary. Sooner or later the Japanese positions will be overcome.

Gen. MacArthur's capture of Morotai is of a different nature. It was undefended. It too had an air field. This was found overgrown with weeds, and evidently had not been used for some time.

The Netherlands Indies consist of many hundreds of islands. They extend for more than 3,000 miles from east to west; and 1,000 miles from north to south. Only some of the islands have Japanese garrisons, and on the larger islands these are only at certain places. It has been possible for Gen. MacArthur to avoid major fighting for a considerable time by landing successfully at places where Japanese garrisons were weak, or nonexistent.

Jap Forces Isolated.

In doing so, really important Japanese held positions have been bypassed. With greatly superior air and naval forces it has been possible to prevent much food and supplies from reaching these cut off Japs. Yet not completely. Despite the air and sea blockade the Japs manage to slip a barge or a submarine thru occasionally.

As a result of this policy after two years of fighting, substantial Japanese forces still remain in the Solomon Islands. Others remain in New Britain, and a considerable number at various areas in New Guinea. They can stay where they are, but they are not in a position to go anywhere as long as the American naval and air forces rule the seas.

It now seems that General MacArthur will continue his present policy. Without bothering about isolated Japanese positions along his line of communications, he is headed for Mindanao. Between Morotai and Mindanao lie the Talaud Islands. These are small fertile volcanic islands and have air fields which might well come handy to our forces.

McHenry County 4-H Club Gives Ambulance to Navy

McHenry county 4-H club members, of whom there are about 600, yesterday presented an ambulance to the navy at a ceremony in the town square at Woodstock. The presentation was made by Orville Pageles, county 4-H club federation president, to Comdr. H. S. Millett, assistant medical officer at the Great Lakes Naval Training center. Funds used to purchase the ambulance were raised at a series of ice cream socials, silver teas, and other 4-H sponsored events.

ANTI-RED FIGHT IN MEXICO IS LED BY SYNARCHISTS

Leaders Say Movement Aims to Help Poor.

BY STANLEY JOHNSTON.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

MEXICO CITY, Mexico, Sept. 23.—Diffused thruout Mexico today is a social movement known as Synarchism that has grown to such stature it has become the principal antagonist of the powerful Communist organization here.

Tho not well known in the United States, this purely Mexican movement has been in existence about 10 years. During that time it has been quietly but steadily gathering strength and its leaders say it now has more than 700,000 members.

Advocates emphasize that Synarchism is not a political party and has only civic aspirations. Called the "antithesis of anarchism," its leaders say it seeks to improve the lot of Mexico's impoverished masses thru the use of pacific means in a land where revolution has been commonplace for many years. Its members hope to accomplish this aim primarily by helping peasants obtain title to state-owned land they farm and by reducing Mexico's high rate of illiteracy.

Accused of Fascism.

The forces of communism—politically and financially strong in Mexico—and of Synarchism—assertedly the poor man's champion—are openly and diametrically opposed to each other. Synarchists claim to have saved Mexico from Communist totalitarianism, "the false golden dream of the Mexican revolution." Communists in turn have accused Synarchism of being Fascist, Falangist, anti-United States, and subversive.

Indicative of the advance of Synarchism, however, is the zeal with which it is fought by Communists and the belief of some Mexicans that Synarchism may be used as a force to counter-balance Communism's admittedly great strength in Mexico.

The National Synarchist Union was founded in 1937 at Leon, Guanajuato, after three years of undercover preparatory organization. It was started by a group of men said to have been aroused by the moral, economic, and political disorder they felt was undermining the republic.

Six months after the movement was brought into the open, its first national leader, Jose Antonio Urquiza, a farmer, was fatally shot in the back. His assassin, who never has been apprehended, was said by Synarchists to have been a member of the Reservists Agrarian, the political commissariat which directs operation of collectivist farms worked by peasants.

Since Urquiza's assassination, the Synarchists say that 123 members of the union have been slain and that there is no record of any of the killers being brought to justice.

Union of the Poor.

The great majority of the union's membership is among the extremely poor of rural areas. But their very poverty, the fact that they have virtually nothing to lose, provides Synarchism with one of its greatest pillars of strength. Since most of the members have no property, they cannot be affected by confiscatory fines, and throwing them in jail often means merely supplying them with more food than they have normally.

Undoubtedly Synarchism's appeal to the masses results from its promise to reconstruct Mexican agriculture, in which 70 per cent of this country's population is engaged. The impulse of the peasants' participation in nearly all of Mexico's numerous revolutions has been the desire to own the land they farm. But the redistribution of lands after each revolt usually has been only a transfer from political enemies to political friends, or equally despotic control by the state, with little or no change in the peasants' condition.

In recent years much of the rural land has been divided by the state into parcels of 12 to 24 acres each. Peasants have been assigned to them to cultivate but not to own. A collection of parcels, known as an "ejido," is governed by a political commissar. Synarchists accuse these directors of arbitrarily dispossessing peasants, seizing their crops and carrying out other tyrannies, with the result that many agrarists raise only enough crops to feed themselves. Acreage under cultivation in Mexico has been decreasing and the country, once an exporter of corn—the inhabitants' basic food—now is obliged to import it.

"Every One a Land Owner."

Synarchism promises to remedy this situation by helping peasants obtain title to the land they till, to make every one a property owner as contrasted to the Communists' cry of "every one a proletarion."

To help attain this end, Synarchism looks to education, to a reduction of Mexico's 48 per cent of illiteracy. Coöperating in the national educational program undertaken by President Manuel Avila Camacho, the Synarchists say they have established 25,000 centers of education thruout the country—not schools in the sense they are known in the United States but places where a person who can read and write will teach at least one illiterate.

In an interview with this writer, Manuel Torres Bueno, 32, national head of the Synarchist union, listed the various aims of the movement. Bueno was graduated from Guanajuato university, was a lecturer on philosophy and practiced law at Leon before becoming active in the Synarchist movement. He directs the union from unpretentious offices in Mexico City and receives a salary said to be $200 a month.

Farm Colonies Founded.

"In their intensive endeavor to raise the standard of living of the rural population," Bueno said, "Synarchists have founded various agricultural colonies. Two of the most important and flourishing of these are 'El Refugio' a refuge shelter and asylum at Tamaulipas and 'Maria Auxiliadora' in Lower California. Synarchism never has taken an active part in political elective matters for in Mexico exists no possibility whatever that the citizens' vote would be respected."

Synarchists even remain away from the polls, Bueno said, because under Mexico's one party system of government only the candidates of the party in power—now the Revolutionary party [PRM]—can be elected.

The Synarchists are Catholic, Mexico being a Catholic country, but their movement has not been officially approved by the church, altho numerous leading Catholics have spoken favorably of it. Incidentally, Avila Camacho, of whom the Synarchists think highly, is the first president of Mexico in more than 100 years to profess the Catholic faith.

In many respects Synarchism is peculiarly un-Mexican, altho its members are intensely nationalistic. The volatile Mexican temperament ordinarily responds best to exciting and forceful enterprises that bring prompt results. Lacking all these qualities, Synarchism prohibits every violence, and many persons believe the objectives for which its thousands strive will be attained only in the far distant future.

Accused by Communists.

Communists charge that Synarchists were responsible for the attempted assassination of President Avila Camacho last April, that mobs of them have attacked Protestants, and that they represent foreign influences.

Aviea Camacho was shot at and narrowly missed by a former officer of his palace staff last April 10. The assassin was jailed but later shot to death "trying to escape." An official statement said the assassin had in his possession documents from Nazi sources but made no accusation that he was a Synarchist.

The Communist press, particularly El Popular, a labor newspaper, published stories that a mob of Synarchists and Catholic fanatics armed with firearms, knives, and sticks in May attacked a Protestant congregation in La Gloria, in the state of Veracruz, beat and wounded many of the Protestants and drove 40 families out of the village. The refugees hid in the mountains several days and then went to Mexico City to seek protection of federal authorities, the stories said.

Charge Raid on Church.

A month earlier, Communists charged, a mob of 50 armed fanatics, shouting "Long live Synarchism," raided a Methodist chapel in the village of Santa Maria Techachalco during a Sunday service and beat and stabbed half a dozen or more Protestants.

The attorney general, directed to investigate these charges, in June ordered that permission not be granted to Synarchists to hold meetings. He was reported to have held that the Synarchists were a subversive element.

In the same month, publication of the union's daily newspaper, El Sinarquista, was suppressed by President Avila Camacho after it warned him in its columns that Communists had laid plans for a general strike thruout Mexico to enforce demands for increased wages and improved working conditions for members of Communist dominated unions. Communists charged that the Synarchists used this maneuver as a pretext for their plan to stage an uprising of their own, supposedly to offset the Communist revolt.

Synarchists Reply.

Synarchism, however, has replied to all these charges, asserting they are lies manufactured by the Communists whom they describe as their only enemy in Mexico.

Concerning the alleged attacks, they point out that Synarchists are forbidden to carry arms or to resort to violence, that a basic rule of their union is to avoid use of force at all times.

They explain further that inasmuch as Communists dominate the government, official pronouncements and investigations do not carry proof of Synarchists wrong doing because some officials are opposed to the movement.

In respect to the attorney general's order that Synarchist meetings be suppressed, they observe that the meetings were not halted because President Avila Camacho did not issue any such prohibition. They also point out that the president did not accuse Synarchism of instigating the attempt on his life.

Deny Anti-United States Tinges.

As for the charge of foreign influences and opposition to the United States, a Synarchist leader said, "permit me to refer you to the United States embassy in Mexico, which has complete information concerning our activities and with which we have had friendly relations."

Not only do the Synarchists say that they have not been guilty of resorting to violence, they insist that they have themselves been the victims of numerous Communist attacks.

The intensity of the struggle between the two forces is indicated by the Synarchists' claim that they have infiltrated their own members into the inner councils of the Communist party here and have obtained what they assert are transcripts of secret Communist plans for the sovietization of not only Mexico but most of the western hemisphere.

F. C. RATHJE IS NAMED HOME-CANVASS HEAD FOR 6TH WAR LOAN

Frank C. Rathje.

The appointment of Frank C. Rathje, president of the Chicago City Bank and Trust company and the Mutual National bank, to head the office of civilian defense house-to-house canvass division of the 6th war loan committee, was announced yesterday by Francis M. Knight, Chicago and Cook county drive chairman.

Rathje headed the 5th war loan's joint OCD-war finance house-to-house division.

He said he plans to hold preliminary organizational meetings during the next 30 days in each of the six OCD division areas to insure complete and efficient solicitation of homes in the city's 17,800 residential blocks. The opening date for the drive has not yet been fixed, treasury officials stated.

If Back Aches or Ankles Swell, Flush Your Kidneys

If you're feeling out o'sorts, Get Up Nights or suffer from Burning Passages, Backache, Swollen Ankles, Nervousness, Rheumatic Pains, Dizziness, Circles Under Eyes and feel worn-out, the cause may be non-organic and non-systemic Kidney and Bladder troubles.

Worry, Colds, working too hard, or overeating or drinking may create an excess of Acids and overload your Kidneys so that they need help to flush out poisonous wastes that might otherwise undermine your health.

Help Kidneys Remove Acids

Nature provides the Kidneys to clean and purify your blood and to remove excess Acids. The Kidneys contain about nine million tiny tubes or filters through which the heart pumps blood about 200 times an hour, night and day, so it's easy to see that they may get tired and slow down when overloaded.

Nearly 20 years ago a practicing physician's prescription called Cystex was made available to the public through drug stores, making it easy and inexpensive to help thousands suffering from non-organic and non-systemic Kidney and Bladder troubles in these three simple ways: 1. Help the Kidneys remove excess acids which may become poisoning and irritating. 2. To palliate burning and smarting of the urinary passages, and bladder irritation. 3. Help the Kidneys flush out wastes which may become poisonous if allowed to accumulate, thus aiding nature in stimulating an increase of energy, which may easily make you feel years younger.

Liberal Trial Offer

To prove that Cystex may be the very medicine you need accept this fair-play trial offer: Get a supply of Cystex from your druggist today. Take it exactly as directed and watch for quick help, a rapid increase in pep, more youthful feeling and a new joy in living. You must be completely satisfied and highly delighted or you simply return the empty package and your money back is guaranteed.

Tear this out. Take it to your druggist. Be sure to get genuine, guaranteed Cystex which is scientifically produced under the direction of a licensed physician, and used by millions throughout the world. Three guaranteed Cystex sizes—35c, 75c, $1.50.

STIMSON WARNS AGAINST SOLDIER VOTE PRESSURE

Threatens Court Martial for Violations.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Sept. 23.—Secretary of War Stimson today was revealed as ready to discipline any officer or enlisted man who attempts to influence soldiers in casting their Presidential ballots.

In a letter to Rep. Shafer [R., Mich.], who reported a chaplain in Persia had told a soldier he might be subject to court martial if he failed to vote for President Roosevelt, Stimson said that the articles of war are not subject to such interpretation.

Says Chaplain Erred.

The article of war in question states that any officer or soldier found guilty of disrespect toward the President, Vice President, congress, secretary of war, governors, and legislators shall be dismissed from the service or suffer such other punishment as a court martial may direct.

Stimson said the chaplain erred in telling the soldier that this article meant that any one who voted against the President could be charged with disrespect and court martialed. Further, Stimson said such advice was in violation of present law, which states that no officer or enlisted man may attempt "to influence any member of the armed forces to vote or not to vote for any candidate."

Free Choice Stressed.

The war department between May and August, 1944, issued numerous official circulars, manuals, and soldier voting posters, stressing the statutory provision and emphasizing the soldier's complete freedom to vote or not to vote, and to select candidates of his own choice, Stimson explained.

"It is my intention that soldiers shall have opportunity to vote, if they so desire, freely, without coercion and in secret. The war department is vigilant to investigate any alleged violation of its explicit instructions in this regard and to take proper disciplinary action if violation is established."

Elgin Glass Drive Reveals Some Genuine Antiques

Pre-Volstead beer bottles and electric light bulbs dating to the early post-gaslight era turned up yesterday in Elgin's glass salvage drive, which brought in a quarter million bottles. The drive was conducted by auxiliary police of the office of civilian defense, assisted by hundreds of Elgin students. It was probably the first glass drive of the war, said Harold E. Grosman of the auxiliary police.

F. D. R. CHARGES G. O. P. IMITATES THE NEW DEAL

Tries to 'Switch Labels,' He Tells Union.

Roosevelt Makes Radio Campaign Speech

[Associated Press Wirephoto.]

The President (center), with William Green (left), president of the American Federation of Labor, and Daniel Tobin, teamsters' union head, as Roosevelt spoke last night.

Washington, D. C., Sept. 23 (AP).—Following is the text of President Roosevelt's speech before the Teamsters' union tonight:

"Well, here we are together again—after four years—and what years they have been!

"I am actually four years older—which seems to annoy some people. In fact, millions of us are more than 11 years older than when we started in to clear up the mess that was dumped in our laps in 1933.

"We all know certain people will make it a practice to depreciate the accomplishments of labor—who even attack labor as unpatriotic

"Got a Laugh," Says F. D. R.

"They keep this up usually for three years and six months. But then for some strange reason they change their tune—every four years—just before election day.

"When votes are at stake they suddenly discover that they really love labor and are eager to protect it from its old friends.

"I got quite a laugh, for example—and I am sure that you did—when I read this plank in the Republican platform adopted at their national convention in Chcago last July:

"'The Republican party accepts the purposes of the national labor relations act, the wage and hour act, the social security act, and all other federal statutes designed to promote and protect the welfare of American working men and women, and we promise a fair and just administration of these laws.'

Charges Fight on Laws.

"Many of the Republican leaders and congressmen and candidates, who shouted enthusiastic approval of that plank in that convention hall, would not even recognize these progressive laws if they met them in broad daylight. Indeed, they have personally spent years of effort and energy—and much money—in fighting every one of those laws in the congress, in the press, and in the courts, ever since this administration began to advocate them and enact them into legislation.

"That is a fair example of their insincerity and their inconsistency.

"The whole purpose of Republican oratory these days seems to be to switch labels. The object is to pursuade the American people that the Democratic party was responsible for the 1929 crash and depression, and the Republican party was responsible for all social progress under the New Deal.

Calls Stand "Common Fraud."

"Imitation may be the sincerest form of flattery—but I am afraid that in this case it is the most obvious common or garden variety of fraud.

"There are enlightened, liberal elements in the Republican party, and they have fought hard and honorably to bring the party up to date and to get it in step with the forward march of American progress. But these liberal elements were not able to drive the old guard Republicans from their entrenched positions.

"Can the old guard pass itself off as the New Deal?

"I think not.

"Stunts in Circus."

"We have all seen many marvelous stunts in the circus, but no performing elephant could turn a handspring without falling flat on his back.

"I need not recount to you the centuries of history which have been crowded into these four years since I saw you last.

"There were some—in the congress and out—who raised their voices against our preparations for defense—before and after 1939—as hysterical war mongering, who cried out against our help to the allies as provocative and dangerous.

"We remember the voices.

"They would like to have us forget them now. But in 1940 and 1941 they were loud voices. Happily they were a minority and—fortunately for ourselves, and for the world—they could not stop America.

"Heads Buried in Sand."

"There are some politicians who kept their heads buried deep in the sand while the storms of Europe and Asia were headed our way, who said that the lend-lease bill 'would bring an end to free government in the United States,' and who said 'only hysteria entertains the idea that Germany, Italy or Japan contemplate war upon us.'

"These very men are now asking the American people to entrust to them the conduct of our foreign policy and our military policy.

"What the Republican leaders are now saying in effect is this: 'O, just forget what we used to say, we have changed our minds now—we have been reading the public opinion polls about these things, and we now know what the American people want. Don't leave the task of making the peace to those old men who first urged it, and who have already laid the foundations for it, and who have had to fight all of us, inch by inch, during the last five years to do it—just to turn it all over to us. We'll do it so skillfully that we won't lose a single isolationist vote or a single isolationist campaign contribution.'

One Thing He's "Too Old For."

"There is one thing I am too old for—I cannot talk out of both sides of my mouth at the same time.

"This government welcomes all sincere supporters of the cause of effective world collaboration in the making of a lasting peace. Millions of Republicans all over the nation are with us—and have been with us—in our unshakeable determination to build the solid structure of peace.

"And they, too, will resent this campaign talk by those who first woke up to the facts of international life a few short months ago—when they began to study the polls of public opinion.

"Those who today have the military responsibility for waging this war in all parts of the globe are not helped by the statements of men who, without responsibility and without knowledge of the facts, lecture the chiefs of staff of the United States as to the best means of dividing our armed forces and our military resources between the Atlantic and Pacific, between the army and the navy, and among the commanding generals of the different theaters of war.

Recalls 1940 Speech.

"When I addressed you four years ago, I said: 'I know that America will never be disappointed in its expectation that labor will always continue to do its share of the job we now face, and do it patriotically and effectively and unselfishly.'

"Today we know that America has not been disappointed. In his order of the day when the allied armies first landed in Normandy, Gen. Eisenhower said: 'Our home fronts have given us overwhelming superiority in weapons and munitions of war.'

"I know that there are those labor baiters among the opposition who, instead of calling attention to the achievements of labor in this war, prefer to pick on the occasional strikes which have occurred—strikes which have been condemned by every responsible national labor leader—every national leader except one. And that one labor leader, incidentally, is certainly not among my supporters.

Plane Output Cited.

"Labor baiters forget that, at our peak, American labor and management have turned out airplanes at the rate of 109,000 per year; tanks—57,000 per year; combat vessels—573 per year; landing vessels—31,000 per year; cargo ships—19,000,000 tons per year, and small arms ammunition—23 billion rounds per year.

"But a strike is news, and generally appears in shrieking headlines—and, of course, they say labor is always to blame.

"The fact is that, since Pearl Harbor, only one-tenth of 1 per cent of man hours have been lost by strikes. But even those candidates who burst out in election year affection for social legislation and for labor in general still think you ought to be good boys and stay out of politics. And above all, they hate to see any working man or woman contribute a dollar bill to any wicked political party.

"Of course, it is all right for large financiers and industrialists and monopolists to contribute tens of thousands of dollars—but their solicitude for that dollar which the men and women in the ranks of labor contribute is always very touching.

"They are, of course, perfectly willing to let you vote—unless you happen to be a soldier or sailor overseas, or a merchant seaman carrying the munitions of war. In that case they have made it pretty hard for you to vote—for there are some political candidates who think they may have a chance if only the total vote is small enough.

"And while I am on the subject of voting let me urge every American citizen—man and woman—to use your sacred privilege of voting, no matter which candidate you expect to support. Our millions of soldiers and sailors and merchant seamen have been handicapped or prevented from voting by those politicians and candidates who think they stand to lose by such votes. You here at home have the freedom of the ballot. Irrespective of party you should register and vote this November. That is a matter of good citizenship.

"Words Come Easily."

"Words come easily, but they do not change the record. You are old enough to remember what things were like for labor in 1932.

"You remember the closed banks and the bread lines and the starvation wages; the foreclosures of homes and farms, and the bankruptcies of business; the 'Hoovervilles,' and the young men and women of the nation facing a hopeless, jobless future; the closed factories and mines and mills; the ruined and abandoned farms; the stalled railroads and the empty docks; the blank despair of a whole nation—and the utter impotence of our federal government.

"You remember the long, hard road, with its gains and its setbacks, which we have traveled together since those days.

"Now there are some politicians, of course, who do not remember that far back, and some who remember but find it convenient to forget. But the record is not to be washed away that easily.

Dictator Tactics Charged.

"The opposition has already imported into this campaign the propaganda technique invented by the dictators abroad. The technique was all set out in Hitler's book—and it was copied by the aggressors of Italy and Japan. According to that technique, you should never use a small falsehood; always a big one, for its very fantastic nature will make it more credible—if only you keep repeating it over and over again.

"For example, altho I rubbed my eyes when I read it, we have been told that it was not a Republican depression, but a Democratic depression from which this nation has been saved—that this administration is responsible for all the suffering and misery that the history books and the American people always thought had been brought about during the 12 ill-fated years when the Republican party was in power.

"Now, there is an old and somewhat lugubrious adage which says: 'Never speak of rope in the house of one who has been hanged.' In the same way, if I were a Republican leader speaking to a mixed audience, the last word in the whole dictionary that I think I would use is that word 'depression.'

"For another example, I learned—much to my amazement—that the policy of this administration was to keep men in the army when the war was over, because there might be no jobs for them in civil life.

"Why, the very day that this fantastic charge was first made, a formal plan for the method of speedy discharge from the army had already been announced by the war department—a plan based upon the wishes of the soldiers themselves.

"This callous and brazen falsehood about demobilization was an effort to stimulate fear among American mothers, wives, and sweethearts. And, incidentally, it was hardly calculated to bolster the morale of our soldiers and sailors and airmen fighting our battles all over the world.

Preparation for War.

"Perhaps the most ridiculous of these campaign falsifications is the one that this administration failed to prepare for the war which was coming. I doubt whether even Goebbels would have tried that one. For even he would never have dared hope that the voters of America had already forgotten that many of the Republican leaders in the congress and outside the congress tried to thwart and block nearly every attempt which this administration made to warn our people and to arm this nation.

"Some of them called our 50,000 airplane program fantastic. Many of those very same leaders who fought every defense measure we proposed are still in control of the Republican party, were in control of its national convention in Chicago, and would be in control of the machinery of the congress and of the Republican party in the event of a Republican victory this fall.

"These Republican leaders have not been content with attacks upon me, or my wife, or my sons—they now include my little dog, Fala. Unlike the members of my family, he resents this. Being a Scottie, as soon as he learned that the Republican fiction writers had concocted a story that I had left him behind on an Aleutian Island and had sent a destroyer back to find him—at a cost to the taxpayers of two or three or 20 million dollars—his Scotch soul was furious.

Not Same Dog Since.

"He has not been the same dog since. I am accustomed to hearing malicious falsehoods about myself—such as that old, worm eaten chestnut that I have represented myself as indispensable. But I think I have a right to object to libelous statements about my dog.

"But we all recognize the old technique. The people of this country know the past too well to be deceived into forgetting. Too much is at stake to forget. There are tasks ahead of us which we must now complete with the same will and skill and intelligence and devotion which have already led us so far on the road to victory.

"There is the task of finishing victoriously this most terrible of all wars as speedily as possible and with the least cost in lives.

"There is the task of setting up international machinery to assure that the peace, once established, will not again be broken.

"And there is the task which we face here at home—the task of reconverting our economy from the purposes of war to the purposes of peace.

"These peace-building tasks were faced once before, nearly a generation ago. They were botched by a Republican administration. That must not happen this time. We will not let it happen this time.

"Fortunately, we do not begin from scratch. Much has been done. Much more is under way. The fruits of victory this time will not be apples to be sold on street corners.

Plans for Demobilization.

"Many months ago, this administration set up the necessary machinery for an orderly peace time demobilization. The congress has now passed legislation continuing the agencies needed for demobilization — with additional powers to carry out their functions.

"I know that the American people—business and labor and agriculture—have the same will to do for peace what they have done for war. And I know that they can sustain a national income which will assure full production and full employment under our democratic system of private enterprise, with government encouragement and aid whenever and wherever it is necessary.

"The keynote of all that we propose to do in reconversion can be found in the one word—'jobs.'

"We shall lease or dispose of our government owned plants and facilities and our surplus war property and land, on the basis of how they can best be operated by private enterprise to give jobs to the greatest number.

Purchasing Power of Labor.

"We shall follow a wage policy which will sustain the purchasing power of labor — for that means more production and more jobs.

"The present policies on wages and prices were conceived to serve the needs of the great masses of the people. They stopped inflation. They kept prices on a stable level. Thru the demobilization period, policies will be carried out with the same objective in mind — to serve the needs of the great masses of the people.

"This is not the time in which men can be forgotten as they were in the Republican catastrophe which we inherited. The returning soldiers, the workers by their machines, the farmers in the field, the miners, the men and women in offices and shops, do not intend to be forgotten.

"They know they are not surplus. Because they know that they are America.

The Dead Past.

"We must set targets and objectives for the future which will seem impossible to those who live in and are weighted down by the dead past.

"We are even now organizing the logistics of the peace just as Marshall, King, Arnold, MacArthur, Eisenhower and Nimitz are organizing the logistics of this war.

"The victory of the American people and their allies in this war will be far more than a victory against Fascism and reaction and the dead hand of despotism and of the past. The victory of the American people and their allies in this war will be a victory for democracy. It will constitute such an affirmation of the strength and power and vitality of government by the people as history has never before witnessed.

"With that affirmation of the vitality of democratic government behind us, that demonstration of its resilience and its capacity for decision and for action—with that knowledge of our own strength and power—we move forward with God's help to the greatest epoch of free achievement by free men the world has ever known or imagined possible."

ELECT DEMPSEY, SAYS HAIGHT, TO REDUCE CRIME

Election of John T. Dempsey, Republican nominee for state's attorney, was urged by George I. Haight, well known attorney, in a radio talk last night on the ground that Dempsey is politically independent of the city administration.

"Our present city administration remains in office until April, 1947," said Haight, who is co-chairman of the Northwestern Men for John T. Dempsey. "It must be plain that it would be well to have a state's attorney who is not politically connected with it."

Haight said there has been "a great increase in crime the last few years" and continued, "Whatever the causes, we imperatively need a public prosecutor who will give powerful aid in its suppression."

Couple with 5 Children to Wed After 14 Years

Alfred Galvin, 40, a chauffeur, and his common law wife of 14 years, Amelia, both of whom gave nonexistent addresses, promised Judge John R. McSweeney in East Chicago Avenue court yesterday that they would return next week to be married. They separated recently when Amelia accused Galvin of abusive language, but she agreed to marry him for the sake of their five children.

BALL TO DISCUSS RESULTS OF 'BIG THREE' PARLEYS

The consequences of the Dumbarton Oaks conference will be discussed Thursday by Sen. Ball [R., Minn.], at a luncheon meeting of the Chicago Council on Foreign Relations in the Morrison hotel. Sen. Ball was co-author of the Ball-Hatch-Hill-Burton post-war plan resolution, which contemplated that the allied nations would police the world after the war. The plan was discarded in favor of the resolution written by Sen. Connally [D., Tex.], chairman of the senate foreign relations committee.

ORGANIZE DIXIE FARM REVOLT TO BEAT NEW DEAL

Group Seeks to End Rule of 'Visionaries.'

Washington, D. C., Sept. 23 (AP).—The new "national agricultural committee" of anti-Roosevelt democrats appealed to farmers today to vote against President Roosevelt in November, asserting such votes would help in "recapturing the government from the domination of un-American visionaries."

The group formed here yesterday under the chairmanship of 80 year old Sen. Ellison D. [Cotton Ed] Smith of South Carolina concluded a two day session by adopting a resolution urging rural voters "to join in defeating the fourth term," and in "smashing the vicious control of the New Dealers, Sidney Hillmans and Communists."

A Threat of Disaster.

The resolution said the American constitutional form of government and states' rights are threatened by "certain radical alien and communistic powers getting control," and unless the government is "restored" to those who believe in these principles "it will bring disaster and ruin to the American farmers, labor, industry, business, and religion."

"In such a crisis," it continued, "it is the patriotic duty of Americans to place the interest of their country above any selfish party affiliation."

Ralph Moore of Granger, Tex., secretary of the group, said their aim was to "get out a farm vote sufficient to offset any possible gains to be made by Sidney Hillman and his political action committee."

Other Groups Represented.

"Thru nation-wide farm and rural meetings," he added, "the farmer will be urged to vote this November if he wants to preserve the last remnants of his freedom."

Smith said an "overwhelming majority of farmers are opposed to the New Deal and a fourth term."

It was not announced where the group expected to raise its campaign funds. Among its membership are representatives of the American Democratic party and the Southern Democratic party of South Carolina. The former group claims to have organizations working in every state west of the Mississippi except Iowa and Utah. The latter plans a slate of electors favoring Sen. Byrd [D., Va.].

COURTNEY-LUCAS CARAVANS REST OVER WEEK-END

Sen. Lucas, Democratic nominee for reëlection, and State's Atty. Courtney, nominee for governor, with their fellow campaigners, rested over the week-end in preparation for further traveling down state starting tomorrow. Both caravan leaders said they were pleased with turnouts for their meetings and expressed confidence they are winning support in Republican strongholds.

This week's itinery takes both groups to East St. Louis tomorrow night and Alton Tuesday night. Courtney's group also will have meetings at Belleville Monday and Granite City Tuesday. Wednesday Lucas will go to Jerseyville and Jacksonville, and Courtney to Shelbyville. Lucas will speak in Griggsville Thursday, Quincy on Friday and wind up the week in his home town, Havana. Courtney will be in Decatur Thursday and Champaign Friday.

Lucas' fellow campaigner is Ted Hunter, nominee for lieutenant governor. With Courtney are Mrs. Emily Taft Douglas, for congress at large; Earl Merritt, state treasurer, and Casimir Griglik, clerk of the supreme court.

Courtney and Cross Win Support of Union Group

Indorsements of State's Atty. Courtney, Democrat, for governor, and Hugh W. Cross, the Republican incumbent, for lieutenant governor, were announced yesterday by the Joint Legislative Board of Illinois, established by the Illinois Federation of Labor. The joint board cooperates with similar agencies of the railway transportation organizations, the Illinois Women's Trade Union league, and state-wide conferences and committees of AFL affiliates. The railway brotherhoods, it was announced, did not participate in the action taken on candidates for governor.

To Talk for Dewey

MRS. CAROLINE SIMON.

Mrs. Caroline Simon of New York, former executive director of the National Council of Jewish Women, will speak in behalf of the Dewey-Bricker Republican ticket for President and Vice President before the Conference of Jewish Women's Organizations tomorrow. The conference represents more than 100 organizations.

Mrs. Simon was appointed a member of the New York state industrial board by Gov. Dewey. With her on the Republican side of the program will be Mary Berkemeier Quinn of Chicago, who in 1942 was a nominee for Municipal judge.

The New Deal will be represented by Mrs. Josephine Schain of New York and Mrs. Catherine Elkus White of New Jersey. Mrs. William Spencer will act as moderator. The meeting at 220 S. State st. will start at 2 p. m.

SALT LAKE UNIT PROTESTS CIO POLITICAL ACTS

Salt Lake City, Utah, Sept. 23 [Special].—Officers of the local branch of the CIO Office and Professional Workers union disclosed today that the local has adopted a resolution protesting CIO political activities in behalf of the Democratic party.

The resolution specifically condemns the use of CIO funds for either political party, asserting that funds of the national organization are contributed by all members, both Democratic and Republican.

Altho the CIO commitment indicates all members are in favor of the Democratic ticket, the fact is, according to the resolution, the Salt Lake City local is evenly divided on this matter, "indicating that such must be the case in many other locals."

Officers said the local voted 3 to 1 in favor of the resolution. It was signed by Ronald K. Erickson, president; W. V. Call, vice president, and Richard Westmoreland, secretary.

HOUSE SESSION WINDS UP WITH 41 'LAME DUCKS'

Washington, D. C., Sept. 23 (AP).—At least 41 incumbent members of the house of representatives won't be back in their seats when the 79th congress convenes next January, a compilation by the house clerk showed today.

There undoubtedly will be more after the November elections, but that many already are in the "lame duck" category.

Thirteen incumbents were defeated in primaries, 17 are not seeking reëlection, one is a candidate for governor, another lost in a gubernatorial campaign, four unsuccessfully sought senate seats, and six are nominees for the senate.

Dies Retires.

Those defeated for reëlection were Starnes [D., Ala.], Newsome [D., Ala.], Costello [D., Cal.], Douglas [R., N. Y.], Gilchrist [R., Ia.], Lambertson [R., Kas.], Ward [D., Md.], Kennedy [D., N. Y.], Mruk [R., N. Y.], Furlong [D., Pa.], Patton [D., Tex.], Kleberg [D., Tex.], and Sullivan [D., Nev.].

Starnes and Costello are members of the Dies committee. Lambertson has been a frequent critic of the service records of President Roosevelt's sons.

Prominent among the incumbents not seeking reëlection is Martin Dies [D., Tex.], chairman of the committee investigating un-American activities.

Others not seeking reëlection are Ford [D., Cal.], Whelchel [D., Ga.], Vincent [D., Ky.], Treadway [R., Mass.], McLean [R., N. J.], Merritt [D., N. Y.], Burchill [D., Ky.], Klein [D., N. Y.], Fay [D., N. Y.], Capozzoli [D., N. Y.], Fitzpatrick [D., N. Y.], Stanley [R., N. Y.], Troutman [R., Pa.], Harris [D., Va.], Smith [D., W. Va.], and Dimond, Democratic delegate from Alaska.

Six Seek Senate Jobs.

The six house members nominated for the senate are Fulbright [D., Ark.], Wene [D., N. J.], Magnuson [D., Wash.], Myers [D., Pa.], McMurray [D., Wis.], and Southoff [P., Wis.].

The four who lost out in their quest for senatorial nominations are Stearns [R., N. H.], Burdick [R., N. D.], Disney [D., Okla.], and Morrison [D., N. C.] Burdick is seeking return to the house as an independent.

Two house members sought their state governerships. One of them, Green [D., Fla.], was defeated. The other, McCord [D., Tenn.], won the nomination.

CHICAGOAN GETS FLYING CROSS FOR 2 ACTIONS

Marine Tech. Sgt. Walter E. Tiedeman, 25, son of Mr. and Mrs. Carl S. Tiedeman, 444 Deming pl., has received the distinguished flying cross at the marine corps air depot, Cherry Point, N. C., where he is now a turret gunner instructor, his parents said yesterday.

Sgt. W. E. Tiedeman.

Sgt. Tiedeman was cited for actions Dec. 7, 1943, and Feb. 9, 1944, in the South Pacific. On the former occasion, his plane was the sole aerial protection against an attack by Jap bombers threatening the beachhead at Empress Augusta bay, and he shared in the destruction of one bomber. On Feb. 9, with most of the guns on his plane out of action in a battle with two Jap bombers, Sgt. Tiedeman kept his own guns firing and downed one bomber and possibly damaged the other.

He enlisted in the Marines in January, 1942, after graduation from Lane Technical High school and studying two years at Northwestern university. He was sent overseas in July, 1943, and returned in June of this year.

Boy, 11, Pushing Bicycle on Bridge, Falls, Drowns

Norman Bendnarowicz, 11, of 908 W. 35th pl., drowned yesterday when he fell into the Chicago river from a bridge of the Chicago Junction railway at 35th and Iron sts.

Christian Scientists Clothe Millions of War Victims

Between Oct. 1, 1940, and June 1, 1944, the Christian Science War Relief Committee distributed 2,174,432 garments and 346,830 knitted articles of wearing apparel for use of refugees, from war torn countries, the First Church of Christ, Scientist, Boston, Mass., announced. Of this number the churches in the Chicago metropolitan area supplied 72,294 garments. The church will continue to provide clothing after hostilities cease in Europe.

SPLIT IN OREGON LABOR ENHANCES G.O.P. PROSPECTS

AFL Unions Fearful of Hillman's Rise.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Portland, Ore., Sept. 23.—Oregon is regarded a doubtful state by both Republicans and Democrats. It is likely to go one way or the other by a very small margin, compared with the 39,000 plurality by which Mr. Roosevelt carried it in 1940.

While rural Oregon unquestionably is more strongly Republican this time than for many years, the influx of workers from other states to the great war plants in the coastal area is redounding to the advantage of Mr. Roosevelt. Portland alone has increased in population from 350,000 to 600,000 in the last three years.

Labor, however, is deeply divided in this election. The CIO is supporting the President just about 100 per cent, but it is in a very small minority in the ranks of organized labor in Oregon. Its chief strength is in the unions of the lumber industry, principally the loggers in the remote lumber camps.

AFL Unions Apprehensive.

More than 90 per cent of the organized workers of the state are members of American Federation of Labor unions, which are becoming more and more antagonistic to the communist controled CIO and apprehensive of Sidney Hillman's ascendancy in the Democratic party. The Republicans are benefiting from this reaction on the part of the more conservatively minded AFL workers.

In addition, there seems to be little doubt that Gov. Dewey by his Seattle labor speech has made a lot of votes for himself among AFL members in this community, as in Seattle and other industrial centers. Republican leaders think that if the governor gets 50 per cent of the AFL vote he will carry the state.

A significant development here following the Seattle speech was the indorsement of Dewey's indictment of Roosevelt labor policies by Wayne L. Morse, the former public member of the war labor board who is the Republican candidate for senator for the long term. Morse has a strong labor following, has been indorsed by the AFL, and probably will be supported by the CIO.

Dewey Termed Correct.

"Gov. Dewey was right when he said that political influences entered into war labor board decisions," said Morse. "Outstanding examples of the political manipulation of the board's decisions were the United Mine Workers' coal case and the west coast aircraft case.

"In the aircraft case, I found on returning to Washington that the board's opinion had been written before the board had even considered the case. Four officials were involved in the political maneuvering in this case."

Morse also sustained Dewey's description of the confused welter of federal agencies having jurisdiction of labor cases and indorsed the candidate's pledge to consolidate all such agencies in the department of labor.

Morse defeated Sen. Holman for renomination in the Republican primary. At the time this was chalked up as a victory for Hillman and his CIO storm troopers. The fact is that while the CIO members who voted in the Republican primary undoubtedly supported Morse, they were too few in number to have decided the contest.

Morse Satisfactory to Labor.

The AFL had far more to do with the defeat of Holman by Morse than did the CIO. The record Morse made in the war labor board made him completely satisfactory to labor. The conservative Republicans were against Morse and called him a New Dealer at heart. They supported Holman. But Holman had made a lot of enemies in his party wholly outside the ranks of labor, and they swung all the influence they could command to the support of Morse, with telling effect.

Party lines have gone completely haywire in the senatorial contest. The indications are many conservative Republicans will vote for the Democratic candidate, Edgar W. Smith, who is so conservative that liberal Democrats are being driven into support of Morse.

Oregon also is electing a senator to the four year short term to fill the vacancy caused by the death of Sen. McNary. Guy Cordon, now filling the vacancy by appointment, is the Republican nominee. He is opposed by Willis Mahoney, a Democrat, who is a perennial candidate yet to be elected to any office.

VIVIEN KELLEMS SEEKS COFFEE'S IMPEACHMENT

Washington, D. C., Sept. 23 (AP).—Miss Vivien Kellems, Westport, Conn., industrialist, held a press conference today to announce she has sent a letter to House Speaker Rayburn [D., Tex.] outlining charges which she asks an opportunity to prove against Rep. Coffee [D., Wash.] for the purpose of having him impeached.

Miss Kellems handed out mimeographed copies of the letter, dated Sept. 20. It contained seven major specifications.

Coffee last March read in the house excerpts from letters which he said Miss Kellems had written to Count Frederick Karl von Zedlitz in Buenos Aires. The count was identified at that time as a German national on the United States blacklist.

Called Benedict Arnold.

The woman industrialist, who unsuccessfully opposed Clare Boothe Luce in the 1942 Republican congressional primary, emphasized that she enjoys no such congressional immunity from libel suits as Coffee had, "when he called me a Benedict Arnold."

Miss Kellems asserted she believed "tremendous pressure" was put upon the national Democratic committee to stop the senate investigation of the leaking of contents of censored mail.

She referred to Coffee and Drew Pearson, Washington columnist who also used excerpts from the letters, as "little New Deal stooges."

Coffee Investigated.

"I haven't sued Mr. Pearson—yet," she added.

Miss Kellems said she has devoted a great deal of time since last March to a "thoro investigation" of Coffee, including two trips to Tacoma and Seattle, Wash.

She said she talked with Rayburn and Majority Leader McCormack [D., Mass.] yesterday about the letter, which she said was on Rayburn's desk. She said Rayburn told her he would file her letter. Petitions are not referred to committees while the house is recessed, as it now is until November 14.

CAR, $600 IN DRESSES STOLEN.

Theft of his car, containing 70 women's dresses valued at $600 from in front of 1442 S. Christiana av. was reported to police yesterday by Jack Getlin, 3241 Fillmore st.

3 MILLION BONDS FOR NEW LIGHTS URGED BY KELLY

Immediate consideration by the finance committee of the city council at its meeting Tuesday of a 3 million dollar bond issue to finance the purchase of 12,000 new street lamps was urged yesterday by Mayor Kelly in a letter to Ald. Bowler [25th], chairman of the committee.

The mayor's request was made as a result of a resolution submitted at a recent council meeting by Ald. Lindell [9th] that a two million dollar issue be floated. Kelly added that the amount should be large in view of the large number of aldermanic requests for more street lights and generally deficient street lighting conditions.

Kelly pointed out the city has about 4,400 dim gas lamps, about 300 yellow flame gasoline lamps, stretches on sundry other streets with no lights at all and many places where lighting is inadequate.

The three million dollar bond issue, Kelly added, would be sufficient to light 300 miles of streets even without federal allotments.

G. O. P. EXPECTS TO WIN IOWA BY 100,000 VOTES

CIO - Communist Bossism Stirs Resentment.

BY ARTHUR EVANS.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Des Moines, Ia., Sept. 23.—Iowa appears to be headed to the Republican ticket in November, in the opinion of neutral observers in Des Moines, Sioux City, and Council Bluffs.

Anti-New Deal sentiment among farmers is indicated to be stronger than it was four years ago. Both the Republican and Democratic camps are concentrating on an effort to get out the vote.

Statisticians at G. O. P. headquarters figure that Dewey and Bricker should carry Iowa by approximately 100,000 votes, as things now stand. As in other states, a reduced vote is expected, the total running between 900,000 and one million, as compared with 1,215,000 four years ago. Democratic managers also figure on majorities for their ticket and say that a swing toward Roosevelt is occurring among farmers and business men.

Surface Signs Point to G. O. P.

All surface signs, however, point to majorities for the G. O. P. ticket. Belief among neutral experts in touch with all parts of the state is that nothing short of a national New Deal landslide will keep the state out of the Republican column.

Republican managers figure that Dewey is likely to get 55 per cent of the total vote for President. Willkie carried Iowa four years ago, polling 52.2 per cent of the total vote.

A poll by the Des Moines Register showed 55 per cent for Dewey and 45 per cent for Roosevelt. Seventeen per cent of the voters polled were undecided, and of these more were inclined to Dewey than to the President.

Hickenlooper Seeks Senate Post.

The principal state contests are between Republican Gov. Bourke B. Hickenlooper and Sen. Gillette, a Democrat, for the senatorship and between Lt. Gov. Robert D. Blue, a Republican, and Richard F. Mitchell, a Democrat, former chief justice of the Iowa Supreme court, for the governorship.

Hickenlooper is one of the greatest vote getters in the state. Sen. Gillette, who was reluctant to enter, was induced to run for reëlection after 24,000 Democrats had petitioned him to make the race. Gillette, who fought the White House effort to pack the Supreme court, was marked for a purge in the primaries six years ago, when the New Deal backed Otha D. Wearin against him. Gillette was reëlected.

He was against a third term nomination for the President in 1940 but went along with the ticket after it was nominated. This year he opposed a fourth term nomination but is supporting the Democratic ticket.

Hannegan Prediction Scouted.

The day after Gillette said he would run, Democratic National Chairman Hannegan was encouraged to predict this action would swing Iowa to the Democrats. A general comment among neutrals is that Hannegan might as well hope to carry Rock-ribbed Vermont as Iowa.

Both Hickenlooper and Blue are expected to run ahead of the rest of the ticket. Republicans expect pluralities for these two candidates are likely to range above 150,000. Republican candidates are making intensive campaigns in the 99 counties. Headquarters for Sen. Gillette were opened today. He is expected to return to the state Oct. 1.

Sidney Hillman's CIO political action committee apparently is not a help to Iowa Democrats. Out in the tall corn state the spectacle of the Democratic national convention bosses using Hillman as a clearing house for machine processes made a bad radio impression.

CIO Lacks Vote Power.

The CIO has strength in defense and other plants in Des Moines, Dubuque, Burlington, Sioux City, and other centers, but much of its membership is not registered as voters. Many workers are rated as transients and many other CIO members are from farms and rural towns, and indications are they are not deliverable by Hillman in the polling places.

Iowa has between 6,000 and 8,000 coal miners. As in Illinois, they have been switching toward the G. O. P. in recent elections.

Communist activities in behalf of the Democratic ticket are being capitalized on by Republican headquarters. In July, the communist political association ran advertisments in Iowa newspapers indorsing President Roosevelt for a fourth term. Copies of this have been sent out in G. O. P. clip sheets under the caption "Do Democrats seek this support?" This question is one to be pressed during the campaign.

Car Crash Fatal

[TRIBUNE Photo.]

Auto in which Mrs. Marie Rixmann died when it hit pole at Berteau and Cicero avs.

Mrs. Marie Rixmann.

Mrs. Marie Rixmann, 64, of 6360 N. Paulina st., widow of Louis Rixmann, former city collector, was killed yesterday when her automobile crashed into a trolley pole at Berteau and Cicero avs.

Anton Gruber, 64, an elevator operator at County hospital, and his wife, Barbette, 59, who were riding with Mrs. Rixmann, both suffered minor injuries and were taken to Belmont hospital.

Witnesses told police that the automobile, driven by Mrs. Rixmann, apparently went out of control and headed into the pole. It had been traveling north in Cicero av.

Elmer Sabin, 32, of 1815 Cermak rd., a machine operator for the International Harvester company, was fatally injured when he was struck at Cermak rd. and Wood st. by an automobile driven by Anton Gron, 37, of 2612 W. 24th st.

Gordon Minor, 40, of 4223 Wallace st., a butcher, died in Woodlawn hospital shortly after his automobile crashed into a safety island at 57th st. and East dr. in Washington park.

Mrs. Marie Hanson, 79, of 2314 Giddings st., died in Ravenswood hospital of injuries she suffered Friday when she was struck by an automobile after she stepped from a safety island at Lawrence and Oakley av. Howard I. Lauman, 4637 N. Damen av., was the driver.

DEWEY CARRIES CAMPAIGN FIGHT TO OIL COUNTRY

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Aboard Dewey Special train, Sept. 23.—Gov. Dewey, Republican Presidential nominee, was en route east from Los Angeles this evening, headed for an engagement on Monday night to broadcast to the nation from Oklahoma City. After an appeal for votes in that petroleum capital, the candidate will continue east and arrive in Albany, N. Y., Thursday morning.

Tonight and tomorrow, Dewey and his staff and the corps of newspaper, radio and magazine men accompanying him will cross Arizona and New Mexico on the Santa Fe railroad. They will pass thru the Panhandle of Texas tomorrow night. No formal appearances are scheduled in these southwestern states but on stops to service the train the candidate will talk from the rear platform.

TAKEN ILL AT SHOW; DIES.

Mrs. Eva Igoe, 65, of 5927 S. Damen av., who collapsed Friday night, apparently of a heart attack, in the Ogden theater, 1619 W. 63d st., died yesterday in Southtown hospital.

WRECKED PLANE, 19 ABOARD, REPORTED SIGHTED IN ALASKA

EDMONTON, Alta., Sept. 23 (AP).—United States air transport command officials said today a report reaching rear echelon headquarters of the Alaskan department at Seattle, Wash., said wreckage of a C-47 transport with 19 passengers and crewmen aboard had been located on one of the lesser peaks of Mount McKinley in Alaska, and that little hope is held any aboard the plane is alive.

The plane was reported missing Monday on a flight between Anchorage and Fairbanks. When last heard from the pilot of the missing plane said winds were unfavorable and that he was flying under icing conditions.

A rescue party will leave from Fairbanks, 70 miles from the scene.

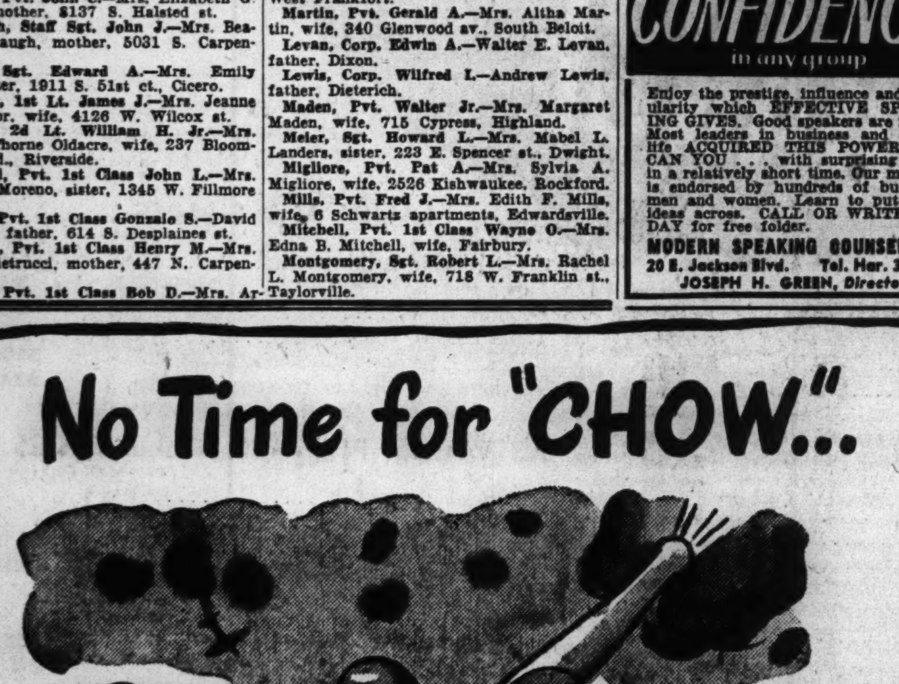
No Time for "CHOW"...



but we've got Planters Peanuts, anyhow!

CRUNCHY-CRISP Planters Peanuts come in mighty handy for pinch-hit lunches — hunger-chasing snacks. They're a valuable food—rich in natural food energy, high-quality protein —contain minerals and vitamins, too.

The men and women overseas get all the big, selected Planters Peanuts —vacuum-packed for roaster-fresh flavor. We know you want them to have the pick of Planters Peanuts, now.

But good Planters Peanuts are plentiful here at home. Get them in 5¢ bags. Just as delicious because all Planters Peanuts are roasted by Planters special process.

WHEN PEACE COMES these vacuum tins will be back.

Zenith Specializes in

"RADIONICS EXCLUSIVELY"

This Zenith Policy is your assurance of the World's Finest in your coming New Radio

SAY THAT WORD, "RADIONICS" out loud. It sounds just like what it means . . . a compound of radio and electronics which includes many new, secret developments born in the heat of wartime necessity.

It's a broad field, RADIONICS. A field so revolutionary and fast-moving that it requires complete concentration to remain its master. That's why Zenith specializes in "RADIONICS EXCLUSIVELY." No spreading out into unrelated fields like refrigerators, washers, electric irons, cooking ranges and vacuum cleaners. Zenith has no intention of competing with lifelong specialists in those fields.

This policy of "RADIONICS EXCLUSIVELY" has made Zenith one of the largest Radio manufacturers in the world.

It is the reason why millions of owners of pre-war Zeniths are still enjoying top radio performance with least service expense.

And it is the reason why today, down vast Zenith production lines, flow record numbers of superbly performing Radionic devices for the armed services—many of them so "hush-hush" they can only be hinted at. They are not only helping to save lives and win battles but they are also doing their jobs under the most severe fighting and weather conditions.

So, OUT OF war's proving ground—out of Zenith's background of "RADIONICS EXCLUSIVELY"—will come the finest in radio for you. For through unrivaled war work and years of experience in "RADIONICS EXCLUSIVELY" Zenith has won unquestioned leadership in High Frequency—the basis of FM Radio, Television and Short Wave. Remember—it was Zenith that years ago introduced short wave communication into the U. S. Navy.

MARK these words . . . the Zenith Radionic Revolution is on its way! Watch for it in the coming new Zenith Radionic Radios, Radio-Phonographs, and Global Portables. It's an exclusively Zenith revolution that will begin a new era of engineering advancement and precision quality at low cost . . . a revolution that assures you greatest value per dollar in the coming new radio for your home!

Keep your eye on Zenith for the best in radio . . . and see Zenith first.

VICTIM OF SNAKE BITES AT CHURCH MEETING IS DEAD

Harlan, Ky., Sept. 23 (AP).—Coroner Fielding Hensley reported today the death of Mrs. Maudie Lankford, 28, a coal miner's wife, who had been taken to Harlan hospital for treatment of snakebites.

Hensley said Mrs. Lankford was bitten three times during a meeting at the Church of God here last night.

Magistrate John Keller levied a fine of $50 against the Rev. Willard Cress, pastor of the church, and placed him under a $500 peace bond. A 1942 Kentucky statute makes it a misdemeanor to handle snakes in connection with religious services.

FALLS 3,000 FEET FROM PLANE, BUT HE JUST SWEARS

WITH AMERICAN TROOPS ON MOROTAI ISLAND, Moluccas, Sept. 19 [Delayed]—(AP).—Pvt. Joe Aiello fell 3,000 feet when his parachute failed to open, and escaped without a broken bone. His first words when he regained consciousness were:

"The goddam air corps! I should have stayed in the medics."

Thre tops broke the fall of the youth from the Bronx, N. Y. Medics theorized that the fact he was unconscious when he hit the trees and relaxed when he landed probably saved his life.

Now! A Youthful Skin Can Be More Than a Memory!
Here is good news to many women past 30, 40 or 50. Science has discovered a vitalizing substance which helps give that lovely youthful appearance to the skin. QUEENOL contains a duplicate of this amazing substance . . . called EXETOL. It is plentiful in youth but diminishes with the passing of time. As this substance decreases with age, the skin becomes dryer, thinner and less attractive. Women who have used QUEENOL find that the skin begins to look smoother, firmer and fresher again. The natural hormones in EXETOL are absorbed by the skin below the surface where their activity aids in building new tissue. Results once considered "impossible" are now a regular performance of EXETOL, which is the potent ingredient of Queenol. : : : Used according to directions, QUEENOL helps to restore that smooth, youthful texture so essential to a lovely skin. QUEENOL with its precious ingredient, EXETOL, costs only $5.00 (plus tax) for a 30 days' supply. Be sure to try QUEENOL. You can get it at our cosmetic counter.

STATE LEADERS OF G. O. P. INVADE CHICAGO OCT. 1

Several Major Campaign Meetings Scheduled.

Republican state candidates, after winding up their downstate tours during the present week, will swing into Cook county on Oct. 1 in the vanguard of nearly a score of Republican orators of national standing, topped by the party's Presidential nominee, Gov. Dewey of New York.

Joining during the final month of the campaign in the battle to make the Republican victory in Illinois complete will be Gov. Warren of California; former Gov. Landon of Kansas, 1936 Presidential nominee; Sen. Vandenberg of Michigan; Miss Winifred Stanley, representative at large from New York; Clare Boothe Luce, playwright and representative from Connecticut, and others. Illinois party orators will include Sen. Brooks and State Treasurer Stratton.

Plan Thoro Coverage.

Gov. Green, Richard J. Lyons, nominee for senator, and the other state candidates will join with Cook county candidates in a thoro coverage of Cook county during the final month. Mass meetings are being planned in every ward and township with downtown theater rallies the closing week of the campaign.

High point in the drive for Illinois' 28 electoral votes and for election of the state and county tickets will come Oct. 25 when Gov. Dewey addresses a midwest rally in the Chicago Stadium. Frank M. Kalteux, 38th ward committeeman who has been named chairman of this meeting, already has started his committee members arranging for an overflow turnout.

Gov. Bricker of Ohio, the Vice Presidential nominee, will return from a swing thru New England and eastern states to speak at Centralia on Oct. 3. He also will appear the next day in St. Louis and at Rock Island on Oct. 5. Gov. Warren will address the John Ericsson League at Rockford on Oct. 3.

Women to Hear Mrs. Luce.

The Clare Boothe Luce address will be before a huge women's rally on Oct. 13 in Orchestra hall. Arrangements for this meeting are in charge of the Republican women's groups of Cook county and Illinois.

The Republican state ticket, headed by Gov. Green, will attend an all-day celebration today in Moline. Gov. Green will make a radio address at 3:30 p. m. over the Rock Island station. All Republican state caravans will join again Friday for a rally at the Abraham Lincoln hotel in Springfield. They will visit Champaign and Rantoul Saturday.

The caravan headed by Lyons and including Arnold P. Benson, candidate for secretary of state, and Conrad F. Becker, candidate for state treasurer, will visit Galena, Freeport, and Rockford tomorrow; Belvidere, Oregon, and Mount Carroll on Tuesday; Dixon, Sterling, and Morrison on Wednesday, and Mendota, Earlville, Streator, and La Salle on Thursday. Gov. Green will attend the Sterling and Morrison meetings.

The caravan headed by Lt. Gov. Cross and including Atty. Gen. Barrett and State Auditor Lueder, all candidates for reëlection, will be at Sycamore, Woodstock, and Waukegan tomorrow; Highland Park, Geneva, and Elgin on Tuesday; Wheaton, Wednesday, and at Leland, Earlville, Streator, and La Salle Thursday.

Baby to Be Named for Two Cops Who Delivered Her

A healthy baby girl, born Friday night to Mrs. Jean Grzyb, 24, of 1821 Augusta blvd., wife of a service man now overseas, will be named Maxine Josephine in honor of the two policemen who assisted Mrs. Grzyb during the birth, her mother said. The two policemen, Joseph Duffy and Max Christ, both are from the Racine av. station. The birth is the ninth one in which Christ has assisted in the last five years.

Candidate Calls on Supporters

CITIZENS' GROUP FORMED TO BACK LYONS IN RACE

Organization of a Citizens' Committee for Richard J. Lyons, Republican candidate for United States senator, was announced yesterday by Hopewell L. Rogers, chairman of the board of the Belden Manufacturing company and former president of the American Newspaper Publishers association, who will serve as chairman.

Lyons took time from his downstate campaign tour to confer yesterday with Rogers and other officers and members of the committee at the opening of committee offices at 105 Madison st.

"We shall enlist the support of independent thinking men and women thruout the state," announced Chairman Rogers. "As the first step in the committee's activities a letter is going to 25,000 citizens of the state."

Committee members include Vern E. Alden, Frederick H. Bartlett, Donald F. Bowey, Charles M. Burgess, James R. Cardwell, Sheldon Clark, David A. Copeland, Maynard G. Fessenden, Arthur Greene, W. Homer Hartz, George S. Householder, Whipple Jacobs, Paul R. Kuhn, Dr. Martin G. Luken, A. King McCord, Harold O. McLain, Edmund F. Mansure, Leslie E. Mickle, Walter H. Neff, Alfred O'Gara, Henry Pope Jr., Elmer Rich, Frank W. Schwinn, W. Converse Staley, Claude U. Stone, Charles Weinfeld, Barrett Wendell, former Judge James H. Wilkerson, and Horace C. Wright.

Radio Tube Seller Breaks Price Ceilings, OPA Says

The office of price administration yesterday filed suit in federal District court for an injunction to restrain Paul Reisz, operator of Paul's Radio accessories, 4425 Drexel blvd., from violating price ceiling regulations in the sale of radio tubes and to enjoin him from making so-called tie-in sales, in which customers are obliged to purchase an unneeded article in order to obtain tubes.

Cosmetician Association Opens Convention Today

The 25th annual convention of the American Cosmeticians National Association will open today in the Morrison hotel. The silver anniversary will be celebrated by a presentation of hair styles of the last quarter century and a demonstration of post-war styles designed to appeal to returning G. I. Joes.

MOTHERLY CAT LETS PUBLICITY GO TO HER HEAD

Ever since the first newspaper emerged from the hand press, the reading public has been regaled with stories of the tabby cat's boundless maternal affection. Sometimes it would be a baby chick she mothered. Again it would be a puppy. A Memphis cat, within memory, adopted a young chipmunk. A Louisiana tabby once was reported to have taken in a friendless eel. It has remained, however, for Seppy, the Fort Sheridan separation center's cat, to provide the old tale with a new ending.

About a week ago, Seppy adopted a baby rabbit that had wandered onto the reservation. A mama rabbit couldn't have made it feel more at home. Seppy kept her four kittens from scuffing it up and saw that it got its share of food. Officers and men at the center were so touched by this that yesterday they got the post photographer to take a picture. Seppy stood still for the photo, a visual record of her big heartedness. Then when the camera man had gone away, she licked her chops, bared her fangs, and pounced.

It is an ending at once realistic and thought provoking. One wonders how the chick, the puppy, the chipmunk, and the eel made out.

$1,500 BRACELET MISSING.

Mrs. N. J. De Sarder of Dallas, Tex., reported to police yesterday that a $1,500 diamond bracelet disappeared from her purse in a dresser drawer in the Drake hotel, where she registered Wednesday.

BRICKER URGES U.S. LEAD WORLD TO KEEP PEACE

Advocates a Court to Settle Disputes.

Boston, Mass., Sept. 23 (AP).—Gov. Bricker today came out for enforcement of world peace by force, if necessary.

First, however, the Republican candidate for Vice President told the Massachusetts G. O. P. convention, "vigilant attention" should be given to incipient trouble and elimination of friction between nations.

He also advocated establishment of a world court "wherein justiciable questions will be decided," and added, "adequate machinery should be always available for arbitration and conciliation of international disputes."

Bricker, in this, his last major speech of an eastern tour that began Sept. 18, said the United States should assume leadership "in organizing to preserve the peace."

A Stake in World Order.

America, he said, "woud be recreant to our trust, never forgiven nor entitled to forgiveness" should it not take the initiative. This nation, he remarked, "has always had a tremendous stake in world order and stability."

Amplifying his position on preventing world wars, the aspirant to the Vice Presidency told his fellow Republicans:

"In great conflagrations, backfires are often built. Incipient wars must be put down by persuasion or economic pressure. When this cannot be done our country must be willing to join with others if necessary to prevent small wars from becoming big ones."

Asked at a press conference if he believed "force" should be used, Bricker replied:

"If necessary, yes."

Calls for Preparedness.

He complained in his convention speech that this nation had not kept itself prepared to cope with developments threatening peace and world order.

Bricker said the United States must "attack the very causes of war—the problems of currency, of credit, of markets, of trade relations, boundaries, and a hundred other problems."

But before attempting to assume world leadership, he continued, "we must help ourselves."

In the evening Bricker wound up his speaking engagements at Norwalk, Conn., in the congressional district of Rep. Claire Boothe Luce. There he reiterated his statement that "the New Dealers are speaking only of unemployment in the postwar era" and that a Republican national administration would stimulate industry to provide full employment.

Bricker tomorrow will go to Cleveland, O., to spend two days attending a meeting of the supreme council Scottish Rite Masons of which he is a member. He will arrive in Columbus, O., Wednesday.

SIX PAIRS OF NYLONS STOLEN.

Albert Turner, of 6738 Merrill av., told police yesterday that burglars looted his apartment of $40, jewelry, a radio, and six pairs of nylon hosiery worth $175 while he and his wife were visiting in Michigan.

Vitamins stripped for action . . .
a fighting job by Mr. Cellophane

SEVEN TABLETS OF ASCORBIC ACID . . . each one equivalent to the Vitamin C content of 4 ounces of orange juice . . . are wrapped in a thin strip of Sylvania cellophane. These vitamin units see active duty the world over—giving nourishment to war victims. Ascorbic Acid is tricky to handle . . . easily attacked by air, water and moisture vapor. The tablets must be kept dry and airtight! So, this special cellophane strip was developed—a triumph in protection!

Right now much of our cellophane is at war—appearing on all fronts in many vital roles. But the many far-reaching discoveries Sylvania Industrial is making today will result in more uses for cellophane—and better cellophane—in the postwar tomorrow.

REDS AND ROOSEVELT.

What do the American Communists see in the fourth term which commands the all-out support they give it? Not what the New Dealers call the social gains. That, in the Red formula, is pigeon food. Not what the union labor leaders supporting Mr. Roosevelt regard as favorable labor law, even more favorably administered. The Communists enjoyed seeing a plant executive carried from his office to the street. However, it was only a token. Not the subsidizing of agriculture. Communism has other ways of quieting discontented elements. It does not pay them.

The American Communists have not given up their identity as a party and attached themselves to Mr. Roosevelt's party in admiration of New Deal accomplishments. In Red philosophy these are crumbs scattered by a bourgeois society trying to divert attention from its sins and cover up its corruption. These trivia would not interest the Communists except as symptoms. The Reds dropped their political identity and merged with Mr. Roosevelt's party in anticipation of what the fourth term will do, not in gratitude for what the other three have done.

The fourth term would span an era of collectivist opportunity. The Communists stake their judgment and their chances on the belief that the Roosevelt revolutionaries are prepared to take full advantage of these opportunities. Soon, if ever, will be the time for the planned society. Mr. Browder's whole purpose in life is to establish the Communist system in the United States. As he looks over the country here is what he sees:

There is a war boom, a false prosperity shared by many people. Under the worst economic stimulant the national income has risen. There are more than 60 billion dollars in the time and demand accounts of individuals, partnerships, and corporations in the national banks. At the same time the national debt has risen to 210 billions, and a 300 billion debt is anticipated. Great corporations are engaged in working on government contracts, and are therefore government shops. The government itself has a plant investment at one time estimated at 25 billion. More than 10 million men in uniform have been taken from their occupations. This is an economic structure on stilts which are to be knocked out from under.

There will be men seeking employment in the near future, workers seeking pay raises, money seeking commodities, manufacturers seeking materials, industries seeking their old markets. It can be a period of the liveliest confusion at the best. It can also be one of the wildest apprehensions. The Communists observe that when the question of conversion from war uses to peace uses was being given a preliminary consideration in Washington, Donald Nelson of the war production board was sent to China, and Charles Wilson, second in charge, resigned as the only thing he could do in the circumstances in which he found himself. Mr. Roosevelt, having created this situation, appointed J. A. Krug, trained in the TVA school of socialism.

This young commissar, raising his standard of authority, said there would be no quarrelsome divergences of opinion under him. The Communists could note that collectivism had won the first round in the office which controls industry. The revolutionary objective is to create conditions in which private management must seem to fail to provide both products and employment. The planned society would then have its innings. In the prevailing uncertainty and anxiety people vainly seeking work and consumers vainly seeking goods would, it is supposed, be willing to accept the government as employer and producer, that is, accept state capitalism for private capitalism.

The planned society was born prematurely in Mr. Roosevelt's first term. It was talked about too much. The people had not been disciplined to it and it was politically inadvisable to push it too hard. Since then the people have been disciplined. The war took care of that. They now are familiar with executive orders. They know rationing and priorities. They study Washington dictates to find out what they can buy, how much, and at what price. They have become accustomed to regulation of work and wages. If their experiences, right after the war, even with the half peace, should be hard and their fears excessive, they might be persuaded that the only solution of their difficulties was to accept governmental control of the means of production and of the investments which keep production going.

That is the prospectus which has commanded the support of the Communists for the Roosevelt party. Their assistance has been received sympathetically by organized Roosevelt revolutionaries and they suppose their help has also been received intelligently. They and their fellow travelers are experts at this business and consequently, if it gets going, they can expect to have a guiding hand in it at the beginning and probably a controling hand at the finish. In Mr. Roosevelt they recognize a man of congenial temperament who has gained a great deal of experience in their manner of procedure.

The fourth term candidate long ago acknowledged that he had forged instruments of power which might be dangerous in the hands of other men. He has learned how to tell an army officer to take over a factory, a store, a street railway, or a trucking company. He is sufficiently dictatorial. He has told congress: "If you don't do this I will." He is a good candidate for the Communists. They have joined his party and have great hopes of his intentions and of his future conduct.

A fourth term is the only chance for the success of communism in this country. All its followers, admirers, imitators, and adaptors are in the fourth term party, all the part time Communists, full time planners, half way collectivists, Keynes economists, the many theorists, and the professional mourners at the grave of capitalism, an institution which, they say, has passed away in its late maturity. They all have their eyes on Mr. Roosevelt, on his spending capacity, on the national debt and ways to increase it, on the private bank accounts and ways to tax them, and on the potential of economic chaos after the fighting stops and war production ends.

This is the golden opportunity. It is what the Communists see in the fourth term and its candidate.

SUCCESS STORY.

The death early this month of George Alexander Hughes brought to light a success story which deserves the widest attention. Hughes was a Fargo boy. Thirty-five years ago he lost his shirt in Minneapolis in the cement block business which had quite a vogue at the time. Then he came to Chicago and was scratching around for something with which to get a fresh start in life. One day he happened to read a magazine article telling of the electrical properties of a new alloy, nickel-chromium, and remembered that people back home in North Dakota where fuel was scarce had often spoken of their hopes that the day would come when they could cook with electricity. And so the boy from North Dakota determined that he would make his comeback with electric cook stoves.

Arthur Wagner, whose electric motor shop was then on South Dearborn street, gave him permission to hang around the shop to get pointers and it was there, on a gasoline stove bought at Siegel & Cooper's and rebuilt to use Hughes' electric heater, that the first electric cooking was done. When he thought he had everything set Hughes, who was little better than a monkey wrench mechanic, rented a loft on West Superior street over an egg candling establishment. Laboriously he built five ranges. Instead of trying to sell them to a dealer here he loaded them in his car and drove to St. Louis, where he displayed them at the 1910 National Electric Light association convention. At the close of the convention he was able to get the $50,000 in capital he needed to found the Hughes Electric Heating company.

The manufacturer of the new gadget traveled thruout the country demonstrating his invention to housewives. The enterprise was soon placed on a profitable basis. Earnings were plowed back into the business for the next eight years. In 1918 he was able to sell out to General Electric for $850,000, giving his backers $17 for each dollar that they had put in. General Electric merged subsidiaries making electric irons and table appliances with the electric stove factory and made Hughes head of the whole thing.

The success of George Alexander Hughes resulted only in part from his native ability and his good luck. What he did was possible because he made his invention at a time when people could afford to risk $50,000 in a venture which might not have succeeded. There was no income tax at all when he got his start. Now backers of new enterprises have to pay substantially all of their profits to the government, if there are any, while bearing the risk of loss. That is why new business incorporations now are at the lowest level of our lifetime.

Moreover, with existing corporate taxes running up to 95 per cent, no little concern can start with $50,000 and by plowing back earnings emerge as a million dollar enterprise a few years later. The government takes the bulk of corporate profits, too. Small new enterprises either stay small or fail. The other alternative to become big has been closed by the tax laws.

The Hughes experience was not unique. Henry Ford, who had more to do with the growth of the automobile industry than any other man, started out with capital of $28,000. He was able to get that support because the capitalists in 1903 could count on receiving and retaining their full share of profits if there were any. They can no longer count upon any such thing. Donald Douglas, starting in 1921 with $15,000, developed the most successful airplane business in the world. Douglas needed only a little more than half as much as Ford to start his business and only a little more than a quarter as much as Hughes needed to start his.

Note that Hughes succeeded where the big electric equipment companies with millions at their command had failed until that time. Note that Ford succeeded in passenger automobiles where some of the giant companies, International Harvester to mention one, had tried unsuccessfully. Note that Douglas with $15,000 succeeded in the airplane business tho Ford could not make a go of the airplane business, tho he has run his $28,000 into a billion making automobiles.

The small business concern ought to provide one of the greatest laboratories for new products and new ideas. Big companies cannot be depended upon to produce successfully all the new things or to hire all the available labor in our growing population. Over the years a long list of articles has been developed by poor men who were able to get risk capital to back them, and millions of new jobs were created. In industry the present level of taxes on new risk capital gives a protection to large corporations which already have all the capital they can use. This is not only unfair to inventors and unfair to those who could find jobs if enterprises starting small could expand as they used to, but is unfair to the public which is denied access to the product of present day obscure Fords, Douglases, and Hugheses who cannot get capital to back them.

Test Your Horse Sense

Select the answers which you consider best. The last problem counts five points. Then look for the correct answers below.

1. A sartorial expert would normally work on which part of you?
   Adenoids Shoes Appendix Clothes
2. A hanging nest would be most typical of which bird? Wren Crow Oriole Martin
3. A hippodrome should make one think of which type of program?
   Political Religious Patriotic Circus
4. A Bordeaux mixture is usually associated with which workman?
   Gardener Physician Chef Painter
5. Which one of these acids is usually found in the pantry or kitchen?
   Nitric Muriatic Acetic Sulphuric
6. Churches not only memorialize Christ, but also are indirect monuments to certain of His followers. Military leaders may also be honored with monuments, but the latter are "static," not "functional." You deserve one point each for distinguishing between the five men named below as regards those who have left "functional" and those who have left "static" memorials to our towns and villages.

	Functional.	Static.
Napoleon	....	....
Loyola	....	....
Roger Williams	....	....
Martin Luther	....	....
Charlemagne	....	....

Score yourself as follows: 0-2, poor; 3-6, average; 7-8, superior; 9-10, very superior. [Note—The last question counts five points.]

[Reg. U. S. Pat. Off.: Copyright: By The Chicago Tribune.]

ANSWERS.

1. Clothes [tailor]. 2. Oriole. 3. Circus. 4. Gardener. 5. Acetic [vinegar]. 6. Napoleon and Charlemagne have only "static" monuments, while Loyola, Roger Williams, and Martin Luther are largely responsible for the Catholic, the Baptist, and the Lutheran churches dotting America.

THE PHILIPPINES

[Following is the address delivered last night by Col. Robert R. McCormick, editor and publisher of The Tribune, on the Chicago Theater of the Air over W-G-N, WGNB, and the Mutual Broadcasting system.]

BY COL. ROBERT R. McCORMICK.

On Feb. 14, 1898, I was in Washington, with an appointment to call upon Assistant Secretary of the Navy Theodore Roosevelt the next day to be shown models of American warships. That night the Maine was blown up. I remained in Washington long enough to hear the speech of Sen. Mason of Illinois advocating war with Spain.

Returning to school in New England, I found local public opinion very much against the war. One kindly old gentleman asked me if the western war fever was not caused by hopes for army pensions!

As American history was not then taught in the schools or colleges, and has not been taught since, it was long before I knew that New Englanders, quietly ensconced in their tight little group of states engaged in shipping and manufacturing, had always been opposed to the expansion of the country, and held a totally different point of view from the pioneers who had traveled for many years and endured many hardships to make the American nation.

It has rightfully been said of the latter: "These men loved the United States with the hot passion of youth. They cherished no illusion that democracy or freedom could live under any other form of government. They held an implicit faith, which acted upon them with the force of some deep religious conviction, in the unbounded future of the American nation." These were the men who demanded the war with Spain and later the retention of the Philippines.

At that time I heard much debate and read the newspapers on the Cuban question and even the Puerto Rican question, but I have no recollection whatsoever of having heard a mention of the Philippines until the morning of May 2 the nation was electrified by the news of Dewey's victory at Manila.

The victory gave Dewey possession of Manila bay and of the naval base of Cavite.

He needed troops to hold this base. They were dispatched, and so was the ironclad monitor Monadnock.

To secure a half way base, Hawaii, which had been refused admission to the union, was now annexed.

Aguinaldo, whom Dewey landed on Luzon and supplied with arms, rapidly secured all of the island outside of Manila, which he put under siege.

The Spanish governor offered to give the Philippines self-government if Aguinaldo would accept Spanish sovereignty. He declared in reply that he would be the dictator of the Philippines until freedom had been won. The governor of the Philippines and the commanding general in Manila, now in a hopeless position, preferred to surrender to the Americans.

When the time came to translate our victories into a peace treaty, it was considered unthinkable to turn the Philippines back to Spain, and it was generally felt that without any experience in self-government the Filipinos could not govern themselves.

To prevent them from being transferred to Germany, Great Britain went to great lengths to influence American public opinion, using her contacts with American millionaires and employing Rudyard Kipling's facile pen to produce the emotional poem "Take Up the White Man's Burden." For such reasons and for such emotions, the United States bought the islands for 20 million dollars.

Japan also preferred American ownership to ownership by the great military power of Germany, upon whose model Japan had based her own military system. Japan then, as afterward, had no influence in American politics, but Japan's friendship at this moment was in part responsible for the violent pro-Japanese sentiment which was worked up in this country at the time of the Japanese war against America's traditional friend, Russia.

As soon as the senate approved the treaty, the Filipino army surrounding Manila opened fire.

If the Americans had possessed arms equal to those the Filipinos had captured from the Spanish, the action might have been confined to firing from the opposing trenches, while efforts at peaceful accommodation were undertaken, but with the Filipinos armed with Spanish smokeless Mausers so superior in range and rapidity of fire to the American black powdered Springfields, the Americans were compelled to attack, as it were, in self-defense.

No way of ending hostilities was found until resistance had been completely overcome.

In 1896 the Presidential election had turned on the question of the free coinage of silver. This was now swept into the background and President McKinley made the annexation of the Philippines his principal issue, and Mr. Bryan campaigned on a platform of anti-imperialism, with a following which afterward turned into the pacifists as we have known them for 40 years, and then to the interventionists of yesterday. McKinley was elected.

Legislation for the government of the Philippines did not follow the territorial precedents, leading to the question "whether the Constitution follows the flag" overseas. The Supreme court upheld the legislation in perhaps the weakest opinion ever delivered by that exalted body.

The first government, of course, was military, and it is significant of the times that it permitted habeas corpus.

With the formation of the first civil government, the Philippine commission, the policy was immediately adopted of joining Filipinos in the administration.

No monopolies exploited by bond labor, such as characterized the British and Dutch colonies, were ever permitted. On the contrary, complete reciprocity between the two countries was established in 1909.

Oppressive government, such as the European empires have conducted in Africa and Asia, was never introduced. Not without friction, not without scandal in Gov. Harrison's administration, the policy of turning the government over to the Filipinos was continuous, culminating in 1933 in the Tydings act, providing for complete freedom in 1946.

In anticipation of the responsibility of independence, the Filipinos began the organization of an army under command of Gen. MacArthur. The organization had not proceeded far when the Japanese invaded, and was unable to do more than to put up the epic resistance of Bataan, which glorified the otherwise disgraceful allied campaigns in the Western Pacific.

It is now reported by the Tokyo radio that guerrilla resistance is growing. This is excellent news, as it has been formally announced by Adm. Nimitz that Gen. MacArthur is on his way back to free the Philippines.

Without wearying you with statistics, there is certain information you should have. Of the 15 million odd inhabitants, some 4 million speak English; 1 million speak Spanish, and there are 64 different languages and dialects on the islands. There are approximately 7,000 islands, totaling 114,000 square miles.

Col. Lanza says MacArthur will land on Mindanao, and we know it is his determination and the determination of this country that he go back to Bataan.

There he will have an enormous harbor for the navy and there he will erect ample air fields for its protection. He will be within 600 miles of the Chinese mainland and within 1,500 miles of Japan proper. He will cut off Japan from the rubber and petroleum resources which she so easily captured from the British and Dutch, and from rice producing, formerly French, Indo-China.

Whether the blockade of Japan from there and from the Aleutian Islands, together with bombing raids, will be sufficient to compel her surrender, I am unable to say.

PARENTS MUST ACCEPT THEIR RESPONSIBILITIES.

THE home is the citadel of our liberties. Therein, parents have the blessed privilege of teaching their offspring veneration for the flag. In addition, they can inculcate the principles which make for loyal manhood and womanhood.

We must take some account, however, of the fact that juvenile delinquency is rising and hunt out the weaknesses that are at fault. For the most part, the indictment will point straight to our own individual firesides. The adult members of the household have either neglected their duties or are constitutionally unable to perform them. There is no honest, conscientious father or mother who will fail—by example and precept—to impress the basic truths of right living upon their sons and daughters.

But our schools can do much. Most of us can remember when we were fortunate enough to have teachers whose word was law, whose authority was unquestioned. If the family disagreed, the "schoolmarm" was always right. Thus there were established sound ethical principles which made for harmony and personal responsibility.

We may all pity the child who is obliged to confront disunity in the home, with a squabble every day and a battle once a month. He just does not know which way to turn. Affections become mixed and confused. Furthermore, there is likely to arise the urge to play one parent against the other. Such a youngster loses the wholesome lessons of life.

There is about as much damage done by the mother who is oversolicitous and who steadfastly refuses to allow her young hopeful to adapt himself under his own power. The statement, "My Henry needs me so badly and is so dependent upon me," is a frank admission that unless Henry declares his independence, he will become a leaner for the remainder of his life. It is so easy to start doing things for youngsters, which they should do for themselves. Such tendencies usually develop following an illness when anxiety displays itself in acts which are detrimental to the little one.

There is no advantage, even tho it makes a good topic of conversation at the bridge table or the ladies' aid society, in relating the performances of the precocious tot, despite the fact that his IQ is 140 or higher, Any lad will have a fight on his hands to keep from becoming a failure if he is pushed too vigorously. I can recall a dozen children who were so bright that they were permitted to skip a grade. Each and every one was handicapped thereafter.

An ideal situation is for every boy to have access to a shop somewhere in the neighborhood. There should be a reasonable supply of tools. The lad and his companions can work out plans and employ creative instincts. For girls, there should be some form of activity which offers real interest. There must also be enough outdoor play to stretch muscles and exercise the skeleton.

The goal, "healthy minds in healthy bodies," can be met if our progeny are permitted to develop naturally. Good books are guideposts to the flowering of ideas. The young man who grows up without an acquaintance with "Robinson Crusoe," "The Swiss Family Robinson," the stories of Oliver Optic, of G. A. Henty, and Frank Castlemon has missed a world of adventure.

Nature study offers countless intriguing episodes. In this way, the basic concepts of biology can be acquired in the primary grades. No one who knows plants and animals can be an atheist.

HE WOULD LIKE TO GO INTO BUSINESS.

Oswego, Ore., Sept. 15.—When I get thru with the war, I want to go into business. To that end I have a substantial sum of money in the bank sufficient to finance a not too large independent business operation. Coupled with that, I feel I have sufficient ability to conduct such a business. But the imponderables, the uncertainties of the future as it now looms, scare the pants off me. Never before has any one desiring to get established in business been under a government which so closely regulated the life and death of his economic activities. Worst of all, what business man can sit down, survey the situation, and say to himself, "Well, this is the way it is going to be for this year, or for the next five years." No one can predict the rules governing business for so much as a week, so far as my observation pertains. No one can feel certain that his enterprise will be intact five years from now.

I believe the Democratic party has been directly responsible for all of our wars for the past century. We all know we have been edged into the last two world wars under Democratic Presidents, both of whom promised to keep us out. That seems to establish and identify the American war party. Our panics and depressions of the last century have either occurred under Democratic administrations or have been prolonged by them. Never have we enjoyed "good times," never have people been sure of their jobs, never has freedom of individual opportunity prevailed under the Democrats.

Don't let us be fooled by the present situation of full employment and feverish activity. Every one of us now in uniform is essentially unemployed, since we are not engaged in sound, productive activity. Any individual can go down to the bank, hock his life insurance, and live over his head with the proceeds for a time, but inexorably he has to pay for his fun. That is just what the United States is doing, but most seem to think we won't have to pay the bill. I don't think I dare go into business unless there is a change in administration and more surety as to the future.

COMMANDER-IN-CHIEF WHEN EXPEDIENT?

Brookfield, Ill., Sept. 17.—I see that Sen. Lucas says Gov. Dewey has no business criticizing the President for not sending more help to Gen. MacArthur in the Pacific. The senator says that the whole grand strategy of the war is thought out by our top army and navy men. He says he knows because he is on the senate committee that has to do with such affairs, and he has heard them testify.

Well, now, that leaves us in a quandary if we believe the senator, because some of us thought the President, or commander-in-chief, was planning all the over-all military maneuvers when he was taking those jaunts to the North Atlantic, Cassablanca, Teheran, and the recent trip to Quebec.

Has the senator fallen into the belief that everybody is stupid enough to accept such stuff as he gave out to explain why Gen. MacArthur has been denied the war material he needed?

LAURENCE GROSS.

ROOSEVELT REMOVED "THE SILLY OLD DOLLAR SIGN."

Rapid City, S. D., Sept. 15.—In criticizing the government for failing to secure future rights and privileges to use air bases and other protectives in foreign lands that have been built and paid for by the United States, one voter told me that the immense sums expended were from lend-lease funds and would ultimately be paid back to us.

Is not this contention wrong? Are there not large balances due our country for monies advanced 25 years ago for war purposes and, with the exception of Finland, have not the other debtors failed to come across with even partial payments for many years?

APPLY TO THE COMMANDER IN CHIEF.

Chicago, Sept. 18.—The Tribune last Sunday printed an editorial emphasizing how many people up to now are employed by UNRRA and what their annual salaries are. Who decides on the qualifications and ability of these individuals and what is the nationality of those employed now?

This is just plain curiosity on the part of a taxpayer and hard working man who never had a chance to get one of those jobs where there is no work attached.

CURIOUS.

THEY PLANNED EVERYTHING ELSE.

Berwyn, Ill., Sept. 13.—All this confusion over post-war planning could have been avoided, had this administration [namely, F. D. R.] done some prewar planning toward keeping us out of this mess.

J. J. PECKA.

MORE ON GEN. FORREST.

Urbana, Ill., Sept. 13.—Mr. J. F. Brownlow of Knoxville, Tenn., in a letter published in the Voice of the People Sept. 10, recounts the recollections of Gov. Isham Harris as told to his father, concerning the story of the resignation of the Confederate Gen. Forrest, and of its being averted by a promotion to the rank of lieutenant general. Somebody's memory has played tricks on him, and Mr. Brownlow's account is in error in several places.

To begin with, Forrest was relieved of his command at the time he was a brigadier general, being ordered by Gen. Bragg to turn over his troops to Gen. Wheeler. This was in September, 1863, just after the battle of Chickamauga. [Bragg's order is in the official records.] There was a rumor that Forrest resigned from the service at this time, but I can find no evidence of a resignation, and much reason to support Wyeth's statement that Forrest did not offer to resign his commission. Jefferson Davis had Forrest meet him in Montgomery, Ala., where Forrest got a new assignment. Three months later [Dec. 4, 1863] at Okolona, Miss., Forrest received his appointment as major general.

His promotion to lieutenant general came when the war was almost over, and after Hood's disastrous defeat before Nashville, even after the rout and retreat to Alabama. In fact, his commission reached him on Feb. 28, 1865, [less than two months before Appomattox], Forrest being near West Point, Miss., at the time, and Wheeler no longer with the army in the west.

Hence, Gov. Harris' recollection of going to Richmond, getting the commission, returning to Nashville, sending for Forrest, and handing it to him, is scarcely dependable, Nashville being then in the hands of Union troops, and Forrest far away. Had either Harris or Forrest appeared in Nashville they would have been imprisoned.

The conversation that gave rise to the misquotation of Forrest "fustest with mostest" is reported by the reliable Basil Duke in his "Reminiscences." Duke was present when Forrest said, "I tuck the short cut, and got there first with the most."

ROBERT BROWNE.

FALA'S ANTICS.

Des Moines, Ia., Sept. 18.—The news from Quebec is gratifying: International affairs in good hands. As an earnest of this situation I quote from an Associated Press dispatch: "Fala, the Presidential scottie, went thru all his tricks today for Prime Minister and Mrs. Churchill. Mrs. Roosevelt put him thru his paces after a formal picture taking at the Citadel. The scottie sat up and begged for food; rolled over on command, and, when Mrs. Roosevelt bent and extended her arm, quickly jumped over it."

I think these cunning canine antics are susceptible of a broader interpretation than disclosed by the dispatch quoted. When Fala begged for food, he may have imagined himself an undernourished burocrat. When Fala rolled over on command, it is possible he was trying to imitate Henry Wallace, who was given a sensational runaround at the recent New Deal Chicago convention. When Fala leaped over Eleanor's outstretched arm, perhaps he was trying to symbolize the easy grace and felicity with which the White House commandress in chief can climb the highest mountain, or cross the widest sea, or circumnavigate the globe, unembarrassed by gas rationing.

DIRTY SUBWAYS.

Chicago, Sept. 12.—The littering of newspapers, candy and gum wrappers, and the numberless matches, and cigarets to be found on platforms and railways of the Chicago subway make one feel Chicagoans are not a tidy people.

None of this did I observe in the New York subways. New Yorkers know they are not allowed to enter the system with a lighted cigaret in hand, nor are they permitted to light a cigaret until the street is reached. Some method of bringing home to the people of Chicago that the subway they use must be kept neat and orderly should be found.

A FLORIDA VISITOR.

ROOSEVELT ON INDISPENSABILITY.

Alton, Ill., Sept. 19.—A very good answer to the indispensable man argument is a statement made by the fourth term candidate himself before he entered the White House. At Madison Square Garden, Nov. 5, 1932, "Eleanor's husband" said: "The genius of America is stronger than any candidate or party. This campaign, hard as it has been, has not shattered my sense of humor or my sense of proportion. I still know that the fate of America cannot depend on any one man. The greatness of America is grounded in principles and not on any single personality. I, for one, shall remember that as President." O yeah?

JIM MACK.

SEABEES DISCUSS ARMY WIVES.

SOLOMON ISLANDS, Sept. 4.—In response to the letter, "Why Army Wives Crack Up," in the Aug. 19 edition of your newspaper, we wish to voice our opinion. We have been overseas long enough to know that we don't play volley ball or tennis every day at 4 o'clock, or attend Red Cross dances every week, play bridge with the nurses in the evenings, and go to the officers' club for a beer whenever we please. We can only buy a few cans of beer every week; we have no Red Cross dances to attend, and the only entertainment we have are movies and USO shows which we very seldom see.

She says, "It isn't so bad to live out of the mail bag the first year." Doesn't she know that many men, if they had their choice, would rather live out of that mail bag instead of the C-ration cans that seem so plentiful out here? She says, "A letter is just a piece of paper with no heart, no voice, no circulatory system." She should be here at mail call to see the disappointed look on some faces when they don't receive those so-called heartless letters.

We don't expect our wives to stop living and lie quietly on the shelf until we come home to "dust them off." But neither do we care to have them going to night clubs and dine and dance places at every opportunity and then have them write to us about the swell times they had.

You bet it takes a lot of emotional stability not to go berserk under the conditions in which we live. We are sick of the rain, heat, and mud of these islands and the thing we want most when this mess is over with is to come home to live and let live. We, also, are desolate, desperately lonely, and bewildered, but we're not crying about it. We are grateful to the thousands who understand and sympathize, but we have nothing but scorn for wives like her.

FEAST OR FAMINE.

Park Ridge, Ill., Sept. 18.—I went to visit my daughter in Harvard, Ill., in the greatest milk producing county in the state. My daughter has three children, 7, 5, and 9 months. They cried for butter on their bread, but had to eat their bread without.

Not long ago they had so much butter they had to dump it because it became rancid. I have two boys in service and don't mind going without myself, but how about our children?

Friend of the YANKS

[Draft, military, and veterans' questions are answered here or by mail if a stamped envelope is sent. Personal advice and assistance are given veterans by appointment.]

D. F. W. writes: "When I was discharged from the army, my discharge was all mixed up. Is there any way to get it straightened out now?"

We are sending you the proper application to execute to have your discharge reviewed by the war department's board of review. You send the completed form together with your original discharge papers and any statements or affidavits you care to submit substantiating your claims to the adjutant general's office. From there it goes to the board of review for action. The application [W. D. Form 94, 1944] is available from this department on request.

E. A. writes: In a recent letter from one of our boys overseas, he asks a lot of questions about bonuses, the G. I. law, and homesteads, but I have not been able to find any material. Can you tell me where to obtain it?"

Perhaps the best thing to do is to send us a stamped envelope addressed to the Yank and we will mail the material directly to him.

MISINFORMED.

Chicago, Sept. 16.—Fifteen years ago my wife left me to return to her former home in another state. I have not heard from her or anything about her in all that time. Is it true, as I have been told, that I was free to remarry seven years after she left me?

S. P.

There is no such rule of law. No matter how long the separation continues, the new marriage would be invalid if the former spouse is still living and undivorced.

CABINET SPLIT OVER PLANS TO WRECK GERMANY

Break Up All Industry, Morganthau Urges.

their own way as best they could out of the wreckage of their war on Europe.

6. Prolonged control of Germany by an allied or allied military commission.

7. No outright reparations—since a German agricultural state with little or no commerce would not be able to pay them—altho distribution of German machinery might be considered as reparations in som respects.

The principal criticisms whi have been leveled against this pla by war and state department plan ners is that it will not work because Germany occupies a key position in European economy due to her industrial capacity to produce needed goods and because of the markets she affords other European countries.

Until Morgenthau dropped his proposals in the hopper and won Presidential support for them, i had been tentatively planned th Germany would be permitted function as an industrial state aft surrender but under allied milita and economic controls that woul deny her any opportunity to be come a great war making state.

Stirs Up Controversy.

To date Morgenthau's plan has served chiefly as a basis for hot arguments in the secret sessions of war, state, treasury, and other government agency experts charged with evolving practical controls for the Germany of the future. It has been instrumental also in bringing about modifications of the basic handbook being prepared by the government for the guidance of military administrators in post-war Germany.

Post-war Germany is defined by these experts as the German state which will come into existence sometime after the armistice. The first period of German occupation already is beginning with the advance of allied armies onto German soil. It was with this period in mind that Gen. Eisenhower as allied supreme commander yesterday announced directives for control of Germany by allied combat commanders.

It now is expected Eisenhower will serve as American military chief in the reich until the second period of ocupation sets in after the war, but whether that period will be one of three way occupation under a three power commission as originally planned or whether it will follow the Morgenthau plan more closely evidently now remains to be determined.

Advocate of Ruthlessness.

Morgenthau always has been regarded by his associates as an advocate of ruthless handling of Germany after the war. His interest in detailed planning, however, is reported to stem from his trip to England and France a month and a half ago.

At that time he became convinced total victory in Europe probably would be achieved relatively soon and the need for decisions on German policy was urgent. Among top British officials he found three broad theories of what ought to be done. One school, reportedly including foreign Secretary Eden, favored ruthless handling; a second, with an eye to Germany's future place in possible European power politics, favored an easy peace to result in a reconstructed but controled German state; the third sought some compromise between these two extremes.

Clash Over Food Needs.

In London also Morgenthau came upon the draft of a booklet designed to instruct allied military government officers in handling German affairs once the reich is completely occupied. One paragraph of this booklet prescribed a daily food allowance for the Germans with a calory value higher than that allowed for the friendly peoples of liberated countries.

On returning to Washington Morgenthau reported this fact to Mr. Roosevelt who thereupon wrote Secretary Stimson directing that the handbook be written to incorporate provisions for a tough handling of Germany. He also created the cabinet committee.

UNRRA Financing

REPORT BARES CHAOS, BUNGLING IN UNRRA DEALS

and detriment of American concerns, according to the report.

Where equipment is to be donated, however, this will be supplied by the United States, the report predicts.

In the Balkan setup the leading American, according to the report, is an obscure small building contractor named Marshall, who never has been outside of the United States, and has little knowledge of industry.

Manager Called Unfit.

"Needless to say," the report states, "this man will be useless and the Englishmen will get away with the bacon.

"The personnel manager of UNRRA [Col. Joseph Harris] is also without foreign experience, absolutely unfit to select the type of personnel needed, a man without sense of values, and a complete failure.

"The director of the bureau of supply [Dr. Roy S. Henderson] likewise knows nothing about foreign lands. The men the British embassy sends to UNRRA, men who will look after British interests, are all able men who have been all over the world and understand and know what to expect and what is expected of them.

"Unfortunately, UNRRA has been unable to select Americans who can match them, and one such man they had, they dismissed because they thought he had too much initiative, was forceful and independent in his views, and believed that the business of an American was to think, to imagine, to create, to produce, and to love his country above all else."

The report charges that in many instances in the determination of needed supplies such as food, clothing, transportation, utilities, medical supplies, and industrial equipment there has been a duplication and overlapping of efforts, at tremendous expense to the American taxpayer, by other agencies such as the foreign economic administration, the office of strategic services and others, who are reluctant to share or make their findings available to UNRRA. Such agencies are jealous of each other and rarely coöperate, it was said.

Efforts Duplicated.

"The whole concept behind UNRRA should be thoroly gone over by keen, international minded, American loving analysts and its direction and administration thoroly investigated," the report urged. "With the end of the war in Europe in sight, it is imperative that this be done immediately. Time is of the essence and the least delay will prove extremely costly to us.

"UNRRA is being used by Great Britain as a means of setting up her post-war foreign trade in a strong and unassailable position. She realizes that her factories can run full and her man power be fully employed only with extensive foreign markets.

"What we need in UNRRA is not politicians and old type department functionaries, but men of great vision, keen understanding in economics and world affairs, with utter selfless devotion to America."

HARRY CHANDLER DIES: PUBLISHER IN LOS ANGELES

Known as Empire Builder on West Coast.

Los Angeles, Cal., Sept. 23 (AP).—Harry Chandler, 80, publisher of the Los Angeles Times, died today after suffering a heart attack.

Harry Chandler.

Despite failing health incident to his advancing years, Chandler had maintained his interest in the Times and spent at least a part of each day in his office up to a short time before he was taken to a hospital last Wednesday.

In 1941 he gave up active management of the Times-Mirror company and was elected chairman of its board of directors. At that time his eldest son, Norman, became president and general manager.

He is survived by two other sons, Philip and Harrison, and by four daughters, Mrs. Earle E. Crowe, Mrs. John Hewitt Garland, Mrs. Frederick W. Williamson, and Mrs. Roger Goodan, and by his widow, Mrs. Marion Otis Chandler, daughter of the late Harrison Gray Otis, former publisher of the Times.

BECAME EMPIRE BUILDER.

Chandler went to California as a youth in search of health and remained there to become an empire builder. For more than half a century he was a leader in the development of southern California and the Los Angeles metropolitan area.

Most widely known as publisher of the Los Angeles Times, he also was a pioneer in the real estate development of the southwest and a national figure in finance and industry. He became associated either as an officer or a director with some three dozen California corporations, including banks, and land, transportation, oil, irrigation, and manufacturing enterprises.

Chandler was a conspicuous advocate of the open shop principle in industry and one of the first employers in the nation to adapt the principles of employment security to the industries under his control.

Prank Brings Ailment.

He was born at Landaff, N. H., May 17, 1854, the son of Moses Knight Chandler and Emma Jane [Little] Chandler. He was in his freshman year at Dartmouth college when a boyish prank gave him a cough that caused him to go to California.

This prank was a plunge thru a coating of ice into a vat of water, which he made on a dare from a cousin. The resulting cough forced him to postpone his education while he sought to recover his health. He went to Los Angeles, where his landlady asked him to vacate his room because his cough annoyed her.

Chandler wandered into the hills, where an old squatter living in a hut two miles north of where Hollywood was later built gave him a job breaking colts. He took his pay in fruit from the old man's little orchard and sold it to threshing crews near Los Angeles. Two years in the open gave him back his strength and in that time he had saved $3,000.

He returned to New England to complete the college course, but with the recurrence of his former malady he returned to Los Angeles at 21 and went to work as a clerk in the circulation department of the Los Angeles Times. He became circulation manager after a few years and later business manager. On June 5, 1894, he married Marian Otis, daughter of Gen. Harrison Gray Otis, then publisher of the Times.

Succeeds Father-in-Law.

Chandler succeeded his father-in-law as publisher of the Times in 1917, and played an important part in the strenuous days thru which the Times passed. When the newspaper plant was wrecked by dynamiters, he stood in the street and outlined plans for rebuilding while watching the ruins.

"I wonder if they think they can put a newspaper like the Times out of business," he remarked. "We'll show them."

In 1909 he organized the Los Angeles Suburban Homes company, which purchased 47,000 acres adjoining the city. Within seven years the entire area was sold. Other syndicates organized by him established an 862,000 acre cotton ranch in Lower California and the 281,000 acre Tejon ranch in Los Angeles and Kern counties.

The newspaper engaged in 1940 and 1941 in a successful battle in the federal courts to upset a contempt conviction that infringed the liberty of the press by restricting editorial comment on pending court cases.

Bullet Search Develops New Mysteries in Drake Murder

BY JAMES DOHERTY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Bloomington, Ill., Sept. 23.—Three developments in the search for ballistics evidence to prove former ownership of the antiquated .38 caliber Iver Johnson hammerless break-open revolver with which a gunwoman killed Mrs. Adele Born Williams added mystery tonight to Chicago's Drake hotel murder case:

1. Investigators ordered a lie detector examination of Walter Brown, a Stateville convict who identified the gunwoman's weapon as a revolver he had in his possession in 1933 and passed on to Adolph Valanis, now a Chicago policeman.

Renew Search Today.

2. Two more shells, altho not of .38 caliber, were found today in soil in which Brown asserted he fired the murder weapon back in 1933. The discovery caused investigators to order a continuation of their search tomorrow in the hope of finding bullets which may match the rifling of the slayer's revolver.

3. Carl Haffner, a druggist at 720 Chestnut st., altered his story about a .25 caliber handsome pearl handled automatic pistol which was believed to have become a possession of Ellen Bennett, a key clerk at the Drake on Jan. 19, when Mrs. Williams was slain.

Charles M. Wilson, head of the Chicago police department's scientific crime detection laboratory, and T. P. Sullivan, state director of public safety, agreed, in view of Haffner's new description of one of the weapons taken from him in a store holdup, that Brown should be subjected to a lie test. They said Leonarde Keeler, expert operator of the lie detector, will make the test as soon as possible.

Brown Back in Prison.

Meanwhile, Brown was taken back to his Stateville prison cell after Circuit Judge W. C. Radliff, before whom he appeared on a writ of habeas corpus, denied his motion for a new trial on a charge of murdering Charles Adams, a deputy sheriff. Brown had contended that he was not adequately represented at his trial in 1933 because, he asserted, his counsel, Atty. Charles Kane of Oak Park, "was drunk in court."

In Oak Park tonight Kane denied the accusation, and disclosed that a year earlier he had defended Brown's brother on a murder charge. Kane said Walter, after his conviction, "appeared satisfied with a life sentence instead of the chair."

Haffner lost two weapons in the store holdup, one a .38 caliber revolver similar to the Drake murder gun, and a pistol. Investigators said his description now indicated the pistol was of German manufacture, and not the pearl handled Colt which Ellen Bennett used in an attempted robbery in Park Ridge in 1939.

Brown Sticks to Story.

Brown asserted a holdup man acquaintance gave him two weapons presumably taken from Haffner. Brown later handed the pistol personally to Valanis, a brother of Ellen Bennett, and left the revolver in a drawer in the Valanis home. Brown swears the revolver is the murder weapon.

Wilson, who has seven Chicago detectives digging for bullets Brown said he fired, said the finding of two more shells on the site indicated weapons may have been fired there frequently.

2 OTTAWA JAIL FUGITIVES ELUDE STATE-WIDE HUNT

Ottawa, Ill., Sept. 23 [Special].—Harold Link, 32, of Ottawa and Chicago, and John Walters, 17, Streator, who escaped from the La Salle county jail during the night, were still at liberty today, tho a state-wide search is being made.

To gain their freedom, Link and Walters removed a lavatory and metal plate from the end of their cell block on the third floor, tore an 18 inch hole in a brick chimney and, after creeping down the chimney to the basement, broke off the lock on the coal chute and crawled out.

Link yesterday had received a one to 20 year sentence for theft of an automobile. Walters was awaiting a grand jury investigation on an auto larceny charge.

THE CRITICAL PERIOD OF THE WAR . . . FOR AMERICAN TRANSPORTATION . . . IS RIGHT AHEAD!

OLDSMOBILE SERVICE

Protect what you drive today—
TO KEEP ON DRIVING TOMORROW!

THE news from the battle front may be encouraging. But the news from the transportation front at home gets more serious every day. More gasoline alone can't save the situation! Or more tires! What transportation experts everywhere are gravely concerned about is the rate at which cars themselves are wearing out. Your car cannot be replaced today . . . It may be some time before all who need them can get new automobiles. Meanwhile, the surest way for you to have automobile transportation is to protect the car you drive today. Protect it with regular lubrication as recommended by Oldsmobile engineers. Protect it with factory-specification service. Protect it by having all war-worn parts skillfully adjusted or replaced. This month, before winter sets in, let our mechanics check your car over thoroughly, so you can keep on driving tomorrow.

MOTHERS ASSAIL PLAN FOR TOURS TO SONS' GRAVES

Gold Star Group Recalls Previous Fiasco.

Washington, D. C., Sept. 23 [Special].—Tomorrow is Gold Star Mother's day, and the mothers are up in arms.

To a woman, the national officers here of the American Gold Star Mothers are united in registering "vehement protest" against President Roosevelt's recommendation of legislation permitting not only mothers, but families, to visit the graves of service men thruout the world, at public expense, after the war.

Some bitterly recalled the squabbles which dampened the government sponsored pilgrimages to French cemeteries in 1930-'32. Others dub the present plan a "vote-getting scheme," but every one interviewed was agreed that the gigantic proportions of such a plan make it unfeasible after this war.

Millions Eligible to Go.

"I know I speak for our 5,000 members," Mrs. Robert E. Jacobson, national secretary, declared, "when I say we are unalterably opposed to such an impractical undertaking.

"Why, eligible relatives of this war's dead might run into the millions. Besides, many of those who made the other pilgrimage regretted it. The conduct of a few was disgraceful. It was a scandal the way some stepmothers who had never laid eyes on their heroic stepsons took advantage of the government bounty for a joy ride to Europe."

Mrs. Franklin P. Nash, national chaplain, fervently agreed.

"This is obviously just a bid for votes," she said. "I'm too practical to believe that such a thing could be carried thru, and I shall take the matter up at our board meeting."

"Millionaires for a Month."

Mrs. Fanny Meeks a national vice president, who was among those making the last pilgrimage, said she considered such excursions after this war "out of the question, with our terrific national debt."

"We all lived like millionaires for a month," she recalled. "But if we have any extra money to spend next time, let's use it for the mothers on this side of the ocean. Many are distressingly poor."

Mrs. Grace Darling Siebold, founder of the Gold Star organization, remembered:

"Some mothers didn't go in the right spirit, and there was entirely too much pleasure involved. Our country is too depleted financially to send whole families abroad."

6,674 Sent on Trip.

Pointing out that trips for 6,674 mothers and widows after the last war cost the government $5,386,367, an army officer remarked:

"If only 800,000 relatives were declared eligible, under the present plan [and it would probably run much higher], 6,000 ships would be required to transport the groups half way around the world. Estimating the cost at $1,500 each, over a billion dollars would be involved."

The World War I. pilgrimages consisted of officer escorted groups of from 150 to 200 mothers each. Every expense was government paid, from tips to passage and hospital bills.

LAST TRIP NOT A SUCCESS.

Mrs. Anna Brucker, 321 Courtland av., Park Ridge, president of the Chicago Council of Gold Star Mothers and one of its incorporators, said last night she believes some provision should be made for mothers and fathers to visit graves of their sons killed in the war, but was uncertain whether the plan should include other members of bereaved families.

Mrs. Bertha Fish, 41 W. 103d st., vice president of the council, said she did not go to France after the last war, but that she talked with several mothers who did and they did not view the expedition as a success.

Oak Park Store Pays Back 400 for Over Ceiling Sales

More than 400 customers of the William Y. Gilmore & Sons women's wear store at 137 N. Oak Park av., Oak Park, yesterday received checks totaling $958.81, representing refunds on sales at over ceiling prices. Marion W. Isbell, office of price administration director, announced. He said the store refunded an additional $3,529 obtained in over ceiling sales to unidentifiable customers, in the form of a contribution to the government.

SKINNAY ENNIS' BROTHER KILLED IN PLANE CRASH

Lt. [j. g.] James W. Ennis, 25, a flight instructor at the Glenview naval air station and brother of Skinnay Ennis, the band leader, was killed yesterday when his plane crashed near Schaumburg field, two miles east of Elgin, on a routine instructional flight.

Aviation Cadet William M. Beasley, 21, of Jackson, Miss., who was in the plane, was injured seriously. He is in the Great Lakes Naval Training Center hospital.

In addition to his brother, who arrived in Chicago Friday, Lt. Ennis is survived by his mother, Mrs. E. C. Ennis, Salisbury, N. C. In civilian life, Lt. Ennis was assistant to the business manager of the Ennis band.

Theodore Paholski, 44, a truck driver, suffered a fractured right leg yesterday when he dropped a machine part he was unloading at 333 E. South Water st. Paholski lives at 4825 S. Hoyne av.

SANTA SEES BIG JOB; 65 MILLION GIFTS FOR G. I.S

There are no chimneys for Christmas stockings in Pacific island foxholes or in the trenches of France. But wherever American service men and women are fighting to win the war on Dec. 25 there will be gifts from home.

The army and navy expect a total of 65 million Christmas parcels, an average of about six for each of the 11 million men and women in service, to be sent to personnel of the army, navy, marine corps, maritime service, and Coast Guard.

They'll Go Everywhere.

The parcels will be delivered by train and ship, plane and jeep, sled and truck. They will go to the icy steppes of Russia and the burning shore of the Persian gulf. Gifts may be "just right" or entirely out of place, depending upon the geographic spot at which the recipient is stationed.

THE TRIBUNE has prepared a list of gifts which are fitting for members of various branches of service in various climates. It was compiled from lists suggested by service personnel after a study of the type of gift which is least perishable.

For the army, the list recommends: Pocket edition books, stationery, razor blades, wrist watches, hard candy, soap, wash cloths, vacuum packed nuts, pocket sized games and automatic pencils.

For the navy: Fountain pens, watches, folding writing kits, pocket knives with attachments, tinned meat and other canned food, sun glasses, steel mirrors, pocket games, and dice.

Don't Forget the Girls.

WAC: Stockings [sheer for "dress up" and cotton for work], cake perfume [varies in size and type], tinned food, fountain pen, and watches.

Nurses: Tinned food, cosmetics, seersucker housecoats, bath clogs, bobby pins and mending equipment.

Gifts particularly suitable for the European theater include: Cigarets [in some sections cigarets are limited], tinned sandwich making materials, cameras and film.

Middle east: Tee shirts, tennis balls, sun glasses, billfolds, and in certain sections, golf balls.

China-Burma-India: Tee shirts, sun glasses [best grade], razor blades, wash cloths, and non-perishable tinned sandwich food.

Beer Party Trimmings.

South Pacific: Sun glasses, pretzels [wrapped so as not to become stale], and other foods for beer parties, watches, and flashlights.

Heavy corrugated cardboard boxes should be used to hold the gifts. These should be clearly addressed in ink and securely tied with a heavy cord. Return addresses should be written on the surface of the box and postal officials recommend inclosing a slip bearing the recipient's address and the sender's.

Gifts for all branches of services, excepting the maritime service, must weigh not more than five pounds and measure not more than 36 inches in length and girth combined. Members of the maritime service may receive gifts weighing up to 11 pounds with a combined length and girth up to 42 inches. less.

Italy Cancels Pensions of 15 Fascists' Widows

ROME, Sept. 23 (AP).—The government of Ivanoe Bonomi today annulled the pensions of widows of 15 Fascists, including Mrs. Italo Balbo, who was receiving 100,000 lire yearly. Marshal Balbo, killed in Africa, led the mass Italian trans-Atlantic flight to Chicago in 1933.

Editor to Aid Winant on European Affairs

Washington, D. C., Sept. 23 (AP).—Appointment of Hamilton Fish Armstrong, editor of the magazine Foreign Affairs, as special assistant to Ambassador John G. Winant at London with personal rank of minister was announced today by the department of state. Armstrong, it is understood, will relieve Winant of some of the work as American representative on the European advisory commission.

Do YOU Own A "Scratching" Dog?

If you own and are fond of a dog that is continually scratching, digging, rubbing, and biting himself until his skin is raw and sore, don't just feel sorry for him. The dog can't help himself. But you may. He may be clean and flea free and just suffering from an intense itching irritation that has centered in the nerve endings of his skin. Do as thousands of pleased dog owners are doing.

At any good drug store, pet or sport shop, get a 25c package of Rex Hunters Dog Powders, and give them once a week. Note the quick improvement. One owner writes: "My female setter on Sept. 29th did not have a handful of hair on her body—all scratched and bitten off. I gave her the powders as directed. By Nov. 10th she was all haired out." Learn what they will do for your dog. Make a 25c test. (Economy size box for only $1.00).

STRIKERS VOTE TO STAY OUT OF REVERE PLANTS

Work on War Materials at Standstill.

Production of urgently needed war materials at the two plants of the Revere Copper and Brass company remained at a standstill yesterday after a meeting earlier at which the 2,500 employes of the company voted to continue their strike.

The strike resulted from the refusal of Charles Moser, 29, of 5139 Foster av. Thursday to accede to a new company regulation that molten brass destined for eventual manufacture into shells for naval guns be poured into narrow instead of wide molds.

2,500 Strike in Two Plants.

Moser's refusal resulted in his being sent home by the foreman of his shift. This precipitated a sympathy work stoppage by the 30 others employed on Moser's shift, which in turn snowballed into a strike Friday of all employes of the company in the two plants, located at 2200 Natchez av. and 6630 Fullerton av.

Tony Audio, chairman of a negotiating committee of the AFL United Automobile Workers' union, of which the strikers are members, said that the changeover to the narrow molds created "increased physical effort" as well as new health and safety hazards.

The company, Audio said, denied the union's charge that the change produced unfair working conditions in the plant, and refused to return to the earlier method.

Asks to See Manager.

Audio said he had asked for a conference with T. W. Flack, works manager for the company, but that Flack had refused to meet with union representatives until the strikers returned to work.

Union members, Audio said, voted to remain on strike indefinitely. They will not consider a return to work, Audio continued, until the wide mold process is restored, and until Charles Paumere, the plant superintendent, is discharged.

A variety of war materials is produced at the two struck plants, including small arms, heavy artillery, ammunition, and the 105 mm. howitzer.

MOVE TO BOOST B-CARD MILEAGE SHELVED BY OPA

The office of price administration has decided against liberalizing B gasoline rations to accommodate certain hardship cases, it was learned yesterday.

A plan under consideration for several weeks had suggested a ceiling thruout the country of 825 miles a month for a few B coupon motorists whose driving is essential but not quite within the qualifications for a C card. Present B ceilings are 325 miles in the east, 400 in the far west, and 475 in the rest of the country.

Max McCullough, newly appointed ration chief in Washington, D. C., was said to have decided no such revision of gasoline allotments is warranted prior to the defeat of Germany.

While the new A coupons are good for four gallons each, motorists still are receiving the same quantity of gasoline on a three month basis, the OPA pointed out. In the new books there are groups of six coupons good for four gallons each while the former book had sets of eight coupons, each good for three gallons.

Marion W. Isbell, Chicago area OPA director, announced he would request an increased quota of heavy duty truck tires for essential use as a result of a conference with an advisory committee of Chicago area trucking representatives.

A special meeting of the motor transport advisory committee will be held tomorrow to consider an emergency which has arisen thru discovery by OPA tire inspectors that many heavy tires show signs of undue wear from misuse.

TEA STORE MANAGERS IGNORE WLB'S ORDER TO CALL OFF STRIKE

Officials of the Chicago local, Retail Clerks International Protective association [AFL], yesterday defied yesterday an ultimatum of the regional war labor board ordering them to terminate a strike of managers in National Tea company stores in the Chicago area. More than 450 of 501 stores were affected by the walkout.

The strike leaders were directed to call off the strike by noon or appear before the board at 2 p. m. tomorrow to show cause why they had not obeyed. S. G. Lippman, union attorney, said representatives would appear "voluntarily, as a courtesy." Lippman said all issues in dispute except the union shop question will be discussed, altho he contended the WLB had no jurisdiction.

Company officials, who reported damage to perishable foods would exceed $450,000, declined to comment on a charge they had informed managers they would be discharged unless they returned yesterday. Lippman said he would welcome having the army take over management of the stores.

DIVORCE ASKED BY COL. MECHEM, FORMER BANKER

Lt. Col. John C. Mechem, former senior vice president of the First National Bank of Chicago, yesterday filed suit for divorce from Mrs. Barbara T. Mechem, whom he married in 1914. The suit, filed in the Lake county Circuit court at Waukegan by Atty. Thomas I. Underwood, charged desertion as of Jan. 10, 1943. Col. and Mrs. Mechem, who lived at 945 Maplewood rd., Lake Forest, have three sons, John S. and Robert C. of Boston, and Ensign W. Mechem, on duty in the Pacific, and a daughter, Mrs. Barbara M. Smith of Boston. Col. Mechem was assigned to the staff of the secretary of war in 1940.

ISSUE SUBPENAS FOR BOARD IN SCHOOL FIGHT

Subpenas were issued yesterday for James B. McCahey, president, and all 10 members of the board of education calling for their appearance before Judge John C. Lewe in Superior court tomorrow. The action was requested by Atty. Charles Liebman "in behalf of 10,000 children" to fight the no-transfer order of Supt. William H. Johnson.

Liebman said he asked that the subpenas be issued to prove thru testimony of the board that the order canceling previous transfer permits of elementary school pupils was promulgated by Supt. Johnson without consulting them.

Two Served Subpenas.

Late yesterday, Sheriff Mulcahy's office reported that subpenas had been served on Erik Thulin, 157 E. Ohio st., and Mrs. Walter F. Heineman, 9920 S. Hoyne av. No one was found at the addresses listed in the subpenas for the other trustees. Mulcahy said he had learned that McCahey and Wilson Frankland, 8819 Harper av., another board member, were out of the city.

Others named and sought unsuccessfully by bailiffs were Irvin C. Mollison, 180 W. Washington st., Joseph W. Cremin, 33 N. La Salle st., B. L. Majewski, 155 N. Clark st., Walter Truc, 77 W. Washington st., F. P. Siebel Sr., 960 Montana st., Mrs. L. Robert Mellin, 840 Castlewood ter., and Samuel I. Levin, 333 S. Ashland av.

Meanwhile deputies still were attempting to serve a subpena on Supt. Johnson. Johnson was said to have gone to an unnamed hotel.

Homes Under Guard.

Homes of both Johnson and McCahey remained under guard yesterday, as police continued to seek the person or persons who bombed the Johnson's home Thursday night. Lt. Andrew Aitken of the bomb detail, announced that lists of pupils affected by the no-transfer order issued two weeks ago by Supt. Johnson were being scrutinized to uncover possible connections with persons having access to dynamite in their work.

At least one deputy was busy yesterday on behalf of the school board after Frank Righeimer, school attorney, filed a subpena with the sheriff's office for Liebman's secretary, Miss Irene Hall.

Liebman said he hoped news of the subpenas would impel those named to appear voluntarily in court tomorrow, when he will seek an injunction restraining the board from carrying out the no-transfer order even if the subpenas are not served.

MEDICAL SURVEYS have shown that almost 50 per cent of men and 40 per cent of women over forty years of age with stomach trouble have peptic ulcer, gall-bladder disease or cancer. In addition to these which have reached a dangerous stage there are many others which will ultimately become serious unless they are diagnosed early and properly treated. Any stomach ailment that is persistent or recurring should be considered dangerous. It is the persistent type which indicates the presence of peptic ulcer or pre-cancerous condition. According to one prominent authority cancer of the stomach accounts for more than 30 per cent of all cancers in this country. Ailments which may cause pre-cancerous conditions are: peptic ulcer, small growths within the lining of the stomach, inflammation of the stomach lining, etc.

These conditions can be diagnosed by means of the X-ray and other medical procedures. The earlier the diagnosis is made the greater chances are for complete recovery. If you are finding it difficult to obtain medical care because of the many physicians now serving our armed forces bring your health problems to this outstanding medical organization. Here you will find adequate medical knowledge and all the necessary supporting facilities to diagnose and treat disease conditions which may be endangering your health. Centrally located within easy access by railroad trains, street cars, elevated and subway trains, buses and automobiles, these complete medical services are available to all. The fees are moderate and the same to all. Information upon request.

Diagnosing Stomach Trouble requires a special gastro-intestinal examination which includes a physical check-up by the physician, blood pressure, urinalysis, blood examination and serological tests. The fee for these preliminary services is.................... $4.50

CRIMINAL COURT SURVEY BARES LENIENCY TREND

Commission Lists Terms Under Two Laws.

BY JAMES DOHERTY.

Statistics gathered by the Chicago Crime commission disclosed yesterday that Cook county judges sitting in the Criminal court were more lenient in the sentences imposed from July 1, 1943, to June 30, 1944, under the Green-Rennick law, than in the year from July 1, 1941, to June 30, 1942, under the Ward-Schnackenberg law.

It was shown that in the 1943-'44 period eight Cook county judges sentenced 494 individuals to indeterminate sentences with an average minimum of 2 1-3 years and an average maximum of 5 1-5 years.

The crime commission statisticians said this compares with the following figures for the 1941-'42 period: 683 individuals sentenced with minimum average of 2.88 years and maximum average of 5.96 years.

Records of Eight Judges.

The crime commission's records, showing the number of sentences imposed by the eight judges who sat in Criminal court during part or all of the 1943-'44 period, the number of years involved, and the averages, were listed as follows:

	Total Sentenced.	Total Min. yrs.	Total Max. yrs.	Avg. Min. yrs.	Avg. Max. yrs.
Epstein	113	271	628 1-3	2 2-5	5 5-8
Al'gretti	134	217	602 3-4	1 3-5	4 1-2
Desort	50	117	222	2 1-7	4
McKinlay	10	24	66	2 2-5	6 4-5
Sbarbaro	90	229	527	2 1-2	5 4-5
Ward	69	152	317	2 1-5	4 3-5
Trude	21	121	204	5 3-4	9 2-3
Klark'ski	2	7	14	3 1-2	7
Totals	494	1,138	2,581 1-12	2 1-3	5 1-5

Original Law Adopted in 1941.

The Ward-Schnackenberg law, as it was enacted by the legislature in 1941, gave to judges of Chicago's Criminal court and to Circuit judges downstate the power to fix minimum and maximum terms to be served by those subject to the indeterminate sentence law. In effect, criminals were given determinate sentences on the theory the judges would do a better job than the parole board in deciding the punishment to be meted out.

That law contained the provision that the parole board, by the votes of four of its five members and with the concurrence of the director of public safety, could set aside the judge's ruling on the length of time to be served. Thus, under some circumstances, the parole board could set a convict free sooner than the judge had wished, or keep him longer.

New Law Enacted in 1943.

The law, for that reason, was declared unconstitutional. The new law, passed in 1943, and called the Green-Rennick act, became effective July 1, 1943. The Chicago Crime commission undertook a survey to see how the sentences of the judges compared with those in the period when the parole board was the deciding factor.

In reference to the sentences with an average minimum of 2.88 years and an average maximum of 5.96 years in 1941-'42, attention was called to a report of the state department of correction at that time that 138 prisoners released on parole in 1942 had served an average term of 5 years and 11 days.

Tendency to Shorter Terms.

In reference to the 1943-'44 averages of 2⅓ years to 5 1/5 years, the crime commission called attention to a report by the state parole board showing that convicts granted paroles last July served an average of 4 years and 7 months.

Rudolph Dvorak, assistant operating director of the crime commission, said there is a tendency on the part of the judges now to give shorter sentences. A study is to be made of the sentences imposed by downstate judges, after which a statement will be made by the commission, Dvorak said.

MAID AND $40 DISAPPEAR.

Mrs. Violet Brandwein, 5000 Cornell av., yesterday reported to police that she missed $40 from her home after a new Negro maid disappeared.

HELP CITY KEEP FIRE TOLL DOWN, MULLANEY ASKS

As Mayor Kelly designated the week of Oct. 8 thru 14 as fire prevention week yesterday, Chief Fire Marshal Anthony Mullaney released figures showing a marked increase in the number of fires in July and August with a correspondingly large increase in prospect for September.

Alarms in July this year totaled 3,393 against 2,627 for July, 1943, and 2,226 for July, 1942. Alarms in August showed a similar increase, with 3,389 registered this year against 2,206 in August, 1943, and only 1,925 in August, 1942.

Carelessness Chief Cause.

Mullaney blamed carelessness in the handling of smoking materials as the most frequent cause of fires. With the coming of fall, he warned, leaves should be burned only in approved incinerators.

Last year during fire prevention week Chicago won first honors in the nation for its fire prevention program. In the face of the mounting figures, Chief Mullaney warned, extra vigilance will be required to retain the honor.

In connection with the fire prevention week observance, the Chicago Association of Commerce is calling on all members to redouble their efforts to eliminate fire hazards in industrial property and commercial buildings.

Propose Suburb Charge.

Charges for the use of Chicago fire fighting apparatus by suburban communities are set up in a proposed ordinance drafted by Corporation Counsel Barnet Hodes for submission to the city council.

Previously Chicago's compensation had been handled under "reciprocal" arrangements whereby communities and industrial districts outside the city paid a set yearly figure of about $1,200 for full coverage in emergencies. Chief Mullaney called the figure "ridiculously low."

OPA TO TIGHTEN ITS PRICE REINS ON SANTA CLAUS

That fellow peeping out from Santa Claus' bag of toys this Christmas will be an office of price administration price enforcement officer, Rae E. Walters, regional OPA area director, said yesterday.

Walters said that the toy and Christmas novelty business got somewhat out of hand last year, and price ceilings were widely ignored because enforcement bogged down.

But this year things will be different, Walters said. OPA controls will be rigorously applied thru manufacturing, wholesaling, and retailing of toys.

Pink Flamingo Dahlia Is Sensation at Show

The "Pink Flamingo," known to horticulturists as the sensation of 1944 dahlias, is on exhibit today at the seventh annual dahlia show in Hamilton park. The show's dahlias range in diameter from less than one inch to 14 inches.

THREE FACE U. S. CHARGES IN GARY GAS COUPON RING

Illegal operations involving 43,000 gallons of gasoline were alleged in an indictment returned yesterday by a federal grand jury in Gary, Ind., against three persons.

They are Mrs. Mattie Smith, 31, of 1627 Broadway, Gary, accused of stealing gasoline coupons from the Gary Trust & Savings bank, where she was employed as a janitress; Henry Serio, 30, of 32 W. 8th av., Gary, and James Spina, 31, of Chicago.

All were charged in the indictment with the theft, sale and possession of coupons. Bond was set at $2,500 each for their appearance Oct. 2 before Judge Luther M. Swygert in federal District court at South Bend, Ind.

BROWNS AND TIGERS KEEP PACE IN A. L. FLAG RACE

ST. LOUIS WINS FROM A'S, 3 TO 1; GAME BEHIND

Detroit Turns Back Boston, 8 to 2.

St. Louis, Mo., Sept. 23 (AP).—The St. Louis Browns stayed one game behind Detroit in the American league pennant race by defeating Philadelphia, 3 to 1, tonight.

Denny Galehouse went the route for the Browns, yielding six hits. Don Black, the Athletics' starting pitcher, who was relieved in the seventh by Jonas Berry, was charged with the loss.

Browns Score in Wild Pitch.

The game was played in damp and murky weather, the thermometer standing at 57.

The Browns clinched the game in the second inning when Milt Byrnes was issued a walk. George McQuinn doubled to center and Byrnes went to third. Byrnes scored and McQuinn moved to third on a wild pitch by Black. Mark Christman singled and McQuinn tallied the winning run.

Philadelphia's lone tally came in the first inning when Garrison, who had singled, moved to third on Roberto Estalella's double off the right field screen. Garrison scored as Christman threw out Frank Hayes.

Bob Garbark lost a chance to pull the Athletics up even with the Browns when he went in as a pinch hitter in the ninth. He grounded out to Don Gutteridge with two men on and two out. It was the only scoring threat by the Athletics after their run in the first.

TIGERS WIN, 8-2

Detroit, Mich., Sept. 23 (AP).—Paul [Dizzy] Trout pitched a six hit game today for his 26th victory of the season as the Detroit Tigers defeated Boston, 8 to 2, and eliminated the Red Sox from the American league pennant race.

Boston, losing its third straight game in the series with Detroit here before a chilly crowd of 14,370, now is nine games behind the Tigers with only eignt games left to play.

By winning today Trout equaled the games won record of his teammate, Southpaw Harold Newhouser, who will face Yank Terry of the Sox in the series final tomorrow. Each has won 26 games; Trout has lost 12, and Newhouser, 9.

Rex Cecil, Boston right hander, who started today's game, was the victim of an early inning Tiger attack that counted seven runs in the first three innings. He gave up seven hits and issued six passes to keep himself in constant trouble.

NAVY ALL-STARS BEAT ARMY IN HONOLULU, 8 TO 2

HONOLULU, Sept. 23 (AP).—Heavy slugging and the tight pitching of Johnny Vandermeer, former Cincinnati star, gave the navy an 8 to 2 victory over the army today in the service men's world series. The sailors also won yesterday's opener, 5 to 0. The navy clinched today's game with a five run ninth inning rally. Joe Grace, former St. Louis Browns outfielder, accounted for four of them, cracking out a homer with the bases loaded.

BY EDWARD PRELL.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Minneapolis, Minn., Sept. 23 (AP).—Iowa Pre-Flight today proved it still is the boss when it plays Minnesota's football team. On a perfect, sunshiny afternoon the Seahawks scored a touchdown with only three minutes remaining to clinch a victory which twice threatened to slip from their grasp.

So a crowd of 31,687 saw the Naval Cadets link up a 19 to 13 triumph to go alongside the 32 to 0 rout of 1943 and the 7 to 6 squeezer of 1942 in the three war time battles between the rivals from neighboring states.

Raymond Swanke, a lanky youngster who started playing football at Chicago's Lane Tech and later took additional learning at Wisconsin, Illinois, and Wyoming, made the Seahawks' first touchdown by intercepting a pass and put the final one within easy range by catching one of the many passes any number of Seahawk backs threw.

Fumble Paves Way.

Until the Seahawks struck for the winning touchdown, the opening coming on a Gopher fumble, Wayne [Red] Williams, a Minneapolis youngster, appeared to be the player of the day. With the Gophers trailing, 12 to 7, as the fourth quarter started, Williams ran right down the middle on a 26 yard touchdown gallop to put the Seahawks behind 13 to 12. He had been a prominent gent, too, in a 68-yard power drive, reminiscent of Minnesota's pre-war bonecrushing attack.

This one ended with John Lundquist, a 19 year old sophomore from Granite Falls, Minn., going over from the 8 yard line on the 10th play of the series.

It was a battle of Gopher power against Seahawk passing and wide sweeps. Four times in the second quarter Minnesota, in one way or the other, stopped drives deep in its own territory. It was after all this frustration that Swanke decided to do something about it. Only a minute and a half was left in the half when he made a one-handed catch of a pass intended for Herb Braun. Then the Chicago boy raced for the score, but Don Waldron's kick was wide.

This 6 to 0 lead melted away during a six minute power drive after Merlin Kispert took the kickoff on his 20 and came back to the 32.

Williams Kicks Goal.

In the series of 12 plays Williams ran for 15, 3, 4, 5, and 5 yards. After Lundquist powered over from the 8 Williams kicked goal for a 7 to 6 Minnesota advantage.

After the kickoff, which Woodward returned 34 yards, the Seahawks quickly were deep in Gopher territory, the main items being a 14 yard pass from Dell Taylor of Tulsa university to Swanke, and one for 26 yards to Stevan Horvath, who rode a Gopher piggy-back to the 7

Sox Take 6th Place; Beat Senators, 5-4

BY EDWARD BURNS.

The hardy White Sox roared into sixth place last night as they beat the tail-end Senators, 5 to 4, before an outpouring of 1,559 fans in Comiskey park. It was the ninth loss for the Senators in nine games in Chicago this season.

The Sox, in a double header with the Washingtons this afternoon, will have a chance to clinch not being last at season's end a week from tonight.

16th Victory for Dietrich.

Bill Dietrich won his 16th victory of the season, against 16 losses. He yielded 11 hits, five more than the Sox made off Oliverio Ortiz, just up to the Senators from Cuba, via Chattanooga.

The Senators scored twice before

SAILORS DEFEAT PURDUE, 27-18, IN 4TH QUARTER

BY MAURICE SHEVLIN.

Cecil Isbell's debut as a Western conference coach was not a success, but enough of the football mastery of the former Green Bay Packer rubbed off onto a squad of inexperienced Purdue Boilermakers to make their opening game with the Great Lakes Bluejackets an exciting event for 25,000 members of the nation's navy personnel yesterday at the Great Lakes naval training center. The Bluejackets won, 27 to 18.

The defeat, brought about by a courageous last quarter assault and a spectacular 95 yard punt return by Quarter Back Jim Youel, broke Purdue's string of victories at nine, the carry over from the team's undefeated and untied 1943 season when the Boilermakers shared the Big Nine championship with Michigan.

Youel Settles Outcome.

Coach Isbell, for five years the passing star of the National Football league, pitted a starting eleven of six civilians, three navy men and a couple of marines against an experienced, hardy and well drilled Bluejacket team. The Boilermakers, with a green forward wall but a fast and shifty back field, nevertheless, were very much in the game until, when trailing 20 to 18, the former University of Iowa quarter back, Youel, took a Purdue punt on his own 5 yard line after fumbling it on the 10 and raced all the way down the east side line to score standing up.

Cody Scores Twice.

It was expected that the Boilermakers would open up with a passing game, but they saved that feature until a propitious moment in the second quarter and the surprise it occasioned in the sailor ranks enabled them to take a momentary 12 to 7 advantage, overcoming Great Lakes' 7 point margin scored in the opening quarter. The Bluejackets went ahead before the period was over, but again gave way in the third quarter and trailed 18 to 14 until their last period comeback.

The Purdue attack centered around

OWENS WILL RUN IN SPECIAL MEET CARDED IN PARIS

New York, Sept. 23 (AP).—Jesse Owens, former Ohio State university sprint and broad jump star, and holder of four Olympic titles, is scheduled to compete soon in Paris in a meet sponsored by the French Athletic society, ABSIE [American broadcasting station in Europe] said today.

Owens, now a soldier in the United States army, will compete against the French champions despite the fact he has not trained recently for track events, according to the French language broadcast as recorded by the OWI.

BRUINS SCORE ON FINAL PLAY; TIE TROJANS, 13-13

Los Angeles, Cal., Sept. 23 (AP).—U. C. L. A. put on a sensational finish in the Los Angeles' Memorial coliseum today to get a 13 to 13 tie with the University of Southern California.

Sixty thousand fans, who endured 100 degree plus heat to watch the powerful Trojans push over two touchdowns in the second quarter, could hardly believe what they saw as the Bruins suddenly unleashed an irresistible ground attack in the fourth quarter that carried 49 yards to a touchdown in six plays. They were even more amazed as Johnny Roesch, 160 pound half back from Beverly Hills, gathered in a Trojan punt as the timer's gun sounded and dashed 74 yards thru the bewildered Trojans for another one.

That was only part of the drama, however. Quarter Back Bob Waterfield of the Bruins went back to kick the placement and thousands rushed from their seats and crowded the sidelines. The ball hit the crossbar and an upright and bounded wildly to the left. The players and the officials were lost as the crowd swarmed on the field and it was a full minute before the referee could signal that the ball had gone over the crossbar for the tying point.

BY CHARLES BARTLETT.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Milwaukee, Wis., Sept. 23.—Michigan's Wolverines, frustrated by a combination of an obdurate Marquette defense and their own penchant for fumbling, snapped out of it in the second half tonight to whip the Hilltoppers, 14 to 0, before 18,000 spectators. Marquette loyalists who saw their young men lose their opening game of this campaign derived considerable solace from an aggressive line and a couple of speedy backs.

Whether or not Michigan's debut as a nocturnal eleven was to blame, the fact remains that the boys from Ann Arbor committed eight bobbles, on five of which they lost the ball. The remainder of the statistics reveal the victors' superiority, notably in first downs, where they excelled, 18 to 11, and in total net yardage, wherein they showed a total of 297 yards to 158.

Wolverines Go to Work.

Marquette had its big moments early in the second period, when the Hilltoppers' line, led by Bob Richardson, Bob Krebs, Steve Enich, and Martin Silovich, stopped the Michigan backs four times, twice with the ball resting within inches of the goal line. John Rudan, Bob Lodde, Paul Copoulos, and Jerry Benka did a grand job of supporting this blockade.

Michigan went to work at the outset of the third quarter to travel 6 yards to a touchdown. Capt. Bob Wiese, Gene Derricotte, and Bob Nussbaumer were the heroes of this journey, with Derricotte finally scoring on a 6 yard smash over right guard. Nussbaumer, the Oak Park marine trainee, led all ground gainers with 117 yards in 17 attempts.

With 9 minutes remaining, the Wolverines introduced what may well be the country's leading forward pass battery ere the season's over. Left Half Back Bill Culligan was the pitcher and Freshman End Dick Rifenburger who caught the two touchdown strikes against the Iowa Seahawks last week, again was the receiver. Quarter Back Joe Ponsetto kicked both extra points.

Penalty Aids Hilltoppers.

Early in the opening quarter, Lodde quick kicked to Michigan's Derricotte, who fumbled, Benka recovering for Marquette on the Michigan 49 yard line. Benka tried a futile pass, got 4 yards at the line, and then, after Copoulos had lost 4, Lodde punted. The Wolverines were charged with running into the kicker, and the Hilltoppers had a first down on the Michigan 46.

Benka made 12, then lost a yard. Rudan contributed 4 and Benka passed to Kaminski at the visitors' 25 yard mark. Rudan made first down at the 24 and added a 7 yard smash. A spinner by Copoulos produced 2 yards, and Rudan made it first down at the 12 yard line.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Champaign, Ill., Sept. 23.—Paul Patterson, fleet Negro half back from East Aurora, Ill., High school, made Illinois' dream of a Western conference victory over Indiana come true this afternoon, 26 to 18.

After the Hoosiers had stepped into a 12 to 0 lead in the second period, Patterson passed to Eddie Bray for a touchdown. He added another on a brilliant 30 yard run in the third quarter which tied the score. With this setting and encouragement, in the fourth period, Don Greenwood, Illini quarter back, passed to Buddy Young for a touchdown and then intercepted an Indiana pass to gain another. The Hoosiers completed the tally sheet just before the end of the battle, when they got a consolation touchdown, aided by a 15 yard penalty on Illinois for roughness.

Patterson Sets the Pace.

Illinois had speed and deception; the Illini had courage and determination following a break on the first Indiana punt, which deprived them of a touchdown, and another mishap which put them two touchdowns behind 20 minutes later. But Illinois also had Patterson, who sparked a team which otherwise might never have snapped out of its lethargy.

It is not fair, perhaps, to single out Patterson over Eddie Bray, for instance, his running mate at half back. Nor should Greenwood, whose pass and pass interception clinched the victory, be overlooked. But Patterson, who gained 108 yards in the 18 times he carried the ball, made possible these subsequent touchdowns. He was the outstanding half back on the field.

Hoosier Are Good at Start.

Indiana's full backs—George Sundheim and Harry Jagade—fumbled three times today. Patterson recovered all for Illinois. It was his own fumble, however, in the second period which assisted Indiana to its second touchdown. This may have been the turning point in the game. Certainly, thereafter Patterson was an inspired performer.

First, however, let us look at the 20 minutes in which Indiana seemed invincible:

Patterson's second recovery of an Indiana fumble ended the Hoosiers' most serious drive in the opening period at Illinois' 26 yard line. Illinois' counter-attack then was checked and Indiana started its first march on the last play of the quarter when Bob Miller passed to Bill Uecker, substitute end, for 11 yards and a first down on Illinois' 44.

Patterson's Fumble Hurts.

Abe Addams raced outside defensive left tackle for 13 yards. Jagade plunged for 3 yards. After Miller's incomplete pass, Ben Raimondi replaced him and threw to Addams in the left flat. Addams finally was stopped on Illinois' 4 yard line. Jagade then smashed over left tackle for the touchdown but Capt. John Taverner missed the kick for the point.

After the subsequent kick-off, Illinois stopped the Hoosiers' attack on the Illini 21 yard line. On the first play Patterson dropped back to pass, fumbled, and the ball was recovered on the 9 by Tavener. With this invitation Jagade crossed the Illini goal on his second plunge. Again Tavener's kick was wide, but Indiana led, 12 to 0.

Patterson took Tavener's kick-off and came back 19 yards to Illinois' 33 yard line. Fourteen plays later the Illini had scored and Patterson handled the ball on eight of them, climaxing the march with his touchdown throw to Bray.

At the inception of the drive, Young was playing at left half back for Bray. On the third down of this series, Buddy's 13 yard run moved to the Illini 46. Patterson plunged four times on quick opening plays and his gains were 6 yards, 4, 3, and finally, 17 yards. The ball now was on Indiana's 24 yard line.

Bray Fields a Pass.

Young could pick up only 4 yards in three plays, so Bray replaced him and Patterson, running to his left, threw to Eddie, who was downed on Indiana's 6 yard line by Addams and John Cannady.

Bray lost 3 yards in two thrusts, but Patterson again saved the day with a running left hand pass to Bray at the goal line. Greenwood's place kick was wide and Illinois trailed, 6 to 12. This was the score at the intermission.

Illinois received to open the second half and, with the advantage of a first down by Patterson, advanced to midfield. Forced to punt, Greenwood kicked to Addams, who was downed on his 18 yard line. Indiana was set back to its 3 for holding, and Bob Hoernschemeyer's punt then went out on the Hoosiers' 38 yard line.

Here He Goes Again!

Jerry Cies plunged for 4 yards and Patterson added 3. Bray got a yard. It was now fourth down and 2 yards needed to continue the drive. Patterson slashed into Indiana's six man line between the widely spaced right guard and right tackle. He bowled over one tackler, sidestepped another, and slanted 30 yards to the goal line. Greenwood tried a quarter back sneak for the point after touchdown but he was smothered, and the score was tied, 12 to 12.

Patterson's recovery of Sundheim's fumble on Indiana's 30-yard line signalled another drive. Illinois moved to Indiana's 15 and, here, on fourth down, Patterson, after dropping back to pass, ran across the goal. The play was called back because of an illegal shift and Patterson's pass from the Hoosier 30-yard line then missed the target.

Illinois Scores Again.

The indefatigable Patterson started Illinois off again when he intercepted Hoernschemeyer's pass and was downed on Illinois' 40 yard line. As the third period ended Illinois was on Indiana's 46, the principal gain being a 10-yard pass from Greenwood to Lou Agase. Two plunges by Cies and Young's 5-yard gain at right end accomplished a first down. Bray lost three yards and Greenwood got one of them back. On the next play, Greenwood went back and threw downfield to Young, who was at right half back for Patterson. Young caught the ball at Indiana's 12 just beyond Bob Ravensberg and Addams and romped on to the goal. Greenwood kicked the point.

Indiana immediately rallied and in the remaining minutes made six first downs to Illinois' one. The first threat was checked by Illinois on its 12 yard line when a flurry of passes by Hoernschemeyer and Ben Raimondi failed. The next Hoosier drive ended abruptly when Greenwood intercepted Raimondi's pass on Illinois' 40 yard line and ran 60 yards to score. His kick for the point gave Illinois a 26 to 12 lead.

They Have a Safe Lead.

Addams received Illinois' kick-off and ran 61 yards to Illinois' 29 yard line but the Illinois youngsters refused to worry. Even when a penalty on Sam Zatkoff for roughness put the ball on Illinois' 2 and Sundheim followed with a touchdown plunge, there was no pressure, because Tavener's try for the point was blocked by Les Bingaman and Illinois had an eight point advantage.

The difference between the teams also is indicated by Illinois' 54 plays from scrimmage, exclusive of punts, to 37 for Indiana. Forty of Illinois' plays were by their three half backs. Indiana's full backs carried the ball on 24 of the Hoosiers' plays. Statistics:

GEORGIA NAVY LOSES SERVICES OF PAT HARDER

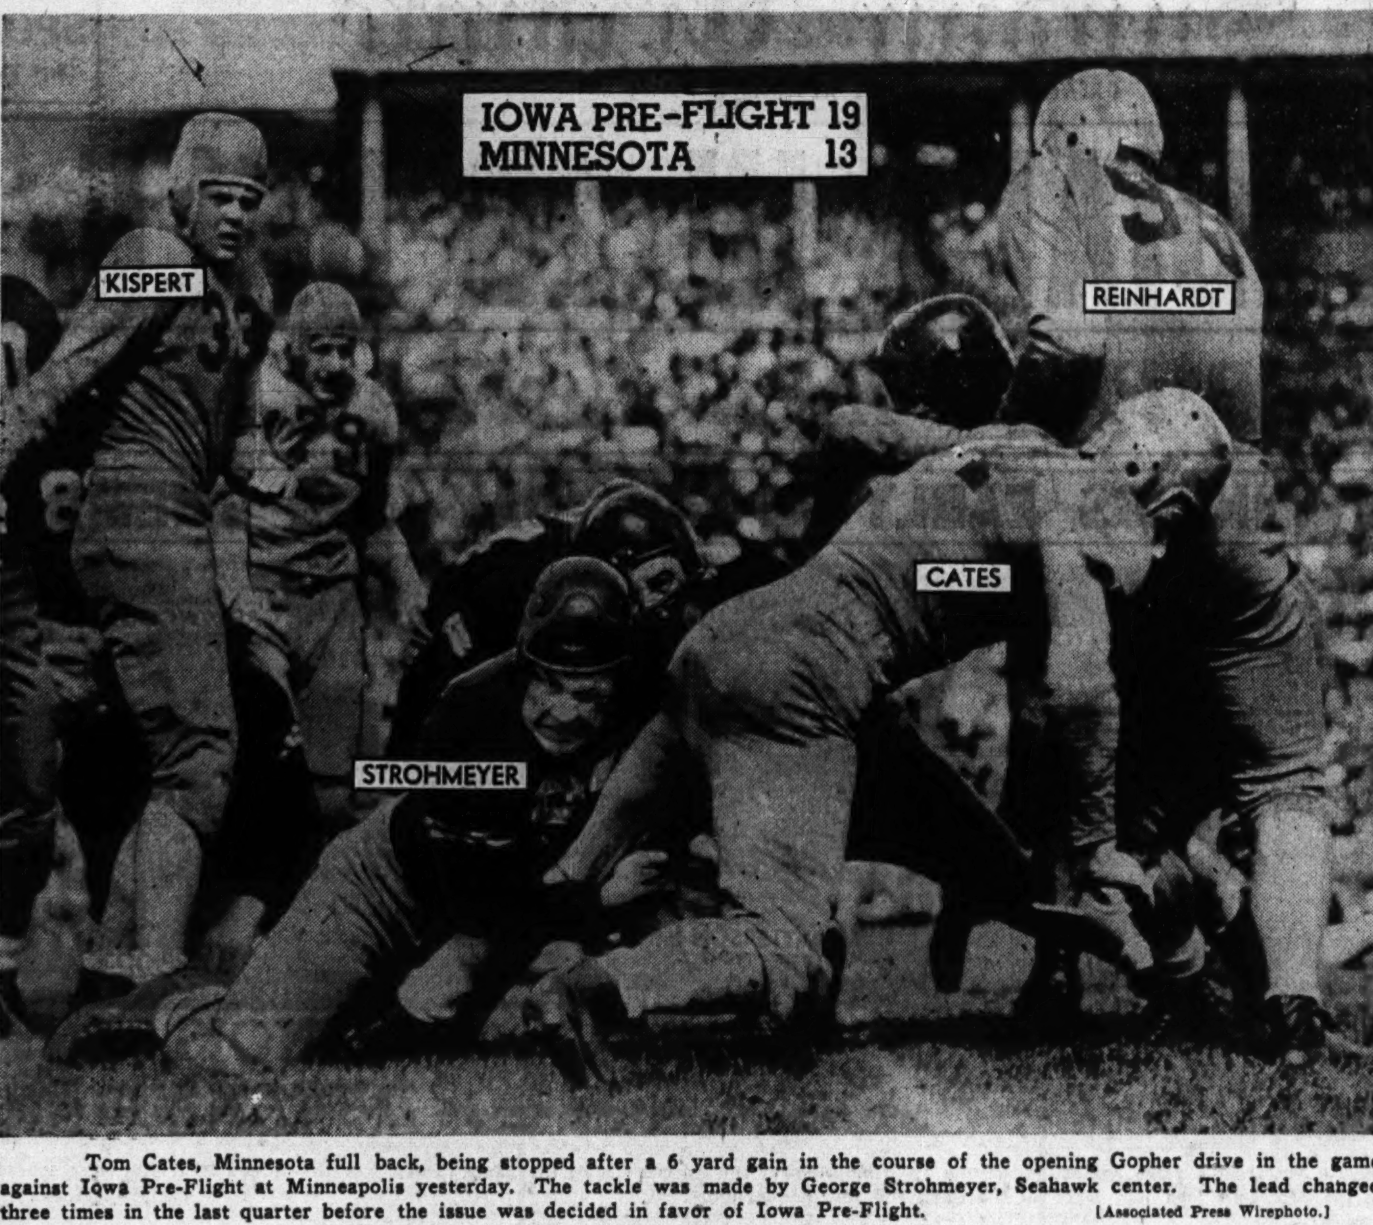
Athens, Ga., Sept. 23 [Special].—The loss thru injury of Full Back Pat Harder looms as a serious setback to the hopes of the Georgia Navy Pre-Flight football team which faces its first encounter of the season in Columbia, S. C. on Saturday.

Lt. Raymond W. [Ducky] Pond, U. S. N. R., head coach of the Skycrackers, has been forced to make a fresh start now that the former Wisconsin ace is slated to remain on the inactive list for several weeks.

"We had just begun to get rolling well, with most of our power built around Harder," the former Eli coach said. "Now it's necessary to revise our plans accordingly."

The new back field likely to start against the Gamecocks still packs a pretty good wallop, however.

A GOPHER GAIN—BUT ALL IN VAIN



Tom Cates, Minnesota full back, being stopped after a 6 yard gain in the course of the opening Gopher drive in the game against Iowa Pre-Flight at Minneapolis yesterday. The tackle was made by George Strohmeyer, Seahawk center. The lead changed three times in the last quarter before the issue was decided in favor of Iowa Pre-Flight. [Associated Press Wirephoto.]

POWERFUL DUKE ELEVEN CRUSHES RICHMOND, 61-7

Durham, N. C., Sept. 23 (AP).—Duke university began defense of its Southern conference football championship today by crushing Richmond, 61 to 7, before 8,000.

Gordon Carver, Tom Davis, George Balitsaris, Jim Larue, George Clark, and Howard Reynolds made the touchdowns, with Davis Balitsaris and Clark contributing two each. Harold Raether kicked seven extra points.

It was Duke all the way, with heretofore little known players bringing the opening day crowd to their feet time and again with an excellent brand of ball.

Statistics showed Duke's edge, the Blue Devils registering 429 yards to the opposition's 13. Duke lost 75 yards by penalties, while Richmond lost none.

VIRGINIA WINS, 37-0.

Charlottesville, Va., Sept. 23 (AP).—John Duba, navy trainee who played for Virginia Tech two seasons ago, led the University of Virginia to a 37 to 0 football victory over Hampden-Sydney college before 3,000 spectators today. Duba scored three touchdowns.

CLEMSON FROSH STAR.

Clemson, S. C., Sept. 23 (AP).—Tail Back Watt Stewart and Full Back Bill Rogers, freshmen, paced Clemson's 30 to 0 opening victory over Presbyterian before approximately 5,000 today. Freshman Jack Miller and Mavis Cagle added three and one extra points, respectively. First year varsity men accounted for 28 Tiger points.

Carlos Malacara Denied California Boxing License

San Francisco, Cal., Sept. 23 (AP).—Carlos Malacara, Mexican boxer who was suspended by the California athletic commission last December on charges he had engaged in a bad fight in Hollywood, was denied a license today by members of the commission in their meeting here. Malacara, thru his manager, Gus Wilson of Los Angeles, applied for a license but it was turned down despite the fact his suspension had been automatically revoked at the end of six months. The fighter returned to Mexico City before the board could bring him up for a hearing.

NEWS FROM ARMY AND NAVY POSTS

BY FRANK MASTRO.

Camp Ellis.

PVT. BILL STICKLEN'S running and passing were bright spots in the Camp Ellis football team's drills last week for its opener against Ottumwa [Ia.] naval air station at this post Sunday. . . . Sticklen, former Joliet Catholic High school athlete and later a Notre Dame freshman, was leading individual scorer in football and basketball at Fort Sheridan last winter. . . . His teammates in the back field will be Joe Chrisman, who used to play for Midland [Neb.] college, and James Price, and Clarence Guyton. . . . Price is a former star at Wilberforce university. . . . Outstanding member in the line is Willard Cramer, University of Illinois alumnus. . . . There will be at least seven other contests on the schedule, it was announced by Corp. George Byers of the public relations office here. . . . Byers, Tribune employe on leave, said a return game will be played with Ottumwa, as well as a home and home series with Bunker Hill.

Pre-Flight.

WHEN the Iowa Seahawks meet the Tulsa team coached by Henry Frnka, member of the 1944 College All-Star coaching staff, three cadets will be opposing their alma mater—Quarter Back Dell Taylor, who was captain of the Golden Hurricanes last year and a regular on the teams which appeared in the Sun bowl once and twice in the Sugar bowl the last three seasons; End John Herriman, not only a party of the two Sugar bowl contests but who also twice lettered in basketball, and Bob Smith, who went to the university as an end but took over the blocking back job at midseason. . . . The game will be at Tulsa, Nov. 4. John McCullough, Chicago cadet, who competed one year at Indiana State Teachers before becoming regular Seahawk quarter back this year, missed yesterday's Seahawk-Minnesota game because he was deficient in code and blinker, talked his roommate into staying on the station this week-end to spend eight hours in the code room with him practicing sending and receiving. . . . T. S. Ary of Evansville, Ind., latest addition to the Seahawks, is only 19 years old but is competing on his third varsity eleven, previously having lettered at George Washington university and South Carolina.

Chanute Field.

PVT. FIRST CLASS BRYAN HOWELL, who ran away with a large share of batting honors in the Eastern Illinois Baseball league and led the Chanute Planesmen regulars in hitting for the season with a .430 average, has been transferred to Courtland, Ala., with other personnel of this four-engine pilot training school near Rantoul, Ill. . . . The Planesmen ended the season when they lost an 8 to 0 decision to the Chicago White Sox on Sept. 14. . . . Recapitulation shows the post nine scored 22 victories and suffered 10 defeats. . . . However, the Planesmen lost only two games in league competition, the other eight losses coming in exhibition engagements, five at the hands of service teams, including the 76th Infantry division from Camp McCoy, Wis.; the Great Lakes Negro varsity, and Camp Ellis' Cardinals.

SUPERBOMBERS ROUT WHITMAN ELEVEN, 78 TO 0

Boise, Idaho, Sept. 24 (AP).—The second air force Superbombers crushed Whitman's navy-bolstered eleven, 78 to 0, today before 7,000.

Maj. William B. [Red] Reese's powerhouse from Colorado Springs, Colo., scored a touchdown each of the first nine times it had the ball. Tulsa's Glenn Dobbs, limping, played one quarter.

One trip to the Superbomber 39 yard stripe in the first quarter was the best Whitman could do.

Texas A. and M. Routs Bryan Air Field, 39 to 0

College Station, Tex., Sept. 23 (AP).—Texas A. and M. scored to a 39 to 0 victory over Bryan air field today. Bobby Goff ran 80 yards to score, but the most sensational touchdown play of the game was a 55-yard pass by Jimmy Cashion to Norton Higgins.

PITT WINS 26-13 DECISION OVER MOUNTAINEERS

Pittsburgh, Pa., Sept. 23 (AP).—Clark Shaughnessy sent out his second T formation edition of the Pittsburgh Panthers today and defeated the Mountaineers of West Virginia, 26 to 13.

Pitt scored late in the first quarter when Kalminir went around left end for 17 yards and then crashed over from the 1 yard line. In the third period Sprock scored from the 4 yard line after the Panthers had moved 44 yards on five plays.

Mountaineers' Passing Scores.

Then the Mountaineers' passing attack caught Pitt flat footed. Walthall tossed to Anderson, advancing West Virginia to the Panther 8, and Rader took it over from the 1 after a penalty.

Sprock and Gaugler gave Pitt another touchdown in the same period, with Kalminir scoring and Kosh kicking the extra point.

Both teams scored in the first period, with Matthews, Banasick, and Itzel carrying the ball from their own 22, and Freese going over the line and kicking the point.

West Virginia Tallies.

Haman tossed a long one to Kesling, who scored for the Mountaineers.

OKLAHOMA AGGIES WIN.

Stillwater, Okla., Sept. 23 (AP). — The Oklahoma A. and M. football team, paced by Bob Fenimore, sophomore half back who accounted for two touchdowns on spectacular runs and tossed passes for two more, defeated West Texas State, 41 to 6, today in its season opener.

SEAHAWKS BEAT GOPHERS, 19-13, IN 4TH QUARTER

yard line after making a leaping catch. Here the pass attack stalled and Minnesota took over.

After Don Waldron returned a punt to Minnesota's 47, the Seahawks went down for the score that gave them a second lead. Bob Phillips made a running catch of Taylor's pass on the 25 and ran 10 more yards. Bob Sullivan of Holy Cross bucked to the 8 and Woodward, from the 4, drove over the Gopher's right guard at 13:49 in the quarter. Jim McEvoy's kick was low.

As the third quarter closed Minnesota had the ball on its 40. On the first play of the final period George Strohmeier, Iowa center, was tossed out for roughness, and maybe a little slugging.

Coast Seahawks 26 Yards.

This cost the Seahawks 26 yards and pressed them back to their 26. An offside penalty on the next play cost 5. Then Williams burst thru on his touchdown play, his try for the point failed, but Minnesota again had a 1 point advantage.

After the kickoff the Gophers stopped the Seahawks in the air and took the ball on the service men's 40 after a bad pass from center on fourth down. The threat was over when Sullivan recovered Sutton's fumble, but the Seahawks again were stopped.

From their 20 the Gophers started making menacing signs and Williams bolted thru center with only Randall Rushing, the safety, in his way. The Texas Tech athlete brought Red down on the Minnesota 43. The Gophers were down to the 30 when Bud Gullickson, 17 year old freshman, fumbled. Warren Smith recovered on the Seahawks' 30 with 5½ minutes left.

Starts Winning Rally.

Bob Smith started the winning rally with a 10 yard dash and Waldron got 8. Rushing slammed over just past midfield for a touchdown. Then Waldron pitched to Swanke, who was chased out on the Minnesota 21. Here Williams who had been hurt, came back in. A pass by Waldron failed, but Taylor came right back with another one. From the stands it appeared as tho Williams had intercepted, but Swanke had made the catch on Minnesota's 8.

Waldron swept to his left and was forced out 1 yard from the goal. Then Rushing tried the Minnesota left side for a touchdown. This time McEvoy kicked goal.

TEACHERS BEAT MACOMB, 12 TO 0, IN FIRST GAME

Charleston, Ill., Sept. 23 [Special].—Charleston Teachers today defeated Macomb, 12 to 0, here in the first football game for both teams. Charleston's first score came in the first quarter when Vic Auffenkamp, guard, intercepted a pass and ran 26 yards. The second score was in the second quarter when John Stabler, Tuscola went over from the one foot line.

Spartas Face Kickers Today in Cup Soccer

BY OFFSIDE.

Competition in the National Soccer league cup series will be resumed today with three games in the A division, five in B, and two in C. The feature attraction of the day finds the Spartas and Kickers replaying last week's game which ended in a 2 to 2 tie after two overtime periods.

Jimmy Wolf.

The Spartas have been hard hit by draft calls and enlistments, but will rely on the same starting lineup used a week ago which includes veterans Tom Scott, Laddie Mrnka, Emil Sterba, and Jimmy Wolf. Wolf joined the team in 1932 after coming to the United States with the famous Kladno team from Czechoslovakia and has been one of the outstanding players in Chicagoland soccer for the last 13 seasons.

The defending Champion Vikings, who received permission to go ahead with plans for their international match with the Norwegian royal air force team of Toronto, Canada, in Chicago, will rule as favorites in their match with the Fichtes in Winnemac Park stadium.

The Necaxas, who drew a bye today, will meet a picked team, from both the Vikings' varsity and reserve squads, in an exhibition in Kolzes Grove, Irving Park, and Narragansett today. The contest will headline the Mexican day picnic and program and will start at 4 o'clock. The lineups:

STEVE O'ROURKE, YANKEE SCOUT, DIES IN DENVER

Denver, Colo., Sept. 22 (AP).—Steve O'Rourke, midwestern scout for the New York Yankees, died last night of a heart ailment. O'Rourke formerly was a scout for the Detroit Tigers, resigning that position six years ago.

He coached at Regis college, Denver; St. Thomas college, St. Paul, Minn.; St. Mary's of Kansas, and other schools.

Survivors include his widow, who lives at Topeka, Kas., and two sons, both in the armed services.

WHITE SOX TAKE 6TH PLACE; BEAT SENATORS, 5 TO 4

the Sox were able to get a man home. They counted in the second on singles by Stan Spence and George Binks and an infield out and again in the fifth on a pass to George Case, Case's 46th theft of the year and a double by Gil Torres.

The Sox tied the score with a pair of runs in the sixth. Bill Metzig reached second on George Myatt's bad throw and scored on Eddie Carnett's second triple. Carnett got home on Trosky's infield out.

Sox Score 3 in 7th.

The Sox scored three runs after two were out in the seventh. Cass Michaels beat out an infield single and Ortiz threw late to second after fielding Dietrich's sacrifice. Wally Moses and Metzig flied out and Carnett walked, filling the bases. Trosky single to right, scoring Michaels and Dietrich and putting Carnett on third. Eddie scored on a wild pitch.

The Senators scored two runs after two were out in the ninth and had the tying run on second when the game ended with one down in the ninth. Joe Kuhel knocked a pinch single and Wilf Lefebvre executed a pinch whiff. Case doubled, Kuhel stopping at third. Myatt singled off Dietrich's glove, scoring Kuhel and when Dietrich retrieved the ball and threw past Trosky, Case scored and Myatt reached second. Then Torres flied to Trosky to end the game.

W. Michigan Beaten, 33-7, by Bunker Hill

Kalamazoo, Mich., Sept. 23 [Special].—An airminded Bunker Hill naval air base eleven, sparked by Vic Schwall former Northwestern star end and Mal Kutner of Texas, crushed Western Michigan college today, 33 to 7. Schwall passing to Kutner for three of Bunker Hill's five touchdowns.

Three minutes had gone when Schwall passed to Kutner for 19 yards and a touchdown. Jack Baer, half back, kicked the extra point. Just as the quarter ended Schwall passed 38 yards to the Bronco 8. Full Back Mike Elder hit the line twice to score and again Baer converted.

Soon afterward Jim Benson, Bronco reserve quarter, passed to Leonard Doxalovsky, half, for 15 yards and first down on the Bunker Hill 14. A pass to Carl Blauman, end, put it on the 1 foot line, Jim Marks, full back carried it over and then converted and it was 14 to 7. A 50 yard pass, Schwall to Kutner, gave Bunker Hill another touchdown but Baer's kick was blocked. Just before the half ended Schwall passed 44 years to Kutner who ran the final 10 to score.

SCHICK INJECTOR BLADES ARE BACK!
(Sorry—No New Razors Yet Except for the Armed Forces!)

Refresh your memory : : : go back to real shaving comfort and ease once more. No need to keep your Schick Injector Razor on the shelf now that Schick Blades are back again in force!

'Though we're now able to supply civilian as well as military demands for keen-edged Schick Blades, we still can't get the material for new razors. So take 'lasting' care of your Schick Injector Razor. Let these revolutionary features . . . the only basic safety razor improvements in over 40 years : : : prove what a sharp difference there is, morning after morning.

AUTOMATIC BLADE CHANGE
. . . an exclusive Schick Injector feature. A pull and push on the Injector shoots out the old blade, slides in a fresh one instantly. Nothing to take apart or re-assemble. No fumbling with sharp blade edges or messy paper wrappers.

SOLID GUIDE BAR
. . . has a sure-grip surface that stretches and flattens the skin just ahead of the blade. Pops up whiskers for closer, more comfortable shave. Corner guards protect against nicking and scraping.

DOUBLE-THICK BLADES
. . . just as long but twice as thick as ordinary blades. 3 times as thick as paper-thin ones. So they take and hold a really keen edge. Oil packed in special cartridge, their cutting edges are suspended in space.

Boris Dimancheff, a civilian; Chalmers Elliott, a marine; Ed Cody, a civilian transfer from Boston college, and Ray Schultz, a navy trainee. Cody scored two of the Purdue touchdowns and Dimancheff the other.

To Jim Mello, former Notre Dame full back, and Youel went most of the honors for the Bluejackets, tho the brilliant pass catching of Ed Saenz, former Southern California star, and Don Mangold of Indiana brought the cheering sailors to their feet time after time.

Purdue Drive Halted on 2.

The Boilermakers' start was auspicious to say the least, and even tho a great drive bogged down near the Great Lakes' goal line, it furnished the enlisted personnel great concern as the fleet Purdue backs swept up to the 2 yard line in eight plays after Jesse Hahn, the Murray [Ky.] Teachers' alumnus, kicked off to Bump Elliott who returned the ball 15 yards to his 27.

Elliott, Cody and Dimancheff then went to work on the Great Lakes line and tore it to pieces as they swept down to the shadow of the Bluejacket goal. Cody drove thru tackle for 12; Elliott made another first down on the 50; Dimancheff picked up 3 and then ran 31 to the Sailors' 16. Cody made 7, Elliott 2, and Dimancheff made it first and goal on the Sailors' 5. That was all. Youel then punted to Dimancheff, who fumbled on the Great Lakes' 35 and Keane recovered for the Bluejackets.

The Sailors got under way smartly and mixed a line battering game with laterals to advance the ball to Purdue's 13 from where Youel tossed a short pass to Ed Saenz who raced eight yards to score. Mello's kick was good and the quarter ended soon thereafter with the score: Great Lakes, 7; Purdue, 0.

Fumbled Lateral Is Costly.

The Sailors were on their 30 when Avery dropped a lateral from Youel and Pat O'Brien smothered it for Purdue. Then Dimancheff, Elliott, and Cody went back to work. Dimancheff and Elliott gained seven in two smashes. Dimancheff scooted 15 to the Sailors' eight for a first down. Three more plays gained just six and a half yards and with the ball directly in front of the goal, a yard and a half out, Cody carried it over but Stan Dubicki's try for the extra point was wide and the Bluejackets remained in front, 7 to 6.

That score was the signal for uncovering Purdue's passing game and it wasn't long before the Boilermakers took command. An exchange of punts gave Purdue the ball on its own 42. Dubicki made 8 off tackle and the stage was set. On the next play, a screen pass from Schultz to Cody was good for 7 yards and before the Sailors could recover from the shock of the play, Schultz faded back 15 yards and shot a long one downfield to Dimancheff, who caught the ball on the 14 and went over. Dubicki again missed the try for the extra point, but the Boilermakers led, 12 to 7.

Bluejackets Lead At Half.

The Bluejackets recovered from their discomfiture and Youel mixed up an assortment of forwards and laterals with determined line smashing to put the Sailors on the Boilermakers' 40 with 15 seconds of the half remaining. Then he shot a forward to Mangold in the end zone for a touchdown. The kick was blocked but recovered across the goal by Mello and the Bluejackets led, 14 to 12, as the half ended.

A fumble by Youel recovered by Morton on the Sailors' 35 shortly after the second half opened, put Purdue in position for their third touchdown. Four plays were good for a first down on the 21. Elliott then made two and Winkler recovered a fumble by Cody for a six yard gain to the 13. Dimancheff made it first down on the 7 and on the third play Cody went thru for a yard and a touchdown. Haverstock's try for point was blocked. The score: Purdue, 18; Great Lakes, 14. The teams were in midfield with Purdue in possession as the third quarter ended without further scoring.

The Bluejackets came back with plenty of courage in the last quarter and it wasn't long before the lead changed hands again, this time for good, as Youel's passing and Mello's line smashing shoved the Boilermakers back to their 33 from where Youel passed to Keane in front of the goal line and he stumbled over for the score. Mello's try for the extra point was blocked and the score was: Great Lakes, 20; Purdue, 18. Then came Youel's great run for the Sailors' fourth touchdown.

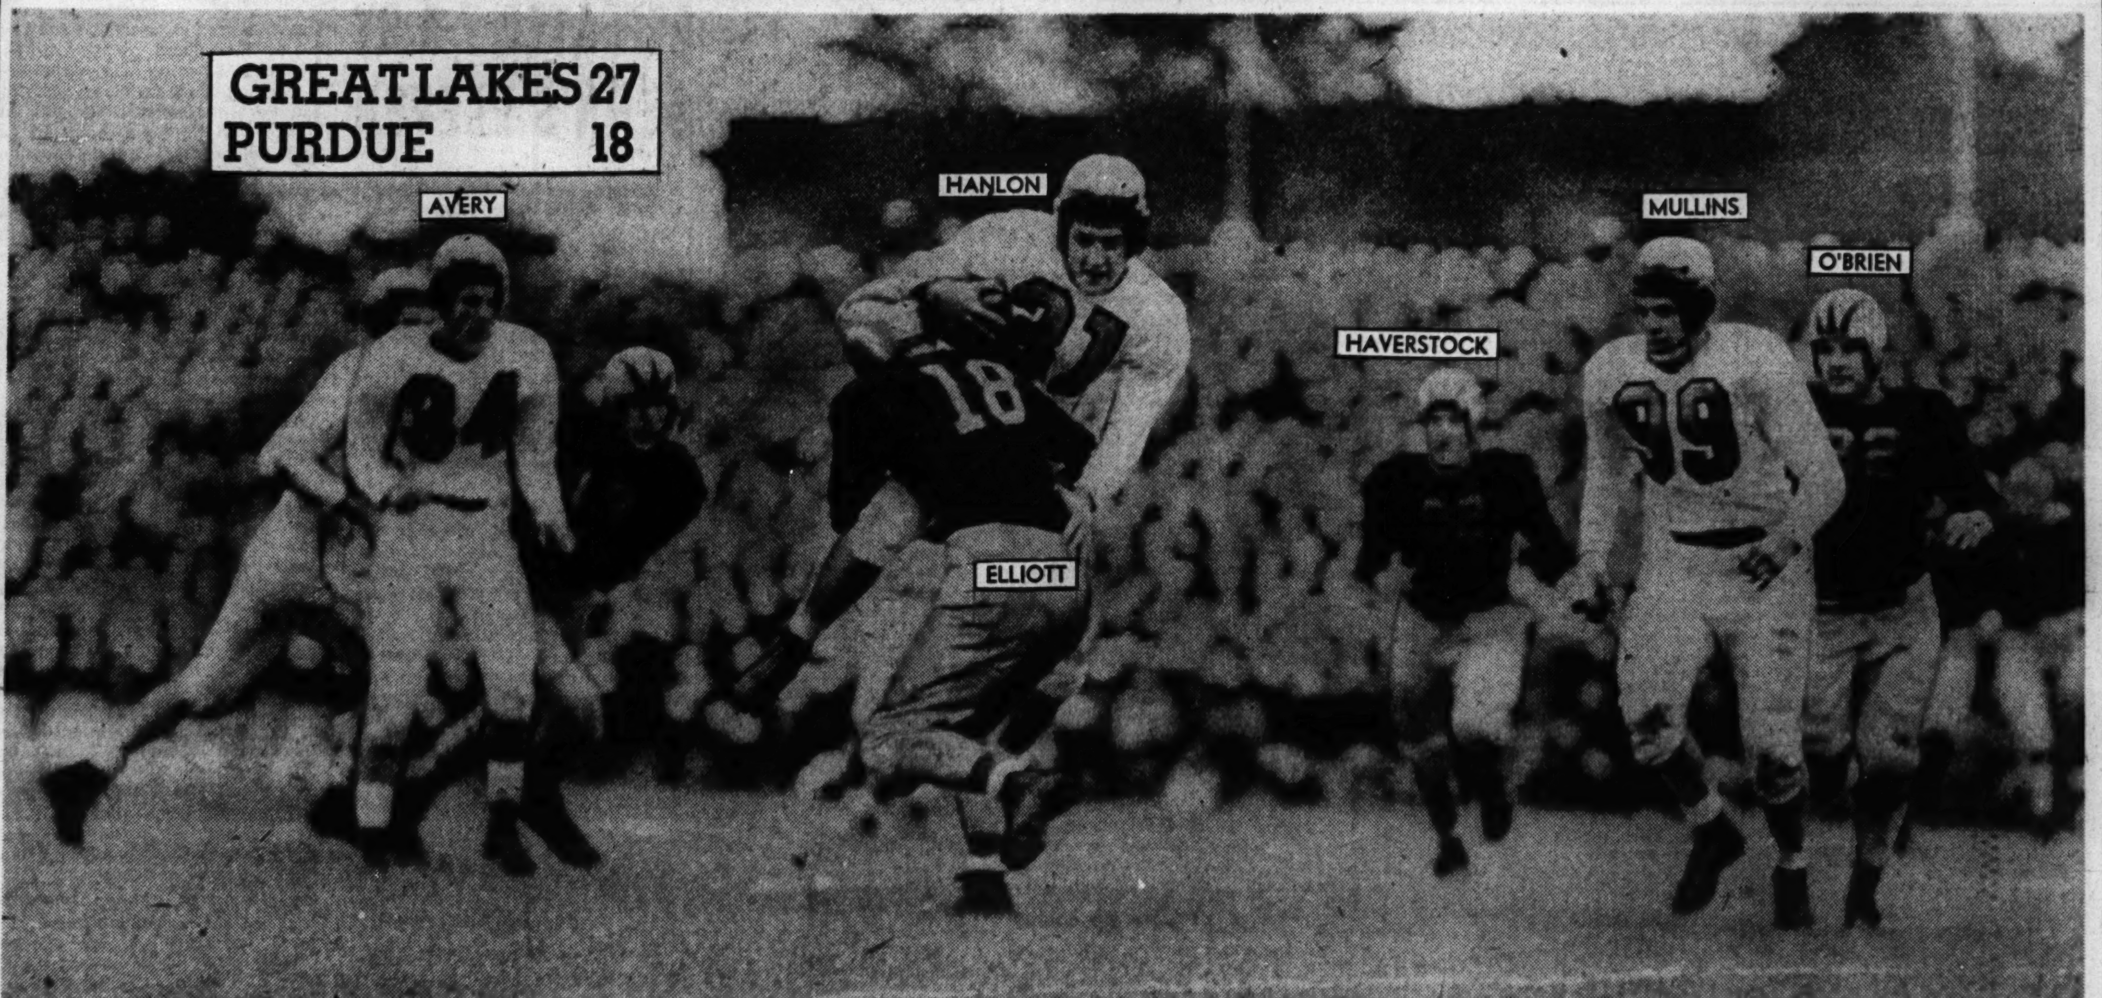
A BLUEJACKET HELPS SPOIL PURDUE'S WINNING RECORD



Robert Hanlon, Great Lakes back field man from Notre Dame, carrying the ball against Purdue yesterday on Ross field on the lake shore. The Bluejackets' victory came in the fourth quarter after regaining a lead that had been lost to the Boilermakers in the third quarter. Twenty-five thousand spectators in uniform saw their team snap the winning streak of the 1943 Big 9 co-champions.

YANKEES DEFEAT INDIANS, 7 TO 2; STILL IN RACE

Cleveland, O., Sept. 23 (AP).—The New York Yankees kept their faint pennant hopes alive today by taking their second straight from the Cleveland Indians, 7 to 2, before a slim crowd of 2,500 fans.

The Yankees pounded Steve Gromek, Paul Calvert and Ray Poat for 12 hits, including Nick Etten's 21st homer of the year. Oscar Grimes batted in three runs.

Hunters Know Where to Look for Ducks—Can't Find Shells

BY BOB BECKER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Solen, S. D., Sept. 23. — Illinois hunters and hundreds of thousands of other shotgun enthusiasts are looking ahead to the waterfowl "D-day" which comes on Oct. 14, the opening of the 1944 season. And the D-day hour is one-half hour before sunrise when it is legal to open up on the ducks. Maintime the mad scramble for shotgun shells continues. If a hunter can buy a box or two at a store he is lucky, for shops have to ration their stocks. We know of just one store that sold four boxes to a customer and they went out of the shell business in a few hours.

The shortage of shotgun shells and the scramble for 'em this fall should not surprise readers of the sports section of this newspaper, for the forecast was made exclusively in this department weeks ago that there would not be large quantities of ammunition this fall, despite the cheery prediction from the WPB that each hunter's quota was four boxes this fall. Not only are many Illinois hunters lacking sufficient ammunition to take a reasonable harvest of the unusually large game bird populations which are a threat to farmer's crops, but hunters in the northwest are also singing the blues.

Have Too Many Birds.

South Dakota is one state that needs lots of shells. They have to cut down the pheasant population out there at least three or four million. North Dakota figures it has 9,000,000 pheasants. This excessive ring-neck total also has to be reduced by several millions. A pheasant population of that size is too many birds for the good of agriculture, and North Dakota farmers are complaining about the way the ducks are making away with their grain.

While Illinois hunters are counting up their shotgun loads and reserving blinds for the opening day shoot, they have an opportunity to look over the most accurate and revealing study of duck hunting ever made in this state. It's the work of the state natural history survey of which Dr. T. H. Frison is the chief. The study was made and written by Game Technician Frank Bellrose Jr.

Book Has Answers.

If duck hunters are wondering why it's so hard to find a place to get a good shoot, what their chances are for a good hunt on a day shooting area, and how the various river areas compare in duck population during migrations, this recent study entitled "Waterfowl Hunting in Illinois—Its Status and Problems" has the answers. It's also the best analysis ever made of the duck hunting problem on free, open marshes in this state and portrays graphically how badly this state needs additional marshes for free hunting.

Lexington, Ky., Sept. 23 (AP).—Kentucky punched over three touchdowns in the second period tonight to break a deadlock with Mississippi and Coast to a 27 to 7 decision.

DODGERS SCORE SEVEN IN 5TH TO ROUT CUBS, 12-3

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Brooklyn, N. Y., Sept. 23.—The cool evening air and the pitching of old man Ben Chapman, the reformed outfielder, were more than a little too much for the Cubs tonight so they surrendered their six game winning streak to the indolent Dodgers, who after all have been pretty good to them this season. Charley Grimm's boys couldn't hit or field and weren't able to dig up any pitching talent, all of which earned them a 12 to 3 plastering before 4,726.

Paul Erickson was tried on the mound for a starter and three innings proved enough, especially with the addition of two errors. Japhet Lynn was next and under the strain of Don Johnson's third blunder of the night got into a fifth inning jam that Hy Vandenberg couldn't dissolve until seven runs had been scored. And for extra entertainment Boss Grimm was tossed off the premises by Mr. George Magerkurth, an umpire.

The fifth inning distress began with a double by Galan and a pass to Walker but the situation eased when the former was forced at third on Schultz' bunt. Johnson then offended by kicking Owen's double play grounder, Walker scoring. This was where Lynn's control began to go bad, assisted by Il Duce Magerkurth. Stanky, Tom Brown and Chapman walked in order, forcing in two runs and leaving a full house for Vandenberg to renovate. Instead, Eddie Miksis and Morris Aderholt did the renovating by singling, each tap driving in a pair of runs.

The Cubs, after being silent since the fourth, finally pepped up in the eighth and scored their third run on a single by Cavarretta and a double by Dom Dallessandro.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Green Bay, Wis., Sept. 23.—The Chicago Bears, around whom the dramatic ever is revolving, had an unpleasant surprise tonight for the Green Bay Packers and the 25,000 fans who will sit in City stadium tomorrow afternoon—Ensign Sid Luckman. Sid was here in the flesh, in a last minute role reminiscent of his late arrival to participate in last month's victorious College All-Star game.

Luckman's timely arrival made the Bears favorites to whip their old time enemy and head them toward a fifth straight western division title in the National Football league, leading to a showdown with the eastern winners. The Bears have beaten the Packers four times and gained one tie in five games since Green Bay last won in 1941.

Has Season's Contract.

Ensign Luckman, member of the maritime service, who has been stationed at Sheepshead bay, near Brooklyn, has been granted an indefinite leave by his commanding officer and will remain with the champions until he is called for sea duty. His length of time with the Bears is indefinite, but Sid has signed a regular contract, according to Ralph Brizzolare, acting president.

In their 1944 plans, the Bears figured that the services of Luckman for each of the Green Bay games—the second one will be played in Chicago on Nov. 5—would possibly be enough to turn the western division race in their favor. Luckman has had only a week's work with the Bears—just before the All-Star game—but he is in good condition. "This makes it all the rougher for us," said Coach Curly Lambeau of the Packers. "We figured we had no more than an even chance of beating the Bears without Luckman."

First League Game for Bears.

This is the Bears' opening league game of the season. The Packers successfully launched their campaign last Sunday in Milwaukee by whipping the Brooklyn Tigers, 14 to 7, in a battle of penalties. As a result, some of the Packers still are bruised and slightly battered. There are some limping cases among the Bears, too, as a result of the champions' rough exhibition a week ago with the New York Giants. The Bears won this one, 20 to 10.

Lambeau has sprouted a few gray hairs since his Packers last whipped the Bears. That was in November, 1941 and the score was 16 to 14. This forced a playoff for the western title and the Bears won it, 33 to 14. Since then the Bears have beaten the Packers twice in Chicago, while winning one and tying one in Green Bay.

This is the 52d league game between the rivals. The Bears have won 28, lost 19, and tied four. They've scored 655 points to the Packers' 513.

The Chicago-Pittsburgh combination will start its league campaign tomorrow in Pittsburgh against the Cleveland Rams, who are returning to competition after a year's layoff. The Card-Pitts were beaten by the Philadelphia Eagles and Washington Redskins in exhibitions. The other six league teams are idle tomorrow.

LIONS BEAT GIANTS

Detroit, Mich., Sept. 23 [Special].—Three touchdown passes from Frank Sinkwich gave the Detroit Lions a 23 to 0 victory over the New York Giants in a football exhibition here tonight.

The former George All-American player riddled the helpless Giants' secondary for three touchdowns within as many minutes of play in the second and third periods, and an alert Lions stifled the New Yorkers efforts.

The Giants lacked even the rudiments of a pass defense after the first period. Sinkwich completed 11 of 16 passen for 188 yards. Bob Westfall, the Lions prize rookie, made his debut in the first period and became the game's leading ground gainer, picking up 44 yards in seven attempts. The Giants were bereft of the services of Bill Paschal, the league's champion ball carrier, who failed to arrive. He had planned to fly here from his merchant marine station in New York.

Score by quarters:

Detroit	0	9	14	0—23

GAMES TODAY.

Catholic Miscellaneous.

Catholic High [Joliet] vs. St. Ignatius, in Key Branch stadium, 2 p. m.; De Paul vs. Mt. Carmel, in Yates Avenue stadium, 2 p. m.; Leo vs. Loras academy [Dubuque, Ia.], in Shewbridge field, 2 p. m.; De La Salle vs. St. Philip, in Lane Tech stadium, 3 p. m.; St. Mel in St. Rita stadium, 2 p. m.

Leo High school, whose previous football efforts this year have been a 7 to 7 tie with St. George and a 25 to 0 defeat at the hands of Tilden, will have another try today in Shewbridge field when they meet Loras academy of Dubuque, Iowa. The Lions, playing their first season under Joe [Red] Gleason, former De La Salle coach, will have until next Sunday, when they meet Loyola in the start of Catholic league official business, to iron out the flaws in an inexperienced team built around only four returning lettermen.

Monogram men on this year's squad include co-captains Jack Kopshader at tackle and Don Siminick at guard. Kopshader, at 194 pounds, is the heaviest lineman on the squad. Patrick [Bucko] McGinnis, a 170 pound center, is a veteran, as is Ed Kozlowski at right half back.

Gleason Has Hopes.

"We're green," Gleason said, "and those first two games were the tough ones we needed. We learned a lot and have made changes and shuffled the lineup. We're going into the Loras game pretty blind, because we know nothing about them. We have mapped no defense, but have been concentrating on blocking and tackling."

Gleason was enthused about one back, Ed McAuliffe, who was converted from tackle. "He's the fastest back on the squad," Gleason said, "and one of the best high school passers I've seen in years. He's also a good kicker. Just keep your eye on him."

Winning Record in 1943.

Last year the Lions lost one game, a 12 to 6 decision to St. Rita, tied Mount Carmel, 6 to 6, and won four. They were city champions in 1941 and 1942, defeating Tilden in the Kelly bowl both years.

Elsewhere in closing the Catholic practice season today, Mount Carmel, already victorious in two games, plays De Paul, 6 to 0 losers to Loyola in its opening game. Catholic high of Joliet, which lost, 18 to 0 to St. George last week, meets St. Ignatius in Key Branch stadium. St. Ignatius defeated St. Rita, 26 to 0, in its initial start.

DINNER TO OPEN CHARITY GAME TICKET SALES

Sheriff Michael F. Mulcahy will preside at the annual dinner tomorrow night to open the sale of tickets for the Sisters of Mercy football game with the Leo and St. Rita prep teams as opponents in Comiskey Park Oct. 22. The dinner is to be held at Mercy High school, 8100 Prairie av.

Sheriff Mulcahy is general chairman of the ticket committee and is assisted by Ald. John J. Duffy, Frank Lyman, and Judge John McSweeney. Judge Michael L. Igoe, former chairman, will also be present, and Mayor Kelly is expected.

Coaches Leo Deutsch of St. Rita and Joe Gleason of Leo will speak, as will former Coaches Whitey Cronin and Dan Lamont.

Medinah Club Will Honor Kay Curtis in Show Today

A reception and water ballet exhibition will be given in honor of Kay Curtis, in the Medinah club, 505 N. Michigan av. 13th floor pool today at 11 a. m. Miss Curtis is responsible for the promotion of water ballet in the middle west and ballet competition. She has been overseas with the American Red Cross for the last 20 months, serving as head of a soldiers' rest home in Italy.

BY WILLIAM BAYLISS.

SCORING eight runs in the eighth inning, the Haber Screw Machine Products company team beat Thordarson Electric, 9 to 8, in Weber park Friday night to win the North Side Y. M. C. A. industrial softball tournament championship. The contestants were from the North Av.-Larrabee, Lincoln-Belmont, and Division St. Industrial leagues, with the champions representing the first named association.

Had the Haber-Thordarson game been in either the first or semi-final round, the latter would have won, 8 to 1, for all games except the final were limited to seven innings, the rules specifying that the title contest should be nine innings. The Thordarsons' last chance evaporated in the last of the ninth when, with two out, Pitcher Steve Lucas of Haber picked a Thordarson runner off first base to end the game. Schmuggy Schmalz, with four hits in four times at bat, led the Haber attack. Results of other games in the meet:

FIRST ROUND—Haber, 12; Victor Adding Machine, 10. Sola Electric, 9; Bell & Howell, 6. Proctor & Gamble, 18; Teletype Corp., 9. Thordarson, 16; Gits Molding, 6.

SEMI-FINALS—Haber, 13; Sola, 7. Thordarson, 11; Proctor & Gamble, 8.

CONSOLATION—Proctor & Gamble, 18; Sola, 17.

Teletype earlier last week had won the championship of the Lincoln-Belmont Y. M. C. A. league by taking two out of three games in its play-off series with Bell & Howell.

Vince Infanti Named Athletic Head for J. P. Seeburg Co.

Vince Infanti has been named athletic and recreational director for the J. P. Seeburg company. He will have charge of those phases of the Seeburg activities in the company's four Chicago plants and for the time being will have as his main project the organization of men's and girls' basketball teams. He will work under Ralph Isacksen, personnel director, who in the past has handled the sports program himself.

The Oak Manufacturing company basketball squad, possibly hoping to get the jump on rival teams, already is working out regularly with an eye toward the season which will open in November. Gus Annenia and Pete Gallachio are co-coaches. And the Milwaukee Road girls' softball enthusiasts have turned their attention to volleyball.

Division St. Y. M. C. A. League Plans Banquet Wednesday Night.

The Division St. Y. M. C. A. Industrial Softball league will hold its post-season banquet Wednesday night in the association building. The Thordarsons will receive the team championship trophy and other team and individual awards will be presented.

R. D. Edwards (center), United Air Lines' Chicago station manager, admires the company's softball league championship trophy, which will have a place in his office. The trophy was won by the operations team, led by Stan Nowicki (right) and was provided by the social activities board, represented by Glynn Johns (left).

The Thordarsons dethroned Elcor, Inc., as Division St. league champions, defeating that team, 9 to 8, in the play-off game between winners of the first and second halves of the season. The Elcors won the first half title and play-offs were necessary to decide top honors in both halves of the campaign. Hammond Instrument, which shared the top spot with Thordarson at the end of the regular schedule, was beaten, 12 to 6, in a preliminary to the title play-off and also lost to Bendix Aviation, runner-up in the first half, in play-off between the second place clubs.

Servel Bowlers Proud of Record in Evansville, Ind., Leagues.

The United Air Lines softball league, which has been operating with record success all summer, reached its climax in the title play-offs between Operations and Dispatch. The league trophy went to Operations, captained by Stan Nowicki, which won two of the three games in the flyers' little world series. United's mixed bowling league of 20 teams already has completed its second week of operation at the Western Recreation, 63d st. and Western av., where it operates every Monday night. The schedule will run 30 weeks, the present individual leaders being Dotty Stepek among the women and Clarence Stern for the men.

BUNNIES BETTER BEWARE.

Archery enthusiasts at the RCA Victor plant in Bloomington, Ind., expect to be able to have a rabbit in every pot this winter, and that's not an election promise either. They have been holding regular practice shoots to perfect their aim for the day when they can do some bunny stalking with their l'il bows 'n arrows.

Comment in this department last week to the effect that Waukegan is claiming the distinction of being the capital of Chicagoland industrial bowling is not being allowed to pass without a challenge. From Evansville, Ind., comes the word that Servel, Inc., of that city is right proud of its intraplant bowling setup. The Servel bowlers have organized a record lineup of 80 teams bowling in seven leagues. Twenty of the teams are women's, 20 are in a mixed men's and women's league, and the other 40 are for the men alone.

Republic Aviation, Indiana division, also located in Evansville, has 40 bowling teams, organized in three men's and one women's league as a part of its well rounded athletic program. Also from Republic comes the word that Fred Marchev, president of the entire Republic organization, has promised to come to Evansville next month to present the championship trophy to the winner of the Indiana division's golf tournament. That is just another example of the interest which top management shows in industrial recreation.

BLACKHAWKS TO ENTRAIN FRIDAY FOR MINN. CAMP

Manager Paul Thompson will lead the first contingent of Chicago Blackhawk players to their training site at Hibbing, Minn., Friday night where a week from tomorrow the group starts practice for the coming hockey season. Because of travel difficulties, Blackhawk officials do not know how many will be in Thompson's party. Several players are expected to go directly to Hibbing from their home.

A total of 25 players, including more youngsters than they ever have had before, are expected to be present for the first workout. Outstanding among the new men are Johnny Harms from Hershey, Pa., who appeared in the Stanley cup playoff series last year against the Canadiens, and Pete Horeck of the Cleveland Barons who led the American league scoring last season with 34 goals. Bill Thoms, who missed most of last year's competition because of illness, is reported to be in condition for a comeback.

The Chicago party will remain in Hibbing for about three weeks, during which time they hope to get in a few practice games with the New York Rangers who will be practicing nearby. The Blackhawk season will open in Chicago on Sunday night, Oct. 29, against the Toronto Mapleleafs. It will be the Hawks' seventh training season in Hibbing, the sixth under Thompson.

PASSES CLINCH JOB WITH IRISH FOR DANCEWICZ

Notre Dame, Ind., Sept. 23 [Special].—Frank Dancewicz, junior quarter back from Lynn, Mass., won the praise of Coach Ed McKeever this afternoon following a long scrimmage session in which nearly the entire Notre Dame squad took part. Dancewicz threw three long touchdown passes. He has the No. 1 job clinched now, with Joe Gasparella, 17 year old freshman quarter back from Vandergrift, Pa., as the No. 2 man.

Bill O'Connor, freshman end from New York City, caught two of Dancewicz's touchdown passes and another thrown by Gasparella.

George Sullivan, junior left tackle from East Walpole, Mass., and Ralph Stewart, freshman center from St. Louis, also won McKeever's praise for the manner in which they carried out their offensive assignments.

The varsity frequently had its running game slowed down by the line backing of Marty Wendell, star full back of the St. George team which captured the Catholic league Chicago prep championships last year.

Wendell will not be eligible for varsity competition until Nov. 1. He is a V-12 student.

Elmer Angsman, No. 1 full back from Mount Carmel High school, Chicago, and George Terlep, starting left half back from Elkhart, Ind., were out of the scrimmage with injuries, as was Bob Kelly, regular half back.

AMUNDSEN HIGH DEFEATED, 7-0, BY SENN'S ELEVEN

The north section race in the City High School league opened yesterday with four games, highlighted by Senn's 7 to 0 victory over Amundsen, defending champion in the north section, in a contest at Winnemac park. Senn scored in the second period when Tex McCracken went over on a quarter back sneak. Ted Kemp ran for the extra point. Amundsen reached the Senn 15 yard line in the third quarter, in its only serious threat of the game, but lost the ball on downs.

Taft Defeats Roosevelt.

Taft defeated Roosevelt, 25 to 0, in another north section game. Len Lewandowski scored twice in the first half, skirting end for 12 yards in the first period, and repeating the play in the second quarter for 45 yards and a touchdown. In the third quarter Bob Walker took a five yard pass and then ran down the sidelines for 50 yards. The final score came when John Bowen plunged over from the 3 yard line.

Johnny Miller scored three times as Schurz opened its North section bid with a 26 to 6 victory over Sullivan in Lane Tech stadium.

Lake View Beats Waller.

Lake View defeated Waller, 7 to 0, in the fourth north section game.

In the lone South Suburban league contest, Thornton defeated Blue Island, 12 to 6.

The West Suburban league opened play with three contests. Glenbard defeated Hinsdale, 22 to 13, after Don Plym ran 60 yards to break a 13 to 13 half time tie. Glenbard scored its last two points with a safety in the fourth quarter.

Riverside.—Brookfield defeated Downers Grove, 14 to 0, at Riverside. Jerry Olsen scored both touchdowns and Dan Kennedy converted. In the third game, York scored in the fourth quarter to defeat Maine, 6 to 0.

Fenger Beats New Trier by 32 to 13 Tally

The New Trier High school football team, heralded in pre-season dope as one of the strongest elevens in the state, yesterday fell to Fenger, rated as a strong challenger in the South Section race, 32 to 13, after holding a 7 to 0 lead at the end of the first period. Art Kortz, Fenger right half back, scored twice in the practice game.

New Trier finished in a last place tie with Waukegan for Surburban league honors last season, but had been highly rated this year because of strong reserves, 13 returning lettermen, and a line averaging 190 pounds.

Oak Park defeated Crane, 20 to 0, in a game that was highlighted by Tom Kelly's 40 yard touchdown dash in the second quarter, while Bowen trimmed Englewood, 26 to 0, as Bob Sadzak scored twice.

Tilden Defeats Morgan Park.

In a twilight encounter, Tilden defeated Morgan Park, 6 to 0. The score was 0 to 0 at the half, but in the third period Eddie Kriwiel, Tilden left half back, plunged eight yards to score.

Harrison defeated Marshall, 7 to 6. Harrison scored in the second period. Marshall drove 80 yards to score in the closing minutes, but failed to gain the extra point.

Horace Chandler scored three touchdowns and an extra point as Phillips defeated Tuley, 39 to 21, in a practice game in Hanson Park. Ronny Kuhns scored twice for the losers.

Luther defeated North Park academy, 6 to 0 on Fred Startz' 10 yard sweep around end in the second quarter.

Rally Beats Kelvyn Park.

Hirsch combined two touchdowns, a conversion, and a safety, all in the final period, to defeat Kelvyn Park, 15 to 0, at Key Branch stadium. The first touchdown came on a 22 yard pass from Bob Herlin to Emil Gustafson. Ernie Bryson intercepted a Kelvyn pass to run 35 yards for the second score. The safety came on a blocked punt.

Johnny Karras made three touchdowns, one a 70 yard end sweep, as Argo routed Morgan Park Military academy, 32 to 0, at Argo, while Tom Foster ran 30 yards in the first quarter and 15 in the third to as Highland Park defeated Kelly, 28 to 0, at Highland Park.

Farragut won from Harper, 6 to 0, on George Prchal's third quarter plunge from the three yard line, elsewhere around the practice circuit, while Hyde Park defeated South Shore, 14 to 12.

42 COMPETE IN 35 MILE BIKE MARATHON

Forty-two amateur bicycle riders, including four state champions and as many runners-up, will ride this afternoon in the 35 mile DesPlaines to Chicago handicap race sponsored by the John T. Dempsey Athletic club. Eleven riders were placed at scratch by the handicap committee of the Amateur Bicycle League of America, and will leave the starting mark in front of the City hall 12 minutes after the limit men who start riding to Chicago at 2 p. m.

The favorite to win the time prize that goes to the rider making the best time is Arthur Lauf of Hydes, Md., who is tied with his brother Jimmy for top national honors. Arthur won the state title recently and Jimmy the junior crown. Pierre DeVise of Washington, D. C., is another easterner with a chance to take top honors. Gene Portuesi, of Detroit, Michigan state champion, and Bob Travani of the same city are the leaders from that state, while Gene Lechner of Milwaukee, winner of the Wisconsin title is the Badger state's best bet.

SPOTTING THE PINS

THE office of secretary of the C. B. A. and of the Illinois State Bowling association, is being filled, temporarily, at least, by Jim Kalivoda, the late Al Sindelar's right hand man for a number of years. He's been engaged by the C. B. A. executive committee to take over the office until Dec. 3, at which time the delegates to the annual C. B. A. convention will either select another man for the permanent position or decide to let Kalivoda succeed himself.

Here's a thumb-nail sketch of the chap who's filling a big pair of shoes as head man of the world's largest city bowling association:

Jim used to be in the auto repair business for himself. . . . He always had an interest in bowling but never made any money at it until 10 years ago when Sindelar hired him to certify bowling alleys. . . . He did this work for two years before going into the C. B. A. office with Al. . . . Now he's well acquainted with cash books, alley certificates, prize checks, memberships and sanctions, and other items of office detail. . . . He bowls with the Brudil Truckers of the Lawndale Wishbone league. . . . His average is 165. . . . Right now he's thoroly occupied arranging details for the coming C. B. A. tournament, entries for which will close Nov. 10 and which will be open in the Congress Arcade Dec. 2. . . . He's also working on the state tourney for which the site will be Bensinger's Adams and Wabash.

Classic League's Sunday Sweepers Start Tonight in Bowling Lanes.

The Classic league's Sunday sweepstakes will make their 1944-1945 start tonight in Bowling Lanes, 5221 Broadway av. Clarence Jackson has charge of the schedule arrangements which call for nine sweepers during the season. The new two-in-one plan has necessitated the heavier schedule. This system enables each bowler to apply his total, shot in team competition, toward individual prizes.

THIS 'N' THAT—The South End Traveling league, one of the city's oldest, is in full sway with eight teams. . . . The Ten Pin in Barrington, is wasting no time. The second annual sweeper has been announced for Saturday and Sunday, Oct. 7 and 8. . . . It's in the wind that there may be a sequel to that Bomar-Flesch match against the San Antonio duo, Bill Granieri and Charley Treuter. It's only in the making, tho. . . . The proceeds from Matt Faetz' sweeper were divided between the service men's center and the Bowler's Victory Legion. . . . THE TRIBUNE's famous Nitehawk league, which starts at 2 a. m. on Wednesdays, is in full operation. Currently, after three games, the Maloneys, the Judds and the Maxwells are leading at 3-0 each. . . . The Chicago Association of Commerce Industrial league has begun its fourth season. Phil Stockhausen of the Illinois Bell Telephone Co. is chairman. . . . The South End Ladies' Traveling league will bowl a 35 week schedule in four houses including the K. of C. in Gary. Gene Little, the league's organizer, is president. This is its second season. . . . It took an 850 team average to get into the West End House league. . . . The Itasca Bowling league, named for the popular golf club, opened Wednesday night in Northtown Recreation. It's a mixed league.

Eddie Koepp Will Defend Crown in Diamond Belt Tournament.

Announcement that Eddie Koepp of Cleveland, who won the event last year, has entered Buddy Bomar's fourth annual Diamond Medal tournament in Marigold arcade, calls to mind that entries for the meet close Oct. 16. It will be run Nov. 4 thru Nov. 12 and top prize is $2,000 plus a diamond medal. About 600 are expected to compete in the tournament which, while the fourth Bomar has held, is the second in Chicago, the first two having been staged in Dallas, Bud's home town.

Normal Rally Ties Wabash Eleven, 7 to 7

Normal, Ill., Sept. 23 [Special].—Illinois State Normal and Wabash college battled to a 7-7 tie at McCormick field today.

Normal put over its touchdown in the final minute of the first quarter, Leslie McIntyre passing from Wabash's own 30 yard line to Delmar Woods on the Little Giants' 10 yard stripe. Woods then lateraled to Bob Petersen who sped the remaining 10. McIntyre kicked the extra point.

Wabash tied the score in the third period when the Little Giants marched 40 yards in a sustained drive to within a couple of feet of the goal line. Jim Larson then plunged through the middle of Normal's line for a touchdown. The kick was blocked but Wayne Turpin carried it across to knot the score.

Both teams threatened in the final period and once the Little Giants held for down on the one yard strip.

Jim Allerdice, Wabash's full back was always a threat both as a runner and passer and Bob Carpenter, Normal's left half back also turned in a fine game. Lineup:

MICHIGAN WINS OVER MARQUETTE IN 2D HALF, 14-0

Both Teams Make Goal Line Stands.

Benka was stopped, and two passes failed. Mel Mochalski, 17 year old Milwaukee end, then entered the game to essay a place kick, but his attempt from an angle on the Michigan 22 yard line fell short.

Two Thrusts Fail.

Michigan took over on its 20 yard mark, and began the march which ultimately was stymied by the Hilltoppers' heroic stand at the goal line.

The first drive ended when the Wolverines fumbled on the Marquette 11. Marquette kicked out to the 36. Then began the march that failed inches from the Hilltop goal line. Nussbaumer smashed 6 yards, and Culligan, accepting a lateral from Wiese, drove to the 13 yard stripe. He was stopped on the next play, but Nussbaumer cut back to the 7. On the next play he made it a first down on the Marquette 3 yard line. The Hilltoppers then repelled four straight thrusts. Wiese was halted. Culligan went over defensive left tackle to the 1 foot line. Then he was stopped at the same point, and so was Ponsetto, Marquette taking over. The Wolverines came back again, but Culligan's fumble was recovered by Powell of Marquette on the latter's 20 yard line.

Derricotte Starts It.

Derricotte's return of the third quarter kickoff was a valuable ingredient of the first Michigan touchdown march. He took it on his 5 yard line and returned to the 31. Nussbaumer delivered 9 yards at his left tackle, then made it first down on his own 47 yard mark. Derricotte swept his right end to the Marquette 35. Nussbaumer and Wiese collaborated in alternate thrusts until Wiese, finding a hole at right guard, went 10 yards to the Marquette 6. Derricotte went over his right guard for the touchdown and left-footed Ponsetto made the extra point.

Marquette's Copoulos returned the ensuing kick-off from his 2 yard line to his 37. Benka's pass was intercepted by Derricotte, who fumbled and Kosikowski recovered on the Michigan 36 yard line. Marquette finally punted, Derricotte receiving and stepping out of bounds on his own 9 yard line. Wiese fumbled and Krebs of Marquette recovered on the Wolverine 11. Benka passed to Kaminski, who was run out of bounds at the Michigan 3 yard line. Dudan was halted on fourth down and Michigan took possession.

Culligan to Rifenburg.

Later Lodde punted to the Michigan 14 yard line. Nussbaumer and Derricotte took turns rushing the ball to the Hilltop 30 yard line. Culligan dropped back and hurled the ball to his right, Rifenburg breaking out of a patrol of Marquette defenders to take it and scamper over the goal line. Ponsetto's successful kick made it 14 to 0.

VANITIES OF '45 OPENS STADIUM SHOW TUESDAY

"Skating Vanities of 1945," the nation's No. 1 roller skating musical extravaganza, will open a six day engagement in the Chicago stadium Tuesday.

Heading the all-star cast of the show is Gloria Nord, acclaimed as queen of the ballet on roller skates. Other outstanding stars include: Lew Testa, world professional speed skating champion; Ann Manion, former singles champion and one of the nation's leading freestyle skaters; Dolly Durkin, Hugh Thomas and LaVada Simmons, Bobby Johnson and Rose Piccola, Shirley Heart, 18 year old baton twirling champion, and the team of Betty Rick and Mickey Meehan.

150 DOGS ENTER IN PUPPY MATCH AT GRANT PARK

More than 150 dogs of over 30 breeds will compete in the puppy match to be held today near the band shell in Grant park as the concluding local event of National Dog week. All of the entrants will be pure bred dogs under 12 months old, with judging starting at 2:15 p. m.

In addition to the breed competition in five judging rings, there will be an exhibition of discharged war dogs, a parade of champion dogs of 15 breeds, and a demonstration of canine obedience by dogs from Chicagoland training clubs.

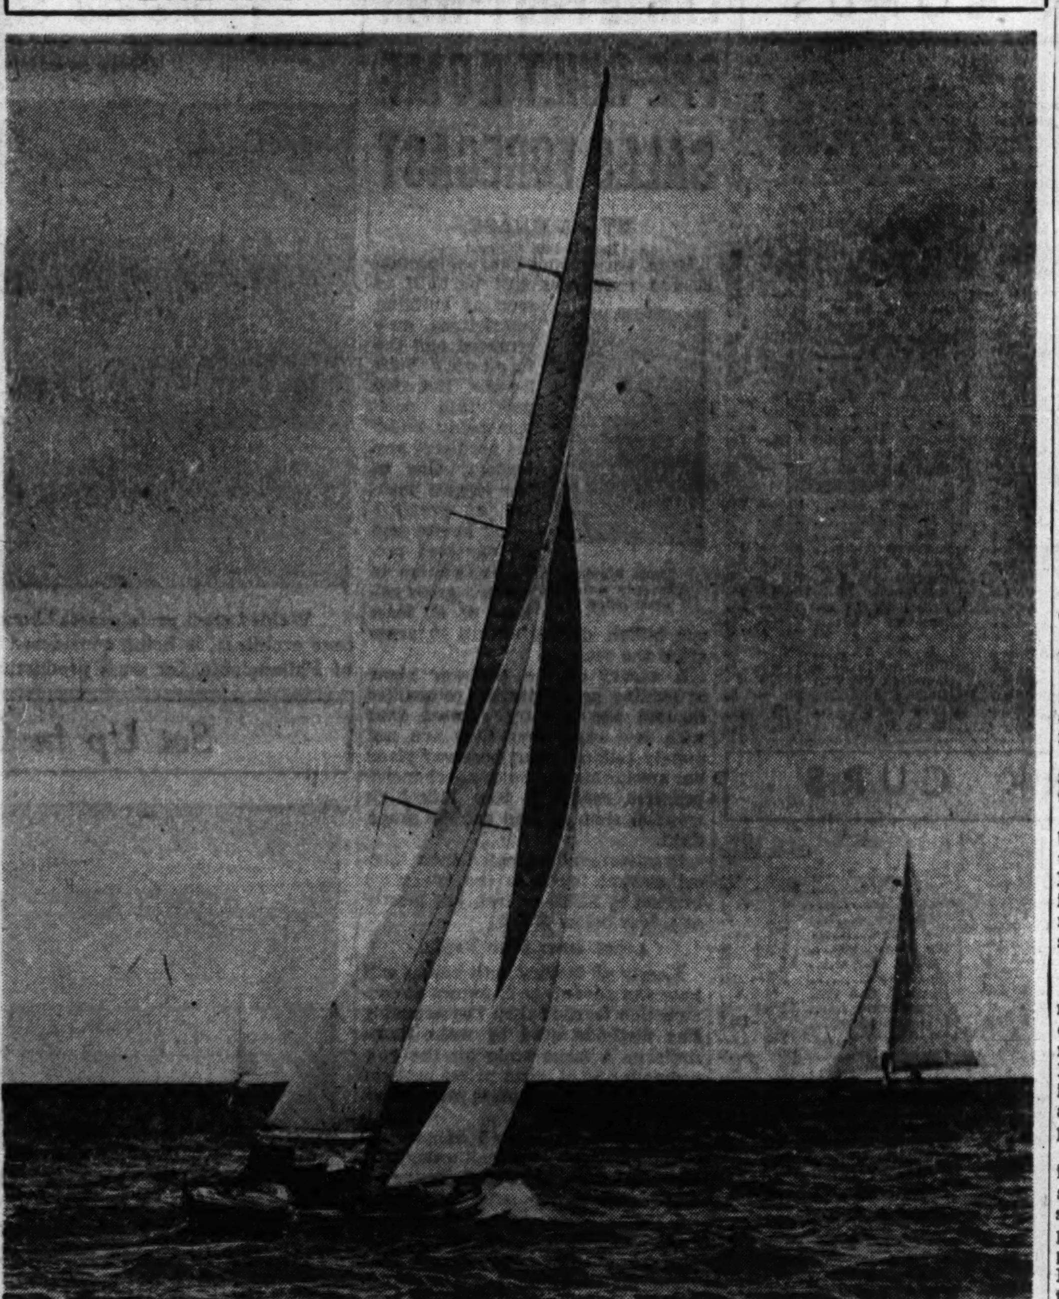
LUTHERAN HOME CHILDREN TAKE TRACK HONORS

Boys and girls of the Norwegian Lutheran Children's Home scored 76 points to win the second annual Junior Olympics at the home, 6000 Canfield rd., yesterday.

Uhlich Orphanage was second with 23 points, followed by Lawrence Hall, Inc. with 12 and Lydia Children's Home with three. Seventy-six boys and girls competed.

The contests were directed by Alex Trostrud, referee; Mary Muehlhausen, clerk of course; Lillian Muza, chief finish judge; R. H. Blakesley, custodian, and Belle Chester, inspector.

ENDING SEASON WITH A VICTORY



[TRIBUNE Photo.]

The Gale, winner of the third race of series C for R class yachts at Belmont harbor yesterday, which ended the Chicago Yacht club's 1944 season. The race was over a six mile windward-leeward course. Harry Nye Jr. took his craft over the finish line in 58 minutes 47 seconds to win.

30-1 Shot and Expediter Win Split Feature

Twin features were offered 19,142 race patrons out at Hawthorne yesterday, the management splitting the 18th running of the $7,500 added juvenile handicap into two sections, each endowed for the full amount. Mrs. Emil Denemark's Father Neptune, a long shot, accounted for the first half of the prize and the Woolford farm's Expediter, favorite, made good in the second half. Both, however, won by narrow margins.

Shakes Off Wallflower.

In the first half, a race in which a majority of the better candidates seemed to be centered, Father Neptune, under Jockey Willie Bailey, jumped into an early lead and was able to stave off the late challenge of the Walmac farm's Wallflower. Icangetit, the 4 to 5 favorite, finished third. Father Neptune paid $62, $14.80, and $4.80, and for Bailey, the victory was his third of the long, chilly afternoon.

Expediter's victory was achieved by a late rush which saw the son of Lawrin scoot past Miss Jean Denemark's Satin Ace in the final jump. Leon [Buddy] Haas was astride Expediter, which paid $6.20, $4.80, and $3.80 in the mutuels. Foreign Agent, owned by Marion Brink, was third.

Betting Is Heavy.

Nine contested in the section of the handicap won by Father Neptune, and the value to the winner was $6,512.50. In the second half, Expediter was opposed by seven rivals and his victory was worth $6,487.50 to owner Herbert Woolf of Woolford farm. Expediter reeled off the six furlongs in 1:12 3-5, four-fifths of a second faster than the time recorded by Father Neptune.

Betting was brisk and the crowd wagered $1,329,645 on the nine races.

Nye's Gale Is Victor in Final R Boat Event

Harry Nye Jr. sailed his double-ended R class sloop Gale to first place yesterday in the Chicago Yacht club's final race for the class this season. Nine of the yachts sailed in a light northeast breeze over the six mile windward-leeward course.

Skipper Nye also won the club season championship by the narrow margin of 77 points to 76 for Yankee, Ed Schnabel's entry. Gale's winning crew yesterday consisted of his owner, his wife, Betty; Dr. William Christoph, Ray Strout, and Perry Alford. Yankee, the season runner-up, placed sixth yesterday. It was sailed by Skipper Schnabel with his son, Ed Jr., a V-12 naval student at Northwestern; Robert Larson, another V-12 student; Fred Barker, and Robert Trettin.

Calypso, Robert Elberfeld's 38 foot R boat, led the fleet to the first [windward] bouy, with Mel Jones, champion inland lake iceboat and scow skipper, at the helm. The 39 foot Gale took the lead on the return three miles from the finish line, winning by 45 seconds over Calypso.

Ernest Heinemann's Romany led the 30 foot S [Eagle] class sloops around the same course, to win by 59 seconds. Skipper Heinemann won the class season championship.

LARGE POST-WAR GAINS EXPECTED FOR MAGNESIUM

BY PHILIP HAMPSON.

The newly developed magnesium industry is expected to take its place along with the expanded aluminum industry in turning out lightweight products after the war to provide competition in fields heretofore dominated by other metals, observers said yesterday.

The war has taught American industry much about magnesium and aluminum, and manufacturers working with them already are giving thought to increasing peace time markets.

Magnesium Expected to Gain.

Aluminum in recent years has held first place as a metal used to achieve weight reduction while retaining strength, but magnesium is expected to invade aluminum's territory after the war, altho the price factor probably will give aluminum the edge for some time. Raw aluminum sells at 15 or 16 cents a pound, against 21 to 23 cents a pound for raw magnesium.

Meanwhile, magnesium and aluminum will complement each other thru alloys containing both metals.

When peace returns Chicago will be in a fortunate position regarding the exploitation of magnesium. The Howard Foundry company has what is rated as the world's largest magnesium foundry and already is studying post-war possibilities.

Established in Aviation.

S. E. Bohn, plant manager of the magnesium division, said a promising opportunity exists for creating new markets and broadening old ones. Magnesium already has established its position in the aviation industry, and its use in engines and structural parts is assured.

"We expect magnesium to be used in railroad passenger cars," Bohn said, "where it could be utilized in seat construction and for trim and panels. It can be used for certain parts of truck, trailers, and buses. It can be used in portable hand tools to reduce weight.

"Why couldn't it be used in furniture for the home? Every one knows how the housewife hates to push a bed around when rearranging a room. A bed could have its weight substantially reduced by using magnesium structural parts.

Lifts Operating Efficiency.

"Magnesium is a good material for use in certain parts of machines and machine tools to reduce weight and increase operating efficiency.

"The material could be used to advantage in vacuum cleaners, typewriters, cash registers, and hundreds of other items. It can be used to advantage in radios, because magnesium has a shielding effect, cutting out interference."

The war has boosted United States facilities for the production of magnesium enormously—from 552,099 pounds in 1928 to a current annual production far in excess of 100 million pounds.

Production of this valuable metal in America was developed largely thru efforts of the Dow Chemical company of Midland, Mich. For many years it produced magnesium at a loss because of its faith in the metal's future. Its efforts are credited with having made it possible for American military aviation to assume its war leadership.

LARGE POST-WAR PRE-BUILT HOME SALES FORECAST

BY AL CHASE.
[Real Estate Editor.]

More, better, and cheaper prefabricated residences will be built as soon as building restrictions are removed and the factory built home industry gets into post-war swing, builders predicted yesterday. One of the largest makers of prefabricated homes said he expected prefabrication to reach a gross volume of at least one billion dollars within 10 years after the war.

Pierre Blouke.
[Invents welded steel home.]

A survey of the post-war plans of leading prefabrication companies thruout the country showed that with few exceptions they are not merely talking about post-war plans but are far along in a comprehensive program ready to leap into high speed as soon as they get the green light.

Practically all expected their largest market to be in the low price bracket at $7,500 or less, but mostly at prices below $3,000.

Learn from War Needs.

Nearly all factory built homes will have the advantage of improved construction learned thru the assembly line methods used to make home units on a large scale for the government and of lower prices brought about by increased mass production, builders believed.

Buying prefabricated homes will become easier as the mail order catalog system expands and occupancy will come sooner after the order as the delivery of a completely equipped home becomes faster. Several companies have announced plans for ready built houses which can be moved into a few hours after receipt from the factory. They will leave the assembly line equipped with plumbing, refrigeration, kitchen necessities, heating, and electric equipment—complete even to light bulbs. Some will have major pieces of furniture built in.

In addition to the established companies busy with government housing, newcomers to prefabrication are preparing ambitious post-war manufacturing programs. Pierre Blouke, Chicago architect, has originated a welded steel unit which may be expanded later. Edward G. Budd, head of the Philadelphia train building company, is studying the Blouke house.

Delivery at $2,500 Possible.

In a pre-war letter to Blouke he said: "It is our belief that at the start such units could be delivered at approximately $2,500 each, F. O. B. our works. Without in any way reducing the quality, we believe the price could be brought down to $1,500 or $1,800."

Another Chicago conceived prefabrication is the "transportable home" developed by Dorr & Minx, architectural firm and designer of several thousand factory-built government war homes. At the Getzel corporation's Milwaukee plant, where the homes are being made, everything is ready for the start of a large post-war program on a production line basis.

"Transportables" have walls and roof folded in such a way that the entire house may be moved on a truck. Set up in two hours by six men, they are ready for use. Every home necessity, plumbing, wiring, heating, refrigeration, and some furniture was installed in the factory and is ready for the owner.

Eighteen Plants Ready.

"We can sell everything we can produce," said Daniel M. Dorr. "We have 18 plants lined up for manufacture as soon as conditions permit. Eventually we'll be able to produce a minimum of 70,000 homes annually."

"Seventy-five per cent of our homes will be prefabricated within a few years," said Harry Breetzke of the Master Plumbers' association of Chicago. "With mass production they'll be 50 per cent cheaper. We're entering a new era, with new mechanical processes and new materials, and prefabrication will expand into a giant industry, with most of its products sold by catalog."

An official of the Palace corporation, Flint, Mich., which has built more than 13,000 expandible type homes for the government, confirmed Breetzke's prediction on costs.

"It is believed that post-war prefabricated homes will sell at retail for approximately half the present cost of conventional building," he said.

Tells of Wide Interest.

Foster Gunnison, president of Gunnison Homes, United States Steel corporation subsidiary, and one of the most successful makers of factory-built residences, told of the world-wide interest in ready-built houses.

"The subject of prefabrication is becoming of increasing importance as peace draws near," he said. "This is indicated by the many inquiries we receive each day from people who want to become dealers, from people who are interested in buying our homes after the war, and from people who are interested in jobs in this industry after the war. In this last group we are beginning to receive many inquiries from men overseas."

David C. Slipher, vice president of Continental Homes, Crawfordsville, Ind., said: "We have before us the prospect of a flourishing infant industry which has sufficient potentiality to affect our entire pattern and standard of living definitely for the better, and at the same time offers opportunity for capital investment and volume employment perhaps unequaled since the rapid growth of the automobile industry."

Survey Tells Features of Postwar Home

The majority of American families intending to build homes after the war are planning to spend from $4,000 to $10,000, a nation wide survey by Masonite corporation shows. Half expect their homes to cost between $4,000 and $6,000 and approximately one-quarter estimate from $6,000 to $10,000. One in six hopes to pay less than $4,000 and only one in 20 is planning to spend more than $10,000.

No marked preference for either traditional or modern design was reported. Practicability, convenience, and ease of maintenance were considered more important than adherence to any particular style. In most cases the exterior will be wood, altho brick veneer, solid brick, and stone followed closely in the order of preference.

Painted or paneled walls were preferred two to one against paper walls. Most of those planning to spend more than $6,000 want either a den or recreation room with the odds slightly in favor of the den.

The combination living-dining room, popular in city apartments, was favored by those who expect to pay less than $4,000, but found little approval by those who expect to pay more.

Insulation was specified by all prospective builders, but most of them said a powder room was unnecessary. More than a third expressed a preference for a ground floor utility room in place of a basement. Hardwood was the most popular material for floors, followed closely by wall to wall carpeting and linoleum.

MONEY SCHEME CHIEF PROBLEM IN A.B.A. PARLEY

Expected to Avoid Flat Opposition.

BY THOMAS FURLONG.

The major question before the American Bankers' association opening tomorrow in the Stevens hotel is the position to be taken by the bankers on the Bretton Woods monetary proposals.

A special committee of leading bankers met yesterday in an effort to draft a statement of policy acceptable to the convention on the proposed international monetary fund and the world bank for reconstruction. Plans for these multibillion dollar global agencies were drafted last July at the international conference called by President Roosevelt and were agreed to tentatively by representatives of 44 nations.

Banking Leaders Attend.

Participating in yesterday's meeting were Winthrop W. Aldrich, president of the Chase National bank of New York, who has declared his outright opposition to the Bretton Woods plans, and Edward E. Brown, president of the First National Bank of Chicago, a member of the American delegation to the conference who is firmly committed to the Bretton Woods program.

Others were W. Randolph Burgess, association president and vice chairman of the National City Bank of New York, and W. L. Hemingway of St. Louis, chairman of the committee studying the proposals.

Altho association members are regarded as preponderantly opposed to the Bretton Woods program, it was indicated that the association would avoid a declaration of outright opposition. It was considered likely that the association would recommend further study of the entire subject and later make public alternate proposals of its own.

Association Chiefs Ignored.

With the exception of Brown, the administration did not call upon the association or its officials in formulating plans for the Bretton Woods conference. In selecting the United States delegation, President Roosevelt pointedly passed over Burgess who is considered an expert on international monetary affairs.

Burgess was chosen vice president of the association a year ago chiefly because of his knowledge of international finance. He is succeeding to the presidency this year.

Burgess is a former vice president of the Federal Reserve Bank of New York which is the government's agent in international financial dealings. Other reserve officials experienced in the international field were also ignored in the preparation for the Bretton Woods program.

BRITISH ASSAIL PLANS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Sept. 23.—A resolution demanding that parliament reject the Bretton Woods monetary plan as unconstitutional was voted today by a conference in London called to end what was termed the "Bretton Woods racket."

Charles Morgan-Webb, former chief secretary of the Burma government and an authority on the gold standard, said that if Britain returned to the gold standard while the United States had 90 per cent of the world supply, Britain would become a vassal of the United States.

The only object of the Bretton Woods proposals was to put Britain on the gold standard, Morgan-Webb charged and said, "The most impudent thing is that it makes the dollar the supreme international currency. The conference would take away from Britain the freedom to manage its own currency."

Robert Boothby, member of parliament and chairman of the monetary parliamentary policy committee, said that Bretton Woods had accepted the principle of non-discrimination and therefore approved the uncontroled interplay of supply and demand on unregulated markets as the legitimate economic objective.

TERMS CURBS ALTERNATIVE

The one practical alternative to Britain's adoption of a controled system of international trade, resembling that of Germany before the war, is the chance that the British will accept the Bretton Woods monetary plans, Dr. Mabel Newcomer, professor of the economics at Vassar college and only woman delegate to the conference, last night told the 22d annual meeting of the Association of Bank Women in the Windermere East hotel.

Britain was handicapped too much by her attempt to restore the gold standard between wars to be willing to try it again, Dr. Newcomer said. The British tradition of free trade and the gold standard has been replaced.

Defends Conference Decisions.

Defending the decisions of the money conference and the compromises as necessary, Dr. Newcomer termed the plan workable and fair, and a "definite and constructive approach to the problem of post-war trade."

The bank and the fund do not themselves insure freer trade, and will succeed in the long run only of freer trade follows, she said; but they provide a breathing space, and a channel of communication thru which other measures man be initiated.

Miss Helen Knox, manager of the women's department of the Chase National Bank of New York, was elected president of the Bank Women.

Contend Plan for Scarcities Grows Again

BY ARNOLD ERICKSON.

Ralph Walter.

Despite earlier attempts of the war food administration to expand meat production, pressure is growing in Washington for a resumption of the pre-war scarcity program interrupted by the vast requirements of the lend-lease and military services, stock yards interests said yesterday. Trade leaders said the drop in meat tonnage for 1945 will be the largest of any year in the history of the packing industry.

The decision to reduce production from the record tonnage of last year could be disastrous if output is headed downward prematurely, said Ralph Walter, president of the Chicago Live Stock exchange.

Less Demand Expected.

"In such times as these I would not want to take the responsibility of saying that our leaders are forcing meat tonnage below the immediate post-war needs, not being a military expert or having access to information on the condition of agriculture in the liberated countries," he said. "It seems obvious, however, that those who have their hands on the price and production controls are convinced that the needs will not be as large as expected. Since the stage is already set for a drastic tonnage cut in the months ahead let us hope they have picked the right course. In the year immediately following the last war exports to Europe were larger than during the conflict."

Altho tonnage in 1945 is expected to show the largest decline for any year on record, the output will run above that of any of the peace time years. What tonnage will be available to American civilians depends on how large a force this country maintains abroad and how many of the liberated peoples are fed, it was said.

Pig Estimates Lower.

Pork and lard face the largest tonnage cuts. Estimates based on department of agriculture surveys place the spring and expected fall pig crops at 87,925,000 head, compared with 121,847,000 in 1943, 104,559,000 in 1942, and 84,727,444 in 1941. The record prior to 1939 was 84,200,000 in 1933.

The current heavy butchering of cattle is partly the result of selling of western range stock by owners who have been urged for many months to reduce their herds from the record numbers they held earlier in the war. In the last 10 months 3½ million more cattle have been slaughtered than in the same period of last year. Sheep men have reduced their flocks to the third smallest since 1930.

New War Orders Shrink to $1,000 Class in Chicago

The Chicago area received only $85,000 in government war contracts last week thru the placing of 76 new orders with 70 companies, the Chicago Association of Commerce reported yesterday.

RAILROAD OUTLOOK.

Railroad stock price averages in the September decline dropped approximately 9 per cent below the July high. The present level, however, is above the tops reached in any preceding year since 1937. The market so far appears to have been only moderately influenced by the prospects of a decline in traffic after the war.

The averages at the 1944 high were substantially below the peaks of 1937, 1936, 1934, and 1933. In relation to current earnings it was often remarked that the rails were not extravagantly priced.

Even if it is agreed, however, that stocks are reasonably priced on earnings at the time, the prospects of lower income in the comparatively near future may adversely affect market sentiment until investors believe that the extent of any probable decline in profit has been gauged and "discounted."

Because of increased operating costs, net income of class 1 railroads for the first seven months this year, amounting to 381 million dollars, was down 28 per cent from 1943, altho gross operating revenues continued to climb. For all of last year the net income was below the 1942 peak. But profit remains at prosperity levels.

In financial circles which give special attention to railroad securities, a number of favorable features in the outlook are emphasized, along with the peace time uncertainties. Even if traffic volume declines after the war it is expected to stay at a relative high level if the peace time buying boom materializes. Financial positions of the carriers have been strengthened, and aggregate fixed charges have been cut. When the five year amortization of railroad defense facilities is completed, depreciation charges are expected to be lower.

Motor truck competition is regarded as a less serious threat to rail earnings now that truck rates are subject to regulation and truck labor has been organized. The bulk of long haul railroad freight is considered safe from competitive means of transportation. Increased railroad operating efficiency is counted on to offset in substantial measure the higher wage scales, even if the suspended 1942 freight rate increase is not permitted to go into effect again.

WFA PLEDGES PARITY ON LOAN COTTON, WHEAT

CCC Will Carry Out Buying Program.

Washington, D. C., Sept. 23 (AP).—War Food Administrator Jones announced tonight that WFA will purchase from farmers at parity prices all cotton of the 1944 crop for which a loan schedule has been announced and which is placed in acceptable storage. The program will start as soon as arrangements can be made and extend thru next June 30.

Jones also announced the WFA will buy from producers at parity prices, less carrying charges to the end of the storage year, all unredeemed 1944 crop wheat which is under loan May 1, 1945.

Actual purchases of cotton and wheat will be made thru the Commodity Credit corporation. Jones said CCC purchase prices for wheat in storage in terminal and subterminal elevators, will be advanced "from time to time" during the season.

Modifies Cotton Sales Policy.

The WFA cotton sales policy, announced Aug. 26, will be modified to permit the CCC to sell cotton at not less than parity.

The action to acquire wheat and cotton for not less than parity was taken in accordance with the recent act of congress directing the government to do everything possible to bring about parity prices, said Jones.

The wheat parity price is the 1944 loan rate plus 15 cents a bushel, Jones explained. Deducted will be the carrying charge to the end of the storage year, which for warehouse loans is May 31 in the southwest and June 30 in all other areas, and which will be to the date of delivery in May and June for farm storage loans.

No Figures Since Aug. 15.

Latest figures of the agriculture department showed that the parity price for cotton was 21.08 cents a pound on Aug. 15 and for a bushel of wheat was $1.50. The Sept. 15 parity prices have not been announced.

On Aug. 26 the WFA and office of price administration had announced jointly that until May 1, 1945, the CCC would not sell government owned or controled cotton in the open market except at ½ cent above parity price.

Jones had announced on July 7 that wheat loan rates on the 1944 crop would be increased from 85 to 90 per cent of parity as of July 1, 1944, a national average of about $1.35 at the farm.

WFA INCREASES TOBACCO QUOTA FOR CIGARETS

Washington, D. C., Sept. 23 (AP).—The war food administration announced today that estimates indicating a large production of flue-cured tobacco have caused it to increase from 578 million to 624 million pounds the amount allocated to cigaret manufacturers for purchase from dealers and at auction during the present marketing season.

The allocation is 96 per cent of the amount used during the year ended last June 30 and only 2 per cent less than the purchase from 1939's record crop.

The production estimate was raised from 834 million pounds July 1 to 1 billion 47 million on Sept. 1. WFA said its total allocations, including grants of relief, were 1 billion 21 million pounds, of which 391 million are for allied and other friendly nations. It estimated about 16 million pounds of "scrap" would be available without regard to the allocations, and that the quantity available to manufacturers from this year's crop probably will "equal or exceed" that used during the year ended June 30.

GRAIN PRICES CLIMB ON HEAVY SHORT COVERING

Grain prices rose 1 to more than 2 cents a bushel yesterday on the Chicago Board of Trade on heavy short covering and buying by commission houses and professional traders. Brokers attributed the advance to reports the Little Steel wage formula might be altered over the week-end, construed as tending toward inflation.

Wheat closed 1⅜ to 2⅜ cents higher and at the highest price since early August. Nearby deliveries of corn sold at a new seasonal high and closed ⅞ to 1¼ cents higher. Oats gained ⅞ to 1⅜ cents, rye 2⅜ to 2⅝ cents, and barley 1⅝ to 2⅜ cents.

Professional traders and commission houses were strong buyers of rye with prices up 6 to 7 cents from the recent low.

Chicago Bank Clearings Decrease to 490 Millions

Chicago bank clearings last week totaled $490,300,000, compared with $538,400,000 the preceding week and $481,200,000 a year ago, the Chicago Clearing House association reported yesterday. The figures:

Brokers Term Seat Price Rise Good Omen

New York, Sept. 23 (AP).—Wall streeters today interpreted as a favorable omen the recent rise in the price of New York Stock exchange seats to the highest level since late 1938.

A membership sold this week at $72,000, compared with $67,000 in the preceding sale and the wartime low of $17,000 in the spring of 1941, a 44-year record. Four sales were made at that low and many more at $18,000 and $19,000.

[Prices of seats on the Chicago Board of Trade and the Chicago Stock exchange have risen steadily in recent months. From a low of $800 this year seats on the Board of Trade have risen to $3,250 as of Sept. 21. The last sale of a stock exchange seat netted $3,600 late last month.]

Held Business Barometer.

Brokers and other Wall st interests consider the market for exchange seats a business barometer similar in value to the business forecasting significance of stock market trends.

They say that higher prices for exchange memberships indicate confidence that industrial reconversion after the war will be accomplished without extended delay to permit substantial peace-time expansion by business.

Recovery in the price of stock exchange seats has been coincident with a gradual but steady advance by the stock market.

Stock exchange seat prices in 1929 soared to $625,000

Market Is Higher.

The stock market rose today to end a week of modest price advances and small volume. Investment demands centered on specialties, principally rail equipments.

Pepsi-Cola and Grumman Aircraft touched new highs for 1944 as reports of possible stock splitups for these companies were revived. Best levels for the year also were recorded by American Locomotive, Lima Locomotive, and Pressed Steel Car. General Steel Castings preferred jumped 6 points on odd-lot transactions. Also advancing were Santa Fe, Baldwin Locomotive, Bethlehem Steel, Standard Oil [New Jersey], Texas company, United States Rubber, Pullman, and Electric Boat.

RAIL BONDS ADVANCE.

New York, Sept. 23 (AP).—A few rail issues were strong and active today, but the bond market generally was quiet with prices little changed.

CHICAGO LIST HIGHER.

Prices were higher in light turnover of 8,000 shares yesterday on the Chicago Stock exchange. Most active issues included Berghoff Brewing, up ¼; Woodall Industries, up ⅛, and Chicago corporation, unchanged. E. L. Bruce closed at a 1944 peak of 28½, up ⅛.

STOCKPILE OF USABLE AUTOS NEAR 'DANGER' LEVEL, ODT REPORTS

Washington, D. C., Sept. 23 (AP).—The nation's stockpile of usable automobiles is approaching a critical level with more and more going to the scrap pile while none is being made, the office of defense transportation said today.

Total passenger cars will have declined from about 28,150,000 on Jan. 1, 1942, to 24,400,000 by Jan. 1, 1945, ODT estimated. The decrease of 3¾ million represents estimated scrappage of 1 million in 1942, 1¼ million in 1943, and 1½ million in 1944, the agency said.

Of 24,400,000 cars surviving on Jan. 1, 1945, an estimated 23¾ million will be in use and 650,000 will be immobilized, ODT added.

Because a substantial number of the cars in operation at that time will be in the hands of nonessential users, "it is clear that the supply of automobiles available for essential users is rapidly approaching the danger level of 20 million," ODT said.

Briggs Strike Halts Parts for Planes, Tanks

Detroit, Mich., Sept. 23 (AP).—Production of airplane and tank parts was halted today at the Briggs Manufacturing company's Mack av. plant where 7,250 workers on two shifts left their jobs after the dismissal of 11 employes in the die setting department.

The company said the die setters had refused to work because the management would not give them wage increases or transfer them to other jobs.

A spokesman for the CIO United Automobile Workers said the 11 men were given responsibilities equivalent to those of foremen, but did not receive comparable pay.

Trainmen Shut Steel Plant.

Cleveland, O., Sept. 23 (AP). — A strike among members of the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen halted production today at the Corrigan-McKinney plant of Republic Steel corporation. It employs 3,500. The trainmen are employes of the River Terminal Railway company, Republic subsidiary that serves the plant.

More than 100 men joined in the strike last night in protest against dismissal of a conductor who refused to work with a four man crew, they said

S. R. Harvey, assistant to the brotherhood president, termed the stoppage an illegal strike.

The railroad company said the dispute did not involve crew man power but resulted from dismissal of a man who refused to obey his foreman. Strikers said they were ordered to operate standard equipment with less than a "legal" five man crew. Harvey said an agreement permits four man crews.

Order Dravo Strikers Back.

Wilmington, Del., Sept. 23 (AP).—Foremen and subforemen whose failure to report for work caused suspension of all operations at the Dravo corporation plant which builds navy invasion craft, were ordered late today to return to their jobs in compliance with a war labor board directive a few hours earlier. The work order was issued by Joseph Dabrowski, chairman of the foreman committee.

The foremen and subforemen, seeking recognition of a six man committee as bargaining agent, began "an extended sick leave" last night.

GLEN ALDEN CO. TO RETIRE FIRST MORTGAGE ISSUE

Scranton, Pa., Sept. 23 (AP).—The board of directors of the Glen Alden Coal company, one of the country's largest anthracite producers, today announced it would call for retirement, as of Dec. 1, 1944, its $24,158,000 of first mortgage 4 per cent bonds.

A brief board statement said the retirement will be effected partly thru funds from the sale of 10 year serial bank notes.

ILLINOIS ISSUES BOOKLET AIDS TO PEACE SHIFT

Many Termination Problems Solved.

BY WILLIAM SHINNICK.

Acting on the conviction that reconversion of Illinois industry from war to peace production may be—at least for many firms—a matter of only a few months, the Illinois Post-War Planning commission has published two booklets designed to aid business men in the transition.

One, "Preparing for War Contract Termination," is in circulation. In the last few days 5,000 copies have been mailed to war work firms. Oscar Nelson, commission secretary, said he already had received many letters of appreciation for the 19 page "check list" outlining termination problems and either answering them or telling where the answers may be found.

Second Book Out Soon.

The second pamphlet, "A Guide for Illinois Small Business," is in the hands of the printer and will be distributed soon.

Booklet No. 1 was prepared by the commission staff under the direction of a subcommittee headed by Wilfred Sykes, steel company executive. This subcommittee was appointed by Anderson Pace, Illinois Central railroad official and chairman of the commission and its committee on industrial plants and opportunities.

The post-war commission itself was appointed by Gov. Green under a law passed at the last session of the legislature. It is nonpartisan. One of its principal tasks is to formulate plans for spending more than 100 million dollars of surplus tax funds, saved to meet the state's estimated special needs after the war.

Veterans Are Considered.

Welfare of returning war veterans and the reconversion program have been placed first on the commission agenda. The governor already has appointed a staff, with at least one member in each county, to receive the veterans and inform them of their rights and privileges under federal and state laws. The commission is rapidly formulating legislation to guarantee further benefits.

No bombastic claims are made for the contract termination pamphlet. The business executive merely is told that the check list may help him determine whether he needs expert aid and where it may be found. There are chapters on the war agencies involved, types of war contracts, preparations for their termination, termination and settlement process and "planning now for reconversion."

Included is specific advice on the type of accounting the government will require in making settlements, and a warning that failure to conform may conceivably cost the converting firm a great deal of money.

Loan Carryover Explained.

Also outlined are methods by which government guaranteed loans may be carried over after the war, provided that they are negotiated before war contracts are terminated.

The booklet on small business suggests methods by which the business head may analyze his prospects in a period which will be marked by an ample supply of labor and a gradual loosing of price and rationing controls—in other words, in an economy in which production and distribution costs will be even more important than at present.

Like the other book, this one is free from dogmatism. One of its good features is a roster of agencies that might aid a business too small to maintain a research staff, and a list of authentic publications that may help executives of special business types in evaluating the future.

GASOLINE STOCK 'NORMAL'; HALF GOES TO PUBLIC

Washington, D. C., Sept. 23 (AP).—Gasoline stocks are near pre-war levels, but only about half the supply can be spared for civilians, Deputy Petroleum Administrator Davies said today. Before the war approximately 90 per cent of storage stocks went to civilian users, he said.

The stockpile of home-heating oil and Diesel engine fuel is nearing pre-war levels, he said, but added that this increase "is now offset by diversion of [such] products to the military" and no increased civilian allocation "is in prospect."

Negro Peace Trade Outlook Held Better

S. B. Fuller.

The economic outlook for Chicago's Negro population after the war is expected to be more favorable than in the pre-war period, Negro business men said yesterday. They attributed this improvement to the war time acceptance of the Negro in a larger number of industries.

In the Negro community in the depression years 40 per cent of the population was on relief rolls. During that time they lost the two banks they owned, the Binga State and the Douglas National. These banks were among the last to close, however, and the loss to depositors was slight.

Increase Business Activity.

During the last 10 years there has been a substantial increase in the varieties of businesses owned and operated by Negroes. The 2,000 odd businesses in their hands range from small one man radio repair shops to manufacturing companies with nation-wide distribution.

The largest increase in Negro operated businesses has been in grocery stores, haberdasheries, and second hand stores, a business spokesman said.

One of the most prosperous types of business is insurance, with premium collections in both ordinary and industrial lines doubled in the last few years, an insurance man disclosed.

Tells Negro Successes.

Discussing the post-war employment outlook, one leader said:

"Employment among the approximately 360,000 Negroes in Chicago, including 75,000 who have come to the city since Pearl Harbor because of the demand for labor in war plants, is expected to be aided after the war because Negroes are making good in a wider selection of industries.

"Because of this the entire population will not be so adversely affected by shutdowns in the more seasonal industries. This will mean there will be some support for business even when there is no employment boom. One of these new fields in which Negroes are employed is the manufacture of electrical and communications equipment."

Two Leading Organizations.

The Negro community has two leading business organizations, the Negro Chamber of Commerce, headed by S. B. Fuller, a manufacturer of cosmetics, and the South Central Association of Business Men, composed of both Negroes and white business men.

"There is need for a Negro chamber of commerce because there are peculiar problems which Negro merchants face in the matter of financing and the proper locations for successful operation," said Fuller. "These can best be met by cooperation and education."

The Chicago Urban league, organized in 1916 when large numbers of Negroes came to Chicago during World War I., is observing "Victory Thru Unity Week" this week.

DEMAND ENTRY OF U.S. TRADERS IN FREE EUROPE

Report Eisenhower Limits Travel.

Washington, D. C., Sept. 23 [Special].—While the Chamber of Commerce of the United States demanded today that American business men be granted access to liberated areas to establish trade contacts "as promptly as possible," allied supreme headquarters announced that Gen. Eisenhower had prohibited transportation of business men to "forward zones."

Headquarters also stated that allegations that the prohibition against transportation of business men had been violated would be investigated.

These developments followed publication by the London Daily Mail on Thursday of charges that American business representatives had been transported in uniforms by the army to Paris.

Contend Difficulties are Met.

In contrast with the Dail Mail allegations, the United States chamber said today that "Americans who have investments abroad have contended that they are meeting difficulties in sending representatives into territories now freed from enemy control."

A report by a committee headed by Harper Sibley of Rochester, N. Y., former president, which was approved today by directors, made these recommendations:

"For the protection and promotion of United States foreign trade, your committee urgently recommends that with a view to permitting the prompt survey and early rehabilitation by United States enterprises of investments, plants, and organizations in Europe, Asia, and Africa, the department of state and other appropriate government agencies and military authorities encourage and aid interested United States companies and associations in sending their accredited representatives into liberated areas just as soon as those areas are out of the zone of military combat.

Would Restore Communication.

"The committee also recommends that communications, as well as travel into such areas by accredited representatives of United States business, be restored as rapidly as possible and that all such facilities be likewise granted as promptly as possible.

"Our government should pursue an active policy of creating conditions under which the restoration and continuance of private trade in and with those areas may be promptly restored and rehabilitated under conditions assuring United States business firms a fair and reasonable competitive position abroad."

As the Daily Mail published its charges, word reached Washington that a special United States mission to study the restoration of trade after the war had arrived in Cairo.

This mission, sponsored by the state department, is understood to have resulted from strenuous protests lodged with the department a year ago by James M. Landis, American economic representative in the middle east, over methods being employed by the British to maintain their usual commercial channels in the middle east during the war.

ERIC JOHNSTON LISTED TO TALK TO CONTROLERS

Eric A. Johnston, president of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States, is scheduled to address the 13th annual meeting of the Controlers Institute of America in the Stevens hotel Oct. 2 to 4.

Other speakers are Beardsley Ruml, treasurer of R. H. Macey & Co.; John T. Flynn, economic analyst and author, and Dr. Harley L. Lutz, professor of public finance at Princeton university.

The program includes industry meetings which will be participated in by leading executives in foods and allied products, iron and steel, machine tools and heavy equipment, petroleum, public utilities, publishing, radio, textiles, and transportation.

HOW TO GET MORE OUT OF IMPORTANT NEWS...

■ ■ ■ Ever try to sort the news into a pattern that gives you a compact overall picture of what's happening? A background picture, against which to consider the developments important to you?

No easy task.

But if it were done for you, every business day, think how valuable it would be!

Well, it is done—here's how:

Every day The Wall Street Journal carries a front-page feature, What's News—condensing in one column all important "world-wide" events, and in another the outstanding developments in Business and Finance.

Just 5½ minutes' reading time gives you a definite background against which to appraise individual industrial, financial and Washington developments—concisely, accurately reported and analyzed in The Wall Street Journal's other columns.

That's one reason why The Wall Street Journal really is a new kind of newspaper. That's why, too, The Wall Street Journal is a daily working tool of progressive management.

WILLIAM M'KAY FUNERAL TO BE HELD TOMORROW

Newspaper Men Named Honorary Pallbearers.

Friends and colleagues of William K. McKay, veteran newspaper man who died early yesterday in his home, 126 S. Ridgeland av., Oak Park, made plans yesterday to honor him at his funeral, which will be held at 2 p. m. tomorrow from the chapel at 523 Lake st., Oak Park, to Graceland cemetery.

William K. McKay.

Among the group of honorary pallbearers from whom the active pallbearers will be selected are J. Loy Maloney and W. D. Maxwell, managing editor and city editor, respectively, of THE TRIBUNE. Other Chicago newspaper men in the group are John T. McCutcheon, Arch Ward, James L. Doherty, Roy R. Atkinson, Orville Dwyer, William B. Foley, John P. Gallagher, Jerry A. Moran, Edward Burns, August Bartz, Richard J. Finnegan, Charles N. Wheeler, Louther S. Horne, Harper Leech, and Ashton Stevens.

Other Honorary Pallbearers.

Out of town and retired newspaper men named honorary pallbearers include Richard W. Clarke and Fred Pasley, managing editor and Washington correspondent, respectively, of the New York News; W. A. S. Douglas, William Jean Etten, Bernard J. Mullaney, Al Fitz, and Thomas K. Mulgrew. The list includes the following relatives of Mrs. McKay: Gordon Gould, Col. William Westlake, and Ed W. Loftus. Harry Moroni, proprietor of a restaurant near Tribune Tower, and a close friend of Mr. McKay's, also is included.

The Rev. John Evans, religion editor of THE TRIBUNE, will conduct the funeral.

Judge McKay, as he was called among newspaper men, was born in New Orleans Nov. 16, 1870, and became a reporter in Dubuque, Ia., at the age of 14. Ten years later he came to Chicago and was employed by the old Chicago Mail. After about a year there he became assistant city editor of the Times-Herald. Later he became city editor of that paper.

Joined Tribune in 1918.

He also was managing editor of the Chicago Journal, Detroit Tribune, Cleveland News, Louisville Herald, and Chicago Evening Post. While on the Post he created what was probably the first job of golf editor.

He came to THE TRIBUNE March 3, 1918, and later was appointed correspondent of THE TRIBUNE's European edition. In 1919 he became midwest correspondent of the New York News, a post which he held until his death. For the last year and a half he had been ill and seldom came to his office in Tribune Tower.

Judge McKay's colleagues recalled his good nature and his genius for conviviality. One characterized him as "one of the greatest of companions." He was a splendid host, learned, a fine story teller, an excellent cook, and an expert on fine foods.

Judge McKay was active in such organizations of newspaper men as the old Press club and the Chicago Press Veterans' association. He was honorary life chairman of the latter.

He is survived by his widow, the former Juliette A. Kinzie, whom he married in Chicago in 1899.

5 Ballrooms Here Ruled Not Liable to Cabaret Tax

Atty. John H. Lyle yesterday received a ruling from the United States commissioner of internal revenue that five ballrooms in the Chicago district which he represented are not subject to the cabaret tax on ballrooms which goes into effect on Oct. 1. The ballrooms were exempted on the ground that they did not sell liquors and meals and did not otherwise come under the classification of cabarets.

Earthquake in Chile or Kurile Isles Recorded

Philadelphia, Sept. 23 (AP).—An earthquake of strong intensity was recorded on the seismograph at the Fels planetarium today. Dr. Roy K. Marshall, assistant director, said the quake centered 5,200 miles from here at either Valdivia, Chile, or northeast of the Kurile Islands off Japan.

William J. Hanley.

William J. [Witt] Hanley, 54, secretary-treasurer of the Commission Drivers' union, local 703, of the International Brotherhood of Teamsters, Chauffeurs, Warehousemen, and Helpers' union [AFL], died yesterday in Alexian Brothers hospital. Mr. Hanley long had been prominent in the affairs of the Teamsters' Joint council, which has an estimated 80,000 members in Chicago. He was associated with the late William [Klondike] O'Donnell when O'Donnell headed the commission drivers' union. Mr. Hanley is survived by his widow, Margaret, of 1347 Forest av., River Forest; a daughter, Elaine, and two sons, William J. Jr. and Sgt. Frank J. of the army. Services will be held at 9:30 a. m. Tuesday in St. Vincent Ferrer church, River Forest.

John J. Hallinan.

Services for John J. Hallinan, for 46 years an employe of the Santa Fe railroad, will be held at 9:30 a. m. tomorrow from the residence at 6149 S. Rockwell st. to St. Rita's church, 63d st. and Washtenaw av. Mr. Hallinan died Thursday. Born 75 years ago in Ireland, he lived most of his life in Chicago. He was active in Irish circles and was the first president of the Holy Name society of St. Rita's parish. He is survived by two sons and four daughters.

Paul H. Fieberg.

Paul H. Fieberg, 66, of the Allerton hotel, owner of the Fieberg Press, 540 N. La Salle st., publishers of the Chicago Stagebill and theatrical programs, died early yesterday of a heart attack. He is survived by two sons, Paul H. Jr. and Robert F. Services will be held at 9:30 a. m. tomorrow in the chapel at 6216 N. Clark st. and at 10:30 a. m. in Holy Name cathedral.

Dr. F. J. Coughlin.

Services for Dr. F. J. Coughlin, former health commissioner of Aurora, who died Friday in Rochester, Minn., will be held at 9 a. m. tomorrow from his home at 444 Spring st., Aurora, to St. Mary's church at 9:30 a. m.

Adelore H. Cyrier.

Services for Adelore H. Cyrier, 67, of Grant Park, a Kankakee county supervisor for the last 16 years, will be held at St. Joseph's Catholic church in Manteno at 9:30 p. m. tomorrow.

Vaclav Machek.

Services for Vaclav Machek, 77, a violinist some of whose students still are members of the Chicago Symphony orchestra, will be held at 2 p. m. tomorrow in the home, 5731 22d pl., Cicero. He died Friday in Wesley Memorial hospital. His widow, Bozena, survives. Mr. Machek was born in Czechoslovakia and came to Chicago about 50 years ago. He once was in charge of the music in the Auditorium hotel and at times the late Dr. Frederick Stock, for many years director of the Symphony, and Rudolph Friml, composer, would join him, the former with the viola and Friml at the piano.

Harry J. Lundgren.

Services for Harry J. Lundgren, 38, of 8257 Ellis av., who was active in the printing and publishing field for 22 years, will be held at 2 p. m. tomorrow in the Augsburg English Evangelical Lutheran church. He died Friday night in Evangelical hospital. He participated in junior chamber of commerce activities in Chicago until he moved from the city. A month ago he returned from Toledo, O., to publish booklets on child training. Surviving are his widow, Felicia, and a daughter, Mary Linda.

Mrs. Margaretha Becker.

Mrs. Margaretha Becker, 78, of 6701 Union av., widow of Christian C. H. Becker, one of the founders of the Chicago City Bank & Trust company at 63d and Halsted sts., died yesterday in Grant hospital. She is survived by three sons, Herbert, Carl, and Walter Becker. Services will be held Tuesday at 10:30 a. m. in Salem Evangelical church, 6820 Emerald av.

Mrs. Bertha Dolph Phillips.

Services for Mrs. Bertha Dolph Phillips, 84, widow of Dr. William Judson Phillips, will be held at 10:30 a. m. tomorrow in the First Baptist church of Elgin. She died Friday night in her home, 252 S. State st., Elgin. Thirty years ago Mrs. Phillips led the local option campaign to make Elgin dry.

Hugh Reid.

Hugh Reid, 69, owner of the Robinson Coal company, 5229 Lake Park av., and a native of Chicago's west side, died of a heart attack yesterday in his home at 8006 St. Lawrence av. Surviving are his widow, Mabel; a son, William J., and a daughter, Mrs. Jenevra Constanzer.

FINDS DECLINE IN MORALITY ON CIVILIAN FRONT

Col. Aristeo V. Simoni, famous chaplain of the first World war, yesterday told graduates of Loyola university that "a revival of religion evident among our men in camps, on ships and battlefields," contrasts with "a lowering of moral standards at home." The convocation was held in St. Ignatius church, Loyola and Glenwood avs.

"Judges, pastors and educators have said that while we are winning the war on the front line, we are losing it on the home front," Col. Simoni asserted. "I have never found any atheists in fox holes, but not all the millions of men and women engaged in the defense of our country are in fox holes."

Col. Simoni, who is a monsignor in the Roman Catholic church and vice postulator in the successful a leader in the canonization cause of Mother Cabrini, was retired from active service with military honors last year. The Rev. Douglas A. Pearl, S. J., acting president of Loyola university, conferred 130 medical and dental degrees, including three to women, at the ceremony.

Freighter Hits Lake St. Bridge, Ties Up Traffic

The freighter W. E. Fitzgerald's high bow crashed into the Lake st. bridge at 4:10 p. m. yesterday when the lift mechanism failed to operate. Only the south footwalk was damaged. Traffic, which had been halted to permit the bridge to open, was delayed while the freighter was pulled away. John Brown, 10 N. Lockwood av., bridge tender, said the center lock held fast even after he called for emergency power.

ROBBERS GET GAS COUPONS.

Two armed men early yesterday menaced five employes of the Standard Oil company bulk station at 2605 N. Keeler av., and took $35 and gasoline ration coupons for 30,000 gallons from a strong box.

COST OF VICTORIES PAID IN BLOOD, RED CROSS HEAD'S PLEA

Men will be fighting and dying till the very last hour of the last day of the war, Ralph A. Baier, director of the Red Cross blood donor service, declared yesterday in a public appeal revealing that donations at the blood bank at 5 N. Wabash av. had dropped sharply.

"Because we are winning battles people seem to forget the price paid for this success," said Director Baier.

Chicago, he said, had been asked to supply 250,000 of the five million pints of blood requested of the nation by the army and navy. It isn't fair to the fighting men to deny them a chance to enjoy their hard won victories, he said, "but that is exactly what we're doing by letting Chicago fall 500 pints short this week of its plasma quota."

Baier quoted letters from the front lines in France, Italy, and Holland, from foxholes on Saipan, Tarawa, and Peleliu, and from Burma and China.

"They didn't nickname it 'bloody Saipan' for nothing," wrote a former Chicagoan who participated in the assault on that island.

ARLINGTON HEIGHTS—

Are You Looking for a Home?
Let us call your attention to one of the finest and newest residential communities in the Chicago area—practically new 6 and 7 room houses, 1½ and 2½ baths, 1 and 2 car garages, screened porches, overlooking beautiful lawns and gardens, completely finished recreation rooms, wood paneled; 2 fireplaces, etc.

SEE SCARSDALE
PERFECT SUBURBAN LIVING
The houses we're talking about are located in SCARSDALE, an exclusive and restricted subdivision in Arlington Heights. SCARSDALE itself is a new and fresh community of approximately 150 homes designed and built by W. C. Tackett, Inc., within the past 6 or 7 years. SCARSDALE is the ideal place to live—children are welcome.

ARLINGTON HEIGHTS
The town of Arlington Heights is on the North Western Railroad—26 miles northwest of Chicago—with many fast express trains to and from the city—28 minutes. Arlington Heights has excellent schools [including parochial], stores, movie theater, bank and also a private 18 hole golf course. One of the finest outdoor swimming pools in the state is located in the recreational park, together with a baseball diamond, lighted tennis and badminton courts and a new community building.

QUALITY HOUSES
TACKETT-BUILT — Some houses we have available are only 2½ years old, gas air conditioned heat, tile baths, large rooms, ample closets, and built-in breakfast nooks.

EXCELLENT VALUES
Prices are only $16,500 for 6 rooms, all brick, having 1½ baths, garage, screened porch, recreation room, and $20,500 for a 4 bedroom house with 2½ baths, screened porch, 2 car garage, recreation room, large lot, etc.
Call us for information and pictures or floor plans — no obligation — or better yet, drive out on Sunday to our Scarsdale office, 537 So. State-road. Appointments may be made for inspection any day during the week.
DRIVING DIRECTIONS:
Take N. W. hwy. to 1st stop light entering Arlington Heights, turn left 5 blocks to Scarsdale.

HOFFMAN OFFERS:
THE FARM YOU'VE ALWAYS WANTED!
There are farms and farms, but here is one that has everything, including location, being near La Porte, Michigan City, and New Buffalo, Mich. It's 10 miles north of La Porte, ½ mile off U. S. 39, 4 miles from New Buffalo beach. Known as the Walter Shults farm.
This farm consists of 180 acres, tiled, slightly rolling, timber clay, very productive for corn, wheat, oats, alfalfa, etc. All hogtight fenced. A beautiful, 8 room modern red brick house which is practically new is another feature. Any woman would be delighted to have this place because of its up-to-the-minute conveniences that you would expect to find only in a city home. Included is a 2 car garage of matching brick. All outbuildings, such as the barn, 32'x70,' with large mow; implement shed with cement floor and cement block foundation; cement stave silo; livestock shed 24'x48'; hen house 10'x36', insulated, cement floor; granary 18'x24'; double corn crib, 1,600 bushel capacity, are in excellent condition being made of good materials and can be maintained with little expense for years to come.
All of this is yours for only $250 per acre. You will have to look a long time to find an equal at this bargain price.

KENNEY JOLTS THE JAPS!

LT. GEN. GEORGE C. KENNEY

By ARTHUR VEYSEY

At an Advanced Southwest Pacific Air Base.

KEN'S MEN, the veterans of the heavy bomber units in the Southwest Pacific, are beginning their third year of operation, modestly calling themselves the "first team." It has been a glorious year for Ken's Men. The first heavy bomber unit to arrive from the United States, they named themselves for Lt. Gen. George C. Kenney.

"When there's a job to do—knock out convoys, battle thru thick clouds of Zeros, or blast Jap bases into kingdom come—just call on Ken's Men." That was the outfit's first slogan, and it still holds good.

Today two other heroes of the Pacific's aerial war have been added to the namesake. They are Maj. Kenneth McCullar, one of the most fabulous figures in this area, and Brig. Gen. Kenneth Walker, head of the 5th air forces command back in the days when the Japs dominated the sky.

McCullar, a handsome guy from Courtland, Miss., was killed. General Walker is missing, last seen over Rabaul.

To back up their claim to being the first team, Ken's Men cite this impressive list of firsts:

First to operate in New Guinea; first to make practical use of skip bombing; first to sight and help smash the Bismarck sea convoy, changing the course of this war, and later to discover the Kavieng convoy, destruction of which started the downfall of Rabaul.

First to prove the deadly fighting qualities of Flying Fortresses against Zeros; first among all the heavy bomber outfits anywhere in the amount of shipping destroyed—a total of 108 Japanese ships sunk and 109 others damaged.

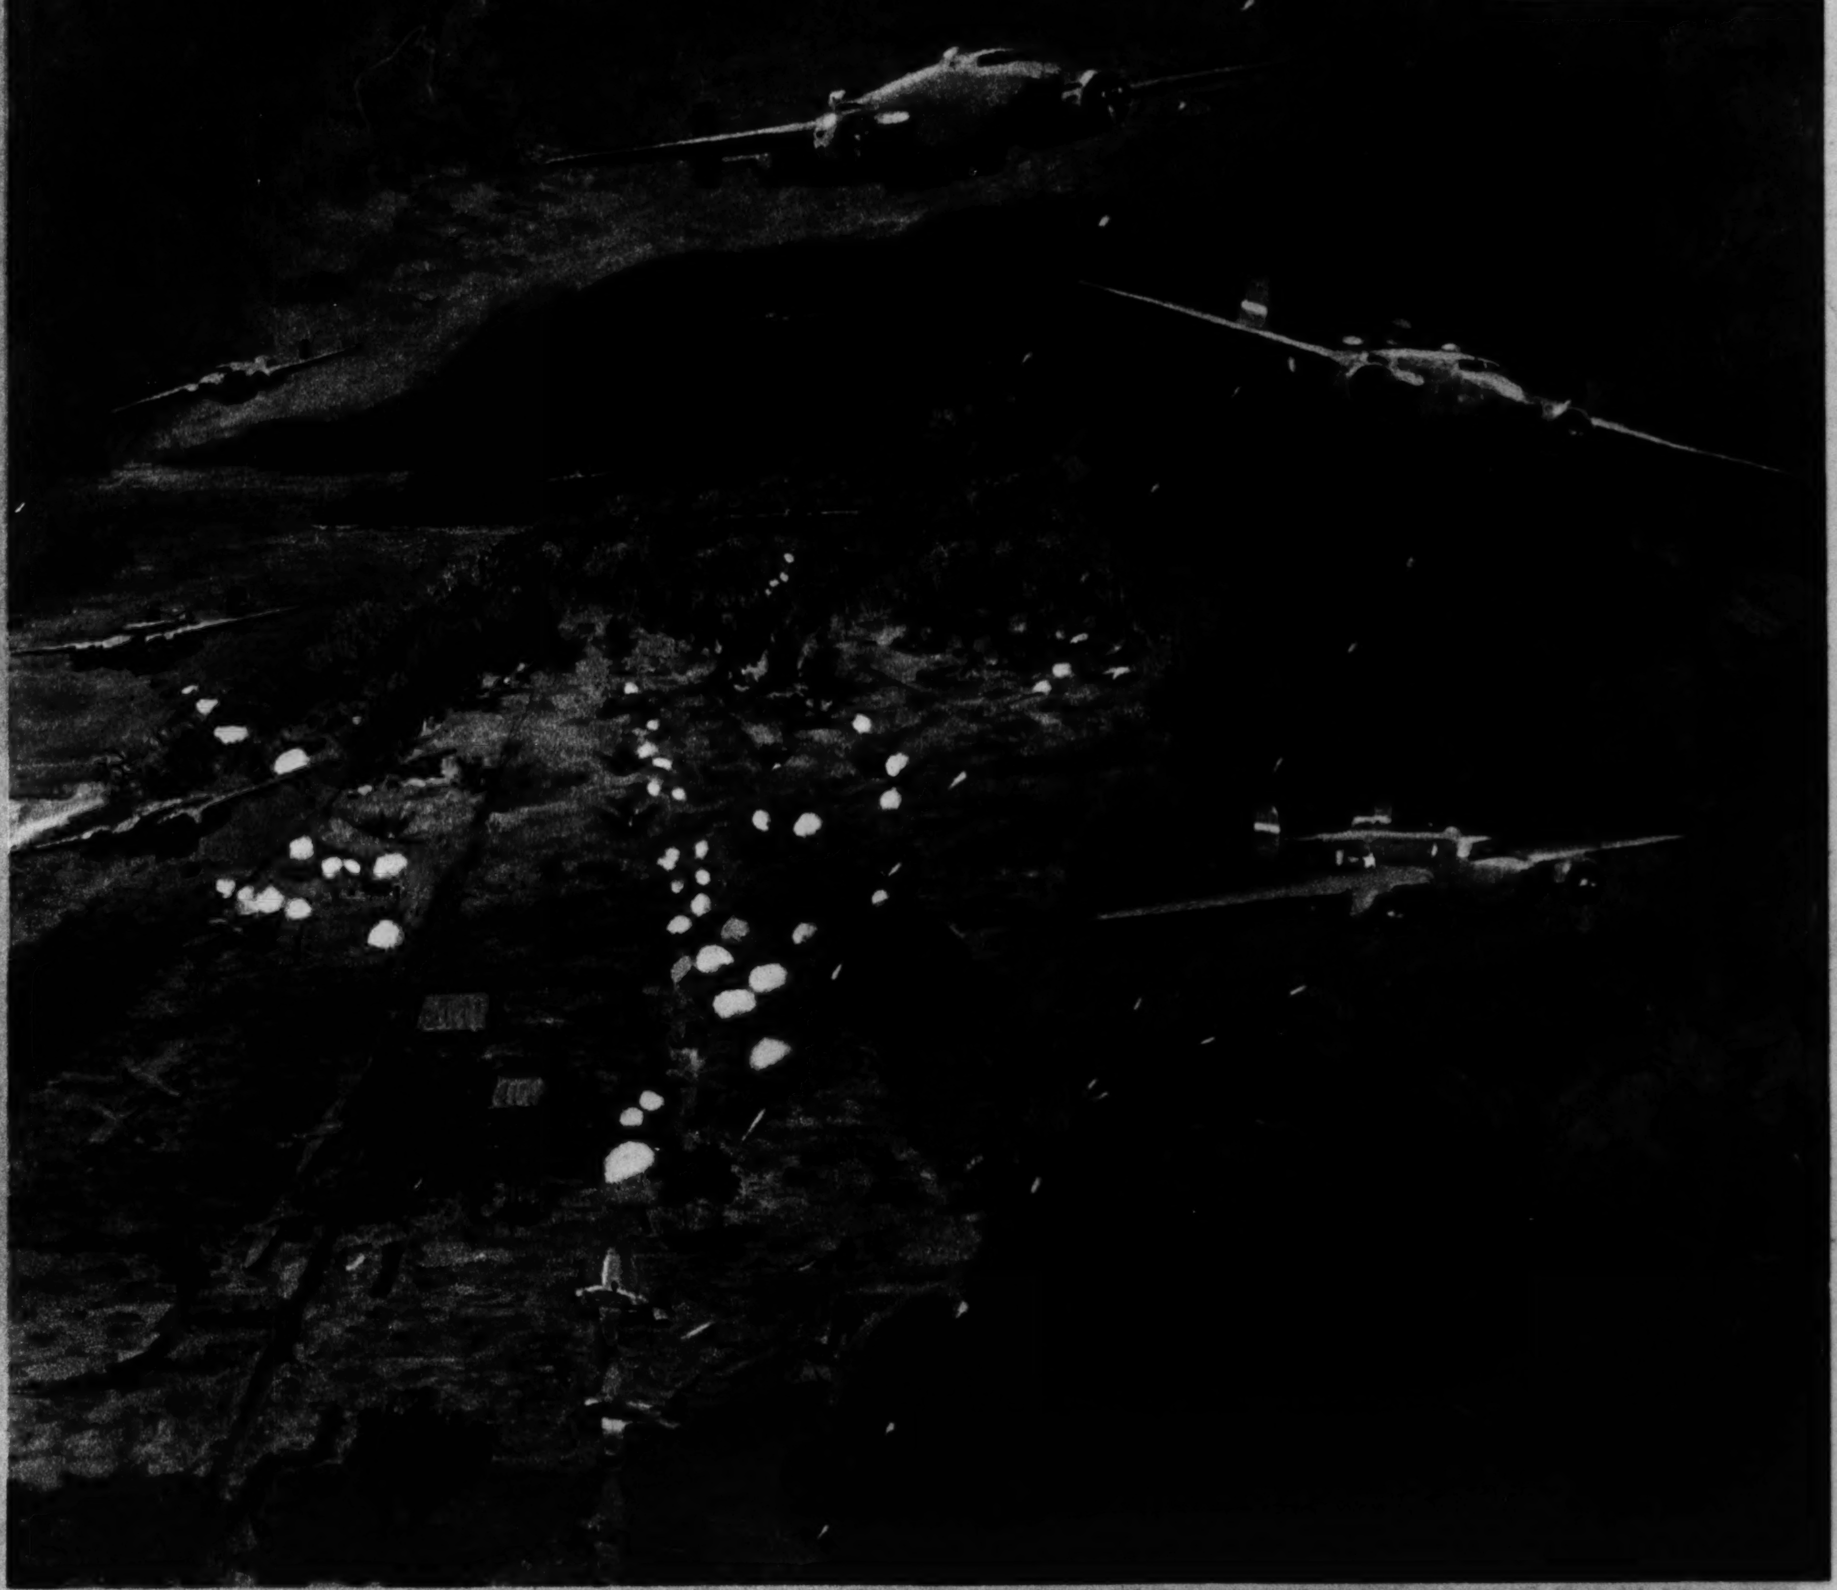
With a laugh Ken's Men claim another first—first to bomb with beer bottles, toilet paper, and garbage. The beer bottles whistle while falling, and while they didn't do much damage, they didn't help Jap nerves any. The toilet paper turned out to be effective as a defense against searchlights. When a plane is caught in the lights it is dropped in long streamers, befuddling the ground men. The use of garbage was credited to a character known only as Nick the Greek. It expressed his sentiments toward the Japanese.

It has been a busy two years. Ken's Men have gone on 6,466 missions, flying a total of 7,153,440 miles, or about 285 times around the world. They have dropped some 12,000 tons of bombs.

Of the hundreds of Zeros and Jap bombers to come within their range, gunners of Ken's Men have shot down 184 and sent another 64 fleeing with holes or fires that kept them from reaching home. It has been a bloody two years. Almost twice the total complement of planes has been lost, altho the crews from half of them have been rescued. Ken's Men have attacked fearlessly. No target is too big. They dote on warships and have sunk at least (Continued on page eight.)



At right: Tribune Artist Gary Sheahan's interpretation of an official communique reporting a 5th air force raid on a Japanese air field in the Southwest Pacific. See page eight for the artist's comment on the painting.

GINGER GETS GLAMOR

By FLORABEL MUIR

TOMBOY—HOYDEN—comedienne of extraordinary finesse—then, surprisingly, a dancer with enough talent to match Fred Astaire's. But never a beauty! That's the Hollywood story of Ginger Rogers. But "Lady in the Dark" changed all that. Suddenly folks are going around talking about how beautiful Ginger is. Strangely, she's being compared favorably with renowned beauties of the screen, and apparently nobody is more amazed than the gal herself. Or is she? I'm not so sure that she didn't plan it all just the way it came out, because she is one actress who has master-minded her own career from the days she stepped out before a summer resort audience—a freckled-nosed, redheaded kid of 14—and wowed them.

Ginger in her early thirties is just as determined now as she was then, and she has plenty of curves, with a smart brain to control them.

I found innumerable authorities in Hollywood who are ready with glib explanations as to the how-come of Ginger's new-found loveliness. I think the one person who perhaps knows more about Ginger than any one else is her attractive and talented mother, Lela Rogers, production assistant at RKO studio.

There never has been a mother-daughter combination in the history of pictures that more aptly illustrates the old Horatian line, "O mater pulchra, filia pulchrior"—daughter more beautiful than a beautiful mother.

"I think I know everything Ginger thinks without her ever putting it in words," Mrs. Rogers told me. "In the last year her face has taken on a soft tenderness that illumines her features like a beautiful light. It may sound awfully corny for me to say that love has done this for my child, but that is exactly what it is, and I'm feminine enough to know that love given and received does more for a woman than all the beauty preparations in the world."

"Mother could have something there," Ginger told me when I interviewed her on the set of "Double Furlough," which she is making for David Selznick. "I am truly in love for the first time in my life, and I'm also happier than I have ever been, and no doubt it shows in my face; but there is something a bit more—shall we say something you can put your finger on? This is it: I have at long last learned my own face and body. I have found out the formula for bringing out my own best features. It took years of research and practice. I've tried every sort of makeup put on the market. I've read experts' treatises on how to be beautiful, and out of each I gleaned one or two things that helped me. Now I think I have it. Of course I'm not leaning back satisfied and not trying to do better. There will always be a way of improving myself, and of course as I grow older I'll have to adopt differ- (Continued on page eleven.)

LOOKING AT HOLLYWOOD WITH HEDDA HOPPER

Hollywood.

RADIO has become the established springboard for a graceful dive into the Hollywood swim.

Before the death of vaudeville the three-a-day circuit was the training ground for most of the early stars of stage and, later, screen. Now soap operas and nightly variety shows are proving to be a cushy school for future screen stars.

The jump from radio to screen is easier for the unknown actor than it is for a headliner. The little-known performer has an opportunity to portray and gain experience in all types of roles. Many Hollywood newcomers were until recently playing a variety of roles as unnamed voices. Movie men heard them over the air and offered screen tests. Now they are on their way to film stardom.

Fred Brady is the newest screen discovery. Following his coast-to-coast shows, talent scouts contacted Brady for a screen test. He scripted the test himself and was signed to a long-term M.G.M. acting contract. Sol Lesser saw the test and borrowed him for the romantic lead in "3 Is a Family."

Jane Powell is another sensation direct from the ether. The 15-year-old Portland singer appeared for one performance on "Hollywood Showcase," then sat back and took her pick of studio contracts. She was a hit in her first screen role and is being starred in her second filmusical, "High Among the Stars."

From announcer to dramatic actor sums up the quick film success of likable Bill Goodwin. Bill's voice is recognizable to thousands of listeners. Soon they'll hear Bill's voice and be able to see him in scenes with Ingrid Bergman in "The House of Dr. Edwardes."

John Hodiak is still another new Hollywood star whose voice was heard long before his face was seen in "Lifeboat."

In contrast, air headliners have a more difficult time than unknowns in establishing themselves as movie stars. You unconsciously build up your own mental picture of the face behind the voice. If the actor's personality doesn't project from the screen in accord with the mental picture created by the air waves it's a quick curtain on the Hollywood career.

Rudy Vallee was a Hollywood casualty. The Connecticut crooner experienced an early version of the Sinatra landslide. He was forced into films by his fans. After a series of unfortunate pictures, which I must admit were pretty terrible, he returned to the air lanes. However, just before his induction into the United States Coast Guard he finished two highly successful screen roles as a comedian, mainly because a bright young writer and director named Preston Sturges decided to make an asset of Vallee's liabilities. Those drooping eyes of his were even droopier when he wore nose glasses with the same long dog slant as his eyes. Rudy's corny lovemaking was worse than that tall growing stuff in Kansas—therefore it was funny.

Remembering the Vallee fiasco, film producers were cautious when the bobby sock brigade flooded Hollywood studios with letters demanding that they see "the Voice" on the screen. For Sinatra's debut RKO gave the crooner hit tunes, a not too dramatic role, a good cast, then released the picture and held their breath. The fans swooned and asked for Frankie again and again. "The Voice" is in—rather on—so far as the screen is concerned.

Two other famous voices that successfully traveled the same route were Edgar Bergen and Charlie McCarthy. Movie men were faced with the problem of filming an illusion. The precocious dummy had to appear as real to film audiences as he sounded.

Established radio teams had difficulties, too. Moran and Mack as the Two Black Crows squawked loudly for one picture, fluttered feebly in their second, and disappeared into screen oblivion. Amos and Andy stepped before the movie lenses, with but slight success. But Abbott and Costello acted out their routines in front of a Universal camera and the gold rush was on.

The duo of funny men climbed rapidly to number one place in a poll of Hollywood favorites. Their success encouraged other established teams to try for film luck. Olsen and Johnson now make one picture a year. Lum and Abner signed a long-term RKO contract and expect to balance their career between air and screen. Following the trend, Fibber and Molly McGee were finally roped into the Hollywood corral.

The list goes on unendingly. What television will do after it makes its debut at war's end no one can as yet foresee. But I predict the results will be as startling and far-reaching as when sound came to the movies.

VOICE OF THE MOVIE FAN

Letters published in this department should be written on one side of the paper. If you wish a personal reply please inclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Dear Miss Tinée: I have recently seen the picture "Cobra Woman." Could you possibly tell me who the girl was who played the part of Maria Montez's twin sister? Would you also be kind enough to give me some information about Maria Montez and print a picture of her in your column? Thank you.
VIVIAN MAXFIELD.

Maria Montez

Dear Vivian: Maria played a double role. She was her twin in the movie. She was born in the Dominican Republic.

She was a model before becoming an actress. Universal screen-tested her and gave her a contract. You're welcome.

Dear Miss Tinée: I hear you have a list of movie stars and their addresses, and I wonder if you could please send me one? Thanks.
HELEN HOOD.

Dear Helen: I have the list, and I'll send it to you if you'll send me a stamped, self-addressed envelope to put it in. You're welcome.

Dear Miss Tinée: If you would print a picture of that handsome actor, Louis Calhern, and tell me something about him I would love you forever. I don't care if he is ancient according to boogie-woogie ideals. He's my favorite actor just the same. I'll be watching your column like as hawk for answer. A FAN OF WHAT'S BEST IN THE MOVIES.

Louis Calhern

Dear Fan: With great pleasure I hand you Mr. Calhern's picture this bright (?) Sabbath morn. He was born in New York City, Feb. 19, 1895, made his theatrical debut at the age of 5 at the Metropolis theater, became a leading man in 1914, served in France in the artillery during 1917 and 1918, and has played in more than 50 films since his first appearance in them in 1919.

He paints in his spare moments and swims for exercise, and his last movie was "The Bridge of San Luis Rey."

You're welcome, dear "Fan," and I like him, too.

Chicago Women Know The Answer

By 2 to 1 Vote choose soap that cuts grease off dishes in a flash... yet helps hands stay soft, smooth

American Family Flakes Preferred By Twice As Many Women As Any Other Package Soap Independent Dishwashing Survey Shows

"I've never seen grease disappear faster," says Mrs. H. McFarland, 6526 S. Ingleside Ave.... This is why! Tests prove that no soap in the world cuts grease faster than American Family Flakes.

"I get more suds faster and they last amazingly long with American Family Flakes," says Mrs. J. Doran, 7710 Laflin St... It's a fact. Today's American Family Flakes actually make more suds faster than leading strong granulated soaps.

"My hands feel so much softer I hardly realize they're mine, now that I'm using American Family Flakes for my dishes," says Mrs. J. Brady, 8005 Lafayette.... Here's the reason. Today's American Family Flakes are milder than any strong granulated soaps—and so they are far kinder to hands.

Girls! Don't waste soap
It's made of war materials
1 When doing dishes, run water in empty dishpan first. Then add Flakes, swish vigorously, do dishes.
2 Wash less greasy dishes first; then do greasy things.

The Poet Who Fathered Fascism

BENITO MUSSOLINI

By DELOS AVERY

A THIRD-RATE POET with a head full of ill-digested Nietzsche, Oscar Wilde, and some French neurotics strutted in Venice just before the end of the first World war and lifted his tenor voice to declaim:

"I smell the stench of peace."

It has been said that this poet was the inventor of fascism. Whether that be true or not, he surely was first to present before an astonished and incredulous world a full-stage and full-costume spectacle of that bloody nightmare, which has brought death to countless millions and debts of countless billions.

The man was Gabriele D'Annunzio. His first name is the name of an angel with a horn; his last can be translated into English by the word "announcement" or "message." The message was fascism.

One of D'Annunzio's disciples was Benito Mussolini, a small man who was able to look large because those about him were smaller still. He was a turncoat politician, opportunist, unscrupulous. Eventually he stole the show.

King Victor Emmanuel

Among others who voluntarily or otherwise helped to launch fascism was a timid little king, Victor Emmanuel, who loved his comforts and could not say no when addressed by a sufficiently loud voice.

Still others who helped, either by action or weary inaction, were some scores of politicians, some hundreds of business men who thought their purses would be safer, and some thousands of the white collar class who, suffering from dread of the rough "rabble," rallied to the banner which the poet unfurled.

On Sept. 12, 1919, D'Annunzio, leading his band of black shirted adventurers, marched into Fiume and claimed it in the name of Italy, declaring that the nation had been cheated of its promised reward for participation in the war. He said his foes never would dislodge him without "treading on my bleeding corpse."

For 15 amazing months the world, too tired to act, let him stay there. But early in January, 1921, when a shell struck the balcony of the palace he was occupying, he gave up—because the shell was Italian and it meant to him that Italy had renounced him.

"Italy," he sadly confessed, "is not worth dying for."

But the fascism which he had fashioned was on its way, and the imprint of the D'Annunzio imagination was daubed all over it. Even the castor oil treatment for dissenting opinion was D'Annunzio's.

The black shirt idea was his, and so was the straight arm salute, which he borrowed from the early history of Greece and Rome, where it had been the gesture of obedience from slave to master. To the fancy of D'Annunzio it was pleasing, as one biographer says, because it suggested "the thrust of a dagger into the throat of an enemy."

D'Annunzio liked daggers, and so did Mussolini, who adopted the salute along with rest of the D'Annunzio "props." Hitler borrowed it, too, and made it compulsory for his brown shirt followers, and Mussolini returned the compliment by teaching his soldiers the goose step.

The fascist revolution in Italy was completed by Mussolini, but since it was begun by D'Annunzio an understanding of it may be made easier by taking a closer look at the poet. G. A. Borgese, an Italian scholar who witnessed the revolution and escaped from it to join the faculty of the University of Chicago, describes him as a man with the instincts of a libertine and a tyrant, with aspirations to become "both Casanova and a Napoleon." He was "a poet and a dandy" who possessed "women, horses, and debts," was fascinated by the "loveliness" of fire, tried to incite a mob to incendiarism.

He could make such a phrase as "the stench of peace," and he could speak of a "perfumed death." He wrote a play, "The Dead City," which Borgese calls "an apology for incest and fratricide." His literary style was "spiced with a curious terminology, both excremental and sexual." He thought of himself as Nietzsche's "superman"—until Mussolini became super-super.

D'Annunzio foreshadowed something like fascism in a novel he wrote many years before the revolution. It was called "The Virgins of the Rocks." The virgins were princesses, sisters, living in a lonely castle on a rugged coast. The hero was D'Annunzio himself or as he imagined himself, under the fiction name of Claudio Cantelmo, a "noble" descendant of "mighty and cruel warriors." Cantelmo was superman and as such he proposed to become the father of "an emperor and king who would rule the world"—from Rome. The mother of this world dictator was to be one of the three virgins of the rocks, and the question was: which virgin?

In real life it worked out differently. D'Annunzio found plenty of willing ladies, but he bred no "emperor and king" and he did not breed even a Mussolini. He did, however, transfer the superman idea to Mussolini, who found it tasty.

Mussolini, the son of a blacksmith, had professed to be a Socialist in his youth. He edited a Socialist newspaper, the Avanti, but was fired from the job and from the party when he became an echo of D'Annunzio at the start of the first World war. The Socialists were passionate pacifists. D'Annunzio was for war and so was Mussolini.

The soon-to-be Italian dictator joins his fascist band in time for the climax of march on Rome in 1922. He had entered the city by train. The bearded figure at left is Emilio de Bono, who later bungled the Italian campaign in Ethiopia. On Mussolini's left is Italo Balbo, famous flyer, later governor of Libya, who was killed in the war.

"Today you hate me," he told his former comrades, "but it is because you love me."

It is not of record that they ever figured that one out.

He still insisted that he was the real Socialist and those who had kicked him out would live to regret it. He warned them.

"I will not forgive," he said, "I shall be pitiless."

For a time he still professed the old Socialist "hatred of the state," but he changed his mind when the idea occurred to him that he himself might come to be the state. Then he would make state worship compulsory.

He went to war as a private, became a corporal, spent 38 days in the trenches—a longer period in more comfortable quarters—and came out as a casualty, wounded by an accidental explosion of an Italian grenade in an Italian trench. Recovering, he returned to journalism as editor of the Popolo d'Italia. He organized groups similar to D'Annunzio's. And he made phrases.

"We feel strong," he said, "because we have no friends."

He said his Fascists would not be bound by a program, but would make instant changes, "according to circumstances." His followers might be "aristocrats or democrats," wearing whatever doctrine suited the moment. "Every theory," he declared, "is a prison."

After the war there was vast discontent in Italy and Mussolini made use of it. The nation had been on the winning side, but the people had a feeling of defeat. In March, 1919, there was a great bolshevik demonstration in Milan, with red flags flying instead of the Italian colors.

Mussolini, sponsored by merchants, held a meeting on March 23 and organized his group of "Fasci di Combattimento." Similar groups were brought together in other cities, led by employes of Mussolini, correspondents of his newspaper. That was six months before D'Annunzio's march on Fiume.

When that march was made Mussolini indorsed it, supported it editorially, collected funds for the poet. (It was charged that he kept a considerable part of the money for his own purposes, the theory being that his own purposes were the same thing anyway. It was said that "instead of embracing the cause" he considered that he was the cause.)

D'Annunzio marched in September and elections were held in November, the first elections since 1913. The Socialists triumphed, winning 156 seats. Mussolini, running for parliament as an independent, was overwhelmingly beaten, receiving fewer than 5,000 out of 346,000 votes in Milan. In the whole of Italy the number of his followers was estimated then at only 17,000.

GABRIELE D'ANNUNZIO

So he wrote a gloomy article in which he said:

"O! illustrious minnesingers of all the sacristies, life is not a straight line. . . . Let us return to the individual. Let us support all that exalts and amplifies the individual. . . . It is necessary to navigate, even against the current. Even against the masses. Even if shipwreck awaits the solitary and proud carriers of our heresy!"

He waited. And in 1920 the victorious Socialists, as the historian Herman Finer wrote, "threw away" the victory they had won and the power they had developed. They even refused to occupy their seats in parliament when the session was opened by the king. They spent their strength in strikes and riots.

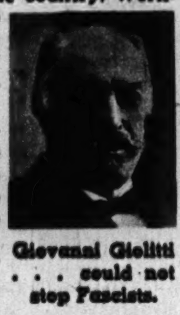
They gave the police so much trouble that the police turned fascist, and so did a great part of the army. In August there was a lockout of metal workers in Milan. Other lockouts followed in other parts of the country. Workers seized the plants. There were charges of sabotage and pilfering.



Giovanni Giolitti . . . could not stop Fascists.

Giovanni Giolitti, the prime minister, took no action because he believed the strikers would quit, which they did. Mussolini demanded that the government should act against the Socialists. Otherwise, he said in his paper, "we invite all citizens, and especially Fascists, to prepare to destroy the bolshevik plans of the Socialist party."

There has been abundant argument as to whether a real "bolshevist menace" existed. Borgese thinks not. But Finer, acknowledged by Borgese himself as one of the ablest historians of the fascist revolution, points out that whether the menace was genuine or not, there was genuine fear of it among the middle class, who therefore were ready to support Mussolini. Shop keepers, says Finer, feared price fixing and taxes; there was fear of the cooperative societies; fear of disastrous wage demands; fear of more factory seizures; fear of land appropriation. Finer adds, however, that so far as Mussolini was concerned, he had nothing to fear from bolshevism "except that he would not be its leader." And in fact he made a gesture toward such leadership by saying that all he demanded was production and that if this were guaranteed by workmen instead of employers it would be all right with him if the former took the place of the latter. The workers, however, would have nothing to do with him, and he announced his championship of the middle class "to save Italy."

In December, 1920, the government, being bound by the treaty of Rapallo, decided to use force against D'Annunzio's occupation of Fiume. Mussolini, whose prestige was overshadowed by the poet's, agreed that the treaty must be fulfilled.

D'Annunzio sorrowfully decided not to become "a bleeding corpse" after all. He withdrew. It was a long time, says Finer, before the poet's followers forgave Mussolini.

But the fascist movement was growing and Mussolini was now its undisputed head. In the elections of 1921 the party won 35 seats in parliament. Giolitti, whose position was none too stable, announced that "fascism has become a living force and ought to be represented politically." He decided to use the party. He gave the Fascists arms! He equipped them with trucks, with grenades, with revolvers.

There was talk of a coup d'etat, but Mussolini was not quite ready for that. He preferred to move cautiously. He told the national council of the party that this was not the time because the nation was "convalescent" and a violent blow might be "fatal." (Some said his meaning was that it might be fatal to him.)

Anyway his strength was increasing and time was improving his chances. In his newspaper he said that fascist "violence" must be "equitable, rational, and surgical."

It was surgical. And progress toward open civil war was rapid. Mussolini said fascism was his "child" and that he would exercise his right of parenthood to make it behave. The nation needed peace, he said.

Giolitti, having used the Fascists to control the Socialists, soon found that he had no adequate implement to control fascism itself. The fascist squads grew stronger, bolder, and the police could not be used against them because the police were most of them. Fascism could be controled only by a force as ruthless as itself, and there was no such force in sight. The Socialists, says Finer, were "far too paralyzed by their own ethics to hit back with the same force." The middle groups in general were hypnotized, narcotized.

Mussolini's paper, Popolo d'Italia, railed at the futility of the government. He said the nation for three years had been asking for a government of "order, hierarchy, discipline." He said parliament had proved its incapacity to provide such a government. The Giolitti cabinet fell. Local committees of the Fascists screamed for a dictatorship. Luigi Facta, an instrument of the wealthy conservatives, became prime minister. A general strike was ordered in Rome. Mussolini ordered his Fascists to "consider yourselves materially and morally mobilized from this moment." The Facta cabinet, still an infant, fell on July 19, but was temporarily restored. King Victor Emmanuel sought a conference with Mussolini—and also with Filippo Turati, the Socialist. But the Socialists were divided and lost their chance.

The king was a weakling, physically small, and Borgese observes, "There was no uniform that did not appear too large for him."

"He did not love the crown," Borgese continues. "He submitted to it. Whenever he was allowed, he retired to the woods of Piedmont or Tuscany. . . . In Rome he lingered as little as possible in the city palace, preferring a modest suburban residence. . . . He never spoke in public unless the premier, every second or third year, handed him a paper to have it delivered by the regal voice. . . . His leisure he spent in the most harmless of hobbies, namely, numismatics."

Luigi Facta . . . his cabinet fell quickly.

The king was a man who wanted peace—peace for himself, for his family. He wanted no trouble with anybody. He was suspicious of Mussolini, who had been known once as an apologist of regicide and now appeared strong enough to force an abdication if he cared to. And while Victor Emmanuel would not have minded the loss of a throne so far as he was personally concerned, he wished to preserve it for his son. So he decided to deal with strength where strength could be found. Borgese says:

". . . The king waived his tardy scruples and signed the telegram calling Mussolini to the office of premier and to the composition of a cabinet. And thus a man who had been born a king sealed half-unwittingly the sentence that made him a slave."

Mussolini, who had been waiting discreetly at Milan, whence he could have escaped to Switzerland if things had gone wrong, now came in triumph to Rome. But his "march on Rome" was not a march at all. It was done in a sleeping car. As Finer put it, "Mussolini crossed the Rubicon in the Milan-Rome wagon-lit and a bowler hat. The latter was shortly after replaced by the traditional silk topper." He put on a fresh black shirt and went to the Quirinal, where he said to the king, "Majesty, I bring you back the Italy of Vittorio Veneto," by which he meant an Italy of war and triumph.

Mussolini, not quite ready to go the limit in ruthlessness, named a cabinet which included a few non-Fascists. He ejected them later, when he was surer of his strength.

And when he made his first appearance as premier before parliament he coldly stated that it was a "purely formal act of controversy." That was Nov. 16, 1922. In his autobiography Mussolini says the purpose was "to announce my intentions and program."

"It was an exceptional meeting. The hall was filled to overflowing. Every deputy was present. My declarations were brief, clear, energetic. I left no misunderstanding. I stated sharply the rights of revolution. I called the attention of the audience to the fact that only by the will of fascism had the revolution remained within the boundaries of legality and tolerance.

"'I could have made,' I said, 'of this dull and gray hall a bivouac of corpses. I could have nailed up the doors of parliament and have established an exclusively fascist government. I could have done these things, but—at least for a time—I did not do them.'"

He says he did not present a program, but "asserted my will to act and to act without delaying for useless oratory." And he promised this:

"We intend to give the nation a discipline. We will give it. Let none of our enemies of yesterday, of today, of tomorrow cherish illusions in regard to our permanence in power."

As for the permanence of parliment itself, he said:

"The chamber must feel its position. That position opens the possibility that it may be dissolved in two days or in two years."

Italy had met her master—her master for a while. It was a longer while before he met his.

There are millions of reasons why these coats look richer... wear longer!

Yes, there are millions of reasons, but you'd need a microscopic lens to count them. For Alpagora's exclusive Double-Dense* Fabric has millions of wool fibres on its surfaces. Actually twice as many as there are on the ordinary coat! That's what gives Alpagora its deep, soft, luxurious "million-air" and at the same time (ask any textile expert) makes it doubly resistant to wear. That's why Alpagora is America's favorite coat. See them today!

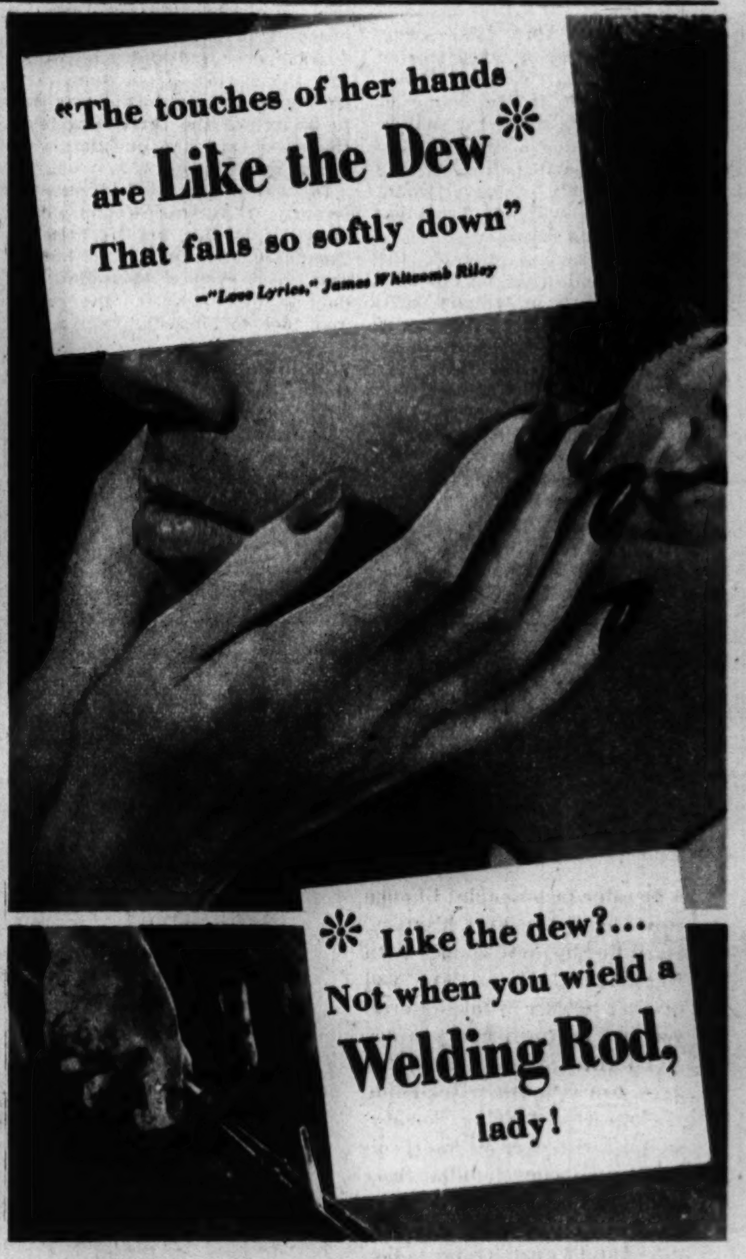
ALPAGORA

THE COAT WITH THE DOUBLE DENSE*



"The touches of her hands are Like the Dew* That falls so softly down"

—"Love Lyrics," James Whitcomb Riley

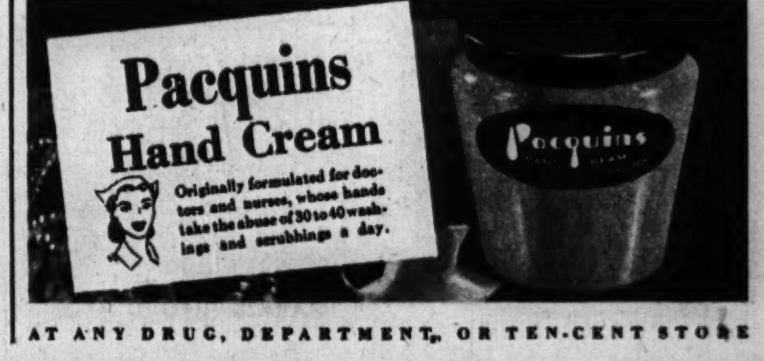
* Like the dew?... Not when you wield a Welding Rod, lady!

Must war work or any work AGE your hands?

NO! Also no, no, and NO! Work—and weather—can roughen, coarsen, redden your hands. Make them look older than you are. And you know that old saying about "look at a woman's hands to know her true age."

But Pacquins Hand Cream can fight the effects of work and weather. Can help keep your hands smooth, white, lovely, romantic, and looking as young as you really are!

Start using Pacquins right away. It's creamy-smooth, divinely fragrant, non-greasy. See if your hands don't smooth out faster and stay smoother longer. It's wonderful for elbows, knees, and ankles too.



Pacquins Hand Cream

Originally formulated for doctors and nurses, whose hands take the abuse of 30 to 40 washings and scrubbings a day.

PORK CHOPS PREFERRED

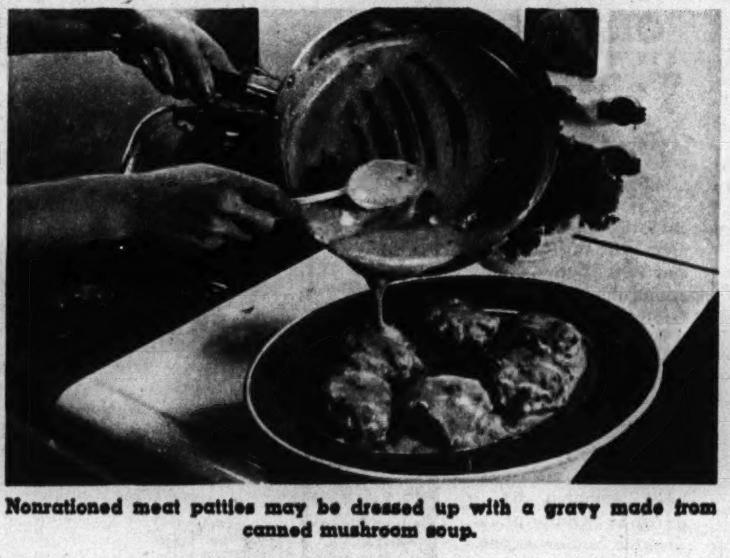
Cook pork loin chops carefully, for they're expensive in red points, especially if they're thick.

By MARY MEADE

CENTER CUT pork chops cost you eight red points a pound, so when you splurge on them you must be sure to cook them properly. End chops aren't quite so handsome to look at, but cost only half the points and are just as tender and full of flavor as the center cuts from the pork loin.

If you have no points at all to spend for your pork, choose shoulder steak, which is cooked in the same manner.

If you can afford the points for extra thick pork chops, make pockets in them to hold stuffing. Cut these from the bone side so that the pocket is a closed one which will hold in the filling during braising.



Nonrationed meat patties may be dressed up with a gravy made from canned mushroom soup.

STUFFED PORK CHOPS

Cut an opening about 1½ inches long on the rib side of each thick chop. Then insert a sharp knife farther into the chop to make a place for stuffing. For six chops, mix ½ cup uncooked rice, 1 chopped green pepper, 1 small grated onion, 1 teaspoon salt, ¼ teaspoon pepper. Place mixture in meat pockets. The stuffing will cook in the time required for the chops to become thoroly done, and as the rice absorbs moisture, the chops will plump.

Brown the chops on both sides in a heavy skillet. Salt and pepper them and add ½ cup water or tomato juice to the pan. Cover closely and cook slowly on top of the range, or in a 350 degree oven for an hour.

BRAISED PORK CHOPS OR SHOULDER STEAKS

Brown the meat on both sides in a heavy skillet, season with salt and pepper, cover closely, and cook gently until tender, about 45 minutes. For a very special savory dish, sprinkle the browned, seasoned meat with brown sugar, slice onions over it, and then cover the onions with sliced tomatoes. No liquid need be added.

Dress up nonrationed hamburger cakes or lamb patties with a mushroom sauce made from condensed cream of mushroom soup. Dilute the soup with 6 tablespoons of milk and add to drippings from the meat. Stir and heat thoroly, then pour over your meat cakes. It's a delicious gravy, and no trouble at all.

Gravy of one kind or another should be appearing on our tables frequently, for we don't want to waste a drop of good meat flavor. When we don't make thickened gravy from meat drippings we can make that best of all meat sauces, pan gravy. Pan gravy need be nothing more than the drippings to which hot water has been added. Pour off any excess fat into the container for waste fats, add a small amount of hot water to your skillet, and let it boil up and loosen all the clinging meat scraps which contain so much flavor. Then pour this thin brown gravy over the cooked meat and serve it.

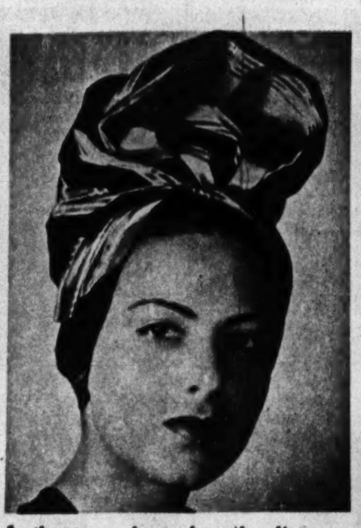
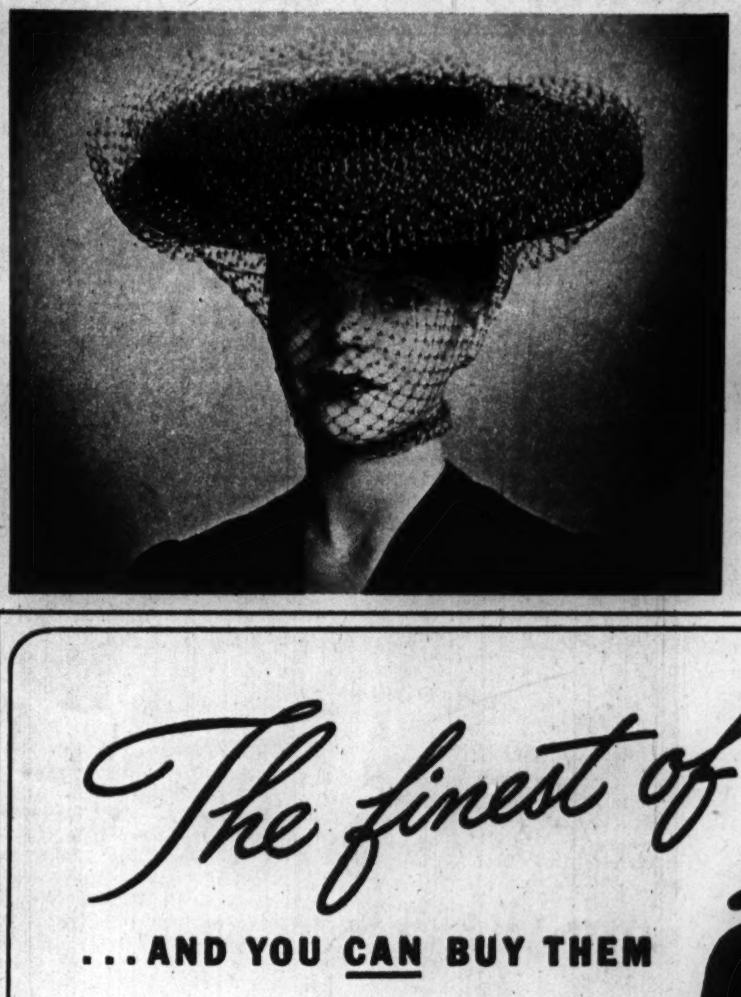
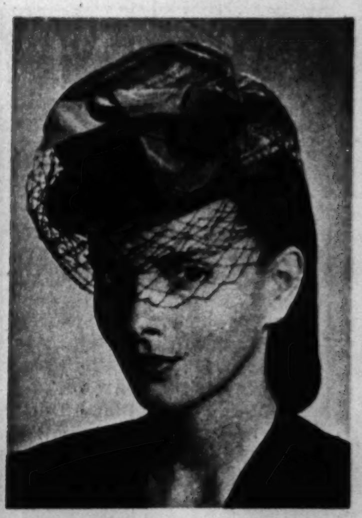
Now Hats Are HATS



In the case of a turban the distance from the crown of the head to the top of the turban should be about the same as the distance from the hair line to the tip of the nose.





The new high-crowned winter sailors are really becoming to every face if carefully chosen.

FROM the neck up you're a big girl now. This autumn sees the definite and unlamented demise of the tiny hat, the beanie, and the topknot. You are going to wear hats that are hats. And you're going to love it, says a famous milliner who has made some of the loveliest and most unusual of the new big hats.

"Yes," says this designer, "the big hats are beautiful. But there is one danger. They must be chosen carefully and worn beautifully. They just can't be stuck on the head the way the little calots and half hats could. They take wearing with elegance, suavity, grace.

"They must be in correct proportion to the wearer's face. For instance, I have found that to be right both for fashion and beauty the new high turbans should rise above the head a distance equal to two-thirds the length of the wearer's face. That is, the distance from the crown of the head to the top of the turban should be about the same as the distance from the hair line to the tip of the nose." The left-hand picture above illustrates this.

The new large hats, the famous designer says, also must be chosen with an eye to proportion. If you wear a veil, as the model in the center picture does, it is easy to see how the following rule applies: You should see your face as the center of a triangle, and the width of the brim straight across the front should be about twice the distance from the point of your chin to the outer edge of the brim.

"Many women have an idea that they do not look well in a sailor," the designer says. "It is true that the uncompromising lines of the sailor make certain demands on a face. But the new high-crowned winter sailors, so smart just now, are really becoming to every face. They seem to make a thin face look fuller and a full face look thinner. But they, too, must be carefully chosen as to proportion. I like a crown that is about the height of the lady's forehead. And I like the brim to be about two-thirds as wide as the crown is high." The picture at right is typical of the new winter sailor.

And one final word of wisdom:

"If, when you look in the mirror in a new hat, you cannot honestly say you look prettier than before, you've got the wrong hat."

TAMARA TOUMANOVA

● Tamara's life has been spectacular from its beginning in a Vladivostok-bound freight car somewhere in Siberia to her present sparkling vogue as a new movie star. The ballet dancer turned actress is the daughter of Colonel Khassidovitch-Boretcky, of the imperial Russian army, and a Russian princess. She was born as they were fleeing from the revolution—born near the town of Toumen. When Tamara became a ballet star she took her stage name from that town and became Toumanova. A year ago she adopted the name legally.

Tamara's mother was so sure of the girl's future as a dancer that she urged her husband to move to Paris. There she saved enough to pay for one month of ballet instruction under the great Olga Preobrajenskaia. At the end of the month the teacher refused further payment, exclaiming that the child had such talent that she, the teacher, should be paying for the privilege of instructing!

Four months later Tamara met the immortal Pavlowa and thru her became a favorite in the official French salons. At the age of 7 she made her professional debut. At 10 she was honored by 10 great composers who collaborated upon a special ballet for her. At 12 she was the star of a new company formed by Balanchine, and at 13 she came to America. Her selection for the feminine lead in "Days of Glory," her first picture, came 10 years later.

Friendship Cocoa Cake

Mix cake by hand or at low speed of electric mixer. Count only actual beating time. Or count beating strokes. Allow 100 strokes per minute. Scrape bowl and beater or spoon often while mixing.

Measure into sifter:
1¾ cups sifted cake flour
2 teaspoons baking powder
¾ teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon soda
½ cup cocoa
1 cup granulated sugar

Measure into bowl:
½ cup Spry

Measure into cup:
1 cup sour milk or buttermilk*
1 teaspoon vanilla

Have ready: ½ cup brown sugar, firmly packed; 2 eggs, unbeaten

*To make fresh milk sour, add 1 tablespoon vinegar or lemon juice to 1 cup milk; let stand in warm place for a few minutes.

Sift dry ingredients into mixing bowl containing Spry. Add brown sugar—force through fine sieve to remove lumps, if necessary. Add ½ of combined milk and vanilla and both eggs. Mix until all flour is dampened; then beat 1 minute. Add remaining liquid, blend, and beat 1 minute longer.

Turn into two deep Spry-coated 8-inch layer pans. Bake in moderate oven (350° F.) 35 minutes, or until done.

This cake may also be baked in two Spry-coated 9-inch layer pans in moderate oven (350° F.) about 30 minutes, or in Spry-coated 10 x 10 x 2-inch pan about 45 minutes. Or bake in Spry-coated large cupcake pans in hot oven (400° F.) 18 minutes, or until done. Fill pans only ½ full. Makes 24 cupcakes.

Sea Foam Frosting

1 egg white, unbeaten
¾ cup brown sugar, firmly packed
Dash of salt
2½ tablespoons water
½ teaspoon vanilla

Combine egg white, sugar, salt and water in top of double boiler, beating with rotary egg beater until thoroughly mixed. Place over rapidly boiling water, beat constantly with rotary egg beater, and cook 4 minutes, or until frosting will stand in peaks. Remove from boiling water. Add vanilla and beat until thick enough to spread. Makes enough frosting to cover tops of two 8-inch layers.

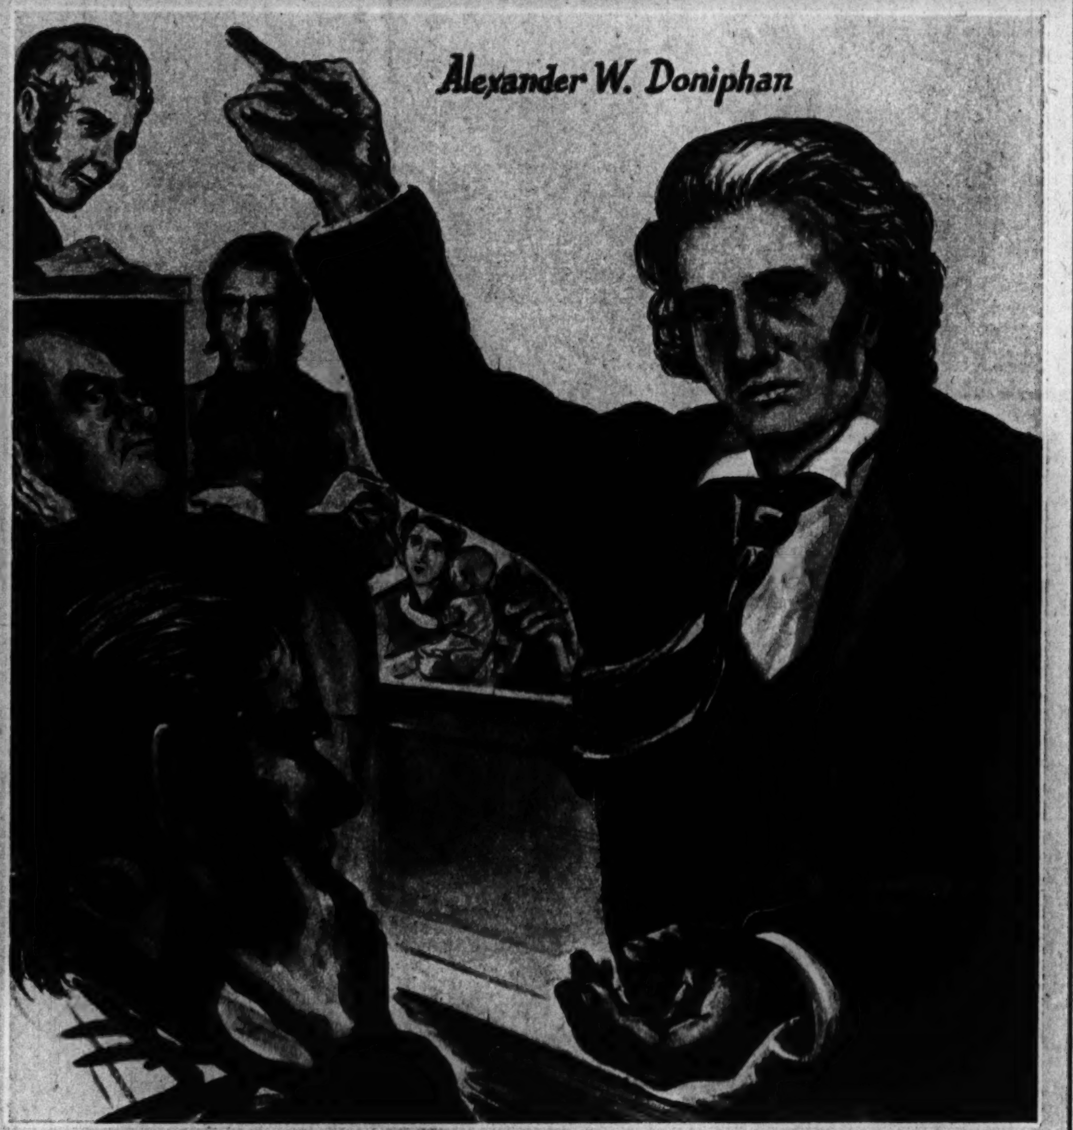
ROMANTIC FIGURES OF AMERICAN HISTORY



The illustration above, by Clara Fargo Thomas and Alexander Varnak, is another of the series appearing currently in this section with biographical sketches.

AT THE HEAD of a regiment of ragged volunteer Missouri cavalrymen, a brawny 6-foot-5 redheaded colonel conquered New Mexico and invaded deeply into old Mexico nearly a century ago. His expedition, which covered more than 3,000 miles, is well-nigh forgotten today, altho one of the most brilliant in military history.

Alexander William Doniphan was a courageous soldier, a natural leader, and, outside his military career, a successful lawyer and statesman. Gallant were his services to his country in the Mexican war.

He was born near Maysville, Ky., July 9, 1808, the youngest son of Joseph Doniphan, a Revolutionary war veteran. At the age of 18 he was graduated from a college in Augusta, Ky., and two years later was admitted to the practice of law in Kentucky and Ohio. In April, 1830, he moved to Lexington, Mo., where he began a notable career as a lawyer. He was employed in many important cases, in one of which he defended the Mormon Orrin P. Rockwell, who was charged with conspiracy in an attempt on the life of Governor McNair. He obtained for his client a sentence of only five minutes in jail—virtually an acquittal. In 1833 he moved to Liberty, Mo.

In May, 1846, Doniphan organized the 1st regiment of Missouri mounted volunteers and was elected its colonel. The regiment marched to Fort Leavenworth, and from there, with troops under Col. Stephen W. Kearny, continued on to Fort Bent. The expedition rode into Santa Fe, N. M., on Aug. 18 (1846). Kearny's troops departed from New Mexico on their overland ride to California in September, leaving Doniphan to pacify the hostile Navajo Indians. On the following Christmas day the regiment under Doniphan won a victory over 1,300 Mexicans on the eastern bank of the Rio Grande at Brazito, killing 200 of the enemy troops. Two days later the Americans reached El Paso, from which they departed Feb. 8, 1847.

Pushing down into old Mexico, Doniphan, whose regiment at this time numbered 924 men, met and defeated 4,000 Mexicans at Sacramento on Feb. 28. Three hundred four Mexicans were killed in the battle and 500 wounded, as against 1 American killed and 11 wounded. On the 1st of March the Americans occupied Chihuahua without firing a shot. Three weeks later they joined the main American force near the battlefield of Buena Vista.

Before (in 1836 and 1840) and after (in 1854) his Mexican war experience Doniphan served in the Missouri legislature. He was appointed to a peace conference in Washington in 1861 and to the convention held in Missouri to determine whether or not that state should secede from the Union. He was opposed to secession and later objected to the entry of troops into the state, insisting rather that it be regarded as neutral in the Civil war.

A commission as major general of Missouri troops was given to Doniphan shortly after the outbreak of the war, but this he retained for only two weeks. From 1863 to 1868 he lived in St. Louis, after which he moved to Richmond, Mo., where he remained until his death, practicing law and serving as president of a bank. He died on Aug. 8, 1887.

"JANIE"

1 Janie Conway (Joyce Reynolds) and her friends read with avid interest a magazine's story of her blanket party. But Janie is a little worried about what her father will think of the publicity.

2 Her father (Edward Arnold) DOESN'T like it. Nor does he like the impending arrival of troops for maneuvers. He writes an editorial in his paper warning the town of the pitfalls facing its young folk.

3 Conway's friend John Van Brunt (Robert Benchley) doesn't agree, especially when he meets Thelma Lawrence (Barbara Brown), who has come to be near her soldier son. They become engaged.

4 The son, Dick (Robert Hutton), is 19, a Yale man, and to Janie a man of the world. Her high school beau, Scooper (Dick Erdman), resents Dick's popularity, much to Janie's delight.

5 Bribing Janie's little sister, Elspeth (Clare Foley), Scooper finds that Dick is spending the evening with Janie. He calls the army camp, invites a gang of soldiers to Janie's for a party.

6 Dick arrives first, but Elspeth refuses to leave them alone unless Dick takes her on the bus to her grand mother's. On the bus she strikes up a friendship with a Mr. Reardon (Alan Hale).

7 The army takes over Janie's house, and she recovers from her surprise quickly, stakes them to hot dogs and soft drinks. Dick returns, having turned Elspeth over to the care of Mr. Reardon, and is dismayed to see Janie surrounded by his pals.

8 Neighbors call the police, who in turn call M. P.'s who bring along the colonel. Janie defends her party so eloquently that even her father is impressed. The police depart and the colonel stays for refreshments.

9 Just then in comes Elspeth with "Uncle Poogie" in tow. He is Mr. Reardon, who turns out to be THE Mr. Reardon of Priorities in Washington. So impressed is he with Janie's patriotism, and that of Conway and Brunt in their veterans' organization uniforms, that he hints Conway will get a priority he has been after, and every one is happy. KENNEY Jolts the Japs three Jap cruisers and eight Jap destroyers, and have damaged another four cruisers and 13 destroyers.

They have roamed the Southwest Pacific alone, without fighter cover. Even when they went in to attack the Bismarck sea convoy, of which all 22 Japanese ships were sunk, they flew with only one Lightning as their protection, altho they knew that land based Jap planes were heavy over the armada.

Ken's Men are a pre-Pearl Harbor outfit. They were formed in January, 1941, and went to Bangor, Me., to train. However, those were the years when planes were scarce and they didn't get their first Flying Fortress until October. It didn't make much difference, however, for when the group was formed it had only 36 flying officers, and even in October only three of these pilots were able to fly a Fortress.

When the Japs attacked Pearl Harbor and America got into the war, Ken's Men received a half dozen medium bombers and advanced trainers and began patrolling the coast. Even these few planes made them one of the Atlantic coast's strongest air bases. Six weeks later they had become really formidable. They got seven Liberators.

But in three weeks they gave up these big planes, packed bags, hopped a train for Boston, and climbed aboard the Queen Mary for an epic 39 day trip to Australia by way of Africa.

Another part of the personnel, however, boarded a smaller boat, scampered thru the Panama canal, and reached Australia late in February. For long months Ken's Men camped on various race tracks around Australia and investigated the customs down under. Some got married. They took fast to Australian beer and learned to stay clear of any and all Aussie attempts to make coffee. They conquered their surprise at getting steaks covered with fried eggs, most popular of all Aussie dishes. But they didn't fly. They didn't have any planes.

Along toward midsummer — it was midwinter in July down under —the ground crews began receiving shattered wrecks from a bombing outfit which had managed to get a few Fortresses out of the Philippines.

It was on Aug. 2 that Ken's Men's first Fortress arrived, a beautiful thing named Chief of Seattle, since it was a gift of that city. Sixteen days later four more were flown in from the states.

"Let's go," Ken's Men said.

So five planes scurried up to New Guinea and on Aug. 21 went into action. The target was a small convoy off Milne bay at the extreme southeast tip of New Guinea. At that time the Japs were attempting to round the tip to eliminate Port Moresby, the only allied base left outside Australia, and another column was fighting overland across the Owen Stanley mountains and were only 22 miles from Moresby. The situation was desperate.

McCullar, then a lieutenant, led the flight. They damaged a destroyer, but they also lost the first blood. McCullar's bombardier was killed. The first month Ken's Men were busy trying to stop the Japs at sea and on land. A bridge was the only river crossing on the trail from Buna to the Owen Stanley mountains on the trek toward Moresby, and Ken's Men knocked a 30 foot section neatly out of the middle of it. That time, too, it was McCullar.

DEATH OF A BOMBER

These two pictures show the death of one of Kenney's bombers during a low-level raid on Jap installations in Dutch New Guinea. Above, the plane at right has been hit by flak; at right, it crashes and explodes in the water.

The 5th air force was organized in September, and while it was mostly on paper, General Kenney decided the only way to stop the Japs was to strike at their rear. This meant Rabaul, and in those days strong men shook in their boots at the very thought of Rabaul.

Ken's Men struck at Rabaul Oct. 2. They sank three ships—15,000, 7,000, and 2,000 tonners. All the planes returned safely. So the Forts ranged out. The marines on Guadalcanal were having a tough time, and Ken's Men went to their aid. McCullar banged a cruiser.

But high altitude bombing of ships was difficult. From even a medium altitude a ship is a small target. Maj. Bill Benn of California began to ponder skip bombing, which two Royal Australian air force pilots had devised.

So he climbed into a Fortress and went to work on a Port Moresby wreck, a ship stranded on a reef off the port and which since has become the most bombed ship in the world. New pilots still are using it for training.

Bill Benn discovered that skip bombs would work. It meant taking a Fortress across the target at barely mast height. On Oct. 22 Benn and McCullar, by then a captain, introduced skip bombing to the Japanese. The place was Rabaul, and between them the Forts sank a destroyer and three big merchant ships totaling 34,500 tons. Skip bombing came of age.

But Benn didn't live long enough to see his technique hailed around the world. On Nov. 13 he took off from Moresby to bomb Buna. He went down somewhere over the treacherous Owen Stanley's 18,000 foot high peaks.

About Thanksgiving time McCullar, all alone, found five destroyers and a cruiser. He made three runs. Each time ack-ack (anti-aircraft fire) hit his plane. After the third run he had only two motors left, but the cruiser and one destroyer had been sunk.

Early in January General Walker went down over Rabaul, and three days later Ken's Men lost another of their legendary figures—Master Sgt. Meyer Levin, the Brooklyn boy who was Colin Kelly's bombardier. It was he who released the bombs which sank a Jap battleship a few days after the Japs attacked the Philippines. After he joined Ken's Men he again had to bail out when his plane was shot up. The third time he didn't get a chance to jump. His plane crashed while he was bombing a convoy off Lae.

Those were busy months. Each Fort averaged nearly three missions every day. On next to the last day in February Lt. Walter Higgins of San Antonio, Tex., was on the way home from a search along the south coast of New Britain. He dodged a tropical storm and came smack onto the Bismarck sea convoy. His navigator, Lt. George Sellmer, jotted down the exact position and they headed for home.

The next day the weather closed in and Ken's Men couldn't find the convoy. On the second afternoon planes again found the ships, but the weather closed in before a formation could arrive. Then the weather deserted the Japs.

On the morning of March 2 Ken's Men began their plastering. They sank four transports before the medium bombers and even fighters toting bombs on the wings arrived. Within two days there was the most complete victory in history. Of the convoy consisting of two cruisers, five destroyers, and 15 cargo ships there was not one survivor. That sums up the battle of the Bismarck sea.

One Fort caught fire five times. "It's sure hot in here," said the pilot, Capt. Ray Holsey of Altus, Okla., over his radio and Charlie Giddings, following him down for cover, said in his Texas drawl, "Yeah—you look like a kettle on a stove." At about that time a Jap broke in on the conversation.

"You're a gone Yank," he said. Holsey's reply is not exactly printable. Official records say only that it was "short and to the point." Holsey, however, brought the ship back. Ken's Men lost only one bomber, altho nearly all of their planes were badly shot up. They had 37 Forts when they went into battle. They came out with 10 still operational. So Kenny took off for Washington, D. C., to see about some new planes.

Kenney still was talking in Washington when the remnants of his air force found the Kavieng convoy. They had enough planes —eight, to be exact—to sink two more cruisers and a destroyer and a cargo ship. Instead of medals, the flyers were ordered to shave off their beards. It was a sanitary measure, the order explained.

A week later Ken's Men felt tragedy. McCullar, a major now, started to take off at dawn to bomb Rabaul. A wallaby tried to cross the runway in front of the plane. The big plane hit this undersized kangaroo. McCullar managed to get the plane into the air,

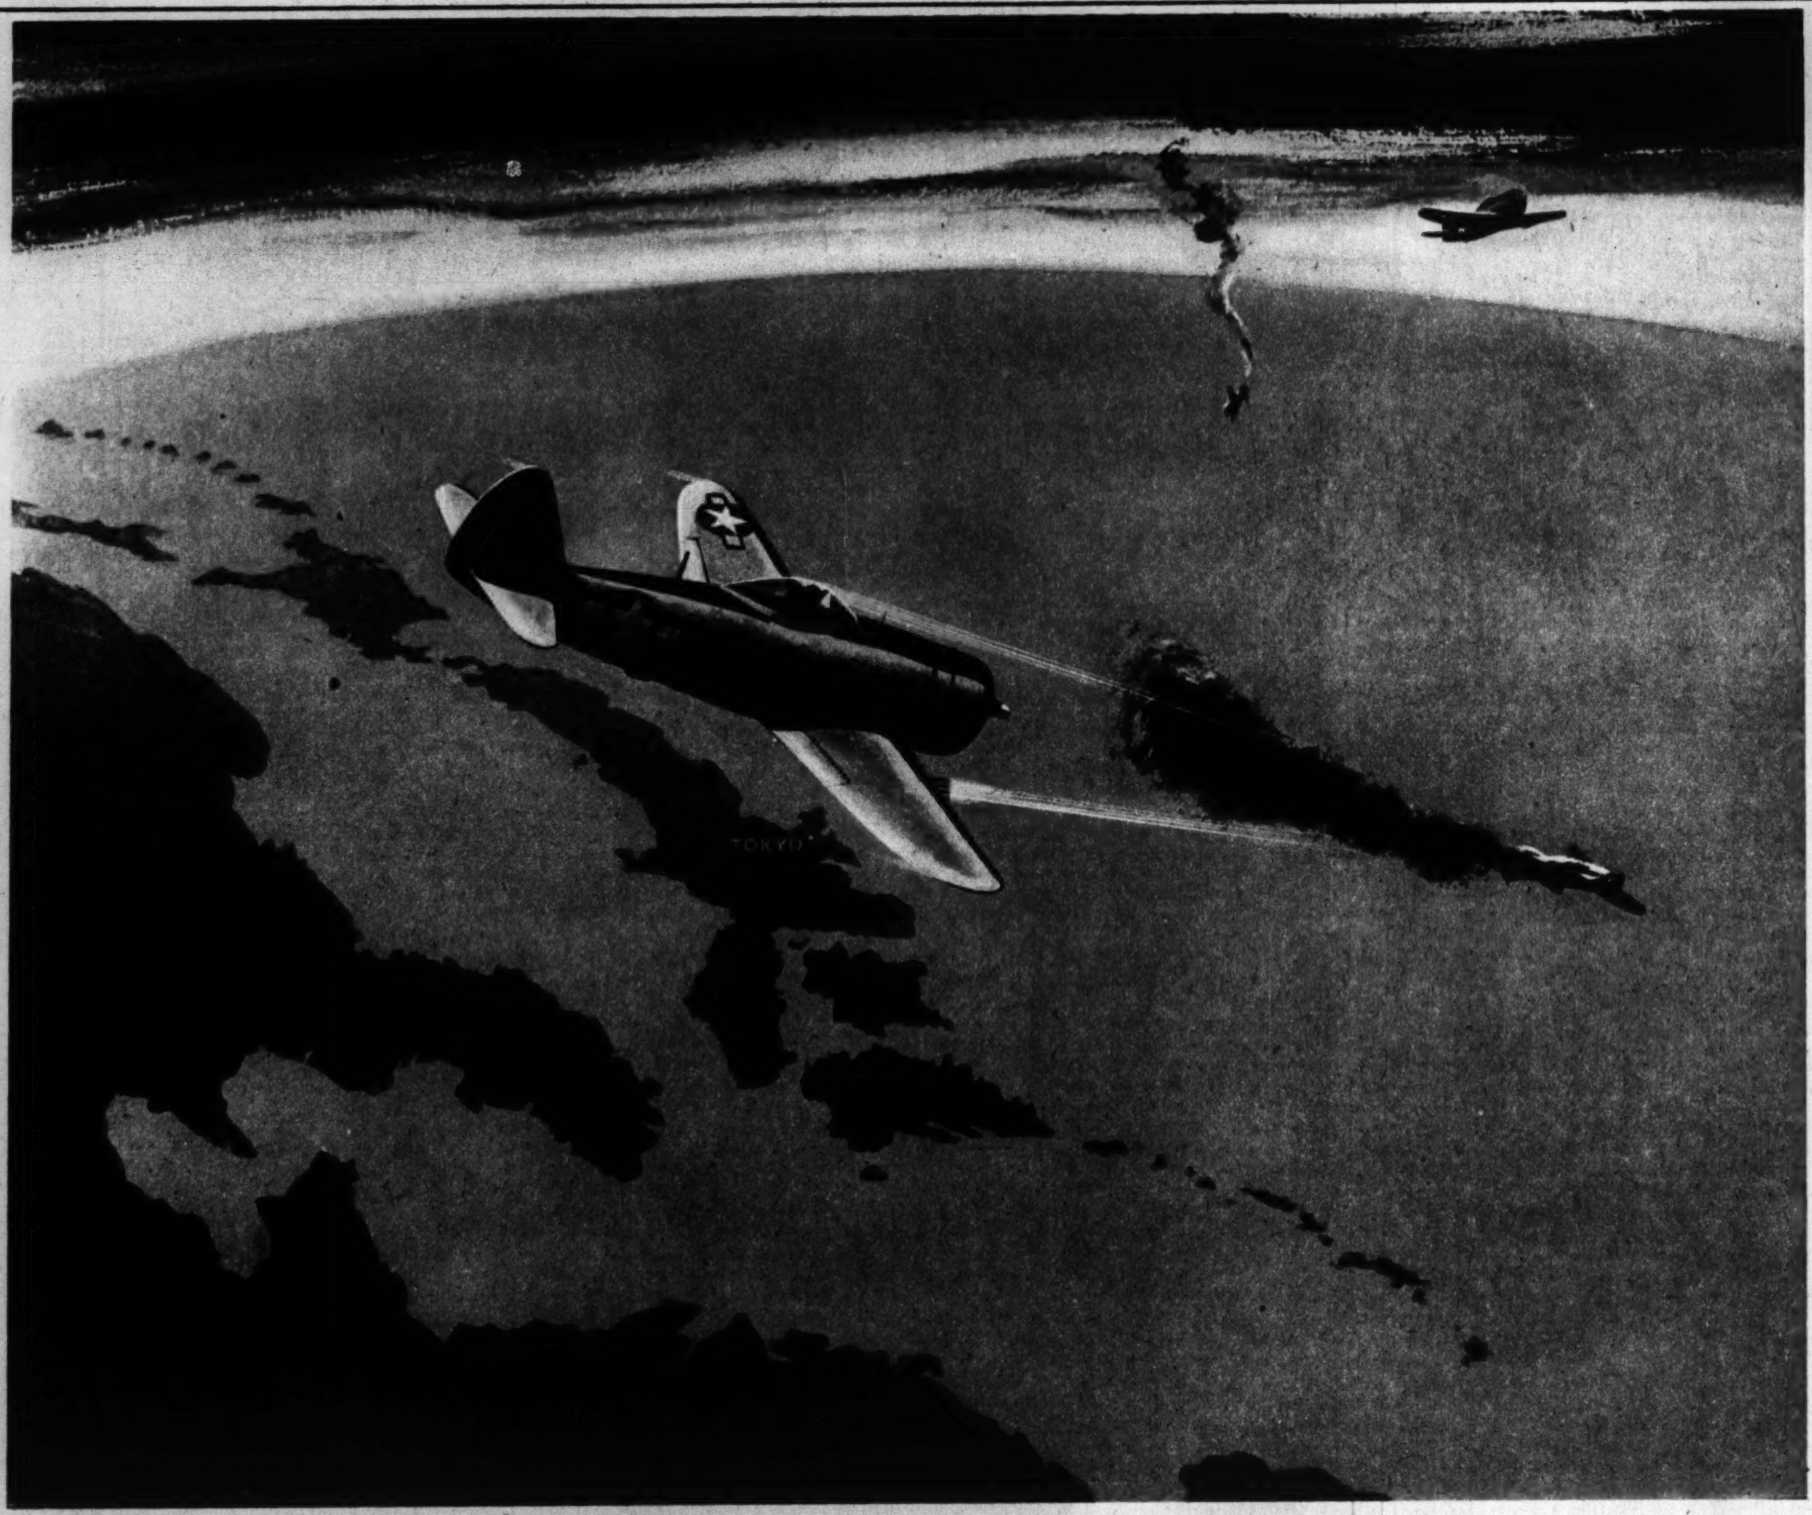
ABOUT THE PAINTING

● Gary Sheahan, Chicago Tribune staff artist, painted the picture on page one while in the Southwest Pacific theater. Of it he says:

"I have tried here to show in color what takes place when General MacArthur's communique says: 'Yesterday American B-25s bombed a Japanese air field. . . . A large number of enemy planes were destroyed on the ground, large fires were started, and many enemy installations destroyed.' This could be any one of several Japanese air strips in New Guinea.

"Early on a hot tropical morning our planes have taken off and headed for their target for the day. They will stay behind the mountains and hills until almost at the target, then, up and over the last range of hills, they swoop down over the enemy field, catching the Nips flat-footed. The first planes drop their bombs, zoom up and away almost before the enemy can get off a shot. Others follow just far enough behind to avoid the bomb bursts from the first planes, which are shown in the foreground, their bomb bays empty but not yet closed. A big oil fire is raging beneath them, set off by incendiary bullets fired by the planes as they came across the field.

"Parachutes are necessary in low-level bombing, because bombs falling free from such low altitudes would burst and damage or destroy the ships dropping them before they could get out of range."



ZERO HOUR

WHILE Republic Thunderbolts have been busy hammering the Nazis in Italy, escorting bombers to Berlin, tearing up railroads and bridges in Normandy and clearing paths for our liberation of France, they have also been moving in on Tokyo.

Since August, 1943, Thunderbolts have been steadily filtering into the ever-narrowing, island-by-island ring of strangulation which is closing about the Jap empire. It has been just a year since an AAF colonel helped introduce the Thunderbolt to the Zero by downing six Japs in a mission over Wewak.

Today, Thunderbolt pilots are fighting, dive-bombing and strafing the Jap from New Guinea all the way to Saipan and Guam. They are also taking his measure from bases in India and Burma. And in China itself they are guarding from attack the advance bases from which the giant B-29's "commute" to Tokyo and Nagasaki.

Where the Thunderbolt is going to show up next, only time and your daily newspaper will tell. But at the Zero Hour, when the ultimate and conclusive strike topples the towers of Tokyo in smoke and flame, you can depend on it: Thunderbolt pilots expect to be there!

Kenney Jolts the Japs

but she was mortally hurt and fire broke out. McCullar attempted to crash land her, but a 500 pound bomb exploded. The entire crew was killed instantly. Among them was Philip Zumwalt of Nebo, Ill., radio operator.

That same day the Japs staged their last big raid, putting hundreds of planes over Moresby.

In May the first crews were replaced and started for home to the United States, which airmen already were referring to as a place reputed to exist somewhere north and east of Buna. It was June before Ken's Men got their first congressional medals of honor. They explain that up to this time they had been too busy working to make out reports.

The medals went to the Jersey Kid, Capt. Jay Zeamer of Orange, and posthumously to his bombardier, Lt. Joseph Sarnoski of Carbondale, Pa. Over Bougainville they got jumped by 16 Zeros. They were on a mapping mission, and despite the Zeros they stayed until their maps were finished.

Zeamer, remembered as a "cultured gentleman with bedroom eyes," merely explained to the crew, "If we don't get them now we will have to come back for them."

Together they had bombed an aircraft carrier in Rabaul; got mad when caught in the lights over Wewak, and went so low the gunners put out all three lights; and had gone with McCullar on a private raid over Rabaul which almost landed them before a court martial.

So when the Zeros came in Zeamer and his crew knew what to do. Sarnoski took over for a wounded gunner and got two Japs before he himself was killed. Zeamer had one leg almost blown off, was hit in the other leg and both arms, yet continued to fly. He brought the plane back home, but he is still in a hospital back in the United States. Of the 16 attacking Zeros 10 were shot down.

Jap shipping began to fall off and Ken's Men began to concentrate on land targets. One day they sent a couple of ships up the Ramu valley past some Jap outposts.

"Keep close so we have a tight formation over Wewak," they radioed each other. Of course Wewak became alert and fighters concentrated there. As a result the main force got into Hansa bay without a shot. Next day they did go into Wewak. They participated in raids which at Wewak alone destroyed more than 300 Jap planes on the ground.

This spring Ken's Men were in the first waves when the 5th air force showed the Japs how not to run an air force, destroying 330 Jap planes at three Hollandia dromes in just two days and virtually wiping out what was left of this New Guinea air force.

Frequently on the move, Ken's Men are constantly busy changing tents into houses. Some are almost resort cottages, complete even with running water. The great day, however, will be when the first enameled bathroom equipment arrives. As a result of the building many are getting a real building bug that will carry over into the post-war era. Capt. John Petersen, who used to have an architect's office in the Tribune Tower, is doing all he can to stimulate the bug. He makes a complete set of house plans for every pilot who sinks a Jap ship.

Ken's Men have awards and citations galore. They share in the glory when Kenney says he has "the best damned air force in the world." But their favorite testimonial comes from the radio. It goes:

"Air attacks are furious. Today's bombing was so terrific that I do not feel as tho I am alive." Which is quite satisfactory with Ken's Men.

HEART AND HOME PROBLEM

By MAUREEN DALY
Author of "Seventeenth Summer" and "Smarter and Smoother."

IT'S TRUE that fellows get most of the dating breaks. Any Joe has freedom of choice in looking over the field and picking out those honey chiles who most appeal to him. It is up to him to take the initiative in asking for a date and deciding the where, the when, and what evening. If a girl appeals to him he can ask her out again; if he marks her up as a gone gosling, strictly not his type, he can promptly shorten his date bait list by one.

But from one special angle at least gals are lucky. When it comes time to hit the bright lights for an evening a boy must first come to his date's home to pick her up. In that way her mother meets him, her father meets him, and young brother, Joe Jr., gets a chance to look him over, compare football notes, and pass judgment. This family introduction puts dating on a more friendly, companionable basis.

Often fellows, too, bring their current doll home for the once-over-lightly, either because they value their parents' opinions or because it happens to be a rule of the house. But many of these smooth operators are more reticent about their date life and prefer to keep that small, neat blonde a big, dark secret. Here's a typical letter of woe from a honey chile who's been dating a particular tall, dark, and handy for more than a year, and she still doesn't know if he lives in a house, a hole, or a hollowed-out tree! Her story gives out this way:

"I am a junior in high school, and I have been dating a boy a year older than I for over a year. Ever since we met we have been going out together. I have gone out with other boys, too, but gradually they drifted away because they believed I was going steady with this particular boy. He has asked me to go steady several times, but I have always refused, because I believe that when a boy asks a girl to go steady the couple's parents should know about it. I'm sure my parents would, but I know his wouldn't!

"One advantage for mothers who have daughters is the fact that they always know the boys whom their daughters date. And most of the girls I know who go with particular boys have met their parents, too. But our friendship seems to be a big secret. I don't think his parents know my name or that he has been going with me for so long. Whether they would approve of me or not I cannot say, but I should like to take that chance.

"Not long ago he gave me an identification bracelet and I gave him one in return. He thanked me and was very pleased with it, but said something about 'how was he going to explain this to his parents?' It made me feel both sneaky and silly. My entire family knows him and likes him; I've often asked him to affairs with my family and me. My friends think he is wrong in acting the way he does. He gives me the impression that the farther we are from his family the better he likes it! Is it expecting too much to ask to see his parents?"

You know he thinks your friendship is slightly wonderful—but he's not quite ready to tell his parents about it.

Take a quick glance at the situation from the boy's angle. You know he likes you. In fact, he thinks your friendship is slightly wonderful—the stuff of which dreams are made. You are probably the most mellow mouse he's met in many a day! But he's not quite ready to tell his parents all about it.

In every family parents take a different attitude toward dating. Yours might think it quite all right for a gal to go steady in high school; his might not be so charmed by the idea. He might like to take you home to show them all how pretty you are, but in many families bringing a gal home to meet mother and dad is almost as decisive as carrying a bride over the doorstep, and young Jackson's not quite ready for that department! Don't harry the boy; you're having fun, aren't you? What more do you want—a five year contract?

Many datable honey chiles seem to take special delight in spicing their date life with the old "kiss and make up" routine. And a friendship disrupted by goon gal pettishness is strictly a temporary affair. Even the most good natured Joe can stand nagging just so long and then it's all over but the pouting. Here's a note from a girl who is unhappy because her sailor boy (who has only nine dozen other things on his mind!) isn't more "considerate." It goes like this:

"He's 19 and I'm 18. We met while in high school; we are from different towns. He always seemed crazy about me—in fact, I am the only girl he dates. We dated frequently before he went into service, and several months ago, on a two day leave, he took a bus to my home and spent the afternoon with me. He asked me then for my picture, and I sent it.

"I didn't hear from him for three weeks, and when he did write, saying he had been so busy, he never even mentioned the picture! He's careless at times and then is sorry about it all after I tell him I am disappointed in him. Well, after this instance I answered and told him that I was very hurt and asked him to return the picture if it didn't even deserve a 'thank you.'

"I received an immediate answer. He said my picture meant everything to him and he wouldn't part with it. I wrote to tell him he was forgiven and heard from him again in about five days. Later he wrote to tell me that he loved me and asked me if I would consider marrying him after the war. I answered that letter, and now I haven't heard from him for two weeks! How can I make him more considerate?"

Boys in the service have a lot on their minds and more to do besides become honor members in pen pal clubs. Your Joe has told you that he's busy; why not believe him? He's told you that he loves you; why not believe that, too? It's not easy to be attentive in the moonlight and roses department when you're hundreds of miles from home. Instead of counting the days between his letters, why not write an extra one yourself to cheer up one of his busier days?

Is Your Child Ready for SCHOOL?

Starting School for the first time is a major event in the life of child and parents alike. Then is when every parent should ask themselves the question: "Is my child ready to start a happy and successful school career?" Many children undergo severe adjustments upon entering school, because of too little pre-school training, and because so many parents don't know what school expects of their children.

"My Book House" Plan Trains Children from Babyhood to Meet the Standards That School Later Expects

With the help of My Book House the child reaches school age ready to listen, concentrate and accept discipline. He feels at ease with other children and knows how to "give and take" in play with them.

Your child's training should begin preferably during the first year of his life. My Book House entertains as it trains. It develops his natural readiness to learn. Stimulates imagination. Encourages good manners and desirable character traits. It's a delightful experience for both the child and the parent.

If your child has not had the benefit of My Book House Plan previous to entering school, it still can be of great assistance in helping him become better adjusted to school and making more rapid progress.

An Impartial, nation-wide survey of children raised under My Book House Plan showed they made Higher Marks in School—98.3% were average or better in their school grades.

Why post-war chemical industries will need Men

Today G.I. Joe says a silent prayer for the chemical miracles that cover his advance . . . purify his drinking water . . . treat his wounds.

Tomorrow Joe and millions of his friends will look to chemical industries for jobs. This great group will be ready because:

War has packed decades of chemical research and practical experience into three short years . . .

New chemical materials such as synthetic rubber, new life-saving medicines, new man-made textile fibres—these and a host of other developments have made chemistry very much a part of every man's existence.

A whole world awaits the peacetime products of chemistry's wartime laboratory—and its far-reaching industries will be ready to provide them as soon as facilities can be spared from war production.

BUY MORE WAR BONDS TODAY . . . And Hold for Peacetime Prosperity

. . . will "chemicals" provide him a peacetime job ?

Why post-war chemical industries will need Nickel

Today—Nickel and its alloys, including Monel, and Stainless Steel, are helping chemical industries turn out many important materials of war . . .

Helping to harness corrosives vital to the making of war equipment of every kind . . . helping to produce synthetic rubber, aviation gasoline and countless other strategic supplies.

Tomorrow—because of their corrosion resistance, as well as the mechanical, electrical and other special properties they impart, Nickel and its alloys will work hand in hand with the chemical and other key industries. Nickel will help them make the products that provide men livelihoods.

Manufacturers with metal problems are invited to consult Nickel's Technical Staff.

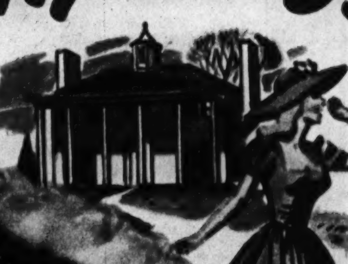
Hi, Neighbor! Let's swap recipes!



MAKE THEM WITH CRISCO! No other shortening does so much to make wartime meals EXCITING and DIGESTIBLE!

You needn't travel to enjoy foods that are favorites in other parts of the country. Make them right at home. And here's a tip! Cook with Crisco and these dishes will be exciting to eat—easy to digest!

It's true with all your cooking! Crisco does more than any other shortening. For Crisco has a special cooking secret. Time after time, it gives you lighter, more tender cakes. A sure way to get flaky, tender pie crust every time. And with Crisco, there's no need to worry about digestions. Even Crisco fried foods are so digestible children may eat 'em!

So begin using Crisco today! Make a flaky Crisco crust for that Pecan Pie. Fry that Schnitzel light and crisp in Crisco, and you'll know it's digestible. Any time a recipe calls for shortening—reach for pure, all-vegetable Crisco and be sure!

From Georgia PECAN PIE

2 tbsps. flour • 1 cup sugar • 3 eggs, beaten
½ cup dark corn syrup • 1 cup chopped pecans • 1 tsp. vanilla
Single-crust recipe Crisco Pastry

Blend flour and sugar. Combine with well-beaten eggs. Add corn syrup, nuts and vanilla. Pour into shallow 9" pie plate lined with Crisco Pastry. (Follow the new sure-fire Pastry Method on the Crisco label—use Crisco—and you'll get flaky, tender, digestible pie crust every time.) Bake in moderate oven (350°F.) 40 to 45 minutes. Decorate with pecan halves. All Measurements Level.

Crisco

9 OUT OF 10 DOCTORS SAY:

"IT'S DIGESTIBLE!"

From Wisconsin WIENER SCHNITZEL

Cut veal steak (½" thick) into individual pieces for serving. Dip in seasoned flour, then in beaten egg diluted with a little water and then in fine bread crumbs. Fry on both sides in hot Crisco till golden brown. (Use Crisco for all your frying. Foods fried in Crisco are deliciously light and crisp—so digestible even children may eat them.) Cover; cook slowly about 30 min. or until tender. Dribble with lemon juice and garnish with lemon slices and fried egg.

From Maryland LORD BALTIMORE CAKE

½ cup Crisco • 1 cup sugar • 4 egg yolks
1 tsp. vanilla • ½ tsp. salt
2 cups sifted cake flour
2½ tsps. baking powder • ¾ cup milk

Cream Crisco, sugar, egg yolks, flavoring and salt. (Crisco has a special cake secret. Time after time, Crisco gives you lighter cakes than those made with any other shortening.) Add sifted dry ingredients alternately with milk. Bake in 2 eight-inch "Criscoed" layer pans in moderate oven (350°F.) 35 minutes. When cool, spread fruit filling between layers. Ice with fluffy icing. Decorate with cherries.

FLUFFY WHITE ICING: Using 2 egg whites, make double boiler icing. For fruit filling, add ¼ cup chopped candied or maraschino cherries, ¼ cup seeded raisins and ¼ cup chopped pecans to one-third of the icing. All Measurements Level.

Ginger Gets Glamor!

ent methods to keep that old debbil disintegration from undoing me.

"But I do know that when Robert Burns wrote that poem about seeing yourself as others see you he did more for the women who took his advice than all the beauty columns ever turned out. Because the minute you do see yourself as others see you you can begin to improve on what nature handed you.

"Of course a motion picture actress has an advantage along this line the average woman doesn't have, because we can see ourselves on the screen in tests of all kinds and every sort of action. If we don't improve ourselves as the years go by we're just dopes, that's all. I knew a beauty salon one time in New York where motion pictures were taken of clients and all the bad points were clearly discernible. Women at home could do the same with small motion picture cameras. Just take a look at yourself and see what other people see and then take up the slack."

Ginger Rogers' first publicity still.

Ginger at 6 months . . .

. . . at a shy 7 years . . .

Wally Westmore, famous Hollywood makeup artist who experted "Lady in the Dark," told me that Ginger had learned a trick few actresses know and which made her very much more photogenic, especially under the extra bright lights used in technicolor.

"She uses No. 19 makeup," Wally explained. "Most women use No. 17, and men usually ask for 19, which is two shades darker. With the ordinary feminine makeup Ginger has a washed-out look. I know other girls who could profit by her experiments, but they don't. Few of them use their brains when it comes to their personal appearance. They can't actually appraise themselves because they're subject to flattery and they listen too quickly to what facial experts and hairdressers think. Ginger is pretty stubborn. I had to sell her my new makeup foundation which I call overglo, but once sold she took my advice.

"However, I couldn't talk her out of her new trick of shaping her eyebrows, which I think detracts from her beauty. She told me she thought they gave her a quizzical look which was alluring. All the arguments I gave her dropped off like water on a duck's back. She's still wearing her quizzical eyebrows."

Ginger began work—hard work—at a time when other girls are thinking only of dates and dances. She had no dates, and her dancing was of the hard professional kind, supervised by tutors who were tyrants.

Lela gave up work on a newspaper in Texas to chaperon her daughter on the road in the three-a-day. That's where she learned to act and to dance and to stand up under the brutal exactions of show business.

Chicago saw her first in those days—not so many years ago by the calendar, but an epoch off from the Ginger of today. Other cities saw her, too. She was learning her trade. She had no time for fun.

Then Hollywood—and romance. Ginger met and married Lew Ayres, successful, serious-minded young actor, but a square peg in a round hole. Lew knew it. They lived on a mountain top and were the envy of Hollywood, but Ginger was desperately unhappy. Lew was moody, at times morose. They were divorced. Just another Hollywood marital crackup.

The war came, and Lew refused to fight as a front line soldier. Some branded him a coward. He has nobly proved himself under fire in the front line in bloody New Guinea. Recently Lew announced that if he comes thru the war he will study for the ministry.

Ginger Rogers craved gayety, life. A typical American girl.

I'm thinking of a strangely prophetic appraisal of Ginger uttered to me by Charles Boyer back in 1940.

We were discussing ideal types of various sorts—the European, the intellectual type, the athletic, and so on.

"Who is Hollywood's typical American girl?" I queried.

"Ginger Rogers," Charles answered promptly. "She has vivacity, intelligence, wit; she is an outdoor girl, a great dancer, with that boundless energy of the American girl."

"I notice you do not specify beauty."

"Ginger," said the Parisian, "is not beautiful. Not yet. But give her time. Let her heart awaken. She will dazzle us all."

A few weeks after that conversation Ginger stepped up before Hollywood's great and accepted the Oscar which proclaimed her the year's finest actress for her starring role in "Kitty Foyle."

She made a very pretty picture with her wide, honest grin and her trim figure. But dozens of stars in that assemblage outshone her for sheer looks.

Natalie Kalmus says technicolor is the answer to Ginger's beauty. Natalie used to be Hollywood's busiest globe-trotter, rushing back and forth across the Atlantic supervising technicolor effects in pictures, decreeing the use and apportioning of color in sets and costumes. (Her husband, Dr. Herbert T. Kalmus, is founder and president of Technicolor.)

"The judicious application of technicolor, plus makeup, has created the new Ginger Rogers personality," says Natalie. "Look at her in 'Lady in the Dark' and you'll perceive what I mean. Ginger's first color picture, mind you. A fine actress and a normal sort of pretty girl with a vivacious personality all of a sudden becomes a great beauty.

"There's no mystery. The secret is technicolor."

Just before she began work on her finest picture, "Lady in the Dark," Ginger went to San Diego to entertain for the soldiers. She met a boy. His name was Jack Briggs. No officer's insignia gleamed on his shoulders. He was a private in the marines. A good kid who loved to dance. He asked Ginger for a dance. Something happened, as it will when an electric spark sets up a current between two young hearts.

Love.

Yep, nothing else but.

She was a radiant bride. Every one could see that a new Ginger was a-borning.

The Hollywood whispers—and mayhap those from the outside world, too—all harped on one theme: "The lucky stiff!"

Well, I guess he was, all right. But maybe, too, the luck wasn't all one-sided. That's what Ginger thinks. And Ginger's wise mom, Lela.

"She's happy," Lela told me, "she's radiant. If the world has discovered a new beauty in my girl I know the answer. Love came along."

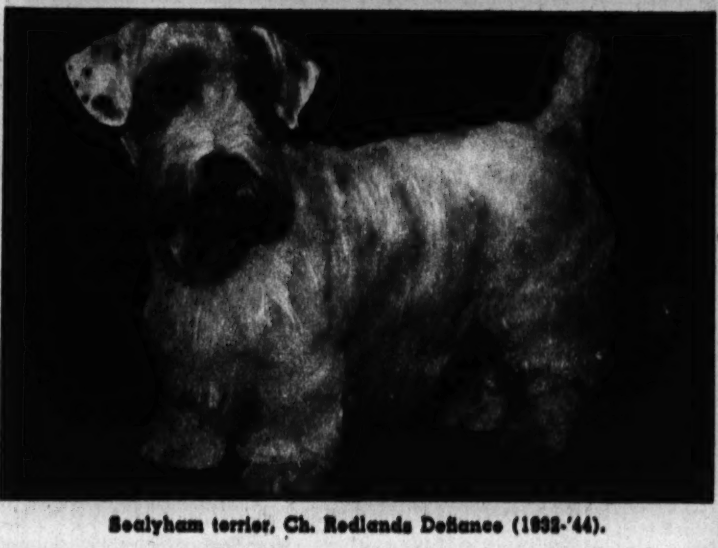
MOSTLY ABOUT DOGS

By BOB BECKER



Sealyham terrier, Ch. Redlands Defiance (1932-'44).

WHEN a family loses thru death a lovable little dog it has had for many years, both the children and adults mourn the loss. We find that many people, even while they are grieving over the loss of their old dog, decide that the best thing to do is to find another dog immediately.

Others say they will never again give their hearts to a dog. We know a number of people in this group. In nearly every case these former dog owners say: "Yes, we love dogs. And we owned one that was perfect for us. But we felt so sad when he died that we just can't go thru the experience again. So we never expect to own another dog, much as we love them."

We can appreciate this point of view, because we know what a heartache the loss of a pet brings. In fact, we know right now what it means to say good-by to a grand fellow, for our little Sealyham terrier named Simon (otherwise known as Ch. Redlands Defiance) is no more. He was a gentleman in every way. He upheld the traditions of his breed as a gay, affectionate, courageous terrier. In his later years he was a comedian of the first order, and as such one of the most amusing, satisfactory companion dogs we ever have owned.

Simon was born in England and brought to this country for a show career. When he moved into our home, a mild-mannered little kennel dog, he was in the prime of life. Some of our friends thought it was too late to teach him to be a companion and house dog, for he was quite unfamiliar with the routine of a home. His vocabulary was unusually limited for a dog of his age.

But he responded so quickly to the affection with which he was surrounded, was so eager to learn a vocabulary and so intelligent, that he developed into a real personality.

The education and care of this dog furnished many stories for this column. Last Christmas he made his first and only appearance on the radio when he went to the studio and obediently "spoke" on command. He heard his name spoken on the radio many times. Now our house is strangely empty without his presence, his throaty talk asking for attention, and his alertness in calling our attention to people coming to the door.

These Welsh terriers were 13 weeks old when they posed for the camera.

When we have lost a companion dog before we always have gotten another one to take its place. Of course it's impossible to find a dog that is exactly like the one you have lost so far as individual characteristics, mannerisms, and other features are concerned, even tho you may match your departed pet in external appearance.

Perhaps that is why we always turn to a breed that we haven't owned before after one of our pets finishes his span of life. We feel that this system does have certain advantages in helping you forget how much you miss your old companion dog. At least it's the system we have followed for many years, and it's the one we shall follow now as we say good-by to a grand pal and think about another companion dog to move into our family circle.

DOES YOUR DOG Itch..Scratch?

Don't Blame Fleas, Mange or Diet...2 to 1 It's "Fungitch"

Amazing New Sulfadene Eliminates Canine Skin Infection Long a Puzzle to Science!

IF YOUR dog scratches, he probably has "FUNGITCH" . . . a fungus infection caused by contact with mouldy grass and weeds. "FUNGITCH" starts as an itch . . . then leads to dandruff-like scales or sores with brownish edges, mouldy odor—or infection in ears, on paws, underbody, tail or eyes . . . resulting in something more serious, expensive care, or actual loss. Treatment of 3,121 dogs—at Dr. Merrick's Animal Hospital—reveals SULFADENE stops itching quickly, clears up sores in a few days. To relieve your dog of this affliction, apply SULFADENE externally at first sign of "FUNGITCH." Mrs. B. J. Cahill writes: "It's so easy to apply. Tuffy stopped scratching immediately. Infection on body gone by end of week." If your dealer hasn't SULFADENE, mail $1.00 for generous treatment. Money refunded if it fails.

MEN and women all over the country report remarkable results in losing weight easily. Many report losing 20 pounds a month and more. They are following the Easy Reducing Plan of Dr. Edward Parrish, well-known physician and editor, former chief of a U. S. military hospital and a state public health officer.

Dr. Parrish's Easy Reducing Plan makes reducing a pleasure because it has absolutely NO STRICT DIETS, requires no exercises. HARMLESS, too, because it calls for no reducing drugs.

Here is Dr. Parrish's Easy Reducing Plan EXACTLY as given over the air to millions: For lunch take 2 teaspoonfuls of CAL-PAR in a glass of juice, water or any beverage. Take nothing else for lunch except a cup of coffee if desired. For breakfast and dinner EAT AS YOU USUALLY DO, but eat sensibly. Don't cut out fatty, starchy foods—just cut down on them. By following Dr. Parrish's Easy Reducing Plan, you cut down your daily caloric intake thus losing weight naturally. You needn't suffer a single hungry moment. CAL-PAR is not a harmful reducing drug. It is a special dietary product, fortifying your diet with certain essential minerals and vitamins.

Most overweight people are helped by Dr. Parrish's Easy Reducing Plan. Try it. You and your friends will marvel at the vast improvement in your figure.

Get a $1.25 can of CAL-PAR at department, health food, and drug stores.

- No Exercise!
- No Reducing Drugs!
- Absolutely Harmless!

If your dealer hasn't CAL-PAR a special introductory can containing 18 DAYS' SUPPLY will be sent you direct, postpaid, FOR ONLY $1.00. This $1.00 can is not sold at stores. Money back if not satisfied. Fill out the coupon, pin a dollar bill to it and mail today for your can of CAL-PAR and we will also send you FREE Dr. Parrish's booklet on reducing containing important facts you ought to know, including weight tables and charts of food values.

CAL-PAR, Dept.25M
685 Broadway, New York 12, N. Y.

I enclose $1.00 for special can of CAL-PAR, to be sent postage paid, and Dr. Parrish's booklet on reducing. If not satisfied I may return unused portion and my $1.00 will be refunded. (C.O.D. orders accepted)

"No more stewing about keeping clothes bright! ——— I'm onto TWICE the Wear with Ivory Flakes Care!"

1. "I'M RIDIN' HIGH NOW," says Mrs. Albert Holzhauer, Jr., of Dayton, Ohio, "since I've discovered the way to help my trousseau keep its 'big date' glamour. You see, I got wised up to twice the wear with Ivory Flakes care. Thank goodness! Now, when Al gets leave, I don't have to waste precious time or money hunting up new clothes. You ought to try my discovery, too."

IVORY FLAKES

2. "GENTLE-AS-A-LAMB-CARE—that's what your precious washables need," Mrs. Holzhauer continues, "so never treat them roughly with the wrong kind of soap." Dozens of wash tests on dresses, housecoats, cottons, sweaters prove they give as much as twice the wear with Ivory Flakes care. And that's not to be sneezed at nowadays with pretty new clothes so scarce and expensive. So, swish all your fine washables through Ivory Flakes gentle suds, not just your stockings.

3. "MAKE IVORY FLAKES LAST LONGER, TOO," says Mrs. Holzhauer. "Even a small amount whips up into a pile of frothy suds that help colors stay lovely, too. So don't waste Ivory Flakes if you want to help Uncle Sam. Like all soaps, this flake form of pure, mild Ivory uses vital war materials."

Wash tests prove the Ivory Flakes way

A lovelier you...

Skin's Softer, Smoother

with just One Cake of Camay!

Tests by doctors prove Camay is really mild

A softer, fresher, more captivating complexion for you . . . with just one cake of Camay . . . when you change from improper care to the Camay Mild-Soap Diet. Yes, doctors tested this care on over 100 complexions . . . on girls with skin like YOURS. And most complexions simply bloomed! They looked clearer, fresher . . . with the very first cake of Camay.

. . . it cleanses without irritation

These tests gave proof of Camay's mildness . . . proof it can benefit skin. The doctors reported, "Camay is really mild. It cleansed without irritation."

Go on the Camay Mild-Soap Diet!

So easy—you simply cream that mild Camay lather over your face—forehead, nose and chin. Follow with a warm rinse. Add a good cold splash for oily skins.

That's all—it takes only a minute, morning and night. And with your first cake of Camay, your complexion takes on softer, sweeter appeal!

Your Camay is precious, especially now during wartime. Enlist all your family in a soap-saving campaign.

THE SOAP OF BEAUTIFUL WOMEN

Mrs. John Louie
OF CLEVELAND, OHIO

"A lovelier complexion may start romance—so do try my Camay," suggests Mrs. Louie. "I found my first cake brought new softness to my skin."

"You'll love that brisk LIPTON flavor!"

says lovely Susan Hayward

PRETTY SUSAN knows real tea lingo...

"Brisk" is the tea experts' own word for fresh, spirited, full-bodied Lipton flavor!

It's this briskness that makes Lipton's so much richer, so much more flavory. So completely different from insipid, flat-tasting teas.

Iced tea, as you may know, is the real test of fine tea. Inferior teas taste wishy-washy, lifeless. But iced Lipton's tastes rich, tangy—because it's brisk.

For sheer, refreshing, soul-satisfying delight—for sure midsummer relief—fix yourself a frosty glass of brisk Lipton Tea!

Doctors Prove 2 out of 3 Women can have More Beautiful Skin in 14 Days!

14-Day Palmolive Plan tested on 1285 women with all types of skin!

"My complexion had lost its soft, smooth look," says Mrs. Stanley Nash of Long Island, N. Y. "So I said 'yes' when I was invited to try the new 14-Day Palmolive Plan—along with 1284 other women of all ages—from fifteen to fifty! My group reported to a New York skin doctor. Some of us had dry skins; some oily; some average. After a careful examination, we were given the Palmolive Plan to use at home for 14 days.

"Here's the proved Palmolive Plan: I washed my face 3 times a day with Palmolive Soap. Then—each time—for a full 60 seconds—massaged onto my skin Palmolive's lovely soft lather, as you would a cream. Then rinsed. This cleansing massage brought my skin the full, beautifying effect of Palmolive's lather. After 14 days, my doctor confirmed what my mirror told me—my skin was brighter, fresher, cleaner! You must try this wonderful plan."

YOU, TOO, may look for these skin improvements in only 14 days!

- ★ Brighter, cleaner skin
- ★ Finer texture
- ★ Fewer blemishes
- ★ Less dryness
- ★ Less oiliness
- ★ Smoother skin
- ★ Better tone
- ★ Fresher, clearer color

All 36 doctors proved that 2 out of 3 of al the 1285 women who tested the Palmolive Plan for you got many of these improvements in 14 days. Now it's your turn! If you want a complexion the envy of every woman you know—the admiration of every man you meet—don't delay. Start this new proved way of using Palmolive Soap tonight. In 14 days, you, too, may look for fresher, brighter, lovelier skin.

DON'T WASTE SOAP! Soap uses vital materials that are needed to win the war.

HERE'S WHAT HAPPENS IN YOUR STOMACH!

You're lucky, and unusual, too, if you've never had an ordinary headache, neuritic or neuralgic pain. Most of us get them, and when we do, nothing matches the importance of getting the fastest relief possible. No headache tablet can work until it has dissolved in your stomach. Bayer Aspirin is especially made to dissolve with amazing speed. That's why it starts easing pain so swiftly, yet gently.

You can see it...

To see the quick action that takes place in your stomach when you use Bayer Aspirin, drop a Bayer tablet in a glass of water. In as little as two seconds, it will start disintegrating!

That simple test will show you why millions have found Bayer Aspirin one of the fastest reliefs possible for ordinary headache and neuritic and neuralgic pain.

Dependability—proved the hard way

Sure relief is just as important as swift relief. Bayer Aspirin is in more homes than any other medicine—and one reason for this is Bayer's long record of dependability. Since 1898, Bayer Aspirin has been used by literally millions of perfectly normal people for the relief of pain—without the slightest trace of unpleasant reaction. There's reliability for you—proved in action!

that depends upon Extra Rich meat flavor rather than too much seasoning

Look for the Yellow Band—then no one will be disappointed

ALL over this area folks are turning to a remarkable pork sausage. A pork sausage made 100% of pork. With no other kinds of meat included.

We make this Oscar Mayer Yellow Band Pork Sausage by an old fashioned country recipe. We use carefully selected pork graded to just the right proportion of lean with just enough fat to give it succulent juiciness.

Then we blend into the meat only mild seasoning. For this brings out the full flavor of these selected pork meats.

Try this more delicious pork sausage. It will give you a new conception of how delicious this old favorite can taste. Ask for, look for the Yellow Band at your retailers. This identifies the sausage made as described here.

* Not all brands of pork sausage are U. S. Gov't Inspected.

OKAY, SMART GUY, WHAT'S THE PITCH ?.. AND REMEMBER, YOU'RE TALKING TO ME, NOT WILLOW!
ALL RIGHT, BURMA!
SO YOU LEARNED MY NAME FROM THE KID, TOO?..NOW. I SUPPOSE YOU'LL TAKE YOUR LITTLE TYPEWRITER AND WRITE AN EVER SO CUTE STORY THAT WILL SEND ME TO A BRITISH COOLER—AND BRING YOU A FAT CHECK!
I'VE ALREADY WRITTEN IT, PUSS—AND I'M CARRYING IT BACK TO INDIA, MYSELF... I'M LEAVING THIS HOLE!
WHEN IT HITS THE BRITISH CENSORS IN INDIA, THEY'LL PROBABLY KILL IT—BUT THEY WILL HAVE SENT THE MAN IN THE DERBY FOR ME IN THE MEANTIME!
THE WAY I WRITE, THE STORY WILL GO THROUGH.. BUT THE BRITISH SECURITY OFFICER WILL MAKE A LITTLE INVESTIGATION ...I KNOW HOW THEY OPERATE!
OKAY, DUNKAN, YOU'VE GOT ME IN THE WRINGER...WHAT'S THE PAYOFF? WHAT WILL IT COST ME TO HAVE YOU KILL THAT PIECE?
I'M NOT FOR SALE!... I WROTE THE STORY BECAUSE IT'S A GOOD YARN! THAT'S ALL THERE IS TO IT...
IS EVERYTHING JUST COPY FOR YOU, YOU COLD FISH? I'LL BET YOU DON'T EVEN CARE WHY THESE KIDS ARE OUT HERE FIGHTING THE JAPS—AS LONG AS WHAT THEY DO IS CIRCUS ENOUGH TO WRITE UP AND SELL TO SOME MAGAZINE!
ACT YOUR AGE, PUSS... THERE'LL ALWAYS BE WARS... IF I'M PAID ENOUGH, I'LL COVER THEM!
AIR COMMAND NUMBER ONE
AND THERE WASN'T ENOUGH GORE AT THIS PLACE—SO YOU'RE TAKING ME APART TO MAKE THE TRIP PAY! YOU DON'T GIVE A HOOT ABOUT THESE AMERICANS AND WHAT THEY'RE FIGHTING FOR! DO YOU? DO YOU?
YOU CAN TAKE IN THE FLAG, PUSS, IT'S AFTER SUNSET!
YOU LOUSE!
NOT VERY ORIGINAL PUSS... NOW. WILL YOU MOVE ALONG SO I CAN CHANGE CLOTHES AND PACK?
WILLOW, I JUST HAD A CALL FROM COL. CORKIN .. I HAVE TO RUN UP TO INDIA ON THE NEXT FLIGHT! SOME SORT OF SPECIAL JOB...
OH, TERRY, HOW VERY EXCITING...
COULD THE LADY SPARE THE FELLA A GOODBY KISS?

WELL, THEY'VE GOT THE BROW, CHIEF.
IT WAS GREAT WORK. I UNDERSTAND HE LED TRACY ON A MERRY CHASE.
SCENE: THE EMERGENCY ROOM WARD ON THE TOP FLOOR OF THE JAIL—
YOU SEE, WHEN GRAVEL GERTIE'S SHACK STARTED TO BURN, I SAW THE BROW DASH OUT THE REAR DOOR
WHEN I CAUGHT UP WITH HIM IT TOOK A LITTLE KNUCKLE TREATMENT TO CONVINCE HIM.
I'LL SAY! YOU REALLY IRONED HIM OUT!
WHAT ABOUT GRAVEL GERTIE? WHAT ARE YOU GOING TO DO WITH HER, TRACY?
OH-H- MY HOME! IT'S BURNED TO THE GROUND! THE ONLY HOME I EVER HAD (SOB)
GRAB HER, CALLAHAN.
THE POOR OLD GIRL IS RATHER PATHETIC— WHAT IN?
USING THE FAINTING SPELL AS A RUSE, GRAVEL GERTIE GRABS THE OFFICER'S REVOLVER.
HERE, MY SWEET! KILL THEM! KILL THEM ALL!
HANDCUFFED THOUGH HE IS, THE BROW FUMBLES FOR THE SAFETY RELEASE ON THE GUN.
TRACY'S HAND TOUCHES AN INK WELL. THERE IS NO TIME TO LOSE.
THE IMPACT SENDS THE BROW BACKWARD! A CRASH! BROKEN GLASS! —AS THE BODY HURTLES DOWN.

GOOD-BY, BLUEBIRD

NEVER had the Teenie Weenies been so busy. They were all up at daylight, even the sleepyheaded Dunce was made to get up, and some of the little people worked long after dark, for there was a lot of extra work to do. This additional work was caused by that old skunk who had robbed the Teenie Weenie smokehouse. He had stolen nine smoked frog hams which the little folks had cured for their winter's supply of meat, and now they had to hunt more frogs, dress them and smoke the hams. Several of the men had to be hunting the frogs when they should have been working on the Teenie Weenie wood pile, for a great deal of wood has to be cut, split and stored away to keep the Teenie Weenies warm during the winter.

Early one morning a few of the little men took their tiny tools, an acorn bucket of drinking water, and started cutting up a tree limb into wood for the Teenie Weenie fireplaces, when a bluebird flew down. The bird began chattering at a great rate, so the little men yelled for the Chinaman.

The Chinaman understands bird and animal talk much better than most of the Teenie Weenies, and when the little people want to talk to their bird and animal friends they always ask the Chinaman to translate for them. The Chinaman listened to the bird's chatter for a bit and then he turned to several of the Teenie Weenies who had gathered around the bird. "He say," translated the Chinaman, "that he goin' slouth for the winter. He say he come to say glood-by."

"Ask him why he goes south every winter," asked the Turk.

"He say beclause it too hard to all time flind food up north when snow and ice covers everythings," said the Chinaman after he had questioned the bird. "He say he all time go to Texas, where there is no snow and he all time then flind plenty of somethings to eat. He say he leavin' pretty klick."

"Ask him if he doesn't want a lunch," put in the Cook. "I can do up a lunch for him in a jiffy."

"No," said the Chinaman after he had given the Cook's message to the bird. "No; he say he no need lunch, go get plenty to eat along the way. He say glood-by and he say he hope you have a pleasant winter. He say he come back again as usual next March."

The bird spread his wings and flew off, while the Teenie Weenies waved and shouted, "Good-by, Bluebird. A pleasant journey to you."

THE READING OF THE LATE MARY ELIZABETH BEASTLY'S WILL BEGINS—
AHEM---TO MY ONLY CHILD, MARY ELIZABETH, I BEQUEATH MY ENTIRE ESTATE.
....BECAUSE OF MY DAUGHTER'S ILLNESS, DOCTOR AMOS PIERRE, WHO HAS ATTENDED HER SINCE BIRTH, SHALL BE SOLE GUARDIAN OF SAID ESTATE, UNTIL HE, DOCTOR AMOS PIERRE, PROCLAIMS MY DAUGHTER, MARY ELIZABETH, CURED.
WHAT A STRANGE WILL FOR A MOTHER TO LEAVE FOR HER DAUGHTER!
PSST—AND LOOK AT THAT SMUG EXPRESSION ON THE DOCTOR'S FACE, TOO!
I'LL BET MY LAST BUCK, STARR, THAT YOU ARE NOT GETTING YOUR INTERVIEW WITH THAT BEASTLY DAME TO-DAY.

HOWEVER, IT'S NOT GOING TO STOP ME FROM TRYING TO INTERVIEW HER.
YOU KNOW, THERE'S SOMETHING FUNNY ABOUT THAT SET-UP.
I'M CONVINCED THE GIRL HAS BEEN KEPT IN SECLUSION ALL HER LIFE BY HER MOTHER AND THAT DOCTOR.
WONDER WHY!
EVEN IN DEATH THE MOTHER FIXED IT SO THAT HER DAUGHTER WOULD BE AT THE MERCY OF THAT DOCTOR.
BY THE WAY, SUPER SLEUTH, YOU BROUGHT TO JUSTICE YOUR LAST CRIMINAL BY TAKING HIS FALSE TEETH. HOW ABOUT BRINGING BACK A SCALP THIS TIME?
IMPOSSIBLE, TOM....
DOCTOR PIERRE HASN'T ANY....HE'S BALD....!

SECRET RECIPE
READY-MIX
Just add milk or water, stir—and pop 'em on de griddle.

Try this Special Orange Sauce Recipe

¾ cup sugar
2 tablespoons cornstarch
⅛ teaspoon salt
1⅓ cups water
⅓ cup orange juice
1 teaspoon grated orange rind
4 teaspoons lemon juice
1 tablespoon butter

Combine sugar, cornstarch and salt. Add water. Cook over low heat, stirring constantly until mixture thickens. Then place in double boiler and cook 15 minutes.

Stir in other ingredients, and serve hot over Aunt Jemima pancakes.

Your smile often makes friends for you, unlocks hearts, helps you up the ladder of happiness and success. The secret so often is . . . nice teeth.

Isn't it just common sense, then, to give your teeth special care every day . . . to use a dentifrice to help preserve their beauty through the years?

Remember, all dentifrices are not alike, so why not change now to Listerine Tooth Paste? Famed for super-cleaning, this cleansing "prescription for your teeth" is specially created to get after many of those tiny, "pin-point" cracks in enamel . . . the very danger zones where so much beauty-robbing decay begins . . . more than 75%, some authorities say.

You will be delighted to see how this "prescription" helps bring out the natural flash, brilliance and luster of enamel . . . what a wonderful wake-up sensation it gives your mouth! Change to it now!

GIVE YOU A BUCK FOR THE BARREL, WALT. I WANT TO TRY MY OUTBOARD IN IT.
I WON'T SELL, BUT GO AHEAD AND USE IT.
WORKS OKAY. I'LL GIVE YOU A RIDE AROUND THE LAGOON.
BBRIPPP
RUNS SWELL!
SURE DOES. I WONDER WHAT MY WIFE WANTED ME TO BRING.
YES, CHARLIE, I'D LIKE TO HAVE AN OUTFIT LIKE THAT.
I WOULDN'T SELL— YOU COULDN'T EVEN GET GAS FOR IT ANYWAY.
PUT YOUR MONEY INTO SOMETHING PRACTICAL LIKE I DID— A COW.
I'VE THOUGHT OF THAT— AND HAVE MILK, CREAM, BUTTER AND COTTAGE CHEESE— NO POINTS!
I'D SELL THIS ONE. SHE GIVES 12 QUARTS A DAY. I KNOW WHERE I CAN GET ANOTHER THAT GIVES 15.
BY GOLLY, CHARLIE, YOU TEMPT ME! HOW MUCH DO YOU WANT?
GOSH, PHYLLIS! I JUST REMEMBERED WHAT I WAS TO BRING HOME— A BOTTLE OF MILK!

SHE'S ENGAGED! She's Lovely! She uses Pond's!

Kitty's Beauty is softly romantic—her night-black hair, the magnolia texture of her skin

Her exquisite ring

Charming Navy worker Catherine M. Clark of Washington, fiancée of Robert Tate Brouillette of Philadelphia, an officer in the Army of the United States

Serenely lovely Kitty Clark is another engaged girl with that adorable soft-smooth "Pond's look" in her face. "There's something about a Pond's Cold Creaming that makes you feel lots prettier—and so luxurious," Kitty says.

This is how she uses Pond's to help give her skin its soft, peach-bloom look:

She smooths the fragrant white coolness of Pond's Cold Cream over her face and throat, then pats it on briskly to soften and release grime and make-up. Tissues off.

She rinses with more satin-soft Pond's—sending her cream-covered fingers all around her face in quick little whirls. This is for extra cleansing, extra softening. Tissues off again.

"My two Pond's creamings this way leave my skin with such a flattering clear, clean glow," she says.

Every night and every morning, give your face this gentle, smoothing beauty care with Pond's. Use it to smooth away that dull mid-day look, too. It's no accident exquisite engaged girls like Kitty Clark, society beauties like Mrs. Allan A. Ryan and Britain's Lady Doverdale prefer Pond's.

Ask for your big jar of Pond's Cold Cream today.

A Commander's Secretary—Kitty receives the Navy Civilian Service pin from her Chief—Commander Walter Karig, USNR—"I'm thrilled by my Navy job," she says. The Navy needs more civilian workers in Washington. Living quarters assured. If you are not already in a war job, ask your local Civil Service or your local Post Office how you can qualify.

POND'S
COLD CREAM
Cleansing

Ask for the Luxury-Size Jar—when you buy your Pond's Cold Cream. Buying large sizes helps save glass and manpower. And you'll find you love the easy way you can dip the finger tips of both your hands in this big, wide-topped Pond's jar.

Today—many more women use Pond's than any other face cream at any price

STATE AGENTS WILL AID VETS ON NORTH SIDE

Help Fighters Back to Civilian Life.

As part of a statewide program to help returning veterans reënter civil life, three north shore men have been named by Gov. Green as local advisers for veterans. They will open offices on the north side within the next few days.

Eleven advisers for Cook county and one for each of the other counties in Illinois have been appointed by Gov. Green, who emphasized that the purpose of the plan is "to help every individual Illinois veteran to help himself."

The appointees recently attended two days of instruction in Springfield. Their duty will be to act as liaison officer between veterans and schools, industry, labor, and other social and business groups. They will offer vocational and educational guidance, and will help both men and women find suitable employment.

Name Three Advisers.

North shore advisers will be Mancel Talcott, Lake county appointee, with headquarters at 1210 Washington st., Waukegan; William E. Rudolph, with headquarters at 7554 Broadway, and Richard J. Monroe, with offices at 605 Davis st., Evanston. The Waukegan office will open tomorrow.

A veteran of the first World war, Talcott has been active in national and local politics and civic affairs more than 25 years. A 1913 graduate of the University of Illinois, he studied law two years at the Kent College of Law and is a former merchant of Waukegan, his native town. From 1922 to 1934 he was postmaster there.

Talcott was born Feb. 20, 1890, the son of the late S. Delano Talcott, lawyer and former state's attorney of Lake county. The elder Talcott was born in 1862 in a log cabin near Half Day. He was a lifelong Republican, and his son carried on the tradition.

Is Former Legion Head.

Young Talcott enlisted in the navy in 1917 and was assigned to submarine chaser and destroyer duty. He was the first man to be elected adjutant of the Waukegan American Legion post. He served as post commander in 1921 and 1922. As originator of the Legion's national program of marking veterans' graves, Talcott has been chairman of the national graves registration committee for 14 years. He is a former 2d district commander, and is secretary of the Republican Service Men's League of Illinois.

At the last Republican national convention, Talcott served as sergeant at arms in charge of distinguished guests, and was one of the group which escorated Gov. Dewey to the platform for his acceptance of the Presidential nomination. Talcott also was sergeant at arms during the 1940 convention. In 1941 he was appointed personnel director of the Illinois welfare division, and in September, 1943, was made director of the federal state aid school lunch program with headquarters in Springfield, a position which he resigned to accept the present appointment.

From 1920 to 1941 Talcott was executive committee chairman of the Waukegan Red Cross. For the last 23 years he has been on the advisory board of the Salvation Army. He is a past exaulted ruler of the Elks' lodge and a past master of the Masonic lodge. He is married and has no children.

Six More Dads Soon Will See Photos of Babies Never Met

"Believe me, if all those endearing young charms" probably will become the theme song of six proud dads, serving overseas, when they are introduced to their young sons and daughters thru V-mail photos taken by the Metropolitan section of THE TRIBUNE. The babies were born after their fathers were sent overseas.

Baby Michael Padon first opened his blue eyes last July 19. His daddy, Lt. William Padon, was assigned to duty at Puerto Rico just one week before Michael arrived. His grandmother, Mrs. Frank O'Brien, with whom they live at 1441 Glenlake av., calls him Young Bill.

Oklahoma Drawl May Show.

Michael is a red head and if he eventually talks with an Oklahoma drawl, that's his dad's home state.

Bright Eyes is the pet name for Barbara Lee Novak, whose father, Sgt. William Novak, now is stationed in Corsica. Barbara Lee was born last May 13, and Sgt. Novak sailed for North Africa last April. Barbara's mother is Mrs. William Novak, 4918 N. Hamilton av.

Now he has a girl and he wanted one—that's what Lt. Robert Brice said. A picture of Barbara, his young daughter, is on its way to the Pacific where Lt. Brice is stationed. Barbara, who lives with her mother at 6335 N. Bell av., was born April 17. Her father, in the navy two years, has been overseas since February.

Dad Is in New Guinea.

Michael Seely, who lives with his mother, Mrs. Baker Seely, and 2 year old sister, Sharon, at 1624 Chase av, was born Feb. 4 of this year. His father, Lt. Col. Baker Seely, is on duty with the air corps in England.

Coxswain Norman Banister now is stationed in the Pacific theater. He was sent to sea a few months before baby Myrna Lynn was born last April 3. Myrna Lynn has the blue eyes and black hair of her navy dad, tho most folks say she looks like her mother, Mrs. Norman Banister of 4725 N. Leavitt st. Banister has been in the navy three years.

METHODIST PLAY LEADERS ATTEND FUN SHOP TODAY

The Methodist board of education, 740 Rush st., is conducting a recreational laboratory for recreation leaders of the churches in the Rock River conference, today at the Des Plaines Methodist camp grounds.

The program, known as the fun shop, will consist of classes in dramatics, folk games, handicraft, folk music, group singing, and party planning.

The fun shop is under direction of Helen Stevens Fisher, conference recreation chairman, and the Rev. R. H. Collis, executive secretary of the Methodist board of education.

Alice Morse Heads Grant Hospital Nursing School

The appointment of Miss Alice E. Morse as head of the Grant hospital school of nursing, 533 Grant pl., has been announced by the board of directors of the hospital. Miss Morse served as superintendent of nurses at the Children's Memorial hospital for four years.

CHURCH GROUPS SCHEDULE BUSY EVANSTON WEEK

Three organizations of the First Methodist church, Evanston, will begin the season's work this week with lectures on current problems. Dr. Ernest F. Tittle, pastor, will discuss "The State of the Church" before the Women's Society of Christian Service at 7:45 p. m. tomorrow in the church. Miss Zella Marshall and Mrs. Roy H. Goddard will play several musical numbers.

Members of the League of Women Voters will speak on "Evanston Housing and the Future of Our City" when the junior guild gathers for luncheon at 12:30 p. m. Tuesday in the home of Mrs. E. J. Macklin.

Prof. Howard Lane of Northwestern university will talk on "The Responsibility of the Individual in the Post-War World" at the Service guild luncheon at 12:45 p. m. Wednesday. Board members of the guild will confer with Mrs. Arcule Sheasby, president, at 10:30 a. m., and a chapel service will precede the luncheon.

CONGRESS RACE OFF TO A HARD FIGHTING START

5 Districts Hinge on Real Work.

BY WILLIAM SHINNICK.

With both Democrats and Republicans realizing that the composition of the next congress is hardly less important than the choice for President, a hard fight is already on for congressional seats in five of the 11 Illinois districts which take in Chicago and the suburban area.

Trained political observers believe the issue in these districts—the 1st, 2d, 3d, 7th, and 9th—is uncertain and may remain so until the votes are counted on Nov. 7. They say that there is unquestionably a swing Republicanwards in Chicago and the whole state, but that this might be thwarted by overconfidence or a lack of effort on the part of the G. O. P. organization.

A Question of Work.

Reports indicate that the regular Democratic machine and the CIO political action committee are now making titanic efforts to corral voters and may be depended upon to turn out all the New Deal nad fourth term vote. A matching of this energy, in the opinion of G. O. P. leaders, will be enough to swing all five of the doubtful districts [two are now Republican] into the victory column.

The charge of indolence cannot be laid against the Republican nominees in the battlefield districts. All are holding meetings, personally soliciting votes and sending out literature defining and clarifying the issues. And they are all confident of election.

In the 1st district, taking in the loop and territory to the south, predominantly inhabited by Negroes, the incumbent Democrat is William L. Dawson, the only member of his race in congress. He is opposed by William E. King, political veteran and member of the state industrial commission.

Poll Is Encouraging.

"We are holding four or five meetings a night," King said. "I believe the tide has definitely turned our way. A poll taken recently at 35th and State streets showed Dewey leading Roosevelt 2 to 1. This sounds incredible, but our people are angry that Negro troops have been denied equal opportunities in the armed services because the commander in chief plays the game of reactionary southern senators."

The 1st has gone Democratic in the last three elections, but each time by less than 4,000 votes.

Downs Busy in Second.

In the big 2d district, which includes the South Chicago industrial area, William A. Rowan, a Kelly organization Democrat, is the incumbent. He is opposed by Thomas J. Downs, attorney who failed of election in 1942 by only 3,517 votes out of more than 216,000 cast. Downs is campaigning actively, attacking the "indispensable man" theory, the ill turns done labor by the administration, and its unfriendly attitude toward small business.

The Negro vote in the 2d is large and Downs expects to get the bulk of it. One of his opponents in the primary was Edgar G. Brown, who polled more than 10,000 votes. Brown has peldged his support and aid to Downs.

PAC Fighting Busbey.

In the 3d district the Republican incumbent, Fred E. Busbey, is opposed by Edward A. Kelly, organization Democrat who was elected to congress in 1940 and was the defeated candidate in 1942. Busbey, a member of the Dies committee, is an object of the attack of the communists and the PAC. He has said that he has no fear of the labor vote, even in the rank and file of CIO.

"I am labor's friend and labor knows it," he asserted. "It is only the PAC and the communist leadership in the union that is out against me."

Busbey's margin over Kelly two years ago was 5,981 votes.

Garland Keeps Active.

Charles H. Garland, mayor of Des Plaines and former radio executive, is the G. O. P. nominee in the huge 7th district, the largest in the United States—population about a million. Opposing him is William W. Link, Polish-American leader, member of the county civil service commission and a thorogoing orthodox Democratic organization follower.

Garland has been working on his campaign ever since the primary, in which he was a handy winner over three opponents. He is making his race on his record as a business man, an opponent of the New Deal, and a successful municipal executive. He is a veteran of World War I. and has two sons who are in the army air forces.

The 7th has not been represented in congress since the death of Leonard W. Schuetz, Democrat, who was elected in 1942 by a margin of only 1,975 out of 357,000 votes cast. The district covers much of the northwest side and a large suburban and rural area, and getting out the vote is a big task for both parties.

CIO Battling Dewey.

In the 9th district, north of the loop, the Republican incumbent, Charles S. Dewey, is running for reelection on a record of sturdy opposition to New Dealism and as an advocate of sound government finances. He formerly was financial adviser to the Polish government. His steady devotion to Republican principles has made him a special target of the CIO-PAC-Communist axis.

Opposing Congressman Dewey is

U. OF C. COLLEGE RANKS SWELL TO NEW HIGH

13 Year Old Among 23 North Siders.

When the new college of the University of Chicago enters its third year this week, enrollment of first and second year students will show a 100 per cent increase over last year. Four hundred and sixty new students are being entered at these levels. Total student enrollment in the four years of the college has been limited to 1,600, a figure reached late this month.

Of the 800 new students some come from Hawaii, Panama, Equador, Trinidad, and New Brunswick. Within our own borders they hail from 38 states and represent 223 cities. Of this group 319 first year students are from the Chicago area, and 59 of these are from the north shore district.

28 Entering First Year.

Twenty-three of the north siders are enrolled in the first year of the college, seven in the second year, and 29 in the third year.

Students may enter the college after they have completed their sophomore year in high school. At the end of what traditionally would be their sophomore year in college, had they completed the four year course in high school, they receive their bachelor's degree. Thus students entering on the first year level attend four years at the college, and students entering on the third year level attend two years.

At the conclusion a 10 day period of orientation classes at the college will open on Tuesday. That evening President Robert Maynard Hutchins will be host to old and new students at Ida Noyes hall.

Offer Many Activities.

Plans have been made by resident heads and deans to supply recreational activities for the students. Students will be encouraged to attend the better plays and musical events of the season. In addition to the social calendar, now being developed by this group, students may participate in the student orchestra, under the direction of Hans Lange; write for student publications, compete in intramural sports programs, and join other campus organizations.

Among the registrants of the college are sons and daughters of many alumni. Youngest of this group, a north sider, is William Gates Vaughan, 13, son of L. B. Vaughan, 1120 Lake Shore dr., who was graduated from the University of Chicago in 1897.

List Registrants.

The 23 north side residents registered in the first year of the college include:

Robert H. Asher, 5215 N. Washtenaw av.; Rita A. Blumenthal, 5240 Sheridan rd., Jerry D. Braude, 637 Waveland av.; Henry A. Braun, 4438 Magnolia av.; William C. Gates, Winnetka; Richard Don, 3172 Sheridan rd., Julian R. Ettelson, 424 Melrose av., and Charles W. Ferris Jr., Evanston.

Frances Greenwald, 3920 Lake Shore dr.; Richard Horwitz, 3500 Lake Shore dr.; Nancy Hunt, Evanston; Frances C. Jacobson, 1044 Hollywood av.; Nanni Barbara Kahn, 3731 Wilton av.; William S. Kamin, 5240 Sheridan rd.; Barbara J. and Morrisa Lipman, 458 Briar pl.; David B. Meltzer, 3500 Lake Shore dr., and Charles E. Nopar, 6308 N. Talman av.

Alexander Pope, Winnetka; Germain E. Rosenwald, 2912 Commonwealth av.; Seymour Smidt, 6124 N. Talman av.; Mary J. Van Cleve, Winnetka, and William G. Vaughan, 1120 Lake Shore dr.

The seven enrolled in the second year are:

Florence Allen, Evanston; Mary Bigford, Lake Forest; Donna J. Cheablow, 622 Aldine av.; Miriam Friedman, 1635 Pratt blvd.; James A. Goldman, Highland Park; Herbert F. Horwitz, 642 Aldine av., and Gwen J. Weber, 2147 Lunt av.

The third year enrollees are:

Robert J. Adolph, 6621 N. Ashland av.; Benjamin C. Blackman, 6522 N. Ashland av.; Sonia R. Blauner, 1620 Wallen av.; Jay C. Byron, 442 Wellington av.; Aurilla Dwyer, 4838 N. Winchester av.; Donald E. Erick, 2552 Montrose av.; Rudolph A. Faller, 432 Oakdale av.; Elaine J. Flamm, 453 Webster av.; Norman Goldberg, 5409 N. Whipple st.; Carol J. Grey, Evanston; Phyllis Grover, 1425 Winnemac av., and Harold P. Hildebrand, 21 E. Cedar st.

Gladys F. Jacobs, 1502 Pratt blvd.; Barbara Klowden, 7002 Sheridan rd.; Shirley L. Krumback, Highland Park; Phyllis Leaf, 3750 Lake Shore dr.; Renee A. Lee, 1825 Mohawk st.; Lenore Lurie, 190 E. Pearson st.; Jean MacMahon, 514 Belmont av., and Ann Magrath, Winnetka.

Elaine F. Manheim, 6200 Kenmore av.; John D. Odell, Y. M. C. A. hotel, 8th and Wabash av.; Anina H. Paepcke, 999 Lake Shore dr.; Florence Simon, 1400 W. Winnemac av., Olivia von Bachelle, Evanston; Peter M. Wolkonsky, 244 E. Pearson st.; Carol W. Yeomans, Winnetka, and Nina D. Young, Evanston.

Believed to be the fastest growing school in the nation, the college this year abolished high school credits as the entrance basis and substituted placement tests to determine the academic standing of the student. Under this plan, students are given credit for outside study not honored in their high school records.

Royal League to Hear of Sanitarium's Work

The Royal League Fellowship association will hold its annual meeting at 8 p. m. Friday in the Morrison hotel with Diedrich H. Kropp, president, presiding. Dr. Charles C. Orr, attending physician of the Royal League's sanitarium at Black Mountain, N. C., will discuss work and achievements of the sanitarium since its organization 40 years ago. Officers will be elected.

Pi Beta Phi Alumnae Club Sponsors Rummage Sale

The Chicago North Alumnae club of Pi Beta Phi will sponsor a rummage sale from 7:30 a. m. to 5 p. m. Thursday at 27 Main st., Evanston. Proceeds will be used for the club's physiotherapy scholarship fund. Mrs. Fred Chase is in charge of the sale.

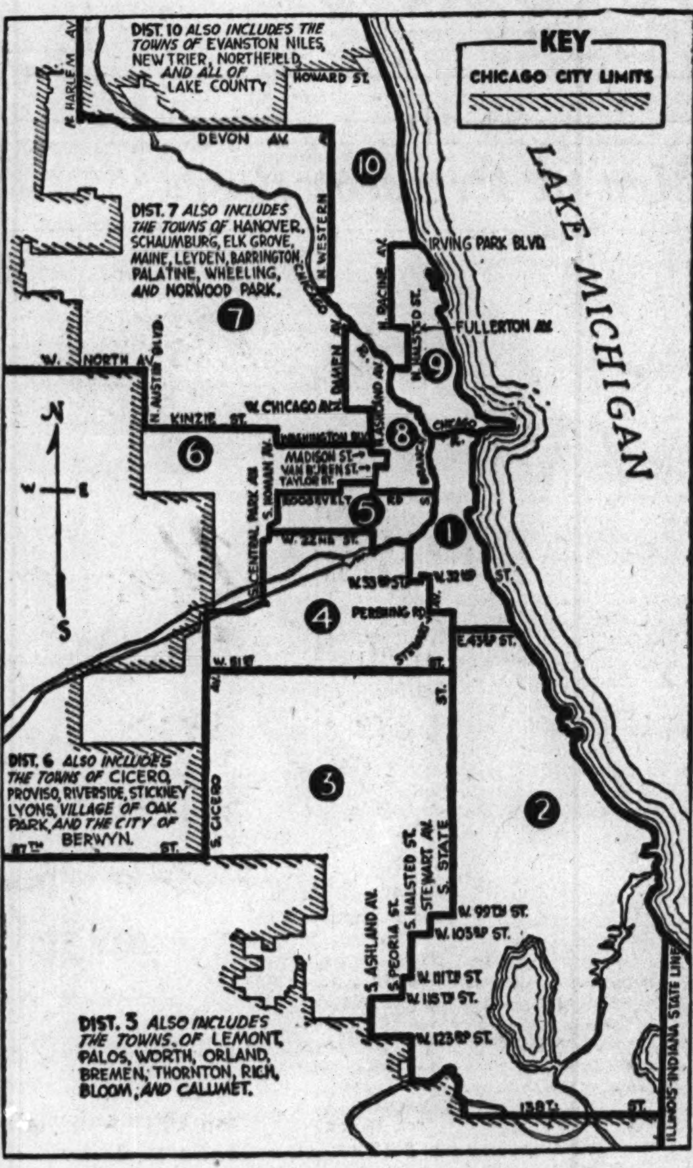
Chicago Congressional Districts



The map defines congressional districts in the Chicago area. The 11th district consists of Will, Du Page, Kane, and McHenry counties.

Young Students at U. of Chicago

College graduates at 18—under the college plan of the University of Chicago, this trio of north siders faces the prospect of graduating before many youths their age start to college. Shown on the Midway campus between sessions of placement tests are Lolly Lurie, 190 E. Pearson st., 16; Bill Vaughan, 1120 Lake Shore dr., 14, and Bill Cates, Winnetka, 16, standing.

Alexander Resa, assistant corporation counsel and the choice of the city hall organization. Dewey, who has been elected three times by margains of 2,000 to 6,000 votes, is campaigning actively.

Business Men Active.

The five districts with close contests have been chosen as a field of action by the business men's committee formed to assist the Republican cause. More than 1,500 volunteer workers have been signed up, according to Frank J. Durham, insurance executive who heads this group. He added that there is a need for hundreds more. The office of the committee is at 53 W. Jackson boulevard—telephone Harrison 6515.

"We are not duplicating the work of the party organization," said Durham. "We are working with it."

Observers see little chance for any change in the other six districts in the Chicago and suburban area. In the 4th, on the southwest side, Leo J. Kozicki, Republican, is running against Martin Gorski, incumbent. The normal Democratic vote here is nearly 3 to 1.

In the 5th, with a population of only 112,000, Adolph J. Sabath seems to be safe again. Max Price is the G. O. P. nominee. In the 6th, where the Republican vote will be split between the nominee, Charles J. Anderson Jr., and an independent, Ivar Henderson, it appears that Thomas J. O'Brien, incumbent Democrat, will be able to coast in. The last election gave O'Brien a 38,000 plurality.

See Victory for Church.

The 8th, a pocket borough, usually is 3 to 1 Democratic. The incumbent is Thomas S. Gordon. His opponent is John F. Uczciwek, real estate and insurance broker, who is making a real effort and may cut deeply into the usual Democratic vote.

In the 10th, Ralph E. Church is expected to win. His plurality two years ago exceeded 62,000. His opponent is Curtis D. MacDougall, Northwestern university professor and a New Deal Democrat, who is making an energetic campaign. The district covers the north shore, part of Chicago, and all of Lake county.

In the 11th, composed of McHenry, Kane, Du Page, and Will counties, Chauncey W. Reed, incumbent, is regarded as a sure winner. The district went 57,000 Republican in 1942. Otto Joseph Hruby Jr. is the Democratic nominee.

Marywood School to Hold Faculty and Mothers Tea

An acquaintance tea for the faculty and mothers of the Marywood school, Evanston, will be sponsored by the Mothers' club from 2 p. m. to 5 p. m. Tuesday at the school. Officers of the club are Mrs. Edward Hill Brown, president; Mrs. Daniel E. Nealin, vice president; Mrs. William J. Shea, and Mrs. T. J. Howland, secretaries; Mrs. Edward Frey, treasurer, and Mrs. Jerome Flaherty, Mrs. Raymond Bechtel, Mrs. James Toohey, Mrs. Carl Johnson, and Mrs. B. A. Kinsella, committee chairmen.

Betrothed

BLOSSOM F. GROSSMAN.

The engagement of Blossom Florence Grossman to Leslie S. Lowenthal, son of Mr. and Mrs. Irving Lowenthal, 1313 Independence blvd., is announced by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Alex A. Grossman, 6414 N. Maplewood av. A graduate of the University of Illinois school of pharmacy, Mr. Lowenthal is attending the Chicago Medical school. No date is set for the wedding.

Sigma Chi Mothers Club Will Meet for Luncheon

ANNUAL DISTRICT PTA CONFERENCE SET FOR FRIDAY

More than 1,000 members are expected to attend the 11th annual conference of district 24 of the Illinois Congress of Parents and Teachers Friday in Moody Memorial church, 1609 N. La Salle st. Registration will begin at 9:15 a. m.

Mrs. H. O. Keys, newly elected district director, will preside after an introduction by Mrs. Guy A. Millard, former district director who is now Illinois chairman of study courses and parent-teacher procedure. The Rev. John S. Ironside, assistant pastor of Moody church, will give the invocation, and Mrs. Frank A. Damm, 1st vice president of the Illinois Congress of Parents and Teachers, will speak on "The PTA in September, 1944."

Round table conferences covering 28 phases of PTA work have been arranged by district and state officials and will consume the rest of the morning. Dr. Mandle Sherman, professor of the afternoon, discussing "Personal Adjustment and Social Attitudes."

The Northwest council chorus, directed by Mrs. Ernest Blomgren, will present a group of songs. The arrangements committee includes Mrs. Robert Keay, Northwest council president; Mrs. Ernst Anderson, High School council president; Mrs. Ralph Krubeck, North Side council president, and Mrs. Harry Ingram, district program assistant.

Stephen Gale—PTA members and mothers of new pupils are urged to attend a get-acquainted meeting at 1:30 p. m. tomorrow in Gale school, 1631 Jonquil terr. A community sing will be held and refresments will be served after the program.

Lake Forest Teachers.

ON SHORT WAVES

LONDON.

The North American service of the BBC from London includes the following programs today. The frequencies [in megacycles] employed after 4:15 p. m. are: 11.93, 9.58, 9.82, 6.11, 7.26, 9.51. 4:45 p. m.—News; 5:00 p. m.—London Philharmonic; 6:30 p. m.—Radio Newsreel; 8:15 p. m.—Sunday Service; 9:10 p. m.—Tomorrow's London Papers; 11:30 p. m.—News.

Tschaikowsky Symphony to Be Aired Tuesday

Tschaikowsky's Symphony No. 5 will be presented when the W-G-N Symphony orchestra broadcasts its weekly concert from Orchestra hall over W-G-N and WGNB at 8:30 p. m. Tuesday. The orchestra will also present the overture to "Coriolanus" by Beethoven.

DUNPHY, CORUM, SLATER TO AIR WORLD SERIES

W-G-N-Mutual to Carry Exclusive Reports.

BY LARRY WOLTERS.

When the world series is broadcast over W-G-N and Mutual, exclusively, starting at 1 p. m., Wednesday, Oct. 4, Don Dunphy, Bill Slater, and Bill Corum will be the reporters. Dunphy and Slater will give the play by play and Corum the color. Red Barber will not be heard this year. Bob Elson, who reported the series for so many years, is serving in the navy.

Professional football broadcasts will start over WIND at 1:55 p. m. today with a report of the Bears game at Green Bay. Bert Wilson will be the reporter. The entire Bears' schedule will be broadcast by WIND.

The Detroit Symphony orchestra will be heard over the Mutual system in a series of Saturday evening concerts this season. The concerts will be aired at 7:30 p. m. When the series gets under way each of the major networks will have an outstanding symphony orchestra on the air under sponsorship. CBS has the New York Philharmonic at 2 p. m. Sundays, NBC has its own orchestra, directed by Arturo Toscanini, at 4 p. m. Sundays, and the Blue network will have the Boston Symphony, returning Saturday, Oct. 7. The broadcast hour is 7 p. m.

The W-G-N Symphony orchestra broadcasts a concert from Orchestra hall over W-G-N at 8:30 p. m. Tuesdays.

Your America, half hour radio show saluting states and industries served by the Union Pacific railroad, with talks by governors of western states, will move from NBC to 115 Mutual stations on Sunday, Oct. 15. It will be heard at 3 p. m. Elden Westley is the narrator for a weekly war story and Leo Kopp the musical director.

Vic and Sade, one of radio's oldest day time serials, is signing off at the end of this week. In the 12 years it has been on the air Paul Rhymer has written it and Art Van Harvey and Bernardine Flynn played the title roles. Rusk, their son, was played for years by Billy Idelson until he joined the navy. Many listeners will regret its departure because it was slanted with comedy rather than the trials and tribulations of family life.

W-G-N plans to rebroadcast "The Story of Human Birth" on The Human Adventure at 8:30 tomorrow night. This is being done for the benefit of expectant fathers in the military service. The repeat broadcast has been arranged at the request of the Morale Service division, Army Service forces.

Greets Children

Bob Hope, as he arrived home from overseas, greets his children, Tony and Linda. Hope will broadcast from Chicago over W-G-N at 7:15 p. m. tomorrow and over WMAQ at 9 p. m. Tuesday.

MISSION CHIMES LEGEND THEME OF AIR THEATER

"The Chimes of San Sebastian," a musical-dramatic legend built around an ageless set of mission chimes, will be presented on The Chicago Theater of the Air, over W-G-N, WGNB and the Mutual network from 8 to 9 p. m. next Saturday. The broadcast will originate in W-G-N's main audience studio.

Col. Robert R. McCormick, editor and publisher of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE, will speak on the program.

Virginia Haskins, soprano, Bruce Foote, baritone, and Ruth Slater, contralto, will be the vocalists, and Robert Quick will be the violin soloist. Musical accompaniment will be provided by the W-G-N Symphony orchestra and chorus conducted by Henry Weber.

DONALD W. DOUGLAS, President of Douglas Aircraft Company, congratulating a Douglas employee.

PRODUCTION OF DOUGLAS PLANES TO GO ON AFTER VICTORY

"The job of building these transports (Douglas Skymaster C-54 planes) is going right on. General Arnold told us definitely that there would be no let up in the production of the C-54's after the general collapse of Germany. It is possibly more necessary ... to continue to build planes for the prosecution of our war against the Japs. Greater distances of transportation are involved. The Army and Navy will need all we can build, and more. You are going to be kept busy until the end of the war.

"I believe that we will be building them (Douglas C-54 planes) for the Government long after the war because ... of the tremendous transportation needs of war-torn Europe ... and to supply the transport demands of the Army Air Forces after the war is over.

"You may have read in the paper that day before yesterday I signed a contract order with the major airlines for $50,000,000.00 worth of airplanes. This, together with other business we now have or will shortly have, will bring us a peace-time backlog of over a hundred million. This aircraft business is one of the greatest businesses in the world ... and after the war will be a great business. So let's pitch in and do a job for our country and, in so doing, do a job for ourselves in the future."

DONALD W. DOUGLAS, in a speech delivered to employees, Chicago Plant, September 13, 1944.

Interesting JOBS OPEN
For Men and Women who plan for post-war opportunity

Here's a chance for you to do interesting work and prepare for a future career. Douglas Aircraft Company needs 4,000 additional people at once to build military transport planes.

Don't be misled by any feeling that the war is nearly over and that it's hardly worthwhile to take a so-called war plant job now. There are no "cut-backs" in sight here. It's just the opposite. Read again the quotations above from a speech delivered by Donald W. Douglas to Chicago Plant employees.

Today Douglas is building planes for victory. Tomorrow we will build them for the airlines. You can get expert training here in aircraft skills that could well qualify you for profitable employment building peace-time airplanes or in the huge maintenance and operations plants which the airlines and aircargo enterprises will set up all over the country after the war. And you can be trained in working with the lighter metals such as aluminum and magnesium which will be used in the manufacture of so many post-war consumer goods.

Meanwhile you will be well paid for enjoyable work. Experienced or inexperienced ... we train you so that you are bound to make good in fabrication, shop, assembly and installation work ..: what we term "beating on the airplanes." As interesting work as you'll ever find.

If you want to serve your country, make good money, enjoy your job, and if you are not already employed in an essential industry, don't delay. Come to the WMC's U. S. Employment Service office at 5306 Lawrence Ave. Or come to our own employment offices at 4070 Milwaukee Avenue, near Irving Park; 2717½ Milwaukee Avenue, near Logan Square; or to the plant employment office at Mannheim, Higgins and Devon.

WORD OF DEATH FOLLOWS PRAISE OF ARMY FLYER

Lt. Harry Bassler Killed on French Front.

Lt. H. D. Bassler.

Shortly after Col. and Mrs. H. H. Bassler, 6333 Glenwood av., received word that their son, Lt. Harry D. Bassler, had been commended for his services with the 9th air force in France, they were notified that he had been killed in action.

As a member of the Thunderbird group, Lt. Bassler a few days before his death had shot down his first German plane as his group was returning from an attack on fuel tanks near Ruille, 15 miles southwest of Laval, France.

In reporting the engagement, Bassler wrote: "We met six Focke Wulf 190's on our trip returning home. My flight leader went into a tight bank, out turning them at 10,000 feet, but my plane stalled, and I found myself on the tail of one of the 190's.

"I fired two bursts," continued the account. "Pieces came off the 190's wings, and the plane began to smoke. It was on fire when it broke from the clouds. Then I lost sight of it. There were more Germans in the area and we were short of gas so we headed for home base."

Before entering the army in April, 1941, Lt. Bassler was employed in the traffic department of Swift & Co. He attended Amundsen High school and Northwestern university.

Col. Bassler is on duty with the medical corps.

graduate of Northwestern university.

Lt. J. J. McCarthy.

John J. McCarthy, son of Mr. and Mrs. Daniel McCarthy, 1233 Chase av., has been commissioned a lieutenant at Craig field, Ala., and is now assigned to Harlingen field, Tex. He was graduated from Loyola academy, and attended Northwestern university school of engineering. Lt. McCarthy entered the air corps in April, 1943.

Lt. E. J. Littlejohn.

Lt. Ellis J. Littlejohn, son of Mr. and Mrs. Arley Littlejohn, Waukegan, was recently decorated with the air medal at the naval air station, San Diego, Cal. He is credited with destroying an important bridge near Kieta harbor, Bougainville.

Aviation Chief Radioman Guy H. Bodor, son of Mrs. Hedwig Bodor, 1215 Diversey pkwy., was awarded the Purple Heart at Moffett field, Cal., for head wounds received near Guadalcanal in 1942. He served on the U. S. S. San Francisco for two years.

Serving with the 15th A. A. F. in Italy, Adolph E. Selch Jr., 3752 N. Hermitage av., has been promoted to first lieutenant. He holds the air medal with two bronze oak leaf clusters. His wife, Jane, lives in Evanston.

Corp. Goldberg.

Corp. Beatrice Goldberg, daughter of Hyman Goldberg, 3529 Pine Grove av., is serving with the WAC in France. She is one of a group of 350 who were commended recently in England for their work in connection with the invasion of France. Corp. Goldberg's brother, Pvt. Joseph Goldberg, is with a military police unit in Teheran.

Stationed at Camp McCoy, Wis., following their recent appointments as 2d lieutenants in the army nurse corps, are two north side women. Lt. Elizabeth J. Schrel, daughter of Mrs. W. A. Schrel, Kenilworth, practiced at St. Luke's hospital, from whose nursing school she was graduated. Lt. Mona Margaret Olson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Olson, 433 N. Paulina st., is a graduate of Ravenswood hospital and practiced nursing there.

Lt. Ruth Devore

Second Lt. Ruth Q. Devore, 4328 N. Claremont av., is stationed with the WAC at Camp Edwards, Mass. She recently sat on a general court martial, one of the first WAC officers in New England to do so. Lt. Devore enlisted in January, 1943.

Three north side women have completed basic training at the WAVES training center, New York City, as seamen 2d class, and have received new assignments. Helen Ruth Clayton, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Clayton, Winnetka, will report to the naval air station, Quonset Point, R. I., as a plotting board operator. She attended Sophie Newcomb college, New Orleans, La., and worked in a Chicago bank before entering the WAVEs.

Frances Bartulis, 443 Wrightwood av., is assigned to the naval training school at Stillwater, Okla., for further instruction in the WAVEs. She attended Northwestern university and was a secretary in civil life. Mary Evangeline Karlson, 819 Leland av., is assigned to the medical center at Bethesda, Md.

Joan Harriet Stevens, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. P. E. Stevens, Wilmette, has reported to the WAVEs training school, Hunter college, N. Y., for preliminary instruction. She was graduated from New Trier High school and attended Northwestern university.

DOOR BELL ARMY TO CARRY FIGHT FOR FUND DRIVE

Expect 27,000 Women to Help in Campaign.

An army of women door bell ringers, which will help in the Community and War Fund drive, is being organized from club and civic members of north shore communities. The organization, which is expected to number 27,000 volunteers from the Chicago area, is expected to be completed by Oct. 2, opening day of the drive for $12,980,000.

Mrs. Snelling Robinson, 1242 N. State st., has been appointed regional chairman of the Fund's north shore woman's division. She is vice president of the Girl Scout board, served on the board of the Chicago Latin school, and has been on the group work reviewing committee of the Community Fund.

Name Sectional Chairmen.

Mrs. Robinson has named Mrs. William J. Pigott, 1640 Fargo av., as chairman of the section which includes the Northtown, Clark-Devon, and Uptown-Clark areas; Mrs. B. F. Steenson, 4830 Malden av., will be section chairman in charge of the Lincoln Square, Ravenswood, Central Uptown, North Center, and Sheridan Center areas, while Mrs. Howard G. Earle, 739 Belmont av., will be chairman in charge of the Diversey, East Lakeview, Lincoln-Fullerton, Clark-Diversey, lower North side, and Near North side areas.

Appointed as district chairmen by Mrs. Steenson are Mrs. Grant Gentry, 4619 Broadway, who will serve in Central Uptown, and Mrs. Samuel D. Cates, 3916 Pine Grove av., in Sheridan Center.

Mrs. Earle has appointed Mrs. Annie M. Shafer, 2000 Lincoln Park West, chairman of the Lincoln-Fullerton district, and Mrs. Donald McNee, 1124 Drummond pl., chairman of the Clark-Diversey district.

Appoints Area Heads.

In the city division, J. R. Sterling, regional chairman, has named the following chairmen: Fred G. Koehler, 1609 Cullom av., Ravenswood; Leslie Walrath, 4818 Broadway, Central Uptown east; Frank Tingalia, 537 Oak st., co-chairman of the lower North side, and Chester Farrell, 341 W. Superior st., co-chairman of the Near North side.

Jasper Abbinanti, 1129 N. Cambridge av., has been named district chairman of the northeast portion of the lower North side, and Robert McKenna, 69 E. Division st., chairman of the south portion of the near North side.

Meanwhile, Edward B. Sherwin, Highland Park, chairman of the north suburban region, made the following chairman appointments: William Rosing, Antioch, Antioch division; John D. Thomas, Zion; Eliot M. Wetherbee, Glenview, and George B. Blameuser, Skokie.

Fletcher, Mrs. Harris Frazier, Mrs. Paul Curtis, Mrs. George P. Hollingberry, Mrs. E. E. Billow Jr., Mrs. John Whitted, Mrs. Lester Bratton, Mrs. Robert Drake, and Mrs. Robert L. McIlvaine.

CELEBRATE 25TH ANNIVERSARY OF NORTH SIDE POST

The Ravenswood post of the American Legion will celebrate its 25th anniversary with a banquet at 7 p. m. tomorrow in the Marine dining room of the Edgewater Beach hotel.

Ravenswood is one of the oldest posts in the Chicago territory, having received its national charter Sept. 26, 1919. Edward H. Schulze, vice commander, is in charge of the banquet program.

Other officers participating are: Comdr. Walter M. McCambridge, Vice Commanders John C. Gruschow and James M. Haines, Adjutant John A. Schuettler, Finance Officer Robert Henry, Chaplain Leo W. Hickey, and Sergeant at Arms George E. Howell.

CAPTAIN MEETS SISTER ON D-DAY EVE AT CORSICA

Two members of the Theodore G. Rockwell family of Winnetka—Capt. Samuel S. Rockwell and his sister, Paisley Rockwell, with the Red Cross in Europe—met for the first time in a year on the eve of the invasion of southern France.

In a letter to his father, Capt. Rockwell wrote: "Here it is—the most exciting time of my 39 months of duty and one of the greatest reunions to come out of this theater has just taken place—Paisley and I have met."

Briefs Bomber Flights.

Capt. Rockwell, assigned to the Italian theater, had been sent to Corsica to brief flights for the invading heavy bombers on D-day and Paisley, whose unit had followed closely behind the allied forces in Italy, had been sent to the island to serve troops being gathered for the new invasion.

The meeting took place in a grove of cork trees. In a description of the meeting, Rockwell continues: "We had not seen each other in a year—a year whose adventures were written in our faces and eyes.

Dared Not Mention Secret.

"We both were flushed with the high excitement that precedes a D-day. We each knew that H-hour was rushing upon us, yet dared not mention it to one another. Neither of us knew for certain that the other was in possession of the secret."

The two Rockwells were together when the planes of the first attacking air unit were cleared from the ground under the watchful eye of Capt. Rockwell. Then Paisley returned to passing out doughnuts and coffee to tired soldiers and Capt. Rockwell boarded a plane to return to his base in Italy.

S. SHORE LEGION SEEKS $50,000 FOR NEW HOME

Will Benefit World War II. Vets.

Ambitious plans for a post-war Legion home were outlined recently before the South Shore Chamber of Commerce by Harold Lee, chairman of the board of governors of the South Shore Legion post.

A campaign is under way to raise $50,000 for the building which is being designed to serve particularly veterans of World War II. With $7,000 already collected the Legion group expects to reach its goal by the Dec. 6 deadline.

No More Apple Sellers.

Lee, head of a trucking business, said more than 10,000 boys have gone from the south shore area to the services and that the community has no intention of seeing them return to the same reception accorded veterans of the last war, "when many heroes were peddling apples before the shine was worn off their medals."

"As a veteran of the last war," Lee told members of the chamber which will be called on to aid in raising funds, "I know that returning fighters will want most of all a place where they can gather with buddies and trade tales of war experiences."

It was pointed out that the government has made some plans and outlined others for aid to veterans but doubt was expressed as to its ability to do an acceptable job. Assistance must come primarily from the public, neighbors of the vets, Lee insisted.

Lee Outlines Plan.

In making the first public announcement of the fund campaign, Lee outlined a three point plan for collection. Members of the South Shore post are the initial contributors, having donated the first $7,000. Well known citizens of the community will be solicited, and business men will be the object of a special appeal. All business men contributing will be given recognition with a memorial in the proposed clubhouse.

No site for the building has been chosen nor has it been determined whether a new structure will be built or an old one remodeled. In either case T. H. Klapperich of the Realty, Security and Building company, volunteered to do the construction work at cost.

The center will serve for fraternal functions of all types. It will include a clubroom, several game rooms, a lounge, library, and kitchen.

Vail Heads Campaign.

Richard B. Vail is chairman of the fund raising campaign, and Richard M. Lenihan, vice president of the South Shore National bank and president of the chamber of commerce, is treasurer. The chamber endorsed the Legion post's plan.

Augmenting the post center project will be the chamber's plan for personal assistance to returning fighters. E. J. Ryan, South Shore merchant, said soldiers will have money to spend when they return and will make nice targets for schemers. "The government will give and loan money to veterans, and according to records they are better bond buyers than some of us. Consequently they will be looking for sound investments and it is our responsibility to give them guidance when and if they seek it."

He proposed that Lenihan name a committee of business and professional leaders to outline a program of assistance. With Lenihan serving as ex-officio member, the committee includes Morgan L. Fitch, president of the Illinois Real Estate board; Arthur Clemensen, past president of the South Shore Chamber of Commerce; Jack Wolfe, coal dealer; William Hunding, dairy owner; Vail, manufacturer, and Ryan.

MISSION OVER AUSTRIA THE TOUGHEST, SOUTH SIDE GUNNER RECALLS

As the radio operator-gunner on a Liberator with the air force in Italy, Sgt. Milton Peisner, son of Mrs. Rose Peisner, 1717 E. 68th st., has completed his 50th mission over enemy territory.

Sgt. Peisner.

The south side sergeant had little trouble in picking as his toughest mission that of June 26 when his bomber, the Nancy Jane, took part in a raid over Schwechat, Austria. His plane was riddled by enemy fire, its gas line cut, and instruments shot away, and there were fires in both nose and tail turrets. One gunner was wounded fatally and another less seriously. Despite the damage the crew brought the plane home after a successful run. All on board received distinguished flying crosses.

Sgt. Peisner has taken part in raids over Munich, Budapest, Bucharest, Toulon, Nice, and Trieste, and helped soften the south coast of France for the invasion. He joined the air force in December, 1942.

JEWS TO MARK HOLIEST PERIOD IN YEAR TUESDAY

Observe Yom Kippur with Fasting.

Yom Kippur, holiest day of the Jewish calendar, will be observed by south side synagogs with services Tuesday night and all day Wednesday. The holy day will begin with the rendering of Kol Nidre, most solemn of Jewish services, Tuesday night. Among services Wednesday, a day of fast, will be the annual memorial dedicated to those who have died in the last year.

The South Side Hebrew Congregation, 74th st. and Chappel av., will precede Kol Nidre with an earlier service at 3 p. m. Tuesday. Kol Nidre will begin at 6:10 p. m. Fast day services open at 7:15 a. m. Wednesday.

Children, Observe Yom Kippur.

Yom Kippur services for children will be conducted by Samuel Kaminker at 10 a. m. Wednesday in the lower assembly hall. All day services for juniors, to begin at 9:30 a. m. will be conducted by Dr. Irving Barkan, Cantor Joseph Giblichman, and the choir will assist at the memorial service at 11 a. m. when special prayers will be said for those in service.

Rabbi Morris Teller will preside at all services. He has asked service men to assist in a special prayer service for peace and victory Tuesday night.

Kol Nidre services at K. A. M. temple, 920 E. 50th st., will begin at 7:45 o'clock Tuesday night when Rabbi Jacob Weinstein will talk on "The Wheels of the Gods Grind Slow and Fine." Wednesday's services will begin at 10 a. m. and at 2:30 p. m. with a children's service scheduled from 1 to 2 o'clock.

Hold Memorial in Afternoon.

Rabbi Weinstein's topic for the morning service will be "The XYZ of Scapegoating," and for the memorial service in the afternoon, "Let Those Hallowed Dead Not Have Died in Vain."

Rabbi G. George Fox will conduct Kol Nidre services at 8:15 p. m. Tuesday in South Shore temple, 7215 Jeffery av. Services for Wednesday are scheduled at 10 a. m., 2:15 p. m., the memorial service at 3 p. m., and the children's service at 1 p. m.

While Rabbi Fox is conducting services for adults Wednesday, Ben Gurney will have charge of the young people in the temple basement.

Dr. Louis L. Sacks, rabbi of Congregation Beth Eliezer, Cantor Morris Golub, and the choir will conduct Yom Kippur services Tuesday night and Wednesday at the synagog, 4610 Drexel blvd. Dr. Sacks will preach a series of sermons on the theme, "A New World Is Born."

8 SOUTH SIDERS FINISH GRADUATE WORK AT LOYOLA

Eight south siders were among 130 candidates for degrees from the Loyola university medical and dental schools at convocation exercises held yesterday at St. Ignatius church. The Rev. Douglas A. Pearl, S. J., acting president of the university, conferred degrees.

South side cadidates for the doctor of medicine degree were Michael D. Bajo, Edward C. Tilka, and Joseph J. Wach, all of East Chicago, and James J. Young, 7237 Merrill av.

Dental degree candidates were Orville W. Knitter, 7341 Langley av.; Alonzo B. McDonald, 8025 Marquette av.; Charles W. Niblick, East Chicago, and Harold M. Stackler, 7130 Jeffery av.

Readying their rooms for their first extensive stay away from home was a first day project for many. All first and second year students of the college who do not stay at home must live in the supervised dormitories. Shown helping Rue Bucher, Pittsburgh, Pa., center, unpack are Jean Victor, 6858 Crandon av., left, and Barbara Gustafson, 6700 Crandon av.

First and second year students also must eat at the dorms where dietitians prepare well balanced meals served in an atmosphere of charm and beauty. Partaking of their first Midway meal are Dottie Gregory, Atlantic City, N. J., and Nancy Carpenter, Rock Port, Mo.

WOMEN VOTERS OF WOODLAWN TO MEET TOMORROW

Mrs. Raleigh W. Stone, president of the Cook county League of Women Voters, will deliver the keynote address tomorrow afternoon at 2 o'clock at a meeting of the Woodlawn League of Women Voters at the First Presbyterian church, 6400 Kimbark av.

The all day program will begin at 10:30 a. m. with a class in current events under direction of Mrs. William G. Barry. After the luncheon, committee chairmen will give five minute pre-views of the year's work.

Pamphlets containing instructions for registration, voting, and voting of service men will be distributed.

CHICAGO'S URBAN LEAGUE TO HOLD 'UNITY' MEETING

Launching the Urban league's "Victory Thru Unity" week, the Chicago branch will hold a mass meeting at 3 p. m. today in the Pilgrim Baptist church, 3301 Indiana av.

The Rev. J. C. Austin will be the speaker and Earl B. Dickerson, president, will be in charge.

Employes of seven companies which employ both white and Negro workers will be guests. This is the first of a series of such meetings to be held in churches in the south central section of the city.

UNVEIL PLAQUES TODAY HONORING YANK BROTHERS

Memorial plaques commemorating the death of Pvt. Edward Jacobs, 20, who was killed when a Liberator bomber crashed near Merna, Neb., April 29, and his brother, Pvt. David Jacobs, 19, who was killed in the invasion of France, will be unveiled this afternoon at 81st st. and St. Lawrence av.

Both graduates of St. Ignatius High school, 1076 Roosevelt rd., the brothers formerly lived at 8110 St. Lawrence av. They are survived by their father, Jesse, 8146 Drexel av.; a brother, Pvt. Robert, 18, radio gunner in the tank corps, and a sister, Joan, 16, student at Mercy High school.

A detachment from the Eaton-Priddy American Legion post, Judge Matthew D. Hartigan, John D. Harris, OCD department commander, and a representative from St. Ignatius will participate in the services.

ALL SAINTS HOLY NAME SOCIETY IS PLANNING PARTY

The Holy Name society of All Saints church, 10808 Wabash av., will sponsor a party at 8 p. m. today in the church basement for benefit of the parish Christmas fund for service men.

Members of the fund committee are John Meskis, 104 W. 107th st.; Frank Pavilonis, 10536 Lafayette av.; Stanley Kernagis, 10550 Edbrooke av.; George Smulkis, 10841 Indiana av.; Joseph Norekis, 10601 Edbrooke av.; Jerry Jasulaitis, 47 E. 109th st.; John Obbagy, 36 E. 108th st.; John Trikinskas, 38 W. 107th st.; Stanley Sidell, 10713 Michigan av.; Charles Bruzas, 10550 Edbrooke av., and Joseph Gustis, 1019 W. 103d pl.

When a service man from the church goes to a military camp the organization sends him a gift of a religious article. On Mother's day and at Christmas he also receives a gift. The military committee headed by Meskis is in constant touch with service men.

CONGRESS RACE OFF TO A HARD FIGHTING START

5 Districts Hinge on Real Work.

BY WILLIAM SHINNICK.

With both Democrats and Republicans realizing that the composition of the next congress is hardly less important than the choice for President, a hard fight is already on for congressional seats in five of the 11 Illinois districts which take in Chicago and the suburban area.

Trained political observers believe the issue in these districts—the 1st, 2d, 3d, 7th, and 9th—is uncertain and may remain so until the votes are counted on Nov. 7. They say that there is unquestionably a swing Republicanwards in Chicago and the whole state, but that this might be thwarted by overconfidence or a lack of effort on the part of the G. O. P. organization.

A Question of Work.

Reports indicate that the regular Democratic machine and the CIO political action committee are now making titanic efforts to corral voters and may be depended upon to turn out all the New Deal nad fourth term vote. A matching of this energy, in the opinion of G. O. P. leaders, will be enough to swing all five of the doubtful districts [two are now Republican] into the victory column.

The charge of indolence cannot be laid against the Republican nominees in the battlefield districts. All are holding meetings, personally soliciting votes and sending out literature defining and clarifying the issues. And they are all confident of election.

In the 1st district, taking in the loop and territory to the south, predominantly inhabited by Negroes, the incumbent Democrat is William L. Dawson, the only member of his race in congress. He is opposed by William E. King, political veteran and member of the state industrial commission.

Poll Is Encouraging.

"We are holding four or five meetings a night," King said. "I believe the tide has definitely turned our way. A poll taken recently at 35th and State streets showed Dewey leading Roosevelt 2 to 1. This sounds incredible, but our people are angry that Negro troops have been denied equal opportunities in the armed services because the commander in chief plays the game of reactionary southern senators."

The 1st has gone Democratic in the last three elections, but each time by less than 4,000 votes.

Downs Busy in Second.

In the big 2d district, which includes the South Chicago industrial area, William A. Rowan, a Kelly organization Democrat, is the incumbent. He is opposed by Thomas J. Downs, attorney who failed of election in 1942 by only 3,517 votes out of more than 216,000 cast. Downs is campaigning actively, attacking the "indispensable man" theory, the ill turns done labor by the administration, and its unfriendly attitude toward small business.

The Negro vote in the 2d is large and Downs expects to get the bulk of it. One of his opponents in the primary was Edgar G. Brown, who polled more than 10,000 votes. Brown has peldged his support and aid to Downs.

PAC Fighting Busbey.

In the 3d district the Republican incumbent, Fred E. Busbey, is opposed by Edward A. Kelly, organization Democrat who was elected to congress in 1940 and was the defeated candidate in 1942. Busbey, a member of the Dies committee, is an object of the attack of the communists and the PAC. He has said that he has no fear of the labor vote, even in the rank and file of CIO.

"I am labor's friend and labor knows it," he asserted. "It is only the PAC and the communist leadership in the union that is out against me."

Busbey's margin over Kelly two years ago was 5,981 votes.

Garland Keeps Active.

Charles H. Garland, mayor of Des Plaines and former radio executive, is the G. O. P. nominee in the huge 7th district, the largest in the United States—population about a million. Opposing him is William W. Link, Polish-American leader, member of the county civil service commission and a thorogoing orthodox Democratic organization follower.

Garland has been working on his campaign ever since the primary, in which he was a handy winner over three opponents. He is making his race on his record as a business man, an opponent of the New Deal, and a successful municipal executive. He is a veteran of World War I. and has two sons who are in the army air forces.

The 7th has not been represented in congress since the death of Leonard W. Schuetz, Democrat, who was elected in 1942 by a margin of only 1,975 out of 357,000 votes cast. The district covers much of the northwest side and a large suburban and rural area, and getting out the vote is a big task for both parties.

CIO Battling Dewey.

In the 9th district, north of the loop, the Republican incumbent, Charles S. Dewey, is running for reelection on a record of sturdy opposition to New Dealism and as an advocate of sound government finances. He formerly was financial adviser to the Polish government. His steady devotion to Republican principles has made him a special target of the CIO-PAC-Communist axis.

Opposing Congressman Dewey is

GOVERNOR LISTS 5 SOUTH SIDERS TO ADVISE VETS

Will Help to Re-establish Service Men.

Gov. Green has appointed five south and southwest area men to full time state positions as advisers to discharged veterans. Working under the governor's committee for veterans' rehabilitation and employment they will be assigned to five strategically located draft boards.

The men are Harry D. De Laney, 6024 Eberhart av.; Harry J. Keefer, 6811 Stony Island av.; John Guerin, 7217 Emerald av.; Millard A. Rauhoff, 13021 Maple st., Blue Island, and Stanley S. Schmeiding, Plainfield.

Guerin is a veteran of the present war. A graduate of Mount Carmel High school, he resigned from the American Brake Shoe company to enlist in the signal corps in 1942. He was discharged seven months later because of arthritis. He resigned as a buyer for the Link Belt company last month to take part in the governor's program. He will be assigned to board 21 at 2517 W. 69th st.

Advisers Complete Instruction.

Wounded by shrapnel in the battle of the Somme in World War I., Schmeiding is a veteran member of the Plainfield American Legion post. He has held every post office and has been commander of the 11th district. A former painter and interior decorator, he also is president of the board of the Plainfield Consolidated school. He will be assigned to the offices of Will county's five draft boards at 126 N. Scott st., Joliet.

The advisers recently completed a course in their new duties at Springfield during which Gov. Green urged them to "help every individual Illinois veteran to help himself" thru provisions of the state and federal programs. The two programs, which are interlocking, provide for pensions, hospitalization, housing, education, and employment. The state program is designed to cover situations not handled under the federal program.

11 in Cook County.

Counselors have been provided with all necessary forms for the discharged veteran and will install a vocational program with the aid of the state department of labor, the United States employment service, industry, and civic organizations designed to find the right job for every discharged service man.

Eleven advisers have been appointed for Cook county, while the other 101 counties in the state will have one adviser each.

CONGRESS RACE OFF TO A HARD FIGHTING START

Results in 5 Districts Depend on Work.

Alexander Resa, assistant corporation counsel and the choice of the city hall organization. Dewey, who has been elected three times by margains of 2,000 to 6,000 votes, is campaigning actively.

Business Men Active.

The five districts with close contests have been chosen as a field of action by the business men's committee formed to assist the Republican cause. More than 1,500 volunteer workers have been signed up, according to Frank J. Durham, insurance executive who heads this group. He added that there is a need for hundreds more. The office of the committee is at 53 W. Jackson boulevard—telephone Harrison 6515.

"We are not duplicating the work of the party organization," said Durham. "We are working with it."

Observers see little chance for any change in the other six districts in the Chicago and suburban area. In the 4th, on the southwest side, Leo J. Kozicki, Republican, is running against Martin Gorski, incumbent. The normal Democratic vote here is nearly 3 to 1.

Other District Races.

In the 5th, with a population of only 112,000, Adolph J. Sabath seems to be safe again. Max Price is the G. O. P. nominee. In the 6th, where the Republican vote will be split between the nominee, Charles J. Anderson Jr., and an independent, Ivar Henderson, it appears that Thomas J. O'Brien, incumbent Democrat, will be able to coast in. The last election gave O'Brien a 38,000 plurality.

See Victory for Church.

The 8th, a pocket borough, usually is 3 to 1 Democratic. The incumbent is Thomas S. Gordon. His opponent is John F. Uczciwek, real estate and insurance broker, who is making a real effort and may cut deeply into the usual Democratic vote.

In the 10th, Ralph E. Church is expected to win. His plurality two years ago exceeded 62,000. His opponent is Curtis D. MacDougall, Northwestern university professor and a New Deal Democrat, who is making an energetic campaign. The district covers the north shore, part of Chicago, and all of Lake county.

In the 11th, composed of McHenry, Kane, Du Page, and Will counties, Chauncey W. Reed, incumbent, is regarded as a sure winner. The district went 57,000 Republican in 1942. Otto Joseph Hruby Jr. is the Democratic nominee.

PLAQUE HONORS SOUTH SIDE FLYER KILLED IN CRASH

A plaque dedicated to Lt. Russell R. McManus, 25, of 8046 Kimbark av., who died Jan. 27, 1943, in a plane crash in North Dakota, was unveiled recently at 80th st. and Kimbark av. Ceremonies were conducted by the Eaton Priddy post, American Legion, and the Office of Civilian Defense.

Lt. McManus was flying a P-39 from Bismarck, N. D., to Great Falls, Mont., when his plane caught fire and crashed into a field near Dickinson, N. D.

A graduate of Hyde Park High school, he was a member of the naval reserve and was called to service in November, 1940, but transferred to the army air forces in June, 1941.

S. Side Settlement to Show Film on Negro Tomorrow

SOLDIER'S STORY STEERS WORKERS INTO VITAL JOBS

A husky colored soldier, his chest covered with campaign ribbons and a stiff leg somber evidence of his action at the front, greets all comers at the United States unemployment service office at 751 E. 63d st. A wide grin on his face, Sgt. Walter Bailey asks the visitors what kind of a job they're looking for and if their answer's right he bids them Godspeed. If it's what he considers wrong he tells them a story of what the boys in the front lines need.

Sgt. Bailey is placed in the office to aid the war man power commission's drive for workers in plants that are essential now and will continue to be essential long after the Nazis have cried quits. Lester Brown, area director of the WMC, has announced that 2,800 men and women are needed at once for 14 south side plants.

Easier Than Japs to Handle.

Life in the unemployment service office is a change for Sgt. Bailey and he has found that Americans are much easier to convince than the Japs. He was drafted in May, 1941, and served in the Pacific for 18 months with the 54th coast artillery. He was on the U. S. S. Coolidge when it was sunk in 1942 and saw service on Guadalcanal and Bougainville, where he was ammunition sergeant of a crew serving 155 millimeter guns. He was wounded in action on Bougainville and has been awarded two bronze stars, and the American defense, good conduct, Asiatic-Pacific, and pre-Pearl Harbor ribbons. His wife and 5 year old son reside at 568 E. 51st st.

"Most of the people who come in here looking for jobs are more than willing to take one in essential industry," Sgt. Bailey said. "But some of them don't seem to know there's a war on and resent inquiries. When they're slow to react I just talk to them, and I haven't lost a case yet." The sergeant said he talks to 10 or 20 each day. He is one of 16 vets located in the agency's offices thruout the city.

Managers Issue Appeal.

WMC Director Brown and south side office managers, William Gist, Ray Schofield, Robert Harrison, Charles Kette, Max Weber, and John Ott have issued the following joint statement concerning the 14 plants seeking help: "These war plants have been designated by headquarters as extremely important to winning the war. The army, navy, and air force have asked that we use all our resources to man these plants."

Items of greatest present need are heavy duty tires shells, heavy field artillery, heavy trucks, ships, barges, chemicals, and castings for airplanes, tanks, and locomotives. Brown announced that south side plants manufacturing this equipment have many openings for women.

South side unemployment service offices are located at 4711 South Park way, 56 E. 110th st., 8657 Commercial ave., and 751 E. 63d st.

'Stick to War Jobs,' Soldier Urges

Sgt. Walter Bailey, who saw battle action in the Pacific area, meets all callers at a south side United States employment service office to urge them to take war jobs. [TRIBUNE Photo.]

Official greeter at the United States employment service office, 751 E. 63d st., is Sgt. Walter Bailey, 568 E. 51st st., veteran of 18 months action in the Pacific. He is aiding the war man power commission's drive for workers for plants manufacturing equipment that is needed urgently to finish the war. The sergeant's task is to convince men and women who may be seeking jobs of a peace time nature that they should stick to their guns as long as service men do to theirs. Shown listening to his arguments are, left to right, Lillian Garrison, 1010 E. 76th st.; Eileen Riordan, 942 E. 65th st.; Fannie Waterford, 6407 South Park av.; Sigmund Revolin, 6310 Blackstone av.; L. V. Slavinsky, 6000 Prairie av., and Anthony Mangini, 7306 Luella av. Sgt. Bailey has never lost a case.

BROADWAY FINDS RIVAL PRODUCER IN SOUTH SIDE G.I.

High morale of fighting troops at the front is not all the result of entertainment provided by Hollywood and Broadway, Corp. David R. Moss proved recently when he produced and directed a show put on by soldier talent on the Italian front. Corp. Moss, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Herman Moss, 7452 Paxton av., worked on the production, "Somewhere in Italy," two months before it was presented. The show featured nine original tunes and included a one act play and several playlets. The corporal, who attended Wilson Junior college, entered the air force in June, 1943, and shipped overseas last spring. He is assistant editor of the 15th A. A. F. publication, "Bomb's Away."

U. OF C. COLLEGE ENROLLMENT IS DOUBLED IN YEAR

Students from 38 States Will Start Classes.

After a week of orientation 1,600 students in the University of Chicago college will start classes Tuesday on the Midway.

Eight hundred students, some only 13, are entering college for the first time. The south side will be represented by 153. The rolls include boys and girls from 38 states, the District of Columbia, Canada, South America, and Hawaii.

An experiment when it was inaugurated two years ago, the college is now one of the fastest growing schools in the nation. First and second year enrollment this year shows a 100 per cent increase over last year's total. Enrollment was limited because of lack of living facilities for out of town students, all of whom must live and eat in supervised dormitories.

319 Chicagoans Attend.

Sixty-four south siders who are among 319 Chicagoans attending are enrolled in the first year of the college. Nine are in their second year and 79 in the third. Under the plan students are considered ready for college after they have completed their sophomore year in high school and are granted bachelor degrees when they would be sophomores under the traditional college system.

Youngest south sider to enter the school is Virginia Darrow, 4575 Oakenwald av., 13, winner of a $1,200 scholarship. The only other 13 year old on the rolls is David D. Moore, 11112 Ashland av., also a scholarship winner.

Various reasons for attending the school were advanced by the youthful collegians. Sally Morris, 5438 Ridgewood ct., said she is entering the college "to obtain a general education which will afford a background for whatever field I choose."

Army Call Expected Soon.

Gerald Reaven, East Chicago, is entering the college so that he can advance his education as much as possible before he faces a draft call. Hannah Field, who was born in Vienna, Austria, said: "When this war is over I want to be one of the capable and educated people ready to clear away the wreckage of war and build a better new world."

While the unique educational plan is attracting students who have no previous acquaintance with the university, many are attending the school of their parents.

South siders attending the alma mater of both their father and mother include Dean Brodsky, 8022 Kenwood av.; Leslie Anne Lamphiean, 7139 Ridgeland av.; David Mohr, 1320 E. 56th st., and Eve Palmer, 1159 E. 56th st.

Fathers Attended U. of C.

The fathers of 10 south siders who are new on the Midway graduated from the university. They include Richard Daskais, 5440 Ridgewood ct.; Ruthann Johnson, 815 E. 58th st.; Sally Morris; James Pegues, 5541 University av.; Justin Replogle, 5624 Dorchester av.; Gail Sparks, 6741 Cregier av.; Jean Victor, 6858 Crandon av.; Florence Cohen, 5209 Blackstone av.; Alice French, Whiting, Ind., and Dian Gorgus, 6822 Constance av.

The mothers of the following south siders attended the university: Ronald Goldenson, 5719 Kenwood av.; Joan Glasser, 5490 South Shore dr.; Joan Krakover, 6733 Merrill av.; Maynard Louis, 7050 Merrill av.; Irene Lyons, 5640 Woodlawn av.; Charles Newbury, 6838 Euclid av.; Elmer Walsh, 7707 Bennett av.; Nancy Laing, 120 E. 78th st., and Sol Newman, 5519 University av.

South siders who are attending the college on scholarships, granted on the basis of aptitude tests, include: Arthur B. Brown, Whiting; Richard Daskais; Mary Constance Grinter, 1321 E. 56th st.; Ellen Bransky, 7638 Constance av.; Alice French; Zonabel Kingery, Gary; Shirley Moser, 7707 Phillips av.; Barbara Payne, 1435 E. 60th st., and Jean Simmons, 825 E. 50th st.

Tests Determine Standing.

Among the out of town students registered is Padraic Burns, who has just completed the 9th grade in Garrison, N. Y. This year the college abolished high school credits as the entrance basis and substituted placement tests to determine the academic standing of prospective students. Padraic's test results were high enough to qualify him for entrance. His sister, Persis, also is registered in the first year of the college. They are the children of Charles Burns, foreign news analyst.

While dormitories on the campus are primarily for out of town students, Chicagoans may reside there. While the university prescribes certain living rules in the homes, the students set up their own governing body. A full social calendar is arranged by the school.

Gloria Walter to Be Wed to Flyer

Mr. and Mrs. Byron H. Walter, 8511 Constance av., announce the engagement of their daughter, Gloria, to Lt. Robert L. Kleinke, son of Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Kleinke, 7951 Yates av. Lt. Kleinke, an army air force pilot, recently returned home on furlough after 14 months in England.

SOUTHEAST PTA COUNCIL TO HEAR ELECTION ISSUES

Dixon Group to Drive for Members.

In keeping with its theme for the year, "Preparation for More Effective Citizenship," the Southeast Council of Parents and Teachers will present a panel discussion on "Why Bother About Politics" at 1:30 p. m. Oct. 4. The meeting will be held in Shakespeare school, 1119 E. 46th st.

Mrs. Bradford Patton of the Cook County League of Women Voters will discuss the issues of the coming election and will tell where additional information may be obtained. Mrs. Emanuel Molner, legislative chairman of PTA district 1, will tell what part mothers can play in the election. Mrs. Wayne Leys, legislative chairman of the Southeast council, will be moderator. Mrs. Cecil M. Dawson, 4410 Ellis av., council president, will be in charge of the session.

Dixon—Under direction of Mrs. Wilbur Smith, the Dixon PTA membership drive will open Oct. 2 and continue thru Oct. 6. The group has announced a book review to be given by Florence Bourke Ellis at 8:15 p. m. Oct. 2 in the school assembly. Physical examinations of students will be held Wednesday morning in the school physician's office.

Kozminski—Members of the Kozminski PTA recently made a group contribution of blood at the Red Cross bank. Mrs. Sidney Altschul, chairman of the war committee, arranged the group donation.

O'Keefe—"Preparing Our Youth" is this year's theme of the PTA at O'Keefe school, 6940 Merrill av. Officers are Mrs. A. L. Reinstein, president; Mrs. William Reid, vice president; Mrs. Milton J. Isaacs and Mrs. Herbert M. Beck, secretaries, and Mrs. J. S. Robinson, treasurer.

FORTRESS PILOT CERTAIN HITLER WILL BE HANGED

Lt. Cornelius Engel, 23, of 9227 S. State st., who is home on leave after participating in 26 missions over France and Germany as pilot of the Flying Fortress Heavenly Body, predicted recently that the European war will end soon and that if Hitler doesn't stretch rope under the sponsorship of the allied nations, then his own people will see that he is executed.

Nazi flak experts staged plenty of aerial pyrotechnics during the Heavenly Body's seven trips over Berlin but were unable to inflict serious damage, said Lt. Engel. Bursts were often so dense and evenly laid that it looked as if Fortress crewmen could get out and walk on them, he asserted.

Lt. Engel, who wears the distinguished flying cross and air medal with three oak leaf clusters, expects to return to England when his leave ends. A Fenger High school graduate, he joined the air force June 30, 1942, and went overseas in February of this year.

Safety Patrol Boy

[Allison-Lighthall Photo.]

Joe Yuarez, new safety patrol captain at Kenwood school, 4959 Blackstone av., is welcomed to his post by Joseph J. Cavanagh, vice president of the Chicago Motor club, as the patrol resumed its work with the beginning of the fall school term.

LEADERS OF Y.W. MAP PROGRAMS AT GIRL CAMPS

Y. W. C. A. leaders from the South Park Way center, 4559 South Park way, are mapping a year's program for business, industrial, and high school girls this week-end at three conferences at camps in the Chicago vicinity.

Miss Thelma Watkins, 11253 S. Aberdeen st., is chairman of the conference of the league of Y. W. C. A. Industrial Girls being held at Forest Preserve lodge, near Glenview. Working with her are Mrs. Lillian Williams, 5217 Calumet av., and Miss Emma Spencer, 6117 Vernon av., who are leading discussions on the role of industrial girls in making a livable post-war world.

All three women are active leaders in industrial girl groups at the center. Mrs. Williams recently was elected central states chairman of the Area Council of Y. W. C. A. Industrial Girls.

Mrs. Anna M. Anderson, 6343 St. Lawrence av., and Miss Betty Payne, 2561 South Park way, presidents of two business girls clubs at the center, are at Sunset camp, near Bartlett, this week-end. The club presidents are in charge of recreation at the conference.

The third week-end meeting is being held at Camp Sagawau, near Lemont, for girl reserves. The South Park Way center is being represented by Joan Dorsey, 4217 S. Champlain av., and Willie Meta Whitfield, 6041 St. Lawrence av., as members of the planning committee. They also are on the program for reports of the girl reserves summer conference at Lake Geneva.

Kenwood Club.

The Kenwood Social Service club will meet at 2 p. m. tomorrow in the home of Mrs. Nelson Utley, 4833 Kimbark av.

TWO SOUTH SIDE CLUBS RESUME FALL MEETINGS

Two more south side woman's clubs will resume fall meetings after the first of next month. The Bryn Mawr Woman's club will begin its 52d year with an afternoon meeting Oct. 2 and the Woodlawn Woman's club will meet Oct. 3.

Board members of the Bryn Mawr club will meet at 2 p. m. tomorrow in the home of the president, Mrs. Ralph M. Parks, 6438 Dante av. A new board member expected to be present is Mrs. Deward B. Bisbee, 7255 Phillips av., who recently was appointed welfare chairman.

The opening meeting on Oct. 2 has been designated as President's day, with all former presidents as guests at a tea following the program in the clubhouse, 7000 Jeffery av. The music department will present a marimba and piano duet and Dr. Ray Freeman Jenney, pastor of Bryn Mawr Community church, will give the invocation.

Members of the Woodlawn Woman's club will celebrate opening day as well as Federation day when they meet Oct. 3 in the Southmoor hotel, 6648 Stony Island av. Mrs. Charles R. Foster, the club's new president, will preside, and Mrs. John K. Piety, program chairman, will present William Conroy, tenor, in a musical program. The meeting will close with a social hour in charge of Mrs. George W. Throckmorton.

Second District.

Results in a recent press and publicity scrap book contest for the 2d district have been announced by Mrs. Warren H. Lutton, 7624 Cornell av., district president.

In the club group with membership of more than 200, Arche received first place and South Side Catholic club won second. In clubs with membership averaging from 100 to 200 members, prizes were awarded Woodlawn Mothers' Round Table, first; Windsor Park, second, and Hyde Park Travel, third. In the class of 50 to 100 members, Chatham Fields, first; Ken-Rose, second, South Bryn Mawr, third, and Chesterfield, honorable mention.

Woodlawn Study club won first place among the smaller clubs with membership under 50 and also won first place in the state contest. Among the junior groups, Park Manor took first prize in the 50 to 100 membership group, and Bryn Mawr auxiliary received first place among the smaller clubs.

St. Thomas Guild to Hold Meeting at Tighe Hall

The opening meeting of the Tabernacle guild of St. Thomas the Apostle church, 5472 Kimbark av., will be held at Tighe hall, 5463 Woodlawn av., Wednesday night. The Rev. John J. Dussman, pastor of the Glenview parish, will speak on "Christian Culture." Mrs. E. E. Waful is president of the guild and Mrs. Harry Seeberger is chairman of the business and professional women's committee which is presenting the program.

To Wed Sailor

IRENE JEMIOLA.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Jemiola, 11336 Calumet av., have announced the engagement of their daughter, Irene, to Daniel M. Wall, son of Mr. and Mrs. William E. Wall, 9342 Rhodes av. The engaged couple were members of the same graduating class at Fenger High school. Mr. Wall is a signalman with the navy and is stationed at Mobile, Ala.

WABASH Y.M.C.A. OPENS WEEK OF EXTRA ACTIVITY

Today is Hi-Y day of the opening week program of the Wabash Avenue Y. M. C. A., 4763 Wabash av. A council meeting of the group will be attended by representatives of the Carver, Dunbar, and Phillips chapters with L. C. Burr in charge of the program.

Fall and winter activities started yesterday with a day of fun for boys. Formal opening week will continue thru next Sunday, William P. Harrison, chairman of the membership campaign, announced.

Tomorrow men's physical activities will include a volleyball game and swimming demonstration. Joe Ford will be in charge.

Miss E. R. Pulley is making arrangements for Tuesday's program which will include women and girls' open house from 4 to 9 p. m. William Hodge is assisting Ford in planning Wednesday night's activities which will include a basketball game and dance.

Thursday, senior members of the Wabash Y will be guests of the Century club at dinner. Maj. C. Udell Turpin is completing arrangements. The 1944 membership drive will open Friday at a Kickoff dinner at 6 p. m. Mr. Harrison will preside.

Saturday from 7 to 11 p. m. the girls' service organization will be host to soldiers and sailors. Marcia Wilson Ramsey will be in charge of the program which will include pingpong, bridge, swimming, and dancing. Refreshments will be served.

Capping the week will be an industrial mass meeting Sunday. Lucius Harper will speak and C. H. Talley and Richard Dyson will discuss "Better Conduct on the Job and Job Security." Employes of several companies have been invited.

STRESS FITNESS IN HYDE PARK Y PLAY PROGRAM

Emphasis will be placed on the physical fitness program for teen agers when the Hyde Park Y. M. C. A., 1400 E. 53d st., opens its fall and winter activities schedule tomorrow. The program will include activities for men and women, boys and girls, and hobby and recreational projects for younger children. Earl Thompson, chairman of the board of directors, said an increase in co-educational work with high school age boys and girls and young adults is also a major project.

Lyle G. Collet will be in charge of the physical education program for men and boys. Classes in weight lifting and gymnastics, wrestling, handball, volleyball, basketball, squash, badminton, and swimming are on the men's program.

Start New Program.

A new program of physical activities will be inaugurated for members of the boys' department, Collett said. Varying activities will be offered the youths according to their ages, including handicraft, hikes, movies, and friendship clubs. Clyde R. Seeley is director of the boys' program.

Informal educational and hobby events for men and women include Rifle and Pistol clubs, forums, and the providing of social and educational events for service men and discharged veterans.

Offer Swim Class.

Classes in swimming, badminton, dramatics, dancing, crafts, gymnastics, and basketball will be offered girls 7 to 16. A new part of the older girls' program will be the swimming club which will compete with similar Y groups. Mrs. Edwin Walker is chairman of the women and girls' committee.

Women's classes will include calisthenics, badminton, and swimming, with emphasis on the conditioning program. Classes for women will meet Tuesday and Friday mornings and Wednesday and Friday nights.

The Y's fall membership campaign will be launched next Sunday with a goal of 700 new and renewed memberships. William Griffin is chairman of the campaign committee and O. R. Deihl is campaign director.

Royal League Fellowship Will Hold Annual Meeting

The Royal League Fellowship association will hold its annual meeting Friday night in the Morrison hotel. Russell C. Wright, 1400 E. 65th st., is a director of the association.

S. Chicago Hospital Guild to Hear Address on Light

Carl W. Zersen, manager of the Chicago Lighting institute, will speak on "Artificial Light," at the opening fall meeting of the South Chicago Community Hospital guild, at noon Wednesday in the nurses' home, 9204 Phillips av. Dr. J. J. Lebowitz, president of the hospital board, will welcome the guests.

St. Felicita's Rosary Society to Give Party

The Altar and Rosary society of St. Felicitas parish will hold a party at 8 p. m. Thursday, Oct. 5, in the school auditorium, 83d pl. and Blackstone av. Proceeds will be used for the benefit of the parish. Mrs. George Chamberlin is president of the society.

DUNPHY, CORUM, SLATER TO AIR WORLD SERIES

W-G-N-Mutual to Carry Exclusive Reports.

BY LARRY WOLTERS.

When the world series is broadcast over W-G-N and Mutual, exclusively, starting at 1 p. m., Wednesday, Oct. 4, Don Dunphy, Bill Slater, and Bill Corum will be the reporters. Dunphy and Slater will give the play by play and Corum the color. Red Barber will not be heard this year. Bob Elson, who reported the series for so many years, is serving in the navy.

Professional football broadcasts will start over WIND at 1:55 p. m. today with a report of the Bears game at Green Bay. Bert Wilson will be the reporter. The entire Bears' schedule will be broadcast by WIND.

The Detroit Symphony orchestra will be heard over the Mutual system in a series of Saturday evening concerts this season. The concerts will be aired at 7:30 p. m. When the series gets under way each of the major networks will have an outstanding symphony orchestra on the air under sponsorship. CBS has the New York Philharmonic at 2 p. m. Sundays, NBC has its own orchestra, directed by Arturo Toscanini, at 4 p. m. Sundays, and the Blue network will have the Boston Symphony, returning Saturday, Oct. 7. The broadcast hour is 7 p. m.

The W-G-N Symphony orchestra broadcasts a concert from Orchestra hall over W-G-N at 8:30 p. m. Tuesdays.

Your America, half hour radio show saluting states and industries served by the Union Pacific railroad, with talks by governors of western states, will move from NBC to 115 Mutual stations on Sunday, Oct. 15. It will be heard at 3 p. m. Elden Westley is the narrator for a weekly war story and Leo Kopp the musical director.

Vic and Sade, one of radio's oldest day time serials, is signing off at the end of this week. In the 12 years it has been on the air Paul Rhymer has written it and Art Van Harvey and Bernardine Flynn played the title roles. Rusk, their son, was played for years by Billy Idelson until he joined the navy. Many listeners will regret its departure because it was slanted with comedy rather than the trials and tribulations of family life.

W-G-N plans to rebroadcast "The Story of Human Birth" on The Human Adventure at 8:30 tomorrow night. This is being done for the benefit of expectant fathers in the military service. The repeat broadcast has been arranged at the request of the Morale Service division, Army Service forces.

W-G-N Songstress

A new picture of Lois Wallner, singing star of the Northerners who started their 14th year of broadcasting last week. They are heard on W-G-N at 9:30 p. m. Wednesdays.

Greets Children

Bob Hope, as he arrived home from overseas, greets his children, Tony and Linda. Hope will broadcast from Chicago over W-G-N at 7:15 p. m. tomorrow and over WMAQ at 9 p. m. Tuesday.

MISSION CHIMES LEGEND THEME OF AIR THEATER

"The Chimes of San Sebastian," a musical-dramatic legend built around an ageless set of mission chimes, will be presented on The Chicago Theater of the Air, over W-G-N, WGNB and the Mutual network from 8 to 9 p. m. next Saturday. The broadcast will originate in W-G-N's main audience studio.

Col. Robert R. McCormick, editor and publisher of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE, will speak on the program.

Virginia Haskins, soprano, Bruce Foote, baritone, and Ruth Slater, contralto, will be the vocalists, and Robert Quick will be the violin soloist. Musical accompaniment will be provided by the W-G-N Symphony orchestra and chorus conducted by Henry Weber.

Philharmonic to Offer All-Request Program

An all-request program, consisting of works chosen by members of the radio audience, will be offered by the New York Philharmonic orchestra on WBBM-CBS at 2 p. m. today. Vladimir Golschmann will conduct the overture to Wagner's "The Mastersingers of Nuremberg," the "Prelude" and "Love-Death" from Wagner's "Tristan and Isolde," and Brahms' First Symphony in C minor.

Mona Paulee Is Guest on Kostelanetz Program

Mona Paulee, Metropolitan opera mezzo-soprano, will be a guest on the Andre Kostelanetz program over WBBM-CBS at 3:30 p. m. today. She will feature Velasquez's "Besame Mucho." The chorus will join her in Herbert's "Romany Life." Kostelanetz will direct the orchestra in Arlen's "Stormy Weather," Arensky's "Waltz," Grever's "What a Difference a Day Makes," and Rodgers' "Dear Friend."

ON SHORT WAVES

LONDON.

The frequencies [in megacycles] employed after 4:15 p. m. are: 11.93, 9.58, 9.82, 6.11, 7.26, 9.51. 4:45 p. m.—News; 5:00 p. m.—London Philharmonic; 6:30 p. m.—Radio Newsreel; 8:15 p. m.—Sunday Service; 9:10 p. m.—Tomorrow's London Papers; 11:30 p. m.—News.

PARENTS BACK CLUBS FOR BOYS, GIRLS ON S. SIDE

With parents' approval a group of Gra-Y clubs for boys and girls between 8 and 12 years old will be formed this fall at the Grand Crossing-Chatham Y. M. C. A., 7938 Cottage Grove av., Phil H. Mayer, executive secretary, has announced.

Provision for after school and week-end activities of character building value is the purpose of the clubs, Mayer said.

Clubs to Meet Weekly.

Under the approved plan the clubs will meet weekly in the homes of members. Ten or more children in immediate neighborhoods will form each unit which will have a program service under the supervision of an adult volunteer leader and the club supervisor of the Y staff.

Separate activities, including inter-club trips, games, and handicraft programs, will be offered each unit. A charter night program has been scheduled for Nov. 17, when, it is hoped, all clubs will be organized.

Parents who met with the Y staff to formulate and approve plans for the project include Mrs. E. D. Stelzer, 501 E. 88th pl.; Mrs. Leonard Plutz, 358 E. 77th st.; Mrs. H. V. Ross, 323 E. 77th st.; Mrs. John F. McLeod, 8152 Vernon av., and Mrs. H. B. Benston, 8216 Evans av.

May Form 8 or 9 Groups.

Others are Mrs. Charles Moench, 8641 Drexel av.; Mrs. D. F. Teeters, 8220 Ingleside av.; Mrs. C. H. Lemmon, 8036 Evans av.; Mrs. Sam Laxerwith, 8006 Langley av.; John Alexander, 8020 Eberhart av.; Mrs. Paul Whitlock, 7112 Cottage Grove av.; Charles N. Niblock, 8541 Drexel av., and H. Curtis Snyder, 8131 Evans av.

Present indications are that at least eight or nine groups will be formed. Others may be added to the total if leaders volunteer.

Stanley Johnston to Be Heard as W-G-N Guest

Stanley Johnston, foreign correspondent of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE, will talk on Mexico on the Distinguished Guest hour over W-G-N at 1:30 p. m. today. Mr. Johnston recently returned from Mexico where he gathered material for a series of stories for THE TRIBUNE.

STATE AGENTS NAMED TO HELP WEST SIDE VETS

Dr. Krump Praises Governor's Plan.

High tribute to the leadership of Gov. Green in starting a comprehensive program on veterans' rehabilitation and employment was paid recently by Dr. Edmund J. Krump, 3810 Euclid av., Berwyn. Dr. Krump, representing his section of Cook county on the governor's committee, attended the two day school for service officers held in Springfield.

"It seemed to me," said Dr. Krump, "that Gov. Green had overlooked nothing in setting up a program to 'help every individual Illinois veteran to help himself' thru provisions of state and federal aid."

The advisers to be paid by the state will include 11 in Cook county and one in each of the other 101 counties in the state. Other advisers appointed for the west Chicago area are Matthew P. Peyton, 255 Augusta street, Oak Park; Alvin Mozin, 7 S. Pulaski rd., and Seymour Waterfall for Du Page county.

Hopes to Be Ready by Oct. 1.

Dr. Krump, an optometrist, is a member of Berwyn post of the American Legion, and during the last 20 years has held every office in that organization. Also he is chairman of Berwyn selective service board No. 2.

Dr. Krump said headquarters for the Berwyn district would be set up in the rooms of board No. 2 of the Selective service, 3135 Oak Park av., Berwyn. He said he hoped the headquarters would be ready to function permanently in a week. There are more than 4,000 service men and women from Berwyn.

"After listening to Gov. Green," said Dr. Krump, "we realized how completely he had gone over every phase of the important assignment he had given us. Remembering conditions after the service men returned from the last war, there is no intention to have a repetition of the conditions of 1919 and 1920. He said:

Governor Pledges Full Aid.

"'Think of human reconversion in terms of helping every individual Illinois veteran to help himself. Never for a moment forget that these fighting men and women do not want, and will not accept, sympathy, charity, coddling, or special favors. What they do want, what they have a right to expect, and what I pledge they are going to receive in Illinois, is understanding of their individual problems and help in solving them.'

"It will be our duty," added Dr. Krump, "to know to which of the resources at hand — the veterans' benefits and services—each veteran is entitled and to how much of them he is entitled. We must prepare ourselves to know the book, chapter and verse in which to find the answer, and find it immediately, if we do not already know it. I am sure that I share the feeling of other advisers in appreciating the honor that has come to us and the importance of our task."

To Survey Du Page Facilities.

Seymour Waterfall, 22 N. Adams st., Westmont, appointed adviser for Du Page county, has been supervisor for Downers Grove township since 1943 and for 20 years has been service officer for Westmont post of the American Legion.

Mr. Waterfall said that temporary headquarters for the county would be set up at 126 W. Burlington st., Westmont, and that a survey would be made and reported to Springfield of the county's present facilities in a program to help the returning veteran. Later, he said, permanent headquarters would probably be established with a full-time service officer in charge.

5 Isabella Units to Hold Joint Initiation Today

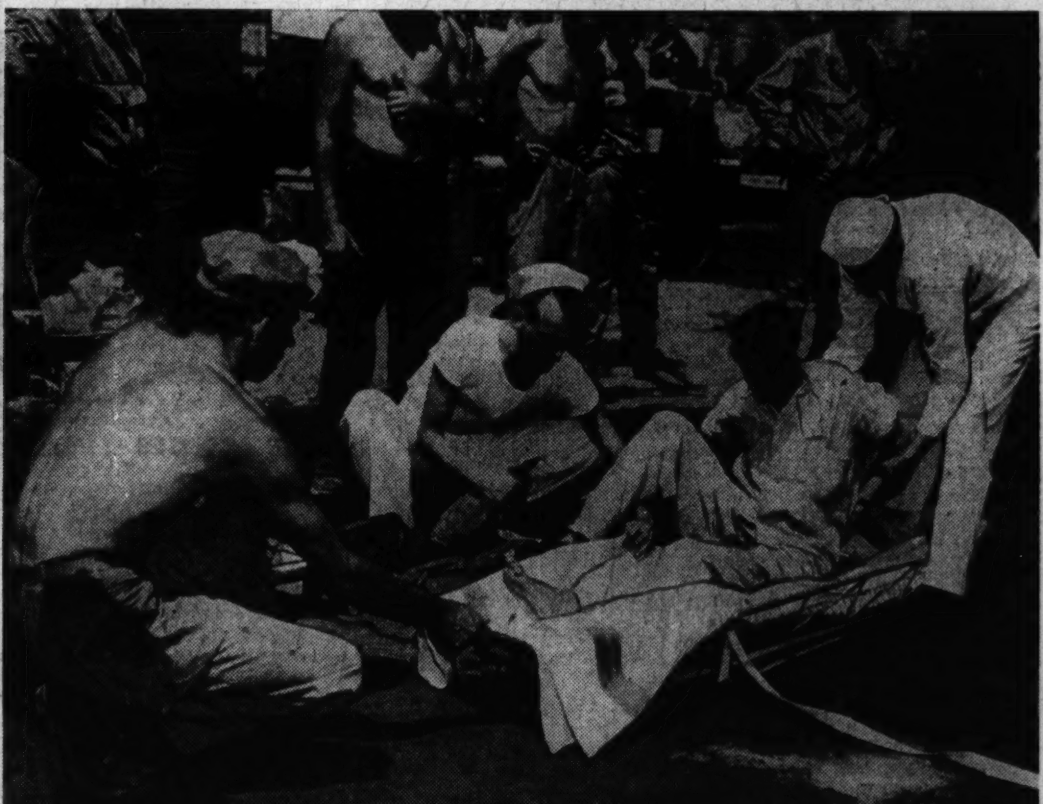
West Side Coast Guardsmen Help Oust Japs from Islands on the Road to Tokyo

Members of the Coast Guard from Chicago's west side were among fighting men encountered by a photographer in the Southwest Pacific. On an invasion transport, three men from the same neighborhood were enjoying a reunion. Left to right are Coast Guardsman Sam Pizsette, fireman 1st class, 3911 Arthington st., a veteran of the invasions of Makin, Kwajalein, Eniwetok, and Saipan; Pvt. Steve Armato, 3927 Arthington st., and Coast Guardsman Abraham Rosenzweig, coxswain, 3846 Congress st., a veteran of the Kwajalein and Eniwetok invasions. [U. S. Coast Guard Photos.]

Coast Guardsman Carmen Gianto, seaman 1st class, 3339 Congress st., aboard the invasion transport on which he participated in the assault landing at Saipan.

Serving aboard an LST, Coast Guardsman Max Oppenheim, motor machinist's mate 2d class, 3659 Lexington st., participated in 11 Southwest Pacific invasions, winning a commendation from Adm. Halsey.



Fred R. Descher, right, pharmacist's mate 1st class, 431 Delbourne rd., Riverside, helps place an army casualty on a litter as he is transferred from a far Pacific sea front to a hospitalization center.

CALL OF RAILS LURES ORGANIST FROM KEYBOARD

Quits Pulling Stops to Pull Pins.

Making a war time shift from organist to railroad brakeman has demanded more than the usual job adjustment for Harry Clement of 4415 St. Charles rd., Bellwood. Until three years ago Mr. Clement, 40, had followed the career of a professional musician. Since the attack on Pearl Harbor he has been a brakeman for the Chicago and North Western railroad.

Harry Clement.

"Pulling pins is decidedly different than fingering the keys of an organ," admitted Mr. Clement, "but I figured they needed brakemen more than they did musicians."

Co-Workers Skeptical.

Not all of Mr. Clement's fellow employes know that before becoming a brakeman he played organs in churches, theaters, and radio stations thruout the country. Most of those who are told of his musical career receive the assertion with dubiousness.

"I know," the brakeman-musician said, "most railroad men have railroading bred in the bone. They belong to railroad families. They grow up in it. I came of a family of musicians and my grandfather was a band leader. Until three years ago I never thought of being a railroad man."

Wife Also Musician.

Clement has a master's and a bachelor's degree from the Chicago Music college. He married in 1934 and has three children, Dorothy, 8; Harriet, 7, and George, 6. When the family moved to Bellwood three years ago Mr. Clement was filling engagements as an organist and pianist and giving private lessons. Mrs. Clement, also a musician, continues to teach.

"When I leave home I'm a brakeman," said Clement. "When I get home again I'm back to music."

The Clements keep their home piano busy and whenever possible Mr. Clements accepts opportunities to play a church organ. Recently he was guest organist at Holy Communion church, Maywood. As a youth he played the organ in a church at Coldwater, Mich.

Clement's railroad runs have taken him to Clinton and Rockford, Ill. Recently he has been working in the Proviso switch yards.

18 ON WEST SIDE FINISH GRADUATE WORK AT LOYOLA

DOWNERS GROVE PREPARES TO AID RETURNING VETS

Will Help Yanks Get Jobs, Education.

With "Let's Be Ready" for a slogan, the Downers Grove Service council has been organized to offer community assistance to G. I. Joes and Janes and acquaint them with the unusual benefits made available under recently passed federal and state legislation.

To assist the committee in forming plans for the aid of returned service men and women to civilian life, a confidential memo has been sent them with the request that it be completed and mailed back.

Typical Memo Questions.

Service men and women are asked their age and whether or not they are married, and if they have attended school in ASTP or V-12 units. They are asked what vocational or educational training they would be interested in at government expense. The type of former occupation and the name of a former employer are requested.

Other questions include "Do you intend to return to your former job?" "If not, what other work do you wish to take up?" and "Are your dependents in need of assistance of any kind?" With each memo there has been enclosed a condensed copy of the so-called G. I. bill of rights.

Aid Council Plans.

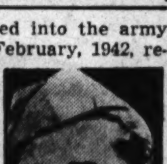
The council has a membership campaign under way to be completed on or before Saturday. Committee members seeking volunteers to assist in the canvass for membership are Ray E. Wachter, for the business section; Laurence G. Wiggins, northeast section; F. W. Wandschneider, northwest section; Harold E. Day, southeast section, and Arthur V. Royds, southwest section.

Officers of the service council are Dr. George W. Rochte, chairman; Maj. E. W. Harkness, co-chairman; Mrs. Arthur Iehl, corresponding secretary; Mrs. Martin W. Jones, recording secretary, and Robert C. Brogmus, treasurer.

Committee chairmen are George De Wolf, educational; Gilbert C. Mochel, employment; Roy W. Cooper, agriculture employment; the Rev. Hamilton Sinclair, welfare; Mrs. J. B. Fitzgerald, public relations; Mrs. E. W. Harkness, service women; Eugene Weaver, service officers; Joseph M. Reavis, civil service; and C. B. Absher, finance.

LOOEY, SARGE GREET WARMLY; SURPRISE! THEY ARE BROTHERS

Brothers inducted into the army the same day in February, 1942, recently met in Rome, Italy, for the first time since they donned G. I. clothing. In a letter to their parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Hecko, 2855 S. Hamlin av., the boys described the meeting as "very exciting." Altho one has become a first lieutenant and the other a technical sergeant, their greeting lacked no warmth. The brothers are Lt. George J., 31, of the glider infantry and Sgt. Joseph, 29, of the army air corps.



Joseph Hecko.

George J. Hecko.

Sgt. Joe, a graduate of Harrison Technical High school, has been overseas two years. He formerly was employed as a shipping clerk.

Lt. George was graduated from Harrison Technical High school and Indiana State university. He was formerly a member of the Indiana state police and is the husband of Mrs. Dode Hecko, who with their five children resides in Greencastle, Ind. Lt. Hecko has been overseas three months.

OAK PARK G. O. P. WOMEN TO HEAR FROM MRS. BAUR

The Woman's National Republican club of Oak Park will hold a G. O. P. victory party Friday afternoon at 1 o'clock in the Oak Park Arms hotel to launch the new season. Mrs. Charles Thannhausen, ways and means chairman, is in charge of arrangements.

Assisting Mrs. Thannhausen will be Mrs. F. M. Raymond, Mrs. John C. Schlotz, Mrs. Charles Bradfield, Mrs. James Flanagan, Mrs. J. W. Gehrig, and Mrs. Frank Hubbard.

Mrs. John K. Russell, program chairman, will introduce the guest speaker, Mrs. Bertha Baur, Republican national committeewoman of Illinois. Mrs. Bauer's topic will be "What the Republicans Can Do and Will Do for You."

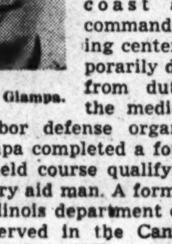
★ With AMERICA'S FIGHTERS ★

Leon H. Specktor, son of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Specktor, 1436 S. Trumbull av., recently was promoted to technician 5th grade at a 20th bomber command base in India. A radio specialist, Specktor has been stationed in the China-Burma-India theater for six months. Prior to joining the army in June, 1943, Specktor was employed as a foreman for a plastic company. He holds the army's good conduct medal. He is a graduate of Crane Technical High school.

Leon H. Specktor.

Sgt. John M. Choate, son of Mr. and Mrs. Earle Choate, Melrose Park, has been awarded the distinguished flying cross for participation in aerial combat. A gunner on a B-24 Liberator bomber, Sgt. Choate has made 32 bombing missions since his arrival overseas last May. He also wears the air medal with three oak leaf clusters.

Pvt. Louis A. Giampa, son of Mr. and Mrs. Anthony Giampa, 1125 S. Racine av., and husband of Mrs. Jennie Giampa, 1016 S. Morgan st., has been graduated from the enlisted division of the Panama Canal Zone coast artillery command training center. Temporarily detached from duty with the medical unit of a harbor defense organization, Pvt. Giampa completed a four week medical field course qualifying him as a battery aid man. A former clerk for the Illinois department of labor, he has served in the Canal Zone since December, 1943.



Pvt. Louis Giampa.

William A. Fuchs, son of Mrs. Michael Fuchs, Aurora, is a corporal at an army air force service command depot in Italy. Prior to joining the army in July, 1942, Fuchs was employed as a packing case maker. Overseas since January, 1943, he was in North Africa thruout the Tunisian and Sicilian campaigns and moved into Italy shortly after the invasion last fall. He wears the European-African-Middle East service ribbon with one battle star and the army's good conduct medal.

Corp. W. A. Fuchs.

The distinguished flying cross has been awarded to Lt. Milan Marecek, 24, pilot of an 8th air force B-17 Flying Fortress, for extraordinary achievement while participating in bombing raids and in air operations in support of ground troops in France. The son of Mr. and Mrs. John Marecek, 1811 S. Troy st., and husband of Mrs. Adeline Marecek, 2511 S. Keeler av., he also wears the air medal with three oak leaf clusters. He also has been awarded an oak leaf cluster to the distinguished flying cross.

CONGRESS RACE OFF TO A HARD FIGHTING START

5 Districts Hinge on Real Work.

BY WILLIAM SHINNICK.

With both Democrats and Republicans realizing that the composition of the next congress is hardly less important than the choice for President, a hard fight is already on for congressional seats in five of the 11 Illinois districts which take in Chicago and the suburban area.

Trained political observers believe the issue in these districts—the 1st, 2d, 3d, 7th, and 9th—is uncertain and may remain so until the votes are counted on Nov. 7. They say that there is unquestionably a swing Republicanwards in Chicago and the whole state, but that this might be thwarted by overconfidence or a lack of effort on the part of the G. O. P. organization.

A Question of Work.

Reports indicate that the regular Democratic machine and the CIO political action committee are now making titanic efforts to corral voters and may be depended upon to turn out all the New Deal nad fourth term vote. A matching of this energy, in the opinion of G. O. P. leaders, will be enough to swing all five of the doubtful districts [two are now Republican] into the victory column.

The charge of indolence cannot be laid against the Republican nominees in the battlefield districts. All are holding meetings, personally soliciting votes and sending out literature defining and clarifying the issues. And they are all confident of election.

In the 1st district, taking in the loop and territory to the south, predominantly inhabited by Negroes, the incumbent Democrat is William L. Dawson, the only member of his race in congress. He is opposed by William E. King, political veteran and member of the state industrial commission.

Poll Is Encouraging.

"We are holding four or five meetings a night," King said. "I believe the tide has definitely turned our way. A poll taken recently at 35th and State streets showed Dewey leading Roosevelt 2 to 1. This sounds incredible, but our people are angry that Negro troops have been denied equal opportunities in the armed services because the commander in chief plays the game of reactionary southern senators."

The 1st has gone Democratic in the last three elections, but each time by less than 4,000 votes.

Downs Busy in Second.

In the big 2d district, which includes the South Chicago industrial area, William A. Rowan, a Kelly organization Democrat, is the incumbent. He is opposed by Thomas J. Downs, attorney who failed of election in 1942 by only 3,517 votes out of more than 216,000 cast. Downs is campaigning actively, attacking the "indispensable man" theory, the ill turns done labor by the administration, and its unfriendly attitude toward small business.

The Negro vote in the 2d is large and Downs expects to get the bulk of it. One of his opponents in the primary was Edgar G. Brown, who polled more than 10,000 votes. Brown has peldged his support and aid to Downs.

PAC Fighting Busbey.

In the 3d district the Republican incumbent, Fred E. Busbey, is opposed by Edward A. Kelly, organization Democrat who was elected to congress in 1940 and was the defeated candidate in 1942. Busbey, a member of the Dies committee, is an object of the attack of the communists and the PAC. He has said that he has no fear of the labor vote, even in the rank and file of CIO.

"I am labor's friend and labor knows it," he asserted. "It is only the PAC and the communist leadership in the union that is out against me."

Busbey's margin over Kelly two years ago was 5,981 votes.

Garland Keeps Active.

Charles H. Garland, mayor of Des Plaines and former radio executive, is the G. O. P. nominee in the huge 7th district, the largest in the United States—population about a million. Opposing him is William W. Link, Polish-American leader, member of the county civil service commission and a thorogoing orthodox Democratic organization follower.

Garland has been working on his campaign ever since the primary, in which he was a handy winner over three opponents. He is making his race on his record as a business man, an opponent of the New Deal, and a successful municipal executive. He is a veteran of World War I. and has two sons who are in the army air forces.

The 7th has not been represented in congress since the death of Leonard W. Schuetz, Democrat, who was elected in 1942 by a margin of only 1,975 out of 357,000 votes cast. The district covers much of the northwest side and a large suburban and rural area, and getting out the vote is a big task for both parties.

CIO Battling Dewey.

In the 9th district, north of the loop, the Republican incumbent, Charles S. Dewey, is running for reelection on a record of sturdy opposition to New Dealism and as an advocate of sound government finances. He formerly was financial adviser to the Polish government. His steady devotion to Republican principles has made him a special target of the CIO-PAC-Communist axis.

Opposing Congressman Dewey is

MAYWOOD YOUTH AGAIN WILL TRIP LIGHT FANTASTIC

Dim Lights to Hide Their Faux Pas, Blushes.

Dances, discontinued during the summer, will be resumed Saturday night in the gymnasium of Emerson school, Maywood, under the sponsorship of the Maywood Recreation board. Profiting from the experience of two previous seasons, the Saturday night dances are planned to meet, as far as is practicable, the wishes of high school students.

Questionnaires sent out in April brought answers revealing that teen-agers prefer the Saturday night dances to any other form of recreation. The school building was not used during the summer because it was undergoing renovation.

Tennis Not Too Popular.

Tennis clubs and swim parties received but a limited number of votes from the teensters. Outdoor dancing was desired, but no facilities were found. A hayride party received a goodly number of votes, but only a dozen boys and girls showed up for the event.

The boys and girls have made it plain that they appreciate the Saturday night dances to the accompaniment of a juke box, altho music by a band is sought for special occasions.

Demand Dim Lights.

The young generation also has made it clear that dim lights rather than a fully illuminated gymnasium is the more suitable. Some of the boys and girls say they are not too sure of their steps and that they feel less conscious of their mistakes with the lesser lighting.

Informal dress has been decided upon without any suggestions from supervisors. For a time, some of the girls dressed up for the dances, but finally agreed that they had more fun in collegiate rather than fancy clothes. As for "mixers" to introduce the boys and girls to each other, both say "no." Last year there were more boys than girls at the dances.

Every One Welcome.

Meeting the wishes of the boys and girls, the Maywood recreation board, of which John S. Ludlam is director, has decided to stress the weekly dances and the athletic activities of basketball and volleyball. Miss Florence Rotermund, assistant director, said the policy of inviting all Proviso High school students to the dances, whether or not they are Maywood residents, will continue.

High school boys interested in entering a team in the high school basketball league are advised that entries will be accepted for early season practice, beginning the week of Nov. 1. The recreation board again will sponsor a touch football league for grade school boys which will open Saturday morning.

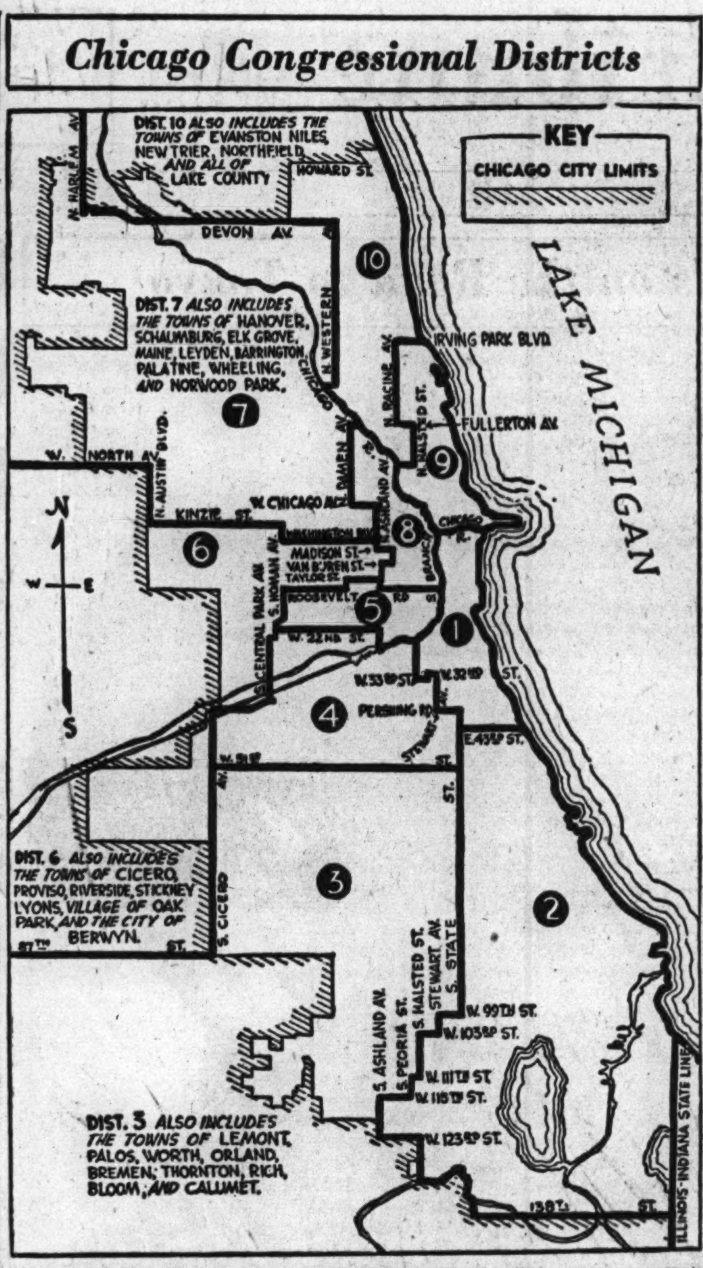
He was graduated from the engineering school of Notre Dame university and received his commission at Yale university, New Haven, Conn.

Chicago Congressional Districts



The map defines congressional districts in the Chicago area. The 11th district consists of Will, Du Page, Kane, and McHenry counties.

CONGRESS RACE OFF TO A HARD FIGHTING START

5 Districts Hinge on Real Work.

Alexander Resa, assistant corporation counsel and the choice of the city hall organization. Dewey, who has been elected three times by margains of 2,000 to 6,000 votes, is campaigning actively.

Business Men Active.

The five districts with close contests have been chosen as a field of action by the business men's committee formed to assist the Republican cause. More than 1,500 volunteer workers have been signed up, according to Frank J. Durham,, insurance executive who heads this group. He added that there is a need for hundreds more. The office of the committee is at 53 W. Jackson boulevard—telephone Harrison 6515.

"We are not duplicating the work of the party organization," said Durham. "We are working with it."

Observers see little chance for any change in the other six districts in the Chicago and suburban area. In the 4th, on the southwest side, Leo J. Kozicki, Republican, is running against Martin Gorski, incumbent. The normal Democratic vote here is nearly 3 to 1.

In the 5th, with a population of only 112,000, Adolph J. Sabath seems to be safe again. Max Price is the G. O. P. nominee. In the 6th, where the Republican vote will be split between the nominee, Charles J. Anderson Jr., and an independent, Ivar Henderson, it appears that Thomas J. O'Brien, incumbent Democrat, will be able to coast in. The last election gave O'Brien a 38,000 plurality.

See Victory for Church.

The 8th, a pocket borough, usually is 3 to 1 Democratic. The incumbent is Thomas S. Gordon. His opponent is John F. Uczciwek, real estate and insurance broker, who is making a real effort and may cut deeply into the usual Democratic vote.

In the 10th, Ralph E. Church is expected to win. His plurality two years ago exceeded 62,000. His opponent is Curtis D. MacDougall, Northwestern university professor and a New Deal Democrat, who is making an energetic campaign. The district covers the north shore, part of Chicago, and all of Lake county.

In the 11th, composed of McHenry, Kane, Du Page, and Will counties, Chauncey W. Reed, incumbent, is regarded as a sure winner. The district went 57,000 Republican in 1942. Otto Joseph Hruby Jr. is the Democratic nominee.

DU PAGE RABBIT CLUB WILL OPEN SHOW ON FRIDAY

Members of the Du Page Rabbit club will hold their first official show, starting Friday and continuing for three days at the V. F. W. hall on Geneva rd., Wheaton. Howard Keiser of Rockford, Ill., will place the awards according to type, fur, and meat qualities.

The Du Page Rabbit club was organized in March, 1944, with 12 charter members. Today the club has 26 members residing in Wheaton and nearby suburbs. Homer Shimp is acting president of the club. Mrs. Charles May is secretary.

On Sunday the program will include spinning of Angora wool by Mrs. Edwina Page of Naperville. Mrs. Page spins the wool from her own rabbits and then knits it into attractive garments for herself and her children.

The Milcor Louvre Vent Cools Homes In Hot Weather

Severe attic heat resulting from the sun shining on the roof is amazingly relieved by the use of the Milcor Stationary Louvre Ventilator. Consequently, the living and bedrooms of the home are made more comfortable. This greater interior comfort during hot summer months can be had at relatively small cost. CHURCH OF OAK PARK TO HOLD LOYALTY SERVICE

Loyalty and homecoming Sunday will be observed today by the First Congregational church of Oak Park. Members from out of town are expected to return for the morning service at 11 o'clock when Dr. Albert Buckner Coe will preach on "The Task of the Church in This Country and the World." The choir will sing under direction of Mrs. Else Harthan Arendt, with Miss Adrienne Moran at the organ.

The church was founded 81 years ago, and for 10 years services were held in Temperance hall at Lake st. and Forest av. In 1873, a stone church was erected at Lake st. and Kenilworth av. The building was struck by lightning and burned in 1916.

The church staff has two new members. Mrs. Philip C. Landers is the director of religious education, succeeding Mrs. L. G. Selby, who resigned to accept a similar position in the First Presbyterian church of Springfield, Ill. Miss Jane Bolms has been made secretary of the department of religious education.

GARLAND SEES YOUTH AS HOPE OF U. S. FUTURE

"America's future strength is bound up with the development of her young people,' says Charles H. Garland, mayor of Des Plaines and Republican nominee for congress in the 7th district. Because of this belief he has made the promotion of youth welfare one of his chief activities. He is the founder and organizer of the Garland Youth club, which meets each week in Des Plaines. Members of the club learn boxing and other sports under expert tutelage.

Other activities which he has inaugurated for boys and girls include a young people's forum, set up to teach them civic responsibility and to demonstrate in a practical way the workings of government. For five years he has been chairman of a Boy Scout court of honor.

Has Two Sons in Air Forces.

Mr. Garland has two sons, both of whom are in the army air forces. Bob, the older, is a pursuit pilot on a Thunderbolt plane. He is stationed at Winfield, Kas., awaiting his overseas orders. A student at the University of Illinois when he enlisted in March, 1943, Bob was commissioned a lieutenant last May.

Dick, the younger of the two boys, was sworn into the air forces on June 21. Until he begins active training soon, he will continue his freshman studies at the University of Illinois.

Both Bob and Dick are continuing a military tradition that was established in colonial times. Of Scotch-Irish descent, the Garlands have been in this country for seven generations, and Mr. Garland is a direct descendant of Capt. Edward Garland, who fought in the Revolutionary war.

Fought in World War I.

Mr. Garland himself is a veteran of the first World war. Like his sons, he interrupted his college studies to enter service. Entering the army as a private in June, 1916, he served for 30 months and was demobilized as a second lieutenant in December, 1918.

Returning to civilian life, he resumed his legal studies at De Paul university. Interested in radio as well as in law, he broke into the industry while it was still in the experimental stage.

In 1925 he became program director for a Chicago studio, and later executive for a national network. Mr. Garland is vice president of the Illinois Municipal league, a state-wide association of city officials, and the American Legion, for which he served as Americanism chairman of the 9th district for three years. He has been chief of the 10th division of the office of civilian defense.

St. Rita Mothers.

A reception for the freshman mothers of St. Rita High school will be held at the school clubroom, 63d st. and Oakley av., by the Mothers' club tomorrow evening.

Couple Renews Marriage Vows of 50 Years Ago

With the bridesmaids and best man who stood beside them 50 years ago again in attendance, Mr. and Mrs. Herman Schmidt, 170 Milton av., Elmhurst, recently celebrated their golden wedding.

Vows were renewed at Churchville church near Bensenville with the Rev. Fritz Chartron officiating. Members of the congregation were guests at a dinner in the church. During the afternoon and evening open house was held in the Elmhurst home. Many gifts and greetings were received by the couple.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Schmidt were born in the west suburban area, Mr. Schmidt at Bensenville and his wife at Bloomingdale. They moved to Elmhurst from a farm 33 years ago. Mr. Schmidt was Elmhurst's first motorcycle policeman. He still is active as a watchman at Mount Emblem cemetery.

All descendants of the couple were at the golden wedding. Daughters are Mrs. Lucy Popp, 305 Addison st., Elmhurst, and Mrs. Philip Brown, 115 Myrtle av., Elmhurst. A son, Elmer, resides in Bensenville. There are three grandchildren and two great-grandchildren.

Bridesmaids and best man of the wedding of 50 years ago who attended the golden wedding were Mrs. Bertha Randecker, Stoughton, Wis.; Mrs. Louise Going, Elmhurst; Henry Franzen, Bensenville, and Michael Bender, Bloomingdale.

WEST SUBURBAN TEACHERS' UNION PLANS 6 FORUMS

Lectures to Be Given at Two Schools.

Following its tradition of bringing authoritative speakers to the west suburbs, the West Suburban Teachers union has planned six forum meetings which will start Oct. 3.

The forum lectures are made possible thru the coöperation of the boards of education of Proviso and Morton High schools in making available their school auditoriums as meeting places. Dates of the lectures, the speakers and their topics, and the places of meeting were announced recently.

Dr. Sachar to Speak.

Dr. Abram Leon Sachar will talk on "Blueprints for Tomorrow" on Oct. 3 in Morton High school auditorium. Dr. Sachar, historian and biographer, was educated at Washington, Harvard, and Cambridge universities. For a number of years he was on the faculty of the University of Illinois. He has traveled extensively in Europe and the middle east.

On Oct. 7 Julien Bryan will discuss "Peru" in Morton auditorium. Mr. Bryan, a maker of documentary films, recently returned from a six month visit to South America. Town Hall of New York presented him, in one year alone, for two series of seven lectures each.

Anthropologist on Program.

Dr. Allison Davis will lecture on "Race and Class in America" Nov. 1 in Proviso High school auditorium. Social anthropologist of the University of Chicago, Dr. Davis was educated at Williams college, Harvard; the University of Chicago, and the London School of Economics. He was appointed by the University of Chicago to make a study of inter-racial and intercultural problems in American education.

David Nichol will speak on "Russia As I See it" on Nov. 12 in Proviso auditorium. Mr. Nichol, a war correspondent, was stationed in Berlin in 1940 and 1941. After a stay in Geneva and in Washington he was sent to Russia, where he has remained since that time.

Dr. J. Raymond Walsh will have as his topic "Post-war Labor and Management Relations" at the Dec. 5 forum in Morton auditorium. For seven years Mr. Walsh was a member of the faculty at Harvard, and is now in the department of economics at Williams college.

The sixth speaker will be Dr. Franz Polgar, who will lecture on "The Miracles of the Mind" Jan. 9 in Proviso auditorium. Dr. Polgar, formerly of Budapest, presents a series of experiments which demonstrate qualities of the human mind.

Captain's Fiancee

CLARISSA POPE.
[Nelidoff Photo.]

Mr. and Mrs. Nicholas A. Pope, 3422 Monroe st., have announced the engagement of their daughter, Clarissa, to Capt. James W. Mancuso. Miss Pope is a graduate of the Goodman Memorial theater and has appeared in several stage productions. Capt. Mancuso, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin Mancuso of Batavia, N. Y., is stationed in England with the army air forces.

Historical Association Will Honor Crawfords

The Lawndale-Crawford Historical association Thursday night will celebrate the 100th anniversary of the coming to Chicago of the Peter Crawford family. The meeting, starting at 7:30 o'clock, will be held in the John Toman branch library, 4005 W. 27th st.

LA GRANGE CLUB PLANS SEASON'S ENTERTAINMENT

Lucille Manners, well known for her concert and radio work, will be featured in the musical program which on Oct. 22 will open the 18th season of the La Grange Legion Sunday Evening club.

Seven other programs are announced by Marshall L. Mathews, who continues as president of the club which is sponsored as a community service by the La Grange post of the American Legion. Other officers of the club are E. J. Farrell, F. W. Gale, and H. D. Livezey, vice presidents; W. C. Holmann, secretary, and Floyd Smart, treasurer.

Holmes to Speak.

Burton Holmes, veteran travel lecturer, will return to the club Nov. 12. Holmes has pleased the club's audiences in the past. On Nov. 26 the speaker will be Daniel Poling, chief chaplain in the army reserve and editor of the Christian Herald. His topic will be, "With Our Boys Over There."

Anauta, said to be the only Eskimo woman on the American lecture platform, will be the speaker Dec. 17. Another repeat performance will be the Don Cossack chorus under the direction of Serge Jaroff on Jan. 14.

Henry Scott, pianist, will present the musical program for Jan. 28. Capt. James C. Whittaker, co-pilot with Eddie Rickenbacker, will speak Feb. 11 on "We Thought We Heard the Angels Sing," which is also the title of a book describing the adventure of himself and Rickenbacker in the Pacific.

Naturalist Closes Season.

Alfred M. Bailey, naturalist and director of the Colorado Museum of Natural History, will conclude the series Feb. 25. Bailey, former resident of La Grange, will present an illustrated lecture on "The High Country of the Rocky Mountains." Bailey has appeared with the club on two previous occasions.

Thru the years the La Grange Sunday Evening club has planned programs that have found appeal not only with residents of the suburb, but with those of neighboring communities. Much thought has gone into the selection of talent and there has been skilled showmanship in the presentation of the wide variety of programs given in the Lyons Township High school auditorium, La Grange.

Hinsdale High Pupils to Assist in Library

Miss Catherine Whitehorn, librarian at Hinsdale High school, is planning a Library Service club whose members will work in the library a minimum of one hour a week. A bronze medal will be given for 50 hours of work, a silver medal for 100 hours, and a gold medal for 200 hours.

BOOK MEMORIAL TO HONOR GLEN ELLYN WAR DEAD

A book memorial for gold star service men and women is planned for the Glen Ellyn public library. The idea was presented by Erie H. Johnston, 246 Glenwood av., Glen Ellyn, shortly before his recent death, and was accepted by the library board.

The plan is explained in a notice posted on the bulletin board in the library which reads:

"To commemorate the lives of Glen Ellyn men or women who have given their lives in the service of their country, this organization is donating money to the public library to be used to purchase a reference book for the library every time official word is received of the loss of one of our men or women. Books are soon to be purchased to be dedicated to those who have previously given their lives."

On the flyleaf of every book a dedicatory inscription will be entered. Names of donors will not be made public, nor amounts of contributions.

Mrs. Johnston said her husband had had the book memorial idea in mind for some time. His death came unexpectedly a few days after his presentation of the plan before a group which he had called to the library.

Rev. Westerberg Takes Naperville Church Post

The Rev. Wesley M. Westerberg recently became pastor of the Naperville Methodist church, succeeding the Rev. Don R. Crocker, who was assigned to the Cuyler Avenue Methodist church, Oak Park. The Rev. Mr. Westerberg comes from Evanston, where he has been pastor of the Wheadon Methodist church.

RIVERSIDE FUND CAMPAIGN OPENS WEEK OF OCT. 7

Riverside's community fund campaign will be held Oct. 7 to 14, with $10,375 as the budget and "Give a Little More" as the drive theme. Frank E. Hodek Jr. is chairman. Richard C. Swank Jr. is campaign manager.

The war service agencies, which include all the national agencies for which the war fund is collecting, will share in the Riverside fund on the same basis as last year. An item of $2,000 is being included in the local budget, but the amount will be increased by all collections made above the goal of the local budget. Last year the war fund was allotted $2,000 but actually received $3,100.

The seven majors who will assist in mobilization of the staff of captains and lieutenants are Robert W. Murphy, Francis P. Creadon, Howard Whitney, Alfred Hand Jr., Richard Miller, Emerson H. Todd, and Warren W. Johnstone.

Beneficiaries include Fourth of July committee, $375; Riverside Baby clinic, $50; Chicago Tuberculosis institute, $750; Salvation Army, $400; Volunteers of America, $250; Riverside Council of Social Agencies, $1,000; Riverside service men's committee, $1,500; Boy Scouts and cub Scouts, $1,800; Girl Scouts, $1,000, and Riverside Youth council, $900.

CICERO INTENDS TO MARK V-DAY WITH NO GUNFIRE

'Sensible' Celebration Is Planned by Village.

Realizing that German capitulation might be the cue for a riotous celebration, Henry J. Sandusky, president of the Cicero village board, took early action by suggesting a V-day of work and worship. With the Japs yet to be overcome, it was urged that Germany's defeat should be an occasion for serious recognition that while part of the job is done there is a long way to go before peace is attained. "There is grave danger," warned Sandusky, "that with Germany giving up before our Pacific problem is solved, too many people will lull themselves into the belief that the war is about over, that war production can slacken, and that somehow or other our war effort in far eastern waters and islands will solve itself.

No Unrestrained Frivolity.

"The day of Germany's collapse is not the time for unrestrained celebrations, but rather a time when we should take a notch in our belts and pause only long enough to thank God, each in his own way, and ask for strength to complete the enormous task that lies before us in the Pacific."

Among suggestions offered were the following:

"Churches of all faiths are asked to ring their bells and set up all-day devotions. Schools should carry on as usual, except for a 15 minute period of observance to be worked out in advance. Retail stores should close for the day.

Close Liquor Stores.

Liquor establishments should close for 24 hours. Parades and demonstrations should be avoided, altho patriotic exercises may be held in neighborhoods. Heads of industries, particularly those in war work, are urged not to close but to prepare brief patriotic exercises to be held in the plants.

"These exercises in the plants," explained Sandusky, "might run 15 minutes to an hour, perhaps longer, according to the desires of the workers and plant management. At the conclusion of the exercises work would be resumed for the rest of the day."

CAMPAIGN FUND HELPS WELFARE CENTER IN CICERO

Many Organizations Get Share of Money.

An organization supported solely by the Community Chest of Cicero, Inc., which will start its drive for funds Oct. 2, is the Cicero Welfare center, now in its 24th year of service.

The boys' workshop and the girls' artcraft classes, popular all summer, will be partly resumed this fall. Boys who wish to work and play at the center after school hours and on Saturdays will be accommodated. The girls' classes also will be maintained after school hours.

Maintains Infant Clinic.

The family service bureau helps maintain unity in family life thru trained case workers. The center also conducts an active infant welfare and dental clinic. Babies up to the age of two are examined every two weeks and mothers are advised as to proper feeding and care. Immunization against smallpox and diphtheria are given free at the clinic as well as in the preschool clinic.

Many local organizations have access to the center's quarters for their meetings. Mondays and Wednesdays, the Cicero chapter of the Red Cross makes surgical dressings for fighting men. The Cicero Safety council holds a planning program at the center each month. The Girl Scouts and Boy Scouts make use of the center for physical examinations and social events.

Included in the equipment at the center are wheel chairs and crutches which are available, free, to the physically handicapped.

Need for Help Grows.

"The time draws near," said Mrs. Beatrice J. Vilna, executive secretary of the center, "to call upon the citizens of our community to support the Community Chest so that we can continue our needed work. There is an ever increasing demand for the services such as we offer and no problem is too great or too small to warrant our attention. We welcome inspection of our quarters at 5341 Cermak rd."

Officers of the center are Hobart Bolerjack, president; the Rev. Albert Dedera, the Rev. W. A. Kiser, Mrs. Charles Randa and Mrs. Ragnar Peterson, vice presidents; and Joseph Van Cura, treasurer.

CHOOSE 16 WEST SIDE LEADERS IN FUND CAMPAIGN

• Formation of west side leadership in the Community and War Fund campaign to begin Oct. 2 with a goal of $12,980,000 continued last week as Ray McCarthy, regional chairman, and Mrs. Violet S. Lewis, regional chairman of the women's division, announced appointment of 13 district chairmen and three vice chairmen.

The new chairmen and their districts include James E. Howie and John B. Reid, North Austin; James O. Blaker, Mrs. Phillip L. Aries, and Roy Bedore, South Austin; Larry Chambers, John Marhoefer, J. P. Baldwin, and J. S. Arcus Jr., upper west side, and Vincent Candice, John J. Powers, Reggie Taylor, and Harmon Ballis, district bounded by Harrison st., 16th st., drainage canal, and the North Western railroad.

New Vice Chairmen.

Vice chairmen and their districts are Rocco De Grazio, West Town; Margaret H. McCarthy, West Garfield Park, and Austin Sperling, Upper West Side.

Mrs. Lewis reported that women of the west side are rallying to the call for more workers. She has received letters from wives of service men, ex-school teachers, business women, club women, housewives, and women engaged in volunteer war work, who wish to volunteer for the door to door solicitation of funds. Despite this, 4,000 additional volunteers are needed.

Fund Used Many Ways.

Funds are used for the U.S.O., war pensioners' aid, United Seamen's service, American Field service, and 19 allied relief agencies.

In Chicago, funds also are allocated to the 187 health and welfare agencies of the Community Fund and to the 11 overseas rescue and refuge agencies of the Jewish Welfare fund.

This Week in the Garden

Monday, Sept. 25.

Autumn is now with us and the gardener must make plans to care for his plants, clean up all debris, give protection where it is needed, and look to the plants that are to be grown indoors. Early spring perennials can be removed with safety, especially peonies, oriental poppies, and iris, and the early bulbous plants like narcissi and Lilium candidum.

Tulips also can be planted before severe weather sets in. By all means get them in the ground and do not allow them to lie around all winter, expecting to plant them in the spring, for it is then too late.

Tuesday, Sept. 26.

Among the minor bulbs there is nothing more delightful than to use drifts or irregular bands of the grape hyacinth, snowdrops, squills, or glory-of-the-snow. They endure, under proper care, for a long time.

Do not plant hardy lilies too shallow; the depth depends on the kind and strength of the bulbs. Some of the best for general purposes include the regale and speciosum species.

Wednesday, Sept. 27.

Lay in a good supply of soil for winter use and for sowing seed in early spring. Any highly prepared vegetable soil, plus sand, will suffice for seed sowing. The house plants should now be indoors. The poinsettia and gardenia plants should be brought in at once. Both are highly tropical and resent sudden changes in temperature. A sudden cool snap is likely to cause the leaves to turn yellow and fall.

Thursday, Sept. 28.

Prepare the ground for vegetables in the fall by spading and leaving the soil in a rough state for frost to act on during the winter. If manure can be obtained, spade under a good amount and it will decay by spring. If well rotted manure is at hand it can be used in spring, but only if well decayed.

Friday, Sept. 29.

Lift dahlia tubers after the first killing freeze. Cut the stalks to within six inches of the ground and leave the tubers in the ground for a week or 10 days for ripening. Dig with a spading fork to prevent cutting the tubers. Turn upside down to drain and stand in the sun for a few hours to dry. Keep in a dry, frostproof cellar during winter, with the temperature around 55 degrees but no higher.

Examine occasionally to see that they do not shrivel because they are too dry. Destroy all cocoons of insects, nests, or places that may harbor insects.

Saturday, Sept. 30.

Fertilizing trees in the fall with a commercial fertilizer will prove beneficial when growth starts in spring. Some trees and shrubs can be planted successfully in the fall, but do not plant the stone fruit trees or thin skinned trees like the birch, magnolia, or sassafras.

DUNPHY, CORUM, SLATER TO AIR WORLD SERIES

W-G-N-Mutual to Carry Exclusive Reports.

BY LARRY WOLTERS.

When the world series is broadcast over W-G-N and Mutual, exclusively, starting at 1 p. m., Wednesday, Oct. 4, Don Dunphy, Bill Slater, and Bill Corum will be the reporters. Dunphy and Slater will give the play by play and Corum the color. Red Barber will not be heard this year. Bob Elson, who reported the series for so many years, is serving in the navy.

Professional football broadcasts will start over WIND at 1:55 p. m. today with a report of the Bears game at Green Bay. Bert Wilson will be the reporter. The entire Bears' schedule will be broadcast by WIND.

The Detroit Symphony orchestra will be heard over the Mutual system in a series of Saturday evening concerts this season. The concerts will be aired at 7:30 p. m. When the series gets under way each of the major networks will have an outstanding symphony orchestra on the air under sponsorship. CBS has the New York Philharmonic at 2 p. m. Sundays, NBC has its own orchestra, directed by Arturo Toscanini, at 4 p. m. Sundays, and the Blue network will have the Boston Symphony, returning Saturday, Oct. 7. The broadcast hour is 7 p. m.

The W-G-N Symphony orchestra broadcasts a concert from Orchestra hall over W-G-N at 8:30 p. m. Tuesdays.

Your America, half hour radio show saluting states and industries served by the Union Pacific railroad, with talks by governors of western states, will move from NBC to 115 Mutual stations on Sunday, Oct. 15. It will be heard at 3 p. m. Elden Westley is the narrator for a weekly war story and Leo Kopp the musical director.

Vic and Sade, one of radio's oldest day time serials, is signing off at the end of this week. In the 12 years it has been on the air Paul Rhymer has written it and Art Van Harvey and Bernardine Flynn played the title roles. Rusk, their son, was played for years by Billy Idelson until he joined the navy. Many listeners will regret its departure because it was slanted with comedy rather than the trials and tribulations of family life.

W-G-N plans to rebroadcast "The Story of Human Birth" on The Human Adventure at 8:30 tomorrow night. This is being done for the benefit of expectant fathers in the military service. The repeat broadcast has been arranged at the request of the Morale Service division, Army Service forces.

Tschaikowsky Symphony to Be Aired Tuesday

Tschaikowsky's Symphony No. 5 will be presented when the W-G-N Symphony orchestra broadcasts its weekly concert from Orchestra hall over W-G-N and WGNB at 8:30 p. m. Tuesday. The orchestra will also present the overture to "Coriolanus" by Beethoven.

Greets Children

Bob Hope, as he arrived home from overseas, greets his children, Tony and Linda. Hope will broadcast from Chicago over W-G-N at 7:15 p. m. tomorrow and over WMAQ at 9 p. m. Tuesday.

MISSION CHIMES LEGEND THEME OF AIR THEATER

"The Chimes of San Sebastian," a musical-dramatic legend built around an ageless set of mission chimes, will be presented on The Chicago Theater of the Air, over W-G-N, WGNB and the Mutual network from 8 to 9 p. m. next Saturday. The broadcast will originate in W-G-N's main audience studio.

Col. Robert R. McCormick, editor and publisher of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE, will speak on the program.

Virginia Haskins, soprano, Bruce Foote, baritone, and Ruth Slater, contralto, will be the vocalists, and Robert Quick will be the violin soloist. Musical accompaniment will be provided by the W-G-N Symphony orchestra and chorus conducted by Henry Weber.

Mona Paulee Is Guest on Kostelanetz Program

Mona Paulee, Metropolitan opera mezzo-soprano, will be a guest on the Andre Kostelanetz program over WBBM-CBS at 3:30 p. m. today. She will feature Velasquez's "Besame Mucho." The chorus will join her in Herbert's "Romany Life." Kostelanetz will direct the orchestra in Arlen's "Stormy Weather," Arensky's "Waltz," Grever's "What a Difference a Day Makes," and Rodgers' "Dear Friend."

Philharmonic to Offer All-Request Program

An all-request program, consisting of works chosen by members of the radio audience, will be offered by the New York Philharmonic orchestra on WBBM-CBS at 2 p. m. today. Vladimir Golschmann will conduct the overture to Wagner's "The Mastersingers of Nuremberg," the "Prelude" and "Love-Death" from Wagner's "Tristan and Isolde," and Brahms' First Symphony in C minor.

Stanley Johnston to Be Heard as W-G-N Guest

Stanley Johnston, foreign correspondent of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE, will talk on Mexico on the Distinguished Guest hour over W-G-N at 1:30 p. m. today. Mr. Johnston recently returned from Mexico where he gathered material for a series of stories for THE TRIBUNE.

Brickhouse to Speak.

Jack Brickhouse, W-G-N sports reporter, will be the guest speaker at a meeting of the Alpha Kappa Psi fraternity of Northwestern university to be held at the Maryland hotel, 900 Rush st., tomorrow evening.

LOT BUYER HAS AN INVESTMENT IN THE FUTURE

BY LOUISE BARGELT.

Post-war houses are being widely discussed. Every one agrees that many American families are going to build new homes as soon as V-day comes and materials are available. Post-war planners already are hoarding ideas and house plans and even shopping around for lots.

Before purchasing a lot there are many practical points for a home owner to consider, over and above his individual problems and preferences, which, of course, must be decided on personal grounds.

Choice of location is one of a number of considerations a buyer should have before him when he starts on a search for a home site.

Vacant Lot an Investment.

A vacant lot is an investment in the future comfort of a family since transportation, shopping centers, schools, and churches are all points which will have direct bearing on the comfort of the entire family.

It also is well to consider whether the site is in a neighborhood with a class of people the buyer and his family will enjoy.

Important likewise to check on are adjoining or surrounding improvements, building restrictions, and zoning ordinances. Building restrictions or the lack of them can affect an owner's pocketbook and happiness, but no one wants a lot that is in a neighborhood so highly restricted that he cannot build a house to meet the standards of the block or the area.

Buyer Must Consider Needs.

If a buyer has a certain house design in mind he should ask himself if the site will lend itself to the type of home he intends to build. Also, is the lot large enough to accommodate the needs of a growing family? War gardens are not going to end with the war and a site which is large enough for a garden will be a boon to the buyer who is looking ahead to five or 10 years from now.

What one buyer and his family consider as necessities may not seem at all pressing to another buyer. One man's hobby may be a garden, another may prefer golf and want to be close to a country club. No one can expect to find all the features of which he dreams. Most of us have to squeeze our dreams into molds of reality. But by checking over your most imperative demands, you can find a lot which measures up to a high percentage of them.

PTA Board of Farragut High Will Meet Tuesday

The Farragut High school PTA will hold a board meeting Tuesday afternoon in the social room of the school, 2345 S. Christiana av. Newly elected officers are Mrs. Elsie Schoenhofen, president; Mrs. Frank Martinovsky and Mrs. Otto Hausknecht, vice presidents; Mrs. Lawrence Fremgen, recording secretary; Mrs. Marie Svec, corresponding secretary, and Mrs. Charles Vlach, treasurer.

Morton Evening School.

Morton Evening school will open tomorrow offering a wide range of accredited subjects to meet the educational needs of adults in the school district.

STATE AGENTS NAMED TO AID N. W. VETERANS

Help Fighters Back to Civil Life.

Carlin H. Woodbridge.

Returning veterans in Cook county, and thruout Illinois, will find that the state has established, for their convenience, a new "one-stop service" office, thru which they can obtain all the benefits due them under the so-called G. I. bill of rights, all advantages of the state's program for veterans, and the services available thru church and fraternal organizations.

Two years ago the first groundwork for the program was laid by Gov. Green. Today plans are almost complete, and within a short while offices will be opened in each county in Illinois. Eleven offices will serve the returning veterans in Cook county.

For the northwest section of Chicago and Cook county, the office will be located at 4609 N. Kedzie av. in charge of Carlin H. Woodbridge, 2217 Lunt av.

Knows Needs of Veterans.

A veteran of both this and the last World war, Mr. Woodbridge was appointed to the office because Gov. Green feels that a veteran knows more what a veteran is entitled to than any one else. During World War I. Mr. Woodbridge served for two years and 10 months in the surgeon general's office in Washington, D. C., designing hospitals.

Recalled to active service from his position as a salesman with a petroleum company, Mr. Woodbridge, with the rank of captain, served with the engineers corps at Key field, Miss., for one year and 10 months until last May when he was relieved of active duty due to physical disability. He has spent the summer recuperating at home.

Mr. Woodbridge feels that his disability has given him a keener insight and deeper appreciation of the service men's problems. He points out his duties will not include telling the returned veteran what he is to do, but will emphasize acquainting the veteran with the benefits available to him from all sources, and to expedite obtaining these benefits, thru filling out forms correctly for the veterans, and seeing that these forms receive attention from the proper agencies.

Well Schooled for Job.

His experience for this particular type of work has been gained over a period of years in the welfare departments of the American Legion, and the church and fraternal organizations with which he is affiliated.

Gov. Green's committee on veterans' rehabilitation and employment has been set up primarily to put all agencies of the state at the disposal of the returning veteran and to acquaint him with benefits due him under the so-called G. I. bill of rights, and from church and fraternal welfare departments.

Many men not qualified for the educational benefits of the veterans' bill still may obtain further schooling at state expense. Even now, returned veterans are attending the University of Illinois and state teachers' colleges on state scholarships.

Handbook to Aid Vets.

Veterans seeking jobs will not find it necessary to make the rounds of various employment offices. An application filed in his county office will go to the state department of labor, to the United States employment service, and to veterans' organization employment agencies. The veteran will then be informed of job possibilities open at any of these agencies, following which he can obtain vocational training to fit him for his new job.

Should a veteran need immediate hospitalization and not be able to obtain it thru the G. I. bill the state will endeavor to see that he gets all possible medical care, whether for a physical or a psychological illness.

Ready for each veteran visiting the office will be a copy of "What Every Veteran Should Know," compiled by Frank Ostlin, superintendent of the veterans' relief committee, Moline. Himself a veteran, Mr. Ostlin has compiled an exhaustive source book, listing in intricate detail all benefits due veterans, and the procedure for obtaining those benefits.

No System Like Illinois'.

A monthly publication, the Illinois Mobilizer, also will be available for returning veterans, and will bring them up to date on legislation affecting veterans.

Mr. Woodbridge declares that, to his knowledge, no other state has such an elaborate system as Illinois' to take care of returning veterans. In the program Gov. Green now has set in motion the state is making every effort to see that its 750,000 returning service men and service women will find the task of reestablishment in civilian life can be accomplished with a minimum of difficulty and a maximum of speed.

Irving Park Medical Auxiliary Unit to Sew

The Woman's Auxiliary to the Irving Park branch of the Chicago Medical society will meet at the home of Mrs. Horace F. Smith, 7300 Greenleaf av., at 10:30 a. m. Tuesday. The day will be spent with war service sewing.

Tribune V-Mail Photos of Wives and New Babies Soon Will Greet Yanks Overseas

MRS. ROBERT WIEGMAN JR. AND GAYLE ELAINE.

MRS. JOSEPH MARIANO AND JOSEPH JR.

MRS. DEAN W. MIX AND ELIZABETH VALERIA.

MRS. DANIEL P. MURPHY AND CHERYL ANN.

MRS. DONALD W. OLSON AND SUSAN.

MRS. EDWIN BENDY AND KENNETH.

Fighting fathers in Italy, France, India, and the South Pacific soon will be opening V-mail letters to find these pictures of their wives, and the babies they have never seen. In each case, the baby was born after the father was sent overseas, or while he was at an embarkation point.

[TRIBUNE Photos by Julius Gantter.]

Pin-Ups (3 Corner Style) Soon En Route to Soldier-Fathers

There will be new pin-up pictures in barracks in India, and tents in Italy and France soon when fathers from the northwest side receive the V-mail photos of babies they never have seen. Taken recently by the Metropolitan section of THE TRIBUNE, the portraits of mothers and babies will be printed on V-mail stationery, on which the mothers may write a message before mailing.

Sgt. Robert Wiegman Jr., with the army transport command in India, should be proud of his 6 week old daughter, Gayle Elaine, who weighs 11 pounds and already has a heavy crop of curls. Sgt. Wiegman reached India early in July, and learned the news about his daughter only 10 days after her birth. Before he entered service in January, 1943, he was employed with an asbestos company. Mrs. Wiegman, who spent six months with her husband while he was stationed in St. Louis, Mo., now lives with her mother, Mrs. Ella Lonson, 4941 N. Lowell av.

Son Born in February.

Somewhere in the South Pacific Pvt. Joseph Mariano soon will be boasting to his buddies about the strapping, brown eyed son who was born in February. Pvt. Mariano went overseas two months before Joseph Jr. was born. Since he entered service 14 months ago Pvt. Mariano has had only one furlough. In civilian life he was employed by Commonwealth Edison company. Mrs. Mariano has an apartment in the same building as her mother, Mrs. Rose Carnevale, 622 N. Sangamon st.

There will be a birthday party, complete with 10 playmates and a cake bearing one candle, Wednesday when Cheryl Ann Murphy celebrates her first birthday. But the biggest present Cheryl could get would be the news that her daddy, whom she never has seen, was coming home soon. Her father, Daniel P. Murphy, radioman 2d class, is aboard an aircraft carrier in the South Pacific. Before entering the service two years ago Radioman Murphy was a tool and die worker. He went overseas in July, 1943. Mrs. Murphy and Cheryl live with Mrs. Murphy's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Frank C. Freyer, 4037 N. Bernard st. During the holiday rushes, Mrs. Murphy returns to her old job in the postoffice.

News Arrives Late.

It was a month before Pvt. Edwin Bendy, stationed in Italy, knew of the birth of his son, Kenneth. Pvt. Bendy was sent overseas early in June, and the baby was born June 19. Two years ago, before entering the service, Bender was a machinist in a gear and machine company. His wife and son are making their home with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Osenberg, 2328 N. Hamlin av.

So far as his wife knows, Lt. Dean W. Mix, somewhere in France, has not received any of the five cablegrams sent him announcing the birth of his daughter July 11. He did hear of the baby thru a friend, however. Sent overseas in May with the chemical warfare service, Lt. Mix has not received any mail from his wife since June, tho she has written daily. In civilian life, prior to September, 1941, Lt. Mix worked in a chemical laboratory, and took special work at Northwestern university for his master's degree. Mrs. Mix is keeping their small apartment at 4056 N. Keystone av.

With an armored infantry division somewhere in France is Pvt. Donald W. Olson, who has been in the service one year, and overseas since April. After he left tho United States, his daughter, Susan, was born April 26. Mrs. Olson and the baby live with her parents,, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Burchard, 5936 Newport av. Pvt. Olson formerly was employed by the internal revenue department, as is his father, Oscar W. Olson, 4837 Wellington av.

In a raid over Bremen, Germany, Lt. E. L. Sjoblad, son of Mr. and Mrs. Knut Sjoblad, 2831 Roscoe st., bagged a Nazi plane, forcing the enemy pilot to bail out. During the engagement, Lt. Sjoblad saw a Nazi ME-109 dive away from his group.

"I dived in to get on his tail," Lt. Sjoblad reported later. "He went into a tight spiral, then began barrel rolling, but I managed to get in a few hits in the wings and cockpit section of his plane. In a few seconds the pilot bailed out, and I watched his ship smash into the ground and explode in flames."

3 MARINES SEEK SLEEP AT FRONT LINES ON GUAM

Sent Back for Rest, but Don't Get It.

BY WARD WALKER.

[Marine combat correspondent on leave from The Tribune.]

After a stretch of active duty on the island of Guam, all that three weary marines from Chicago wanted was one night's sleep. Day and night they'd been in the front lines, carrying ammunition, water, and stretchers, and taking their turns at repulsing the Japs.

The marines who craved repose were Pvt. Edward F. Walsh, 21, 6070 Naples av.; Pvt. John V. Lewandowski, 28, 2038 Pierce st., and Pvt. Joseph Magnafichi, 22, 1803 N. Newcastle av.

Jubilant Over "Rest."

The three comrades were positively jubilant when, with others on the same detail, they were sent behind the lines to division headquarters for a rest.

Their plans for relaxation were shattered speedily, however. That night a group of Japanese infiltrated the lines and about 50 of them reached the headquarters area.

Sleep? They Wished They Could.

All night long rifle and machine gun bullets, mortar shells, and hand grenades plastered the area. The next morning, haggard from lack of sleep the three Chicagoans joined the hunt for the remaining Japs.

"Tonight I go back on the lines," said Pvt. Walsh. "You can at least get a little sleep there."

CONGRESS RACE OFF TO A HARD FIGHTING START

5 Districts Hinge on Real Work.

BY WILLIAM SHINNICK.

With both Democrats and Republicans realizing that the composition of the next congress is hardly less important than the choice for President, a hard fight is already on for congressional seats in five of the 11 Illinois districts which take in Chicago and the suburban area.

Trained political observers believe the issue in these districts—the 1st, 2d, 3d, 7th, and 9th—is uncertain and may remain so until the votes are counted on Nov. 7. They say that there is unquestionably a swing Republicanwards in Chicago and the whole state, but that this might be thwarted by overconfidence or a lack of effort on the part of the G. O. P. organization.

A Question of Work.

Reports indicate that the regular Democratic machine and the CIO political action committee are now making titanic efforts to corral voters and may be depended upon to turn out all the New Deal nad fourth term vote. A matching of this energy, in the opinion of G. O. P. leaders, will be enough to swing all five of the doubtful districts [two are now Republican] into the victory column.

The charge of indolence cannot be laid against the Republican nominees in the battlefield districts. All are holding meetings, personally soliciting votes and sending out literature defining and clarifying the issues. And they are all confident of election.

In the 1st district, taking in the loop and territory to the south, predominantly inhabited by Negroes, the incumbent Democrat is William L. Dawson, the only member of his race in congress. He is opposed by William E. King, political veteran and member of the state industrial commission.

Poll Is Encouraging.

"We are holding four or five meetings a night," King said. "I believe the tide has definitely turned our way. A poll taken recently at 35th and State streets showed Dewey leading Roosevelt 2 to 1. This sounds incredible, but our people are angry that Negro troops have been denied equal opportunities in the armed services because the commander in chief plays the game of reactionary southern senators."

The 1st has gone Democratic in the last three elections, but each time by less than 4,000 votes.

Downs Busy in Second.

In the big 2d district, which includes the South Chicago industrial area, William A. Rowan, a Kelly organization Democrat, is the incumbent. He is opposed by Thomas J. Downs, attorney who failed of election in 1942 by only 3,517 votes out of more than 216,000 cast. Downs is campaigning actively, attacking the "indispensable man" theory, the ill turns done labor by the administration, and its unfriendly attitude toward small business.

The Negro vote in the 2d is large and Downs expects to get the bulk of it. One of his opponents in the primary was Edgar G. Brown, who polled more than 10,000 votes. Brown has peldged his support and aid to Downs.

PAC Fighting Busbey.

In the 3d district the Republican incumbent, Fred E. Busbey, is opposed by Edward A. Kelly, organization Democrat who was elected to congress in 1940 and was the defeated candidate in 1942. Busbey, a member of the Dies committee, is an object of the attack of the communists and the PAC. He has said that he has no fear of the labor vote, even in the rank and file of CIO.

"I am labor's friend and labor knows it," he asserted. "It is only the PAC and the communist leadership in the union that is out against me."

Busbey's margin over Kelly two years ago was 5,981 votes.

Garland Keeps Active.

Charles H. Garland, mayor of Des Plaines and former radio executive, is the G. O. P. nominee in the huge 7th district, the largest in the United States—population about a million. Opposing him is William W. Link, Polish-American leader, member of the county civil service commission and a thorogoing orthodox Democratic organization follower.

Garland has been working on his campaign ever since the primary, in which he was a handy winner over three opponents. He is making his race on his record as a business man, an opponent of the New Deal, and a successful municipal executive. He is a veteran of World War I. and has two sons who are in the army air forces.

The 7th has not been represented in congress since the death of Leonard W. Schuetz, Democrat, who was elected in 1942 by a margin of only 1,975 out of 357,000 votes cast. The district covers much of the northwest side and a large suburban and rural area, and getting out the vote is a big task for both parties.

CIO Battling Dewey.

In the 9th district, north of the loop, the Republican incumbent, Charles S. Dewey, is running for reelection on a record of sturdy opposition to New Dealism and as an advocate of sound government finances. He formerly was financial adviser to the Polish government. His steady devotion to Republican principles has made him a special target of the CIO-PAC-Communist axis.

Opposing Congressman Dewey is

VET CONVINCES VITAL WORKERS TO STAY ON JOB

G. I.'s Fighting Trend on Home Fronts.

Workers in defense plants who think the war is won, and seek referrals to jobs in nonessential industries, are hearing convincing pleas to stick to their jobs these days. Veterans of overseas service are being assigned to United States employment service offices in the city, to talk with workers who think this is the time to get back into peace time industry.

At the office at 5306 Lawrence av., Pvt. Alden Lindgren, veteran of the Aleutian campaign, has been meeting job seekers for the last 10 days. Pvt. Lindgren, who has resided in Lake Forest for the last 16 years, enlisted in the army in 1939.

Furloughed After Five Years.

His first furlough in nearly five years came last December. After only two days at home, he was in an accident in which he received injuries which have kept him in Gardiner General hospital all spring and summer. He still reports to the hospital, and is awaiting his medical discharge from the service. When he recovers fully, he plans on getting into war industry immediately, being convinced himself there is still acute need for workers in the country's war plants.

On busier days at the employment office, Pvt. Lindgren has talked to as many as 25 persons seeking referrals to peace time jobs. Of that number he has been able to convince more than 20 each day they should stay where they are until the war is won.

Musn't Forget Pacific War.

"This war won't be over," Pvt. Lindgren declares, "until every last soldier, sailor, and marine is home again. Until then, it's up to every fellow in a defense job to keep turning out planes and tanks and munitions to cinch the deal." News stories speak so enthusiastically of victories in Germany, Pvt. Lindgren believes, that the public forgets the bitter struggle still ahead in China and the South Pacific.

Pvt. Lindgren spent three of his five army years in the Aleutians. He arrived in Dutch Harbor shortly after it had been attacked by the Japanese.

Shortages Held Slowing Gains.

Lack of certain fighting weapons and equipment is retarding allied advances on the battle fronts in France, Italy, and in the Pacific, Lester Brown, area director of the man power commission, has disclosed. He announced that 3,000 men and women workers are needed at once for 17 war plants on the northwest side, and 1,500 workers in 39 plants on the north side.

Issuing a joint statement were Brown and employment service office managers, Mrs. Cleo Liepitz, William Carter, and Mrs. Catherine Call, all of northwest side offices, and Mrs. Margaret Smith, Irving Behr, Ira D. McIntire, and Henry Williams of north side offices. They state, "These war plants have been designated by the armed forces as extremely important in the war effort. The army, navy, and air force have asked that we use all our resources to man these plants."

Specific Needs Pointed Out.

Current shortages at the northwest side plants include the manufacture of airplanes, airplane engines, radar-radio equipment, railroad equipment, and parts for trucks, barges, and cranes. At the north side plants, workers are needed to help in the manufacture of tanks, trucks, heavy ammunition, clothing, medical supplies, radar-radio equipment, and parts for tractors, bombs, cranes, heavy artillery, and derricks.

Brown said navy and army authorities in Chicago have revealed that much of Chicago's war produstion is directed to the Pacific, and that after Germany's fall, plants here still will need workers to make fighting tools for that front. Comdr. F. J. Twyman, director of civilian personnel, points out that the navy's output in increasing, and that navy production in Chicago for the last six months of 1944 will be 10 per cent greater than for the first six months.

Stresses Need for Bombers.

Maj. John Cummiskey, air force man power officer, said: "We will need more and more airplanes and airplane engines to carry the fight to Japan. We will need long range bombers and transport planes."

Brown urged all persons wishing to work in a "must" war plant to apply at once at their neighborhood employment office. Offices serve the northwest side at 5306 Lawrence av., 4207 Armitage av., and 807 W. Madison street, Oak Park. On the north side offices are located at 1033 Davis street, Evanston; 4556 N. Kenmore av.; 654 North av., and 308 N. Michigan av.

Seeks War Plant Workers

DON'T BE A JOB HOPPER

The battlefront for Pvt. Alden Lindgren for the last 10 days has been the United States employment service office at 5306 Lawrence av., where he convinces workers they should stay in war jobs.

[TRIBUNE Photo.]

Alexander Resa, assistant corporation counsel and the choice of the city hall organization. Dewey, who has been elected three times by margains of 2,000 to 6,000 votes, is campaigning actively.

Business Men Active.

The five districts with close contests have been chosen as a field of action by the business men's committee formed to assist the Republican cause. More than 1,500 volunteer workers have been signed up, according to Frank J. Durham, insurance executive who heads this group. He added that there is a need for hundreds more. The office of the committee is at 53 W. Jackson boulevard—telephone Harrison 6515.

"We are not duplicating the work of the party organization," said Durham. "We are working with it."

Observers see little chance for any change in the other six districts in the Chicago and suburban area. In the 4th, on the southwest side, Leo J. Kozicki, Republican, is running against Martin Gorski, incumbent. The normal Democratic vote here is nearly 3 to 1.

In the 5th, with a population of only 112,000, Adolph J. Sabath seems to be safe again. Max Price is the G. O. P. nominee. In the 6th, where the Republican vote will be split between the nominee, Charles J. Anderson Jr., and an independent, Ivar Henderson, it appears that Thomas J. O'Brien, incumbent Democrat, will be able to coast in. The last election gave O'Brien a 38,000 plurality.

See Victory for Church.

The 8th, a pocket borough, usually is 3 to 1 Democratic. The incumbent is Thomas S. Gordon. His opponent is John F. Uczciwek, real estate and insurance broker, who is making a real effort and may cut deeply into the usual Democratic vote.

In the 10th, Ralph E. Church is expected to win. His plurality two years ago exceeded 62,000. His opponent is Curtis D. MacDougall, Northwestern university professor and a New Deal Democrat, who is making an energetic campaign. The district covers the north shore, part of Chicago, and all of Lake county.

In the 11th, composed of McHenry, Kane, Du Page, and Will counties, Chauncey W. Reed, incumbent, is regarded as a sure winner. The district went 57,000 Republican in 1942. Otto Joseph Hruby Jr. is the Democratic nominee.

Shut-Ins Guild to Hold Party Saturday Night

The Opportunity Guild for Shut-Ins, Inc., will sponsor a party at 8 p. m. Saturday at 3800 Armitage av. There will be musical entertainment by a barber shop quartet. Mrs. Clara Roche is party chairman and Mrs. Helen Masulla is president of the organization.

This Week in the Garden

Monday, Sept. 25.

Autumn is now with us and the gardener must make plans to care for his plants, clean up all debris, give protection where it is needed, and look to the plants that are to be grown indoors. Early spring perennials can be removed with safety, especially peonies, oriental poppies, and iris, and the early bulbous plants like narcissi and Lilium candidum.

Tulips also can be planted before severe weather sets in. By all means get them in the ground and do not allow them to lie around all winter, expecting to plant them in the spring, for it is then too late.

Tuesday, Sept. 26.

Among the minor bulbs there is nothing more delightful than to use drifts or irregular bands of the grape hyacinth, snowdrops, squills, or glory-of-the-snow. They endure, under proper care, for a long time.

Do not plant hardy lilies too shallow; the depth depends on the kind and strength of the bulbs. Some of the best for general purposes include the regale and speciosum species.

Wednesday, Sept. 27.

Lay in a good supply of soil for winter use and for sowing seed in early spring. Any highly prepared vegetable soil, plus sand, will suffice for seed sowing. The house plants should now be indoors. The poinsettia and gardenia plants should be brought in at once. Both are highly tropical and resent sudden changes in temperature. A sudden cool snap is likely to cause the leaves to turn yellow and fall.

All plants grown in the home should be sprayed frequently and a knowledge of watering is most important. Water when the soil is dry and the plants need water, and water until the soil is wet thru.

Thursday, Sept. 28.

Prepare the ground for vegetables in the fall by spading and leaving the soil in a rough state for frost to act on during the winter. If manure can be obtained, spade under a good amount and it will decay by spring. If well rotted manure is at hand it can be used in spring, but only if well decayed.

Sowing cover crops in fall for plowing or spading under in spring is an excellent method of building up the soil. Farmers use this method and practice rotation of crops for the same reason. Gather the green tomatoes and ripen them indoors.

Friday, Sept. 29.

Lift dahlia tubers after the first killing freeze. Cut the stalks to within six inches of the ground and leave the tubers in the ground for a week or 10 days for ripening. Dig with a spading fork to prevent cutting the tubers. Turn upside down to drain and stand in the sun for a few hours to dry. Keep in a dry, frostproof cellar during winter, with the temperature around 55 degrees but no higher.

Examine occasionally to see that they do not shrivel because they are too dry. Destroy all cocoons of insects, nests, or places that may harbor insects.

Saturday, Sept. 30.

Fertilizing trees in the fall with a commercial fertilizer will prove beneficial when growth starts in spring. Some trees and shrubs can be planted successfully in the fall, but do not plant the stone fruit trees or thin skinned trees like the birch, magnolia, or sassafras.

Newly planted trees are greatly benefited with a manure mulch. Such a mulch provides some fertilizer and prevents heaving in early spring. Hardwood cuttings of trees and shrubs can be made after the leaves fall. This is an easy way to increase the stock if additional plants are needed. Examine the trees and shrubs for scale and if any is observed spray with dormant spray.

Pot up the calla lilly that has been resting or buy a new one. It is highly satisfactory in window gardening. Pot up a few narcissi for later bloom indoors. Place in a dark, cool place or bury in soil outdoors for rooting. Sow hardy annuals now for early blooming next spring.

ROYAL LEAGUE'S MEMBERS WILL CONVENE FRIDAY

The Royal League Fellowship association will meet at the Morrison hotel Friday night, Diedrich H. Kropp, 4838 N. Kostner av., president, has announced. There will be an address by Dr. Charles C. Orr, attending physician of the Royal League sanitarium in Black Mountain, N. C.

Chicago members of the 58 affiliate councils have been urged to attend. Fred A. Johnson, supreme archon, has offered an attendance banner to the council having the largest percentage of its members at the session.

Local members of the board of directors of the association are Martin A. Stanton, 6148 Patterson av.; Henry Kocher, 4245 N. Claremont av.; Mrs. Clara Levy, 3457 N. Kedzie av.; Mrs. Nellie Chance, 5548 Hirsch st., and William C. Brink, 929 N. Trumbull av.

PRODUCTION OF DOUGLAS PLANES TO GO ON AFTER VICTORY

"The job of building these transports (Douglas Skymaster C-54 planes) is going right on. General Arnold told us definitely that there would be no let up in the production of the C-54's after the general collapse of Germany. It is possibly more necessary ... to continue to build planes for the prosecution of our war against the Japs. Greater distances of transportation are involved. The Army and Navy will need all we can build, and more. You are going to be kept busy until the end of the war.

"I believe that we will be building them (Douglas C-54 planes) for the Government long after the war because ... of the tremendous transportation needs of war-torn Europe ... and to supply the transport demands of the Army Air Forces after the war is over.

"You may have read in the paper that day before yesterday I signed a contract order with the major airlines for $50,000,000.00 worth of airplanes. This, together with other business we now have or will shortly have, will bring us a peace-time backlog of over a hundred million. This aircraft business is one of the greatest businesses in the world ... and after the war will be a great business. So let's pitch in and do a job for our country and, in so doing, do a job for ourselves in the future."

DONALD W. DOUGLAS, in a speech delivered to employees, Chicago Plant, September 13, 1944.

Interesting JOBS OPEN
For Men and Women who plan for post-war opportunity

Here's a chance for you to do interesting work and prepare for a future career. Douglas Aircraft Company needs 4,000 additional people at once to build military transport planes.

Don't be misled by any feeling that the war is nearly over and that it's hardly worthwhile to take a so-called war plant job now. There are no "cut-backs" in sight here. It's just the opposite. Read again the quotations above from a speech delivered by Donald W. Douglas to Chicago Plant employees.

Today Douglas is building planes for victory. Tomorrow we will build them for the airlines. You can get expert training here in aircraft skills that could well qualify you for profitable employment building peace-time airplanes or in the huge maintenance and operations plants which the airlines and aircargo enterprises will set up all over the country after the war. And you can be trained in working with the lighter metals such as aluminum and magnesium which will be used in the manufacture of so many post-war consumer goods.

Meanwhile you will be well paid for enjoyable work. Experienced or inexperienced ... we train you so that you are bound to make good in fabrication, shop, assembly and installation work ... what we term "beating on the airplanes." As interesting work as you'll ever find.

If you want to serve your country, make good money, enjoy your job, and if you are not already employed in an essential industry, don't delay. Come to the WMC's U. S. Employment Service office at 5306 Lawrence Ave. Or come to our own employment offices at 4070 Milwaukee Avenue, near Irving Park; 2717½ Milwaukee Avenue, near Logan Square; or to the plant employment office at Mannheim, Higgins and Devon.

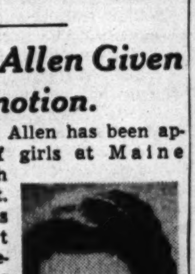
NAME TEACHER DEAN OF GIRLS AT MAINE HIGH

Willadell Allen Given Promotion.

Miss Willadell Allen has been appointed dean of girls at Maine Township High school, Supt. Frank L. Holmes announced last week. She replaces Miss Louise Wood, who has resigned to accept a position with the Y. M. C. A. college in the loop, where she will be director of activities and dean of women.



Willadell Allen.

This is Miss Allen's eighth year at Maine Township. Before joining the high school faculty she taught English and speech at Sandwich, Ill., and for a season was stage manager of the Galesburg, Ill., Civic theater.

Holds Two Degrees.

Miss Allen is a graduate of Knox college, from which she received the bachelor's degree in 1934. Later she attended Northwestern university's school of speech, and was granted the master's degree in 1942.

Since her appointment to the teaching staff at Maine Township, Miss Allen has directed more than a dozen school plays, and has taught classes in English and dramatics, as well as courses in the oral interpretation of literature.

Organizes Speech Society.

In 1940 she was the founder-president of the Masque and Gavel, an honorary speech society for high school students. The organization has expanded until there are now 200 chapters in the United States.

Miss Allen is vice president of the Illinois Speech association. She has appeared on the annual programs of the North Central association, the Progressive Education association, and the National Association of Teachers of Speech.

As dean of girls, Miss Allen will direct the social program of the school, and will supervise dances, class parties, club meetings, and plays.

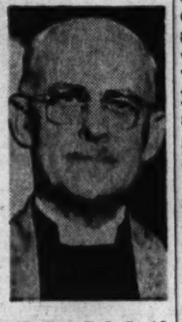
CELEBRATE 40TH ANNIVERSARY OF CALVARY CHURCH

The congregation of the Calvary Evangelical Lutheran church, Berteau and Keeler avs., today will begin a two week celebration to commemorate the 40th anniversary of the church. Today's service will be a special rally day program, sponsored by the Sunday school, to be held at 9:30 a. m.



The Rev. E. L. Spaid.

World communion and loyalty Sunday will be observed next Sunday at 10:45 a. m. with the pastor, the Rev. E. L. Spaid, preaching the sermon. The anniversary banquet will be held at 6:30 p. m., Oct. 5.

Hold Special Service.

Special anniversary service will be held at 10:45 a. m., Oct. 8, with the sermon delivered by Dr. O. Garfield Beckstrand, pastor of the Trinity church, Rockford.

During the two week period a debt retirement drive will be held. Two committees, headed by Alfred E. Arnesen Sr. and George Aigner, will endeavor to retire the church and parsonage debt before Oct. 8.

Serving on the general anniversary committee are Alwin C. Aigner, chairman; Edward Zitzewitz, cochairman; Arnesen, program chairman; J. F. Hohenadel, finance chairman; Mrs. Thor Wiek, group participation chairman, and Harold Jacobson, publicity chairman.

Had 42 Charter Members.

Organized in 1904 with 42 members who met at Race's hall, 4156 Irving Park rd., the congregation moved to its present site in October, 1910. The membership has grown to 500. Oldest organization within the church is its Sunday school, which was begun even before the church was organized. Arnesen has served as superintendent since 1905. Mrs. Arnesen, then Louise Rizor, was present when the Sunday school was organized.

Other organizations in the church include the Brotherhood, formed in 1906; Ladies' guild, organized during the pastorate of the Rev. Charles P. MacLaughlin, first pastor of Calvary; Women's Missionary society, organized in 1916; Luther league, formed in 1906, and the Woman's congress group, organized one year ago.

First Pastor in 1904.

The Rev. Mr. MacLaughlin served the church from 1904 to 1906, the Rev. J. M. Bramkamp from 1906 to 1921, and the present pastor assumed his post Oct. 1, 1921.

A native of Ohio, the Rev. Mr. Spaid attended Wittenberg college at Springfield, O., and was graduated from Hamma divinity school. He served pastorates in Newark, Springfield, and Carey, all in Ohio, before coming to Calvary church. The Spaids have two sons in the ministry, the Rev. John M. Spaid of the Reformation Lutheran church, Chicago, and the Rev. J. Robert Spaid, now a navy chaplain in the Pacific.

The North American service of the BBC from London includes the following programs today. The frequencies [in megacycles] employed after 4:15 p. m. are: 11.93, 9.58, 9.82, 6.11, 7.26, 9.51. 4:45 p. m.—News; 5:00 p. m.—London Philharmonic; 6:30 p. m.—Radio Newsreel; 8:15 p. m.—Sunday Service; 9:10 p. m.—Tomorrow's London Papers; 11:30 p. m.—News.

DUNPHY, CORUM, SLATER TO AIR WORLD SERIES

W-G-N-Mutual to Carry Exclusive Reports.

BY LARRY WOLTERS.

When the world series is broadcast over W-G-N and Mutual, exclusively, starting at 1 p. m., Wednesday, Oct. 4, Don Dunphy, Bill Slater, and Bill Corum will be the reporters. Dunphy and Slater will give the play by play and Corum the color. Red Barber will not be heard this year. Bob Elson, who reported the series for so many years, is serving in the navy.

Professional football broadcasts will start over WIND at 1:55 p. m. today with a report of the Bears game at Green Bay. Bert Wilson will be the reporter. The entire Bears' schedule will be broadcast by WIND.

The Detroit Symphony orchestra will be heard over the Mutual system in a series of Saturday evening concerts this season. The concerts will be aired at 7:30 p. m. When the series gets under way each of the major networks will have an outstanding symphony orchestra on the air under sponsorship. CBS has the New York Philharmonic at 2 p. m. Sundays, NBC has its own orchestra, directed by Arturo Toscanini, at 4 p. m. Sundays, and the Blue network will have the Boston Symphony, returning Saturday, Oct. 7. The broadcast hour is 7 p. m.

The W-G-N Symphony orchestra broadcasts a concert from Orchestra hall over W-G-N at 8:30 p. m. Tuesdays.

Your America, half hour radio show saluting states and industries served by the Union Pacific railroad, with talks by governors of western states, will move from NBC to 115 Mutual stations on Sunday, Oct. 15. It will be heard at 3 p. m. Elden Westley is the narrator for a weekly war story and Leo Kopp the musical director.

Vic and Sade, one of radio's oldest day time serials, is signing off at the end of this week. In the 12 years it has been on the air Paul Rhymer has written it and Art Van Harvey and Bernardine Flynn played the title roles. Rusk, their son, was played for years by Billy Idelson until he joined the navy. Many listeners will regret its departure because it was slanted with comedy rather than the trials and tribulations of family life.

W-G-N plans to rebroadcast "The Story of Human Birth" on The Human Adventure at 8:30 tomorrow night. This is being done for the benefit of expectant fathers in the military service. The repeat broadcast has been arranged at the request of the Morale Service division, Army Service forces.

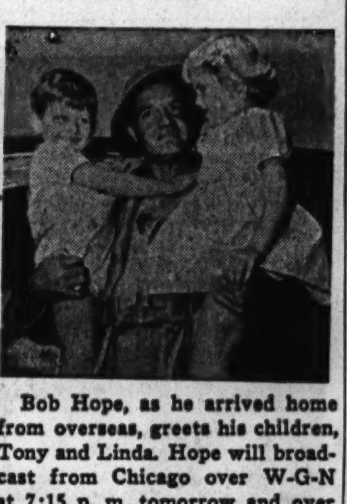
Greets Children



Bob Hope, as he arrived home from overseas, greets his children, Tony and Linda. Hope will broadcast from Chicago over W-G-N at 7:15 p. m. tomorrow and over WMAQ at 9 p. m. Tuesday.

MISSION CHIMES LEGEND THEME OF AIR THEATER

"The Chimes of San Sebastian," a musical-dramatic legend built around an ageless set of mission chimes, will be presented on The Chicago Theater of the Air, over W-G-N, WGNB and the Mutual network from 8 to 9 p. m. next Saturday. The broadcast will originate in W-G-N's main audience studio.

Col. Robert R. McCormick, editor and publisher of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE, will speak on the program.

Virginia Haskins, soprano, Bruce Foote, baritone, and Ruth Slater, contralto, will be the vocalists, and Robert Quick will be the violin soloist. Musical accompaniment will be provided by the W-G-N Symphony orchestra and chorus conducted by Henry Weber.

Mona Paulee Is Guest on Kostelanetz Program

Mona Paulee, Metropolitan opera mezzo-soprano, will be a guest on the Andre Kostelanetz program over WBBM-CBS at 3:30 p. m. today. She will feature Velasquez's "Besame Mucho." The chorus will join her in Herbert's "Romany Life." Kostelanetz will direct the orchestra in Arlen's "Stormy Weather," Arensky's "Waltz," Grever's "What a Difference a Day Makes," and Rodgers' "Dear Friend."

Philharmonic to Offer All-Request Program

An all-request program, consisting of works chosen by members of the radio audience, will be offered by the New York Philharmonic orchestra on WBBM-CBS at 2 p. m. today. Vladimir Golschmann will conduct the overture to Wagner's "The Mastersingers of Nuremberg," the "Prelude" and "Love-Death" from Wagner's "Tristan and Isolde," and Brahms' First Symphony in C minor.

Stanley Johnston to Be Heard as W-G-N Guest

Stanley Johnston, foreign correspondent of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE, will talk on Mexico on the Distinguished Guest hour over W-G-N at 1:30 p. m. today. Mr. Johnston recently returned from Mexico where he gathered material for a series of stories for THE TRIBUNE.

Tschaikowsky Symphony to Be Aired Tuesday

Tschaikowsky's Symphony No. 5 will be presented when the W-G-N Symphony orchestra broadcasts its weekly concert from Orchestra hall over W-G-N and WGNB at 8:30 p. m. Tuesday. The orchestra will also present the overture to "Coriolanus" by Beethoven.

LOT BUYER HAS AN INVESTMENT IN THE FUTURE

BY LOUISE BARGELT.

Post-war houses are being widely discussed. Every one agrees that many American families are going to build new homes as soon as V-day comes and materials are available. Post-war planners already are hoarding ideas and house plans and even shopping around for lots.

Before purchasing a lot there are many practical points for a home owner to consider, over and above his individual problems and preferences, which, of course, must be decided on personal grounds.

Choice of location is one of a number of considerations a buyer should have before him when he starts on a search for a home site.

Vacant Lot an Investment.

A vacant lot is an investment in the future comfort of a family since transportation, shopping centers, schools, and churches are all points which will have direct bearing on the comfort of the entire family.

It also is well to consider whether the site is in a neighborhood with a class of people the buyer and his family will enjoy.

Important likewise to check on are adjoining or surrounding improvements, building restrictions, and zoning ordinances. Building restrictions or the lack of them can affect an owner's pocketbook and happiness, but no one wants a lot that is in a neighborhood so highly restricted that he cannot build a house to meet the standards of the block or the area.

Buyer Must Consider Needs.

If a buyer has a certain house design in mind he should ask himself if the site will lend itself to the type of home he intends to build. Also, is the lot large enough to accommodate the needs of a growing family? War gardens are not going to end with the war and a site which is large enough for a garden will be a boon to the buyer who is looking ahead to five or 10 years from now.

What one buyer and his family consider as necessities may not seem at all pressing to another buyer. One man's hobby may be a garden, another may prefer golf and want to be close to a country club. No one can expect to find all the features of which he dreams. Most of us have to squeeze our dreams into molds of reality. But by checking over your most imperative demands, you can find a lot which measures up to a high percentage of them.

GREEN NAMES 5 S. SIDERS TO ADVISE VETS

Help Re-Establish Service Men.

Gov. Green has appointed five south and southwest area men to full time state positions as advisers to discharged veterans. Working under the governor's committee for veterans' rehabilitation and employment they will be assigned to five strategically located draft boards.

The men are Harry D. De Laney, 6024 Eberhart av.; Harry J. Keefer, 6811 Stony Island av.; John Guerin, 7217 Emerald av.; Millard A. Rauhoff, 13021 Maple st., Blue Island, and Stanley S. Schmeiding, Plainfield.

Guerin is a veteran of the present war. A graduate of Mount Carmel High school, he resigned from the American Brake Shoe company to enlist in the signal corps in 1942. He was discharged seven months later because of arthritis. He resigned as a buyer for the Link Belt company last month to take part in the governor's program. He will be assigned to board 21 at 2517 W. 69th st.

Advisers Complete Instruction.

Wounded by shrapnel in the battle of the Somme in World War I., Schmeiding is a veteran member of the Plainfield American Legion post. He has held every post office and has been commander of the 11th district. A former painter and interior decorator, he also is president of the board of the Plainfield Consolidated school. He will be assigned to the offices of Will county's five draft boards at 126 N. Scott st., Joliet.

The advisers recently completed a course in their new duties at Springfield during which Gov. Green urged them to "help every individual Illinois veteran to help himself" thru provisions of the state and federal programs. The two programs, which are interlocking, provide for pensions, hospitalization, housing, education, and employment. The state program is designed to cover situations not handled under the federal program.

11 in Cook County.

Counselors have been provided with all necessary forms for the discharged veteran and will install a vocational program with the aid of the state department of labor, the United States employment service, industry, and civic organizations designed to find the right job for every discharged service man.

Eleven advisers have been appointed for Cook county, while the other 101 counties in the state will have one adviser each.

5 S. W. WOMEN NAMED LEADERS FOR FUND DRIVE

Mrs. Frank White, 1716 W. 103d st., chairman of the southwest side women's solicitation committee for the Community and War Fund, has announced the appointment of five new district chairmen.

They are Mrs. Richard S. Keating, 5731 S. Winchester av., Garfield-Damen; Mrs. Robert Ferguson, 6502 S. Hermitage av., Ogden Hill; Mrs. Joseph Webber, 7531 Yale av., Englewood; Mrs. Charles Caine, 2022 W. 103d st., Beverly, and Mrs. Ernest Goetzki, 1711 W. 104th st., Washington Heights and Fernwood.

More than 5,000 women are expected to take part in a house to house campaign which will start Oct. 16, Mrs. White said. The campaign is designed to reach housewives, retired persons and those with incomes but no place of business.

VETERAN SEABEE 500TH IN SWIFT POST OF LEGION

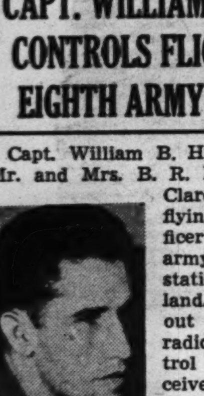
Following his release from service after eight months in the South Pacific, Michael L. Egan, 6520 Harvard av., has become the 500th member of the American Legion, Gen. John Swift post.

As a member of the Seabees he saw action in the Samoas, New Hebrides, Guadalcanal, and Tulagi. He holds a presidential citation and the good conduct medal and has five brothers in the service with a sixth to be inducted shortly.

An employe of Swift & Co. for 18 years, he is married and has a three month old daughter, Sheila Marie.

CAPT. WILLIAM HUGILL CONTROLS FLIGHTS OF EIGHTH ARMY PLANES

Capt. William B. Hugill, son of Mr. and Mrs. B. R. Hugill, 10412 Claremont av., is flying control officer at an 8th army air force station in England. He checks out flights by radio from a control tower, receives reports on the progress of missions, and guides the planes to landing when they return. He is an alumnus of Morgan Park Military academy and the University of Illinois. At both schools he won several trophies and medals in track events, and has won a track trophy in England. He entered the army as a reserve officer in July, 1941, and has been overseas a year.



Capt. W. B. Hugill.

Young Students at U. of C. College to Begin Studies This Week

Young students from all parts of the country were welcomed to the college of the University of Chicago by Dean C. H. Faust. The college quarter will open Tuesday after a 10 day orientation period.

Grouped around Dean Faust in Oriental institute, where he made his welcoming address, are first and second year students, most of whom will receive bachelor's degrees at 18. Seated on the step, left to right, are Lillian Pence, 6321 Kedvale av., 15; Frances Carlin, Niles, Mich., 16; Mary Grinter, 1321 E. 56th st., 16; Dean Faust; Denny left to right, are Charlotte Kornitzer, Detroit, Mich., 16; Gay Secor, Mich., 16; Mary Grinter, 1321 E. 56th st., 16; Dean Faust; Denny Denman, 5442 Hyde Park blvd., 15; Dave Bushnell, Glendale, Cal., 17; Chuck Grant, 11214 Avenue L, 17; Peggy Wilson, 5736 Harper av., 15; Rosemary Raymond, 5652 Kenwood av., 16; Walt Goedecke, Gary, Ind., 16; Bill Flory, Pawnee City, Neb., 17, and George Bagnall, Vernon, B. C., 16.

Out of town students of the college evinced an immediate interest in the Gothic architecture of the buildings which are to be their home for the next three or four years.

Conducting a sight seeing tour of the campus is H. W. Mort, director of the Alumni foundation. At his right is Carol Wright of Decatur, Ga. Reading clockwise, those in the picture are Marilynn Northam, Crete; Bill Naland, Abilene, Kas.; Elizabeth Clifford, Cambridge, Ill.; Douglas Stewart, Denver, Colo.; Nancy Babcock, Riverside, Cal.; Arthur Horowitz, New Haven, Conn., and Marilyn Cole, Wellesley Hills, Mass.

Readying their rooms for their first extensive stay away from home was a first day project for many. All first and second year students of the college who do not stay at home must live in the supervised dormitories. Shown helping Rue Bucher, Pittsburgh, Pa., center, unpack are Jean Victor, 6858 Crandon av., left, and Barbara Gustafson, 6700 Crandon av.

In addition to adult counsel, first year students benefit from the advice of seniors in the college. Left to right are Gloria Sandalis, 6950 Harvard av., senior, 19; Helen Skorohod, Clinton, Mass., freshman, 17; Joan Turnbloom, 8044 Laflin st., senior, 17, and Sylvia Hulett, Lockport, freshman, 16. The seniors will introduce new students to the university traditions and activities.

First and second year students also must eat at the dorms where dietitians prepare well balanced meals served in an atmosphere of charm and beauty. Partaking of their first Midway meal are Dottie Gregory, Atlantic City, N. J., and Nancy Carpenter, Rock Port, Mo.

Resting on the campus between sessions of a series of 10 placement tests are two southwest side first year students. Beverly Hills neighbors are Glenna Campbell, 10619 Longwood dr., left, and Nancy Kerr, 9020 Hamilton av. Both are 15 years old.

CONGRESS RACE OFF TO A HARD FIGHTING START

5 Districts Hinge on Real Work.

BY WILLIAM SHINNICK.

With both Democrats and Republicans realizing that the composition of the next congress is hardly less important than the choice for President, a hard fight is already on for congressional seats in five of the 11 Illinois districts which take in Chicago and the suburban area.

Trained political observers believe the issue in these districts—the 1st, 2d, 3d, 7th, and 9th—is uncertain and may remain so until the votes are counted on Nov. 7. They say that there is unquestionably a swing Republicanwards in Chicago and the whole state, but that this might be overcome by overconfidence or a lack of effort on the part of the G. O. P. organization.

A Question of Work.

Reports indicate that the regular Democratic machine and the CIO political action committee are now making titanic efforts to corral voters and may be depended upon to turn out all the New Deal and fourth term vote. A matching of this energy, in the opinion of G. O. P. leaders, will be enough to swing all five of the doubtful districts [two are now Republican] into the victory column.

The charge of indolence cannot be laid against the Republican nominees in the battlefield districts. All are holding meetings, personally soliciting votes and sending out literature defining and clarifying the issues. And they are all confident of election.

In the 1st district, taking in the loop and territory to the south, predominantly inhabited by Negroes, the incumbent Democrat is William L. Dawson, the only member of his race in congress. He is opposed by William E. King, political veteran and member of the state industrial commission.

Poll Is Encouraging.

"We are holding four or five meetings a night," King said. "I believe the tide has definitely turned our way. A poll taken recently at 35th and State streets showed Dewey leading Roosevelt 2 to 1. This sounds incredible, but our people are angry that Negro troops have been denied equal opportunities in the armed services because the commander in chief plays the game of reactionary southern senators."

The 1st has gone Democratic in the last three elections, but each time by less than 4,000 votes.

Downs Busy in Second.

In the 2d district, which includes the South Chicago industrial area, William A. Rowan, a Kelly organization Democrat, is the incumbent. He is opposed by Thomas J. Downs, attorney who opposed him in 1942 and was defeated by only 3,517 votes out of more than 216,000 cast. Downs is campaigning actively, attacking the "indispensable man" theory, the ill turns done labor by the administration, and its unfriendly attitude toward small business.

The Negro vote in the 2d is large and Downs expects to get the bulk of it. One of his opponents in the primary was Edgar G. Brown, who polled more than 10,000 votes. Brown has pledged his support and aid to Downs.

PAC Fighting Busbey.

In the 3d district the Republican incumbent, Fred E. Busbey, is opposed by Edward A. Kelly, organization Democrat who was elected to congress in 1940 and was the defeated candidate in 1942. Busbey, a member of the Dies committee, is an object of the attack of the communists and the PAC. He has said that he has no fear of the labor vote, even in the rank and file of CIO.

"I am labor's friend and labor knows it," he asserted. "It is only the PAC and the communist leadership in the union that is out against me."

Busbey's margin over Kelly two years ago was 5,981 votes.

Garland Keeps Active.

Charles H. Garland, mayor of Des Plaines and former radio executive, is the G. O. P. nominee in the huge 7th district, the largest in the United States—population about a million. Opposing him is William W. Link, Polish-American leader, member of the county civil service commission and a thorogoing orthodox Democratic organization follower.

Garland has been working on his campaign ever since the primary, in which he was a handy winner over three opponents. He is making his race on his record as a business man, an opponent of the New Deal, and a successful municipal executive. He is a veteran of World War I. and has two sons who are in the army air forces.

The 7th has not been represented in congress since the death of Leonard W. Schuetz, Democrat, who was elected in 1942 by a margin of only 1,975 out of 357,000 votes cast. The district covers much of the northwest side and a large suburban and rural area, and getting out the vote is a big task for both parties.

CIO Battling Dewey.

In the 9th district, north of the loop, the Republican incumbent, Charles S. Dewey, is running for reelection on a record of sturdy opposition to New Dealism and as an advocate of sound government finances. He formerly was financial adviser to the Polish government. His steady devotion to Republican principles has made him a special target of the CIO-PAC-Communist axis.

Opposing Congressman Dewey is

60 S. W. PUPILS BEGIN WORK AT U. OF C. COLLEGE

Boy, 13, Among Winners of Scholarships.

Sixty southwest side students will enter classes Tuesday at the College of the University of Chicago. They are among the 800 new students who have come from 233 cities to study under the new college plan developed at Chicago.

Youngest of the new southwest side students is David D. Moore, 13, 11112 S. Ashland av. He is attending on a $1,200 scholarship won in competition with more than 500 students. He is the second member of his family to attend the university, an uncle having received his law degree from Chicago.

Nancy Kerr, 9020 Hamilton av., also won a $1,200 scholarship and is the third generation Kerr to enter the university. Her grandmother and grandfather, Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Kerr, were graduated in 1902 and her father and mother, Mr. and Mrs. W. D. Kerr were graduated in 1925. An aunt and uncle also are alumni.

The parents of Carol Chism, 10612 Hoyne av., and Richard Zallys, 30 E. 111th st., also claim Chicago as their alma mater as do the fathers of Lionel Eubanks, Blue Island, and Glenn C. Stone, 9128 Leavitt st., who is attending on a scholarship.

Louis W. DePrez III., 10015 Longwood dr., who has been given a medical discharge from the army, is entering the third year of the college. Like all returning veterans, DePrez, who was in the army specialized training program, took a placement test designed to give him official credit for education received in the army.

Ninth Grader in Class.

An out of town student, Padraic Burns, who just finished the 9th grade in Garrison, N. Y., has qualified for the college. This year high school credits were abolished as the entrance basis and placement test were substituted to determine the academic standings. Padraic and his sister, Persis, are both registered in the first year of the college and are the children of Charles Burns, foreign news analyist.

The college differs in four ways from the conventional liberal arts college. Its program begins two years earlier permiting students to enter after two years of high school instead of four. Its curriculum consists of an integrated system of courses covering the principal fields of knowledge rather than an assortment of courses chosen by students. It measures the achievements of students and determines their eligibility for the bachelor's degree by comprehensive examinations rather than by adding up credits earned in separate courses. Students are expected to complete work for a bachelor's degree at 18 or 19.

Attendance Marks Set.

The new college enters its third autumn with first and second year enrollment showing a 100 per cent increase over last year. Four hundred and fifty new and returning students entered at these levels.

Southwest siders attending on scholarships granted last spring include: Carol Chism, Lionel G. Eubanks, Blue Island; Julia Haelig, 9647 Seeley av., and Carl Westberg, 10444 Seeley av.

Other southwest siders attending are Sheldon I. Cooper, Christian H. Froemke Jr., Corinne Heffron, Colin W. McCord, Coral Matthews, Lillian Emily Pence, Ann Schmitz, Velma J. MacMillan, Loretta J. Brahm, Esther R. Brasco, Patricia J. Breen, William M. Cunnea, Shirley M. Dahner, William A. Daum, Helene E. Freeman, Barbara J. Gee, Donald C. Goodman, Betty J. Hansen, Helen V. Hartmann, Viola M. Hodin, Allan V. Jay Jr.

Southwest Students Listed.

Virginia L. Johnson, Glenne B. Campbell, Edward P. Kazakauskas, Anita Koenig, Lillian T. Lundgren, William H. Marschall, Elizabeth M. McDowell, Patricia M. McNamara, Martha R. Mizinski, Amelia C. Montowisky, Mary Psomakas, Lois L. Robart, William R. Shealy Jr., Annette R. Shugen, Shirley M. Soderstrom, Thaddeus Tala, Gilda Vaslow, Donna E. Verstrate, Natalie C. Wenhoff, and Dona Zweigoron.

St. Catherine's Mission Holds Party Wednesday

As a benefit for the Sisters of the Blessed Sacrament, the St. Catherine's Mission society will hold a party at 8 p. m. Wednesday in Kenwood hall, 1361 E. 47th st. Mrs. T. J. Naddy, 5515 Kimbark av., is directing plans for the party.

CONGRESS RACE OFF TO A HARD FIGHTING START

5 Districts Hinge on Real Work.

Alexander Ress, assistant corporation counsel and the choice of the city hall organization. Dewey, who has been elected three times by margains of 2,000 to 6,000 votes, is campaigning actively.

Business Men Active.

The five districts with close contests have been chosen as a field of action by the business men's committee formed to assist the Republican cause. More than 1,500 volunteer workers have been signed up, according to Frank J. Durham, insurance executive who heads this group. He added that there is a need for hundreds more. The office of the committee is at 53 W. Jackson boulevard—telephone Harrison 6515.

"We are not duplicating the work of the party organization," said Durham. "We are working with it."

Observers see little chance for any change in the other six districts in the Chicago and suburban area. In the 4th, on the southwest side, Leo J. Kozicki, Republican, is running against Martin Gorski, incumbent. The normal Democratic vote here is nearly 3 to 1.

Other District Races.

In the 5th, with a population of only 112,000, Adolph J. Sabath seems to be safe again. Max Price is the G. O. P. nominee. In the 6th, where the Republican vote will be split between the nominee, Charles J. Anderson Jr., and an independent, Ivar Henderson, it appears that Thomas J. O'Brien, incumbent Democrat, will be able to coast in. The last election gave O'Brien a 38,000 plurality.

See Victory for Church.

The 8th, a pocket borough, usually is 3 to 1 Democratic. The incumbent is Thomas S. Gordon. His opponent is John F. Uczciwek, real estate and insurance broker, who is making a real effort and may cut deeply into the usual Democratic vote.

In the 10th, Ralph E. Church is expected to win. His plurality two years ago exceeded 62,000. His opponent is Curtis D. MacDougall, Northwestern university professor and a New Deal Democrat, who is making an energetic campaign. The district covers the north shore, part of Chicago, and all of Lake county.

In the 11th, composed of McHenry, Kane, Du Page, and Will counties, Chauncey W. Reed, incumbent, is regarded as a sure winner. The district went 57,000 Republican in 1942. Otto Joseph Hruby Jr. is the Democratic nominee.

Campion Mothers Meet at Luncheon Tomorrow

The Campion Mothers club will hold its freshman luncheon at 12:30 p. m. tomorrow in the Wedgewood room at Marshall Field & Co. The Rev. Thomas J. Stemper will speak. Olive O'Neil, actress, is also on the program. Mrs. Robert E. Bonner Sr. is president of the club.

This WEEK in the GARDEN

Monday, Sept. 25.

Autumn is now with us and the gardener must make plans to care for his plants, clean up all debris, give protection where it is needed, and look to the plants that are to be grown indoors. Early spring perennials can be removed with safety, especially peonies, oriental poppies, and iris, and the early bulbous plants like narcissi and Lilium candidum.

Tulips also can be planted before severe weather sets in. By all means get them in the ground and do not allow them to lie around all winter, expecting to plant them in the spring, for it is then too late.

Tuesday, Sept. 26.

Among the minor bulbs there is nothing more delightful than to use drifts or irregular bands of the grape hyacinth, snowdrops, squills, or glory-of-the-snow. They endure, under proper care, for a long time.

Do not plant hardy lilies too shallow; the depth depends on the kind and strength of the bulbs. Some of the best for general purposes include the regale and speciosum species.

Wednesday, Sept. 27.

Lay in a good supply of soil for winter use and for sowing seed in early spring. Any highly prepared vegetable soil, plus sand, will suffice for seed sowing. The house plants should now be indoors. The poinsettia and gardenia plants should be brought in at once. Both are highly tropical and resent sudden changes in temperature. A sudden cool snap is likely to cause the leaves to turn yellow and fall.

All plants grown in the home should be sprayed frequently and a knowledge of watering is most important. Water when the soil is dry and the plants need water, and water until the soil is wet thru.

Thursday, Sept. 28.

Prepare the ground for vegetables in the fall by spading and leaving the soil in a rough state for frost to act on during the winter. If manure can be obtained, spade under a good amount and it will decay by spring. If well rotted manure is at hand it can be used in spring, but only if well decayed.

Friday, Sept. 29.

Lift dahlia tubers after the first killing freeze. Cut the stalks to within six inches of the ground and leave the tubers in the ground for a week or 10 days for ripening. Dig with a spading fork to prevent cutting the tubers. Turn upside down to drain and stand in the sun for a few hours to dry. Keep in a dry, frostproof cellar during winter, with the temperature around 55 degrees but no higher.

Saturday, Sept. 30.

Fertilizing trees in the fall with a commercial fertilizer will prove beneficial when growth starts in spring. Some trees and shrubs can be planted successfully in the fall, but do not plant the stone fruit trees or thin skinned trees like the birch, magnolia, or sassafras.

Prepared in coöperation with Garfield Park conservatory.

LOT BUYER HAS AN INVESTMENT IN THE FUTURE

BY LOUISE BARGELT.

Post-war houses are being widely discussed. Every one agrees that many American families are going to build new homes as soon as V-day comes and materials are available. Post-war planners already are hoarding ideas and house plans and even shopping around for lots.

Before purchasing a lot there are many practical points for a home owner to consider, over and above his individual problems and preferences, which, of course, must be decided on personal grounds.

Choice of location is one of a number of considerations a buyer should have before him when he starts on a search for a home site.

Vacant Lot an Investment.

A vacant lot is an investment in the future comfort of a family since transportation, shopping centers, schools, and churches are all points which will have direct bearing on the comfort of the entire family.

It also is well to consider whether the site is in a neighborhood with a class of people the buyer and his family will enjoy.

Important likewise to check on are adjoining or surrounding improvements, building restrictions, and zoning ordinances. Building restrictions or the lack of them can affect an owner's pocketbook and happiness, but no one wants a lot that is in a neighborhood so highly restricted that he cannot build a house to meet the standards of the block or the area.

Buyer Must Consider Needs.

If a buyer has a certain house design in mind he should ask himself if the site will lend itself to the type of home he intends to build. Also, is the lot large enough to accommodate the needs of a growing family? War gardens are not going to end with the war and a site which is large enough for a garden will be a boon to the buyer who is looking ahead to five or 10 years from now.

What one buyer and his family consider as necessities may not seem at all pressing to another buyer. One man's hobby may be a garden, another may prefer golf and want to be close to a country club. No one can expect to find all the features of which he dreams. Most of us have to squeeze our dreams into molds of reality. But by checking over your most imperative demands, you can find a lot which measures up to a high percentage of them.

JUST CALL ME CHUM—WHAT'S A LITTLE RANK?

Much to the dismay of Corp. Joseph S. Surzyn, Blue Island, his newly appointed commanding officer, Maj. Louis J. Nicoletti of Philadelphia, Pa., has the same surname as Surzyn's buddy, Corp. Dominic J. Nicoletti of Huntington, N. Y.

Surzyn, who is stationed at an 8th air force fighter station in England as a switchboard operator, was on duty when his new commanding officer arrived. Unfortunately the corporal hadn't been informed of the impending change in personnel at the post.

So he was quite unprepared when a call came in and a brisk voice said: "I am Maj. Nicoletti. Is this army air force station No. . . .?"

There was silence. Then the voice said sharply, "This is Maj. Nicoletti. I am calling for transportation."

"Well, well, well," said the operator. "You wouldn't kid me would you Nick?"

The major was near apoplexy when suddenly the operator shouted in his ear: "Get off the line, Nick, I've got a lot of calls coming in."

At that point the major became emphatic and managed to get the call thru to the transportation section.

After a jeep had been dispatched to pick up the officer, Corp. Surzyn, still dubious, called the railway station and sadly learned the truth, which is why he's had a base case of telephone nerves ever since.

FLOOD PET NEWS EDITOR IN MAIL; HE'S IN MARINES

17 Year Old 'Prints' Last Edition for Duration.

BY ALBERT PUGNER.

As a soldier Frank Kiemele, 17, probably will receive much more mail than he can read conveniently. Recently sworn into the marine corps, he is awaiting a call to active service. Already 100 persons have written to his home, 6515 S. Keeley av., requesting his new address. More such requests probably are on the way for he is known to 2,500 persons in this and 21 foreign countries as the creator of Pet News—his own newspaper inspired by his love of animals and hatred of "dognapers."

Sally Kiemele.

Frank Kiemele.

Since Dec. 10, 1938, the date of his first issue, he and his sister, Sally, who illustrates the newspaper, have created and distributed a small 12 page publication devoted to the stimulation of kinder treatment to all animals. Until January of this year it was sent monthly without cost to all who requested it. Recent paper shortages cut the issue to one every other month.

Speaks at Conventions.

In addition, Frank has spoken over the radio and written radio scripts. He has appeared in many schools and at pet conventions, written special magazine and newspaper article and when he addressed the Matoon Humane society, he said: "If I can help in any way to make people want to help animals, I will do it even if I am scared stiff."

He has succeeded so well that the American Veterinary Medical association recently gave him its first national humane award which will be presented annually to the person under 18 who has done the most outstanding work in behalf of animals.

Pet News began shortly after Rinty's death. Rinty was a sharp eyed German shepherd puppy Frank found shivering in a field one winter day. Within a year developed a friendship that can be known only to a boy and a dog. Rinty liked to chase baseballs and one day while playing with several neighborhood boys, he chased a ball in to the street.

"Dognap" Animal.

A car stopped near Rinty. The dog was pulled into the auto and whisked away leaving Frank and his friends horrified.

Frank wrote to a newspaper and offered a reward. Hundreds of calls sent members of the Kiemele household in futile search all over the southwest side. Two weeks later one of the calls took Frank to a deserted store where he found Rinty sick and feeble.

Two weeks later Rinty died and a short time later Frank, then 11, made 10 copies of his first Pet News with pen and ink. His sister, Sally, drew figures of animals illustrating his articles. Frank wrote an editorial, "Dognapers," in the first issue which charged that "a dog thief is no better than a kidnaper."

By the third issue Frank had received requests for 100 copies. Dr. Wesley A. Young, managing director of the Anti-Cruelty society, invited Frank to use the society's mimeograph machine and the 100 requests were met. Donations, plus money he earned at odd jobs, enable Frank to publish his paper free.

Frank soon expects to be busy in the marines. His grandfather was in the army, his father was in the navy, so Frank is representing the family in another military service. Sally is engaged to Army Aviation Cadet Albert Weimer, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Weimer, 2057 Cermak rd., and they expect to marry soon. She is president of the American Red Star auxiliary of the Anti-Cruelty society.

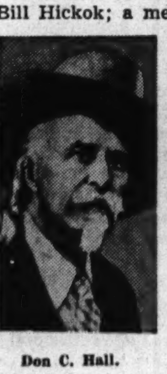
Frances Farrell Wed in Virginia

Mr. and Mrs. Frank T. Farrell, 819 W. 36th st., have announced the marriage of their daughter, Frances, to Lt. Duncan P. Wallace, son of Mr. and Mrs. Neil A. Wallace, Manchester, N. H. The ceremony took place in the chapel of the naval air base, Norfolk, Va. Lt. Wallace recently returned from 16 months' overseas duty. He attended Northeastern university, Boston, Mass., and his bride attended Wilson Junior college and Northwestern university.

PIONEER'S ROLE IS HIS IN REAL LIFE, ON STAGE

Mokena Man Recalls Hickok Slaying.

A witness of the shooting of Wild Bill Hickok; a member of the Wisconsin state legislature; an actor who has played in 46 states, and a temperance lecturer who has hitch-hiked 37,000 miles—Don C. Hall, 77, of Mokena, has been all of these.



Don C. Hall.

Still billed as "The Spirit of the West," Hall looks like a reincarnation of Buffalo Bill Cody, whom he knew. His long white hair flows over his shoulders and back from beneath a broad brimmed western style hat. A white goatee and an erect carriage complete the figure of a western pioneer, Hall's life time role.

Went West at 9.

Hall was 9 years old when he saw Wild Bill Hickok assassinated. Hall had gone with a friend of his father's from Eauplain, Wis., where Hall was born, to Deadwood, S. D., where the friend surveyed the possibilities of selling lumber in the west. Hall was among a group of boys who gaped at Hickok, the well known marshal from Hayes City, Kas., as he rode into Deadwood and strode into a saloon on Aug. 2, 1876.

The boys were still gaping when Jack McCaul, described as a renegade by Hall, stepped to the door of the tavern and shot Hickok thru the back of the neck. Hall still remembers how McCaul ran from the saloon into a butcher shop where he was cowed by Calamity Jane Burke with the aid of a meat cleaver. Calamity Jane later presented Hickok's boots to Hall and his wife, Clara.

Joins Drama Company.

About 1887 Hall began to devote all of his time to the two activities which have been his life's work—drama and temperance. He joined the Edwin Clifford dramatic company as a property man and whenever and wherever he got the audience he would lecture on temperance. S. H. Crocker, a Wisconsin minister, introduced Hall to temperance work and Hall later married Crocker's daughter, Clara. She is now 78 and they have been married 56 years.

After their marriage the Halls toured together. They took part in such plays as "East Lynn," "Ten Nights in a Bar Room," and Shakespeare's "King Richard III."

Sent to Legislature.

One day after Hall had dedicated a new dormitory of a school in Kentucky, it was suggested to him that he get into politics. He ran for the Wisconsin state assembly in 1910 and was defeated. But in 1912 he was elected representative from Portage county and introduced a law permitting the organization of coöperative credit groups in Wisconsin.

Today, after 56 years in the show business, the Halls still are enthusiastic about dramatic work and are looking forward to a fall season of work in clubs, churches, and schools.

In recent years the Halls have taken up hitch-hiking to the extent of approximately 37,000 miles. This constant travel helps them to keep a youthful, fresh outlook, says Hall. They hitch-hiked to the Golden Gate International exposition and the New York World fair.

Lieutenant's Bride

[Aristo Photo.]

MRS. RENZO PESAVENTO.

The marriage of Dora Caracciolo to Lt. Renzo J. Pesavento, son of Mr. and Mrs. Dominic Pesavento, 116 N. Keeler av., is announced by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Louis Caracciolo, 5410 S. Mozart st. The couple is living in New York City, where Lt. Pesavento is stationed. He was graduated from the engineering school of Notre Dame university and received his commission at Yale university, New Haven, Conn.

CONDUCTOR, 70, TAKES TO RAILS FOR VACATIONS

Thomas Allen, 70, 9811 Hoyne av., a Pullman conductor for 33 years, likes his work so much that he has turned down two chances to retire with a pension. He even likes to travel on his vacations and has visited most of the United States, Mexico, Canada, and fairs in San Francisco, New York, San Diego, and Texas.

"Railroad work gets in your blood," says Allen, a genial, soft speaking, white haired man. "You deal with nice people, live in nice hotels, and get a lot of personal satisfaction from your work." About the only exception to the "nice people" who have ridden with Allen is the man who cheated him out of the price of a sleeping car berth to St. Paul, Minn.

Count Tale Fools Him.

The man implied he was a Russian count. He had his day coach ticket but said his wallet containing his money and sleeper ticket had been stolen. The $300 monetary loss was trivial, he told Allen, but the wallet contained his family seal drawn by a close friend. It was priceless, Allen sympathized, gave the man a birth, charged it to himself, and arranged meals for his distressed passenger.

"I will get plenty of money in St. Paul," explained the man, "but in case I forget to pay you, write to me at the Chase National bank, New York. Allen never was repaid and received a statement from the bank that his passenger had no account there.

Was Clerk at 15.

Allen went to work as a clerk at 15 in the Minneapolis office of the Chicago, Milwaukee, St. Paul and Pacific railroad, temporarily taking the place of his brother who was ill. But the temporary job stretched into a railroad career than spans 55 years.

After a short layoff because of the railroad strike in 1894, Allen went back to work as a yard clerk for the Milwaukee railroad, worked up to freight and passenger agent at Butte, Mont., and in 1905 was appointed a traveling agent.

He left railroad work in 1906 to sell insurance and promote an architectural magazine but four years later he became a sleeping car conductor and has been one ever since.

Allen works on the Pioneer Limited which runs between Chicago and Minneapolis and among his passengers have been many famous persons, including Gen. Leonard A. Wood, Theodore Roosevelt, Eamon de Valera, Fritz Kreisler, Ethel, John, and Lionel Barrymore, Irving Berlin, and James Farley. No babies have been born on his run, but there have been two natural deaths. "We have never had a wreck," he adds as he knocks on wood.

Takes 10:15 p. m. Train.

Allen leaves home at 7 p. m. on the night of his run, reports at the Union station at 8:45 p. m. where he sits at a table near the train gates and checks in his passengers. Just before the train leaves at 10:15 p. m. he receives a diagram showing the location of his passengers in the car.

As the train rolls along he sells sleeper tickets to passengers who have not had time to get them, checks to see if all passengers are aboard, straightens out any errors in accommodations, writes a report of the car earnings, and arranges for porters to call passengers in time to get off at their stations.

Sleeps on Trip.

He sleeps for three hours during the trip and at 6 a. m. finishes his reports. At 8:20 a. m. his train arrives in Minneapolis. He turns in his reports to a receiving cashier of the Pullman company and is free until 9:15 p. m. when he repeats his trip back to Chicago. After checking out of the Chicago station at 8:10 a. m., he is home on his layover until the next run. He works four consecutive runs and then has a night off.

Allen, a widower, lives with his daughter, Miss Ethel Irene Allen. Another daughter, Mrs. Helen M. Bridge, lives at 9806 Hoyne av.

Jean Fern Is Bride of Soldier

Jean Fern, daughter of Mrs. J. W. Fern, 10220 Green st., was married recently to Pvt. Walter E. Simons, son of Mr. and Mrs. Stuart R. Simons, 11338 Normal av. Both Pvt. Simons and his bride are graduates of Fenger High school. The bride is living with her mother while her husband is overseas.

MOTHER'S SPIRIT SETS EXAMPLE FOR DAUGHTERS

Four See Active Role in Red Cross.

A mother's World War I. example of patriotism, charity, and kindness toward others is still in evidence thru the actions of four of her daughters who are helping the Red Cross meet its emergency in World War II.

The mother was the late Mrs. Frank Cylkowski, 3611 S. Hermitage av., who with Mrs. Joseph Zintak, a neighbor, organized a unit of the White Cross which made and sent scarves, sweaters, helmets, stockings, and shirts to American soldiers of Polish descent who were training in Canada. All of the Cylkowski's five daughters and four sons, and the Zintak's seven sons, took some part in their mothers' program of doing something for others during the first World war.

Marriage Strengthens Bond.

This bond between the two families was strengthened by marriage when two of the Cylkowski sisters married two Zintak brothers to become Mrs. John Zintak, 6153 S. Fairfield av., and Mrs. Frank Zintak, 3134 W. 44th st. Both have always lived on the southwest side. Two other sisters who are busy with Red Cross tasks are Miss Angela Cylkowski, who lives with Mrs. John Zintak, and Mrs. Anne Urnes, Michigan City, Ind.

With the outbreak of World War II. the sisters remembered their mother's request "to keep busy in time of trouble helping others."

Has Many Activities.

Mrs. John Zintak became Red Cross chairman for the Chicago Lawn Woman's club; community chairman of Chicago Lawn, Marquette Manor, and West Lawn, as well as chairman of the Chicago Lawn production unit. All day Monday and Wednesday she works in the basement of the Chicago Lawn library, 6234 S. Kedzie av., where she and the 100 women of her unit make 2,000 surgical dressings each meeting. They also make kit bags, scarves, shirts, and other Red Cross articles. On Friday Mrs. Zintak packs the material for shipment to Red Cross headquarters.

She has one son, Sgt. John Zintak Jr., who is an army communications chief instructor at Camp Gordon, Ga. Her sister, Angela, district superintendent of the Chicago schools, is a member of her production unit.

Twenty-five Blood Donors.

Mrs. Zintak is proud of the 25 blood donors in her unit who have donated 125 pints to the Red Cross. She has given eight pints and has spent over 5,000 hours sewing, knitting, packing material, and organizing her units but she would rather talk about her sister, Mrs. Frank Zintak, who is Red Cross community and war fund chairman for Brighton Park, chairman of two church units, vice president of the Polish civilian war relief unit affiliated with the Red Cross, and general chairman and instructor in the preparation of surgical dressings of 179 production units.

All of her time on Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday, and Thursday is devoted to Red Cross work. She collected $7,000 during the last fund drive and over 900,000 surgical dressings have been made by the 500 women under her supervision. Her son, Pvt. Francis V. Zintak, is stationed with an army topographical engineers unit in Australia, and her son-in-law, Corp. Joseph Pacer, is in service in Normandy, France.

Teaches First Aid.

The fourth Cylkowski sister who has returned to Red Cross activity is Mrs. Anne Urnes, a nurse, who is chairman of the Michigan City, Ind., chapter, and teaches first aid and home nursing.

Mrs. John Zintak believes all the sisters will continue working in some of the many civilian activities of the Red Cross after the war.

ON SHORT WAVES

LONDON.

The North American service of the BBC from London includes the following programs today. The frequencies [in megacycles] employed after 4:15 p. m. are: 11.93, 9.58, 9.82, 6.11, 7.26, 9.51. 4:45 p. m.—News; 5:00 p. m.—London Philharmonic; 6:30 p. m.—Radio Newsreel; 8:15 p. m.—Sunday Service; 9:10 p. m.—Tomorrow's London Papers; 11:30 p. m.—News.

SOUTH SIDE Y TEACHES HOW TO JITTERBUG

To the Y. W. C. A. jitterbugging is not only a form of dancing but an excellent means of exercising. Therefore, the South Side Center Y, 6753 Stony Island av., has launched a series of weekly classes in jitterbugging.

The classes, which are held at 7:30 p. m. each Monday for both boys and girls and are taught by Betty Van de Haften.

Mrs. Moss Wright, director of the center has announced another unique class at the south side Y which offers housewives an opportunity to keep a girlish figure. The physical fitness course will be given on Tuesday and Friday mornings and is expected to attract swing shift war workers as well as the shopper crowd.

Mona Paulee Is Guest on Kostelanetz Program

Mona Paulee, Metropolitan opera mezzo-soprano, will be a guest on the Andre Kostelanetz program over WBBM-CBS at 3:30 p. m. today. She will feature Velasquez's "Besame Mucho." The chorus will join her in Herbert's "Romany Life." Kostelanetz will direct the orchestra in Arlen's "Stormy Weather," Arensky's "Waltz," Grever's "What a Difference a Day Makes," and Rodgers' "Dear Friend."

Tschaikowsky Symphony to Be Aired Tuesday

Tschaikowsky's Symphony No. 5 will be presented when the W-G-N Symphony orchestra broadcasts its weekly concert from Orchestra hall over W-G-N and WGNB at 8:30 p. m. Tuesday. The orchestra will also present the overture to "Coriolanus" by Beethoven.

DUNPHY, CORUM, SLATER TO AIR WORLD SERIES

W-G-N-Mutual to Carry Exclusive Reports.

BY LARRY WOLTERS.

When the world series is broadcast over W-G-N and Mutual, exclusively, starting at 1 p. m., Wednesday, Oct. 4, Don Dunphy, Bill Slater, and Bill Corum will be the reporters. Dunphy and Slater will give the play by play and Corum the color. Red Barber will not be heard this year. Bob Elson, who reported the series for so many years, is serving in the navy.

Professional football broadcasts will start over WIND at 1:55 p. m. today with a report of the Bears game at Green Bay. Bert Wilson will be the reporter. The entire Bears' schedule will be broadcast by WIND.

The Detroit Symphony orchestra will be heard over the Mutual system in a series of Saturday evening concerts this season. The concerts will be aired at 7:30 p. m. When the series gets under way each of the major networks will have an outstanding symphony orchestra on the air under sponsorship. CBS has the New York Philharmonic at 2 p. m. Sundays, NBC has its own orchestra, directed by Arturo Toscanini, at 4 p. m. Sundays, and the Blue network will have the Boston Symphony, returning Saturday, Oct. 7. The broadcast hour is 7 p. m.

The W-G-N Symphony orchestra broadcasts a concert from Orchestra hall over W-G-N at 8:30 p. m. Tuesdays.

Your America, half hour radio show saluting states and industries served by the Union Pacific railroad, with talks by governors of western states, will move from NBC to 115 Mutual stations on Sunday, Oct. 15. It will be heard at 3 p. m. Elden Westley is the narrator for a weekly war story and Leo Kopp the musical director.

Vic and Sade, one of radio's oldest day time serials, is signing off at the end of this week. In the 12 years it has been on the air Paul Rhymer has written it and Art Van Harvey and Bernardine Flynn played the title roles. Rusk, their son, was played for years by Billy Idelson until he joined the navy. Many listeners will regret its departure because it was slanted with comedy rather than the trials and tribulations of family life.

W-G-N plans to rebroadcast "The Story of Human Birth" on The Human Adventure at 8:30 tomorrow night. This is being done for the benefit of expectant fathers in the military service. The repeat broadcast has been arranged at the request of the Morale Service division, Army Service forces.

Stanley Johnston to Be Heard as W-G-N Guest

Stanley Johnston, foreign correspondent of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE, will talk on Mexico on the Distinguished Guest hour over W-G-N at 1:30 p. m. today. Mr. Johnston recently returned from Mexico where he gathered material for a series of stories for THE TRIBUNE.

Brickhouse to Speak.

Jack Brickhouse, W-G-N sports reporter, will be the guest speaker at a meeting of the Alpha Kappa Psi fraternity of Northwestern university to be held at the Maryland hotel, 900 Rush st., tomorrow evening.

Greets Children

Bob Hope, as he arrived home from overseas, greets his children, Tony and Linda. Hope will broadcast from Chicago over W-G-N at 7:15 p. m. tomorrow and over WMAQ at 9 p. m. Tuesday.

MISSION CHIMES LEGEND THEME OF AIR THEATER

"The Chimes of San Sebastian," a musical-dramatic legend built around an ageless set of mission chimes, will be presented on The Chicago Theater of the Air, over W-G-N, WGNB and the Mutual network from 8 to 9 p. m. next Saturday. The broadcast will originate in W-G-N's main audience studio.

Col. Robert R. McCormick, editor and publisher of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE, will speak on the program.

Virginia Haskins, soprano, Bruce Foote, baritone, and Ruth Slater, contralto, will be the vocalists, and Robert Quick will be the violin soloist. Musical accompaniment will be provided by the W-G-N Symphony orchestra and chorus conducted by Henry Weber.

Philharmonic to Offer All-Request Program

An all-request program, consisting of works chosen by members of the radio audience, will be offered by the New York Philharmonic orchestra on WBBM-CBS at 2 p. m. today. Vladimir Golschmann will conduct the overture to Wagner's "The Mastersingers of Nuremberg," the "Prelude" and "Love-Death" from Wagner's "Tristan and Isolde," and Brahms' First Symphony in C minor.

MANY BENEFITS—ONE OBLIGATION: Over 500,000 book-reading families now belong to the Book-of-the-Month Club. They do so in order to keep themselves from missing the important new books they are really interested in.

As a Club member, you receive an advance publication report about the judges' choice—and also reports about all other important coming books. If you decide you want the book-of-the-month, you let it come. If not (on a blank always provided) you can specify some other book you want or simply say: "Send me nothing."

Last year the retail value of free books given to Club members was over $7,000,000—given, not sold! These book-dividends could be distributed free because so many subscribers ordinarily want the book-of-the-month that an enormous edition can be printed. The saving on this quantity-production enables the Club to buy the right to print other fine library volumes. These are then manufactured and distributed free among subscribers – one for every two books-of-the-month purchased.

You pay no yearly fee as a member. Your one obligation is that you must buy no fewer than four books-of-the-month in any twelve-month period. Your subscription to the Club is not for one year, but as long as you decide; you can end it at any time after taking four books-of-the-month. You pay for the books as you get them—the regular retail price (frequently less) plus a small charge to cover postage and other mailing expenses. (Prices are slightly higher in Canada.)

YOU CAN BEGIN YOUR SUBSCRIPTION WITH ANY ONE OF THESE NATION-WIDE BEST-SELLERS

Ruth Gordon is both author of and principal player in the comedy "Over Twenty-One," which opens its third week at the Harris theater tomorrow.

'That's a Laff' Opens Tonight; Ballet Here Thursday

Other Musical, Drama Treats on Autumn Bill

By Claudia Cassidy.

Whenever you think the town is getting musically and theatrically dull, just arrange for me to take some time off. How things do happen! Last year the opera collapsed, this year it just changed house managers, from J. Charles Gilbert to Herb Carlin. The Great Northern's "It's High Time" folded quietly before I even had time to see it, and "Early to Bed" lasted just three weeks, proof that not even a boom season can guarantee the success of a dull show. Concerts galore have been booked, the Ballet Russe tacked up its repertory for the Civic Opera house season starting Thursday night, and a play called "That's a Laff" was assembled to open at the Civic theater this evening.

Ruth Gordon is a hit, Mike Todd is reviving "Star and Garter" for us and Willie Howard, K. T. Stevens jumped into New York's "The Voice of the Turtle," replacing Margaret Sullavan briefly and successfully as prelude to our Selwyn opening Oct. 2, "Ten Little Indians" is coming to cheer Agatha Christie fans, "The Student Prince" will slip in on the heels of the all too short engagement of "The Cherry Orchard," the opera lists its full repertory in a near-by column, and Désiré Defauw, having read half of the 100 compositions submitted to the Chicago Symphony orchestra by American composers, gave it up as a bad job, which seems a little hard on the other half.

It's a bit embarrassing not to be able to tell you anything helpful about "That's a Laff," which I'm pretty sure I saw years ago when it was called "Laff That Off." Don Mullally wrote it then, and Pamela Edmunds has remodeled it in part, tho not, alas, in spelling. Shirley Deane, picture actress and daughter-in-law of Ralph Kettering, the Civic's manager, will play the heroine plucked from a park bench by one of three bachelors who promptly fall in love with her. Harry Minturn is directing, and the cast includes Lester Podewell, Wilms Herbert, Jay Lurye, Tom Post, Jane Elliott, and Margaret Hillias.

The advent of ballet reminds me of a balletomane who has solved the problem of how to make the budget jibe with the desire to see every performance. She invested in some powerful binoculars and will focus them from approximately the last row. This is devotion with a vengeance, but understandable. The trouble with ballet is that once you succumb you are, so far as I now know, a victim for life. It isn't that you admire every performance, but that you have to be there just in case something wonderful happens, such as last season's flawless pas de deux by Danilova and Youskevitch. The navy has borrowed Youskevitch this season, but we get Franklin, Danielian, Krassovska, Tallchief, Etheridge, Istomina, Lazovky, Magellanes, Ruthanna Boris, and others, with Emanuel Balaban as a new conductor.

Of Balanchine's new ballets, "Dance Concerto," to Stravinsky music and Berman décor, seems to have garnered most praise so far. The Molière revival, "Le Bourgeois Gentilhomme," sounds interesting, and I'm glad the ballet to Tschaikowsky's Second Piano Concerto has reverted to the "Ballet Imperial" title. When it was called "Second Concerto" the box office must have been a nightmare of puzzled patrons trying to figure out a ticket buying path between "Dance Concerto," "Second Concerto" and "Chopin Concerto."

Where the Ballet Russe has gone all out for concertos, Ballet Theater is bedazzled by the waltz. The ubiquitous Balanchine has created something called "Waltz Academy," to music by Vittorio Rieti and décor by Oliver Smith, while Lichine is doing a "Valse Caprice" to music of Anton Rubinstein, as well as reviving his "Graduation Ball," which he will dance with Riabouchinska. Tamara Toumanova will be a guest star here as well as in New York, dancing "Giselle" and "Swan Lake."

"Over Twenty-one" is going at a fine clip at the Harris, and "Kiss and Tell" has moved and lived, no mean tribute to its sturdy fiber in the hit class. Miss Gordon's lively comedy has had a lot of cast changes since I saw it last, but Philip Loeb is the only absentee who makes much difference. He was perfection as the Hollywood dreamer, and his substitute is just a substitute. I can't say that Clinton Sundberg is any more convincing a managing editor in shell rims than he was a drama critic in "Arsenic and Old Lace," but the husband is this crackling tale is no more than a meal for his spouse, who covers him with goo the better to devour him. Satirical [I hope it's that] as Miss Gordon is with goo, I find her more scintillating when she darts like the adder to sting like the asp. If you don't mind a few more tangled comparisons, she reminds me, joyously, of the female in Clare Boothe's "The Women," the one who said, and meant every word of it, "Where I spit, no grass grows ever."

Nothing like being contrary, but of the two revivals Margaret Webster is sending us this season, I preferred "The Cherry Orchard" to "Othello." It seemed more convincing Chekhov than the Robeson show is convincing Shakespeare, at least when I saw the two shows last spring. Eva Le Gallienne and Joseph Schildkraut retain their stellar roles in the Blackstone cast, but there are several important changes. John Bleifer replaced Stefan Schnabel, son of the pianist, as Lopahin, releasing Mr. Schnabel to do propaganda broadcasts for the OWI, and Horace Sinclair stepped in for A. G. Andrews as faithful Firs. It's a pity the venerable Mr. Andrews felt unable to make the journey, because he was ideal as the ancient retainer. As long as I remember theater I will cherish the sight of him at the last curtain, when he entered the deserted house and lay down, quietly, to die.

THE HIDDEN TOWN

By FREDERICK R. BECHDOLT

(Copyright: 1944: By F. R. Bechdolt.)

INSTALMENT V.

EDDIE MORTON was doing simple sums in mental arithmetic. Three hundred dollars to settle that attachment suit. Subtract this from five hundred dollars and you have two hundred. Five hundred dollars for Anastasia Rodriguez. Subtract that——

Unless you found some means to change the right rules of mathematics, he reflected, there was no profit in this sort of thing. It came to him for the dozenth time that he was trying to dodge the issue. And he had less than an hour between him and the appointment with Anastasia Rodriguez. He turned his mind to face the facts which it had been striving to avoid.

He was about to commit murder and as yet he hadn't even decided on the method he was going to use.

This business of killing a man is awkward at the best. It always begets complications. No one knows this better than a lawyer who handles criminal cases, and altho Eddie's practice had been confined to the defense of petty offenders, he had seen and heard enough in courtrooms to realize the multitude of unexpected occurrences which lie in ambush for the killer. Moreover, he had this afternoon's experience as an all too vivid example.

The light of early evening was mellowing toward dusk. He was sitting in front of the old two-story tavern which occupied nearly all one side of the plaza. The wide gallery which extended the entire length of the second floor cast a deep shadow here, but John Yardley caught sight of Eddie as he drew near the tavern door.

The Alcalde had come around the corner of the building from the main street where he had parked his old car, for he was late for supper, so late that if he hadn't been taking his meals here for years he would probably have gone hungry that night. The two men nodded curtly.

It needed only the sight of that stiff-backed figure passing before him to harden Eddie's resolution. He was thinking of the delight with which the Alcalde would listen to Rodriguez if the latter were to seek him out.

John Yardley had halted before the doorway of the tavern. He was laying his long-handled claw hammer beside it. Then he went on in. And Eddie's mind reverted to the business which lay ahead of him.

Use the Alcalde's hammer and add to it an alibi . . .

"Not so bad," he murmured to himself.

"Trees," Beulah Smith was saying. "Trees and grass. I knocked about the desert for more than 30 years before I happened to come over here to look at a quicksilver prospect. I'd clean forgotten how soft these live oak trees and wild oats make the hills until I made that trip; how stiff and hard the desert hills are all day long."

After the manner of Spanish California architecture the upstairs rooms all opened on the wide gallery where she and Nell were sitting. The plaza lay before them and below. On its left the row of arches which opened on the tiled walk in front of the half ruined mission chapel. And directly opposite the tavern, the House of the Four Winds. The cigaret which Beulah was smoking was in a long, modernistic ivory holder, and the dusk was gathering so fast now that the glowing tip brought Beulah's ageless face forth in sharp relief; her long eardrops caught it and the jade's dull green had become bright.

"Hard," Beulah said. "Hard and hostile. But the desert gets you when you're young, and it pulls you when you grow old. Some day when this war's over I'll be going back——"

The dusk was like a gray mantle, shrouding the plaza. You couldn't see the weeds now, not even the tallest of them, except in one spot where a tiny fire revealed a few wild sunflowers, and, within the circle of its radiance, three forms showed vaguely; forms of a man and two burros.

"Ask that prospector," Beulah said. "He'll tell you how hard it is to stay away from the Armagossa."

"You know him?" Nell asked.

"I grubstaked him one time," Beulah said. "That was nearly twenty years ago." She laughed softly. "Reckon I'll stake him again. We had a talk this afternoon——"

Nell made no reply. She was sitting with her chin in her hand, gazing at the small fire and the shadowy forms within its light.

"Those burros," Beulah said. "It seems good to see 'em again. To an old-timer like me that's followed every mining rush since Tonopah, this speeding around in old jalopies don't seem natural for prospectors. Maybe the war has got its good points after all."

It was the burros, Nell was thinking. A memory which had refused to click an hour and a half ago was almost within her grasp.

She had yielded to Harvey's arguments and it wasn't because she had been frightened at her narrow escape from death. The idea that any one here might have intended that deadly bacillus for her, seemed entirely too farfetched. But when he was about to take his leave the old house had suddenly seemed very lonely.

She had allowed him to load her bags in the luggage compartment of his roadster, and drive off with them. And she had taken the short cut across the plaza on foot because the sight of the weedy square had aroused a feeling of vague memories which wouldn't take form. The ground was rough out there in the plaza and she had gone by the way of the old mission church. And as she skirted the olive grove beside the building she had halted abruptly and looked over the square. The feeling that something had taken place there when she was a little girl—something that she must remember—grew stronger.

It had been nagging at her ever since, and now, as she looked at the two burros standing in the firelight, it almost leaped into her mind. Almost, but not quite.

It was dark when John Yardley came out from the front door of the tavern, and when he struck off cornerwise across the plaza toward his house no one saw him. He turned and stood there for some moments gazing up at Nell. Some one had lighted a kerosene lamp in the room behind her, and the yellow radiance revealed her plainly. He sighed heavily and went on. He had gone to a great deal of trouble that afternoon. It looked as if he might have gone to it for no purpose.

He found himself before his door without realizing how he had gotten there. Worries make a man absent minded. It did not occur to him then that he had left his claw hammer behind him. He was too busy trying to evolve a new—and a safe—plan of murder.

Eddie Morton left his chair and hurried to his car. You would think that if your car had hurled a man 30 feet and you had driven on, leaving him dead beside the road, you would keep the speedometer needle pretty far down for some time thereafter. The needle on the dash of Eddie Morton's roadster climbed up past 60 as he drove away from Escondido in the gathering darkness.

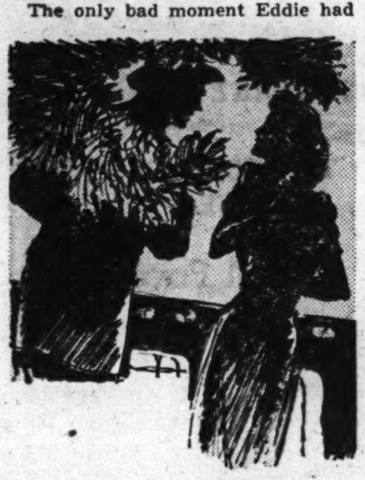
He halted at the service station where the dirt road joined the highway, and the night man told him about the afternoon's tragedy while the gas tank was being filled. Eddie's alibi was now established. He continued northward for a few miles on the highway before he turned around. And when he repassed the service station the dust hid everything except the glare of his headlights.

Half a mile from Escondido he slackened speed. A quarter of a mile nearer he swung off the road and parked behind a thicket of wild lilac. And when he left the car he took John Yardley's hammer with him. He covered the remaining distance to the olive grove in less than five minutes and met no one on the way. Luck, he told himself, was being kind to him for once.

It was going to be very simple, as such things should be. Simple and devoid of those complications by which murders spin webs of circumstance wherein to snare themselves when the officers begin their questioning. Steal up behind the waiting man. The earth was soft under the olive trees and there were no fallen leaves here to betray his presence by their rustling. With the light of the open ground ahead of him and with Anastasia outlined against it, one blow would undoubtedly be all that was necessary. Then drop the hammer anywhere close by. But first take time to wipe the handle with his handkerchief—he had nearly forgotten that. It made him sweat to realize how costly such an omission might prove. After that, take the hub cap from the dead man's hand. By the time he drove back to the highway the service station would be closed for the night. Chances were 10 to 1 he wouldn't pass another car. And so on to Queensburg and to bed.

It went exactly as he had figured. Right down to the end of Anastasia Rodriguez.

The only bad moment Eddie had was when he trod on a heap of dry twigs just after entering the olive grove. He waited for a few moments after the slight misadventure; then he went on under the gnarled old trees, with the hammer in his right hand, feeling his way with his left. He went very slowly and the first evidence he had of nearing his goal was the spot of firelight in the middle of the plaza. It was as red as blood and, when he had taken two more steps, he saw Anastasia Rodriguez, silhouetted in black against it. Anastasia's back was toward him.



She uttered a low exclamation. . . .
"You frightened me," she said.

And Anastasia did not start to turn his head until Eddie struck.

It was done and over now. So he was thinking, but he was wrong.

He flung the hammer to the ground and he plucked the metal hub cap from the dead man's hand. He had gone half a dozen paces from the spot when he realized that he had forgotten to wipe off the hammer handle. He stole back toward the spot. He was sweating again when something—or some one—bumped into a tree behind him. He had run past the body and he was out in the open ground at the edge of the plaza. And some one was coming.

"Tell you what you do, Bill," Beulah said. "You fetch me a sample from that vein."

Beulah was sitting on one heel and the prospector was sitting on one heel, and the ruddy little fire was dying between them. The burros had vanished somewhere in the night.

Nell turned away. While she and Beulah were crossing the plaza to the prospector's camp, memory had kept assailing her. But this talk of ore and veins and outcrops and grubstake had driven it away.

In the hope of recapturing it she walked slowly toward the edge of the plaza. She was near the olive grove when Eddie Morton sprang out from the shadow of the trees. She uttered a low exclamation and backed away from him. Then she recognized him.

"You frightened me," she said. And he answered:

"Sorry." That was a masterpiece of understatement.

She didn't like the idea of talking with him here in the darkness, and she was too much relieved when he left her to note the fact that he was weaving like a drunken man.

It was after 11 o'clock. The only light in all of Escondido shone from the rear window of the Alcalde's house, and it was not visible on the plaza. The last ember of the prospector's fire had winked out and he was rolled up in his blankets, fast asleep. The summits of the hills behind the town were growing darker against the eastern sky line where a pale glow announced the approach of a late rising moon.

It was the first time in Eddie Morton's life that the moonrise had held any significance for him. When he caught sight of it he came forth from the vacant doorway of the old mission church where better men than he had passed to their devotions more than a hundred years before. He was carrying the white metal hub cap in one hand. As he stepped out upon the tiled pavement within the row of arches which opened on the plaza, he realized that his time was growing short. If he was going to extricate himself from the ugly position, he had less than half an hour of darkness left in which to do it.

And he had not even come near the semblance of a plan. The nightmare into which he had plunged when he ran out of the olive grove and found Nell confronting him was made more hideous because his mind apparently had lost all ability to function along logical lines. When he had turned away from her the blind instinct of flight had full possession of him; it was telling him to hasten to his car, to get into it and drive off, to keep on putting distance between himself and Escondido, and not to slacken speed until he was beyond the limits of California. He had gone half the length of the arched corridor before he realized that he was walking straight toward the tavern where some one would be sure to see him. And the last thing he wanted was another witness of his presence this evening in the village.

Then he had turned aside into the vacant doorway of the old church, and he had tried to pull himself together. But the knowledge that he had been on the verge of a flight which would have confirmed such circumstantial evidence against him as already existed shook him sorely. He had been dazed before; he was utterly incapable of planning now.

He could get as far as one brutal fact: He was facing the inevitable problem which confronts so many murderers: the disposition of the body. Arriving at that point such wits as he had left invariably wandered to the complete safety which he had thrown away by taking half a dozen swift steps after he had heard something moving behind him in the trees. And from there they roved to utterly useless speculations as to who or what it was that had alarmed him. And when he had dragged himself away from the indestructible past, he occasionally got as far as one further fact: He must accomplish the removal of the body in such a manner that no evidence would remain to connect him with it, or to connect it with this spot. For some day that body was going to be discovered.

So he had stood there thinking in hopeless circles, while Nell walked back into the plaza and rejoined Beulah Smith by the prospector's camp fire, while the two left the place and vanished in the darkness, to reappear a few moments later in the lighted doorway of the tavern, while the lamps in windows and doorways were extinguished and the little fire died.

And finally the faint radiance of the approaching moon roused him to action. He started toward the spot at the edge of the olive grove which he had already come to hate. Perhaps it was because he was actually doing something now. Perhaps it was because the time was growing so short; at any rate he hadn't taken 10 steps before he recalled his parked car again. He could drive it to the upper end of the grove. He could load the body into it and dispose of it out in the hills.

The objection which interposed itself was formidable. He couldn't see himself carrying that limp, unwieldy burden uphill thru the olive trees in the darkness. He set his lips. It wasn't, he reminded himself, what he could or could not do. It was what he had to do.

He was at the end of the corridor by this time. The darkness beyond was not quite so dense, and he was able to distinguish the vague shapes of the nearest trees. He heard something moving among them. It was unmistakable, a light, swift footstep. It ceased almost as soon as he heard it. Immediately after that the silence of the night was desecrated by a horrible sound. Eddie felt his knees buckling under him. He was leaning against the old church wall and his limbs were collapsing when the branches parted and a burro trotted out into the open less than a yard away from him. It halted there within arm's reach; then turned and wandered back among the trees. And with that strange perversion which a man's mind sometimes takes in moments of reaction, Eddie was thinking of a foolish caption and of a picture on a souvenir postal card which he had seen in a Nevada town. The photograph was of a long eared burro, and the caption read: "The Desert Nightingale." He giggled weakly.

His luck had changed. There wasn't any doubt of it. This was the witness which had frightened him into betrayal of his presence. And by its braying frightened him again. With its discovery he had reached the solution of his problem. The only thing he lacked now was a rope with which to make the grim pack fast. And even as he thought of this he remembered where he had seen a coil of rope less than three hours ago.

It was lying on the seat of Harvey Little's roadster—the length of rope which every deer hunter carries with him for the purpose of hanging up a buck before he dresses it. And the car was standing on the side road near the junction with the village street. It had a large luggage compartment in the rear and Harvey had left the keys in the ignition lock. Eddie turned his back upon the olive grove and hurried away across the plaza.

This, he was thinking, was a perfect setup. No need to leave tire tracks which might be traced later on. And no need to incur the hazard which the noise of a self-starter would have brought.

He returned less than five minutes later but the burro had departed. The next quarter of an hour was another nightmare, the second of that evening but not the last. At its close a waning moon, misshapen but still large, was sliding up beyond the eastern sky line. Patches of glimmering light lay between the jet black shadows of the olive trees. Into one of these a skittish jenny burro minced and vanished in the shade beyond, almost as soon as she had appeared. In the next moment a somewhat disheveled figure in what had recently been a neatly pressed sport suit appeared where she had been and followed her into the darkness. More moments passed. Faint sounds of the pursuit came thru the trees; the sounds subsided and Eddie emerged from the night, leading his tethered captive by one hand and holding the saucer shaped hub cap in the other.

They vanished in the darkness and presently slight noises came from the spot where Anastasia Rodriguez had met his death; sounds of scuffling hoofs, of blows, and—if a listener had been close by—of subdued but fervent curses. The jenny burro was not overparticular about the nature of her burdens; she had carried all sorts of things thru the hills in her time; but this gruesome load which was being lashed upon her back was not at all to her liking. It was some time between half past 11 and midnight when Eddie led her away at last, and the moon was well up.

What Has Gone Before

Nell Huntoon writes to Edward Morton Jr. to reopen her home in Escondido. She is returning after 18 years to review the charge of murder against her father, Richard Huntoon. Eddie's father had defended her father. Eddie is in financial difficulties. Scanning the old Huntoon papers, he decides if he can incriminate Yardley it will mean ready money. Realizing preparations are being made for Nell Huntoon's return, Yardley has a fear the past may catch up with him. Banker Yardley is known as the Alcalde. From a herder Yardley learns anthrax is prevalent in the hills. He forces Ursula to furnish him wool from a dead sheep. At a service station where Nell had stopped the owner is killed by a hit-run driver while crossing the road. Anastasia Rodriguez, a Mexican witness, picks up something from the road and puts it in his car. Nell calls on Eddie Miller and learns her father, Jim Little, and Yardley were partners. Little called on her father about a loan which had not been credited. While they were talking a shot, fired from Huntoon's gun, killed Little. Eddie asks a retainer of $500. Rodriguez calls on Eddie with the hub cap from Eddie's car and demands $500 to be paid that night in the olive grove. Eddie contemplates murder. Yardley poisons the Huntoon spring, but Nell is prevented from drinking the poisoned water by Harvey Little, who persuades her to move to the tavern.

throbbing with high-powered SUSPENSE!

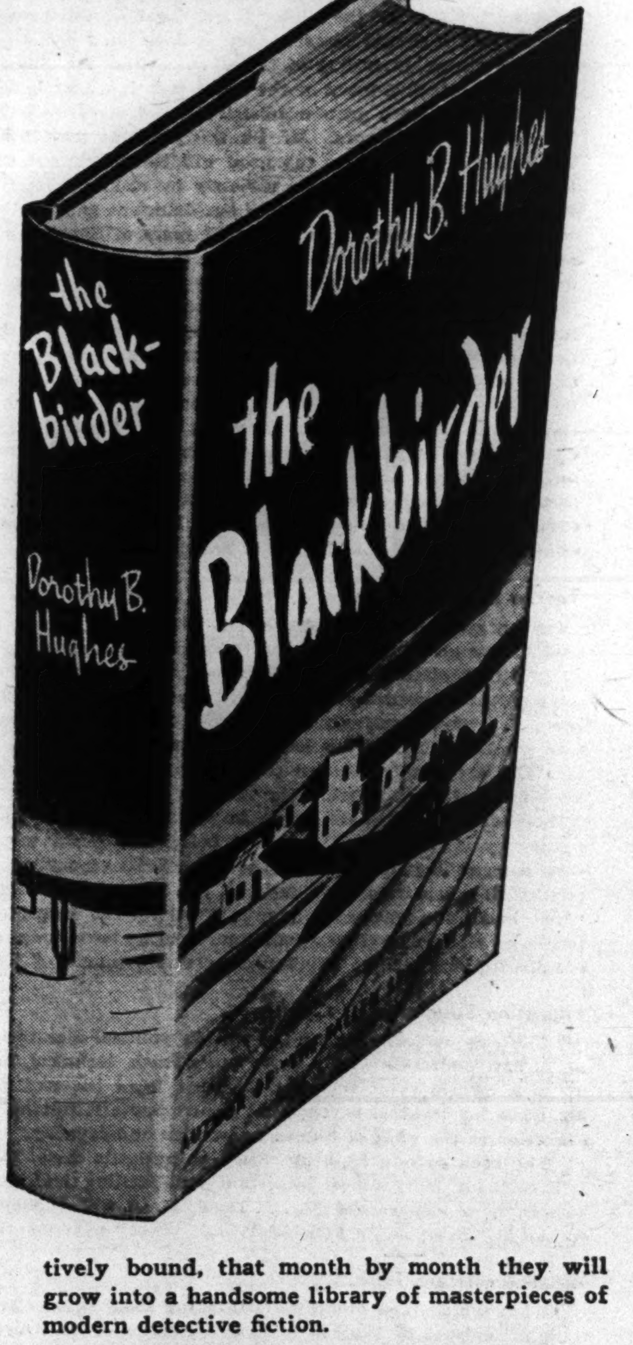
the Blackbirder

by DOROTHY B. HUGHES

author of the smash movie hit—"THE FALLEN SPARROW"

"YOU were with Maxl—the night he was murdered!"



Would You Prefer Torture by the Gestapo? Or Arrest by the F. B. I.? Julie Wanted Neither—So She Fled to THE BLACKBIRDER!

WHAT would YOU do? Call the police? Tell them that the little Nazi sneak with whom you've spent the evening now lies murdered in the street outside your window? Face a murder charge? Let the F. B. I. learn that you have no passport or legal entry papers? Let your picture appear in a hundred newspapers, so that the Gestapo finds out at last where you have been hiding? Give up all hope of rescuing your lover from the U. S. prison camp into which he has been betrayed by a Nazi frame-up?

OR WOULDN'T YOU DO EXACTLY WHAT JULIE GUILLE DID? As soon as she saw the body lying sprawled out in the street below she ran back downstairs and out into the street . . . took from the dead Nazi's blood-soaked coat pocket the little notebook in which he had written her name and address . . . and fled?

Twenty-four hours later, Julie was on her way to Santa Fe, headquarters for the famous Blackbirder.

Who was The Blackbirder? No one knew. Yet it was a name whispered wherever refugees gathered. It was said that if you paid him enough, The Blackbirder would smuggle you across the border into Mexico—by plane.

Julie's plan was simple. She would contact The Blackbirder in Santa Fe . . . then find Fran and buy his escape . . . and together they would flee to a new life—via The Blackbirder!

But Julie's plans had not included the limping Englishman who was also traveling to Santa Fe —and on the same train! Nor did she take into account the beefy German waiter who had stared at her so intently the fatal night she went to the beergarden with Maxl. And she certainly could not foresee that The Blackbirder knew who Julie was, and that he himself was already making plans to take her on a long, long trip . . . a trip which could only end in—

But read The Blackbirder for yourself! It's the kind of suspense-packed mystery thriller that has a fearful moment on every page and a tantalizing puzzle in every chapter! It was written by the author of The Fallen Sparrow—and the smash-hit movie version of that spine-chiller is being cheered by critics everywhere!

The Blackbirder is brand new, just published. It's selling everywhere RIGHT NOW for $2.00! But we want to GIVE you a copy of it, FREE—to show you the kind of topnotch mysteries you can get every month from the Detective Book Club.

How This Club Brings You The Best Mysteries

Each month this Club offers to its members an attractive triple volume containing THREE modern detective books—for the usual price of only ONE! And EACH of the three is a complete full-length novel.

Do you realize that about 300 new detective books are published every year? You can't read them all. It's hard to find the best. But if a mystery is by an author like Agatha Christie, Erle Stanley Gardner, Rex Stout, Dorothy B. Hughes, R. Austin Freeman, Frank Gruber, or Frances and Richard Lockridge, it's sure to be good! All of these and many other famous writers have had their books selected by the Detective Book Club.

The selections of the club are ALL books that sell everywhere for $2.00 each. Yet, as a member of the Club, you get three of them (a $6.00 value) for only $1.89! You do not have to take a volume a month—you may accept as few as four during the whole year and still save two-thirds the usual price on those you purchase.

You Enjoy These Four Advantages

(1) Every month you are offered the cream of the finest modern detective books—by the best authors. (2) You save two-thirds the usual cost. (3) Your books are delivered right to your door. Each book is fresh, clean, unopened. It will be right at your elbow whenever you are in the mood, to read as leisurely as you please. (4) You will receive volumes so well printed, so attractively bound, that month by month they will grow into a handsome library of masterpieces of modern detective fiction.

Complete Calendar of Opera Season Is Announced on the Aisle

by Claudia Cassidy

A Mountaintop Amphitheater and a Bewitching Opera House

EVEN on vacation, you can't keep the stagestruck from the stage. Mountains and mountain trout, high trails a'horseback, that Colorado air you would like to bring back in a bottle—these are memorable, but the things I can't forget are the glimpses of Central City's bewitched opera house and the fabulous sight, flung high in giant's perspective, of that Wagnerian upheaval, the Red Rocks amphitheater, a breathtaking invitation to "Die Walküre."

And it does take breath. Probably when the theater is in use you can drive lazily to the summit. We climbed stairs, acres of them, pausing now and then for huffing and puffing. What we would have done, having arrived triumphantly at theater level, if confronted by an usher with an implacable "Top row, please," is utterly beyond me. But one intrepid soul climbed up to test acoustics, and they seemed ideal. Our conversational voices soared over those 8,000 seats with a limpid clarity to rival a sky that looked as if Juno might be mixing angel cake in a cobalt bowl.

I don't believe you can stand in this great natural theater, its rust red cliffs thrusting sheer on three sides, and be satisfied with the cheap and the shoddy. It looks like a huge playhouse of the gods, where Jove might practice hurling thunderbolts. You wouldn't, or shouldn't, dare do anything less than splendid in such a setting. It gives you ideas, that gargantuan design for playgoing, magnificent in solitary splendor, a mountain top eyrie for the eagles and the giants of the theater clan.

Opera House a Jewel Box.

By comparison, the Central City Opera house is a jewel box, no less exciting, but man made, for men. I saw it by luck and western hospitality, because it has reverted to ghost stature for the duration. John Carter, who sang there the closing season [in 1941, when "The Barber of Seville" and "Orpheus" scored such a triumph not all the scalpers were Indians] wrote Fred McFarlane, who came out from Denver to show me the sights. He was the man who could. His family once owned the opera house; his wife, the late and beloved Ida Kruse McFarlane, was, with Anne Evans, chiefly responsible for the festival, and he, his brother and sister presented the historic theater to Denver university. So we had the keys to the kingdom of Central City, where once all was gold dust, then mortal dust, and now waits in shining security for post-war return to festival splendor.

Many of you know the little playhouse, built by Cornish and Welsh miners in the roaring boom of the 1870s after the gold strike that made the area around Gregory diggings "the richest square mile in the world." Next door, a stroll thru a garden deep blue with delphinium, is the fabled Teller House, where Grant crossed a sidewalk paved in silver to do him honor, and across the street is the Register-Call, with its hoarded font of hand carved wooden type and its Chicago Taylor press which has registered more than 50 million impressions. These are landmarks of the little city nestled high in the mountains, once reached by oxcart that hauled the McFarlane Steinway to its home, where its tone is sweet and rich to this day, or by the first narrow gauge railway to penetrate the Rockies, or even by stagecoach over the terrors of Virginia canyon, providing your heart could stand the rigors of Jack Cozens' driving. Jack's brother, Bill, just 6 inches over 6 feet tall, was the sheriff who meant business, and his picture hangs in the Teller House, not far from the gold scales so sensitive a mark on a piece of paper registers protest.

Gilt and Satin and Tall Tales.

Don't get me started on the Teller House, space being what it is. The gracious rooms, the rich old furniture, the lovely square piano that sings in tune, the touching tawdriness of Baby Doe Tabor's gilt and satin [that unique vanity with long gilt legs, a Chinese embroidery top, and a deep, American Beauty satin caché for jewels], the bowls and pitchers of lusterware, the Grecian murals uncovered in the barroom when layers of wallpaper were torn away, that gay fake of "the face on the barroom floor," and custodian Billy Hamilton with his tall tales ["See those bullet holes? Thirty-seven men and 11 women have been shot in this bar, and more than half a million half shot."] and his Irish blackthorn which he notches as lesser men notch their guns. A thorn for a kill, he brags, a half thorn for a man in hospital, that big thorn waiting impatiently for Hitler.

Central City always was one for a show. They tell me it had three months a year of plays and opera from 1860 thru its golden days, but my favorite tale is of old Mrs. McWhitty, caught in the collapsing seats of a traveling circus, who went down with the eloquent tho fortunately premature lament, "Here I come, Lord, killed in a circus!" So Billy finds it quite in his stride to act as stage doorman when the opera house has a show, and I hope to see him next festival season, guarding the acting portals with that gleeful shillelagh.

Theater Is Essence of Elegance.

And what a theater to guard! Built in a boom town by miners, yet the essence of elegance. Stone walls four feet thick. A bijou foyer mirrored to reflect slender consoles. Chandeliers. A gleaming little auditorium seating about 750, without a poor seat in the house. Handmade hickory chairs, bright red, carved in memory of pioneers. More chandeliers. Exquisitely gay ceiling frescoes that came to life from under layers of dirt. Three dimensional paintings that look like classic carvings. Footlights from a dream world. A lovely curtain by Robert Edmond Jones, Bobby to Central City, which reciprocates his adoration. A big practical stage, actually 43 by 52 feet. An atmosphere of gayety, even joyousness, that bewitches you, instantly and irrevocably, by its charm.

Salvini played there, and Edwin Booth. Sarah Bernhardt and Jefferson. Since its restoration in 1932, Lillian Gish in Jones' "Camille," Walter Huston in "Othello," Ruth Gordon in "A Doll's House." "The Merry Widow" was one of its gayest hits, but "Orpheus" seems to linger deepest in memory of those who carry Central City in their hearts.

Its victim at a glance, its lifelong admirer with a longer look, I have Central City's next festival so etched in affection it needs no calendar reminder. And between shows I want to go back to Chalet Heidi, where the Swiss chatelaine, Mrs. Swarthout dispenses vol au vent and custard of a melting lightness beyond belief. They tell me this volatile old lady can dance the mazurka as gayly as she can cook. I want a Central City ballet season, so Frederic Franklin can be her partner.

3 Directors, New Singers Also Engaged

As the evening of Monday, Oct. 16—when the newly revived Chicago Opera company will open its doors for a five week season—approaches, news of interest and importance comes from the Civic Opera house. For the convenience of those who must plan their opera going on a long range schedule, the company has released a complete calendar of the 26 performances—complete, that is, with the exception of the last night's bill, which will be a repetition of the opera voted the most popular by the season's audiences. Also included in the latest bulletins are announcements of the engagements of three conductors and several new singers.

Eugene Goossens.

Upon Eugene Goossens devolves the season's foremost artistic responsibility, that of conducting Debussy's "Pelléas and Mélisande." Althó known chiefly to America as a symphonic conductor — he has directed the Cincinnati Symphony for 13 years and has appeared as guest conductor with most of the other major orchestras — Mr. Goossens made his debut as an operatic conductor with Sir Thomas Beecham's London company, and thereafter conducted performances of the British National Opera and the Carl Rosa Opera company. Mr. Goossens also is the composer of two operas — "Judith" and "Don Juan de Manara."

Louis Hasselmans is the second conductor to be added to the list. Hasselmans has conducted both at Ravinia and in former seasons of the Chicago opera. He was chief of the French repertoire at the Metropolitan for 14 years, during which time he conducted the first performances there of "Pelléas and Mélisande," "L'Heure Espagnole," "Don Quichotte," and "Louise."

The single Wagnerian music drama of the season, "Die Walküre," will be entrusted to Edwin McArthur, young American conductor.

Added to the roster of singers already announced are Frederick Jagel, who will sing the tenor role of Cavaradossi in "Tosca"; Maria Matyas, who has been heard in minor parts in previous seasons, and Inge Manski, daughter of the contralto, Dorothee Manski, formerly of the Metropolitan.

The opera, meanwhile, announces these operas in its Friday night series at special prices in collaboration with the Board of Education: Oct. 20—"La Boheme," with Marjory Hess, Christina Carroll, Nino Martini, Richard Bonelli, Virgilio Lazzari; Oct. 27—"Il Trovatore," with Zinka Milanov, Kerstin Thorborg, Kurt Baum, Richard Bonelli, Virgilio Lazzari; Nov. 3—"Carmen," with Gladys Swarthout, Christina Carroll, Kurt Baum, Alexander Sved; Nov. 10—"Faust," with Vivian Della Chiesa, Kurt Baum, Ezio Pinza, Francesco Valentino; Nov. 17—"Rigoletto," with Josephine Antoine, Jan Peerce, Leonard Warren. Prices range from $1.20 to $4.50, including tax, and tickets in the lower price bracket are being held for Chicago high school students until Oct. 9. They are available only on school order.

The complete schedule of performances for the season follow:

FIRST WEEK.

Monday, Oct. 16—"Carmen."
Wednesday, Oct. 18—"La Traviata."
Friday, Oct. 20—"La Boheme."
Saturday matinee, Oct. 21—"Aïda."
Saturday evening, Oct. 21—"Die Walküre."

SECOND WEEK.

Monday, Oct. 23—"La Traviata."
Wednesday, Oct. 25—"Carmen."
Friday, Oct. 27—"Il Trovatore."
Saturday matinee, Oct. 28—"Otello."
Saturday evening, Oct. 28—"La Boheme."

THIRD WEEK.

Monday, Oct. 30—"Die Walküure."
Wednesday, Nov. 1—"Aïda."
Friday, Nov. 3—"Carmen."
Saturday matinee, Nov. 4—"Romeo and Juliet."
Saturday evening, Nov. 4—"Il Trovatore."

FOURTH WEEK.

Monday, Nov. 6—"Otello."
Wednesday, Nov. 8—"Pelléas and Mélisande."
Friday, Nov. 10—"Faust."
Saturday matinee, Nov. 11—"Rigoletto."
Saturday evening, Nov. 11—"Romeo and Juliet."

FIFTH WEEK.

Monday, Nov. 13—"Pelléas and Mélisande."
Wednesday, Nov. 15—"Faust."
Friday, Nov. 17—"Rigoletto."
Saturday matinee, Nov. 18—"Tosca."

Illinois Tech's Role in War Training Is Cited

Assets Double Since Merger; Enrollment Up

[This is the fourth of a series of articles on what the war has done to colleges and universities. Studies were made of all institutions listed in The Tribune booklet, "Higher Education, a Guide to Students in the Selection of a College or University," and the series forms a supplement to the booklet, published six months before Pearl Harbor. The booklet may be purchased at Tribune Public Service offices at 25 cents 28 cents by prepaid mail.]

By the Rev. John Evans.

The present conflict has been called a technological war, and when its history is complete it is probable that the American scientific laboratory, and the engineering and technological institutions, both independent and affiliated with great universities, will be given large credit for victory.

Due to variations in organization and emphasis, the independent and state operated technological and engineering schools are more difficult to group into a single survey. Illinois Institute of Technology is an illustration of the former, and Purdue university and Michigan State college illustrate the latter. The fifth article of this series, in a later issue, will outline Purdue's and Michigan State's progress and contributions, both to civilian life and to the war.

The assets of Illinois Tech have doubled since 1940 when Armour Institute of Technology and Lewis institute were merged. No higher informal scholastic recognition can be awarded than Illinois Tech's 1942 inclusion in Sigma Xi, national honors scientific society.

President Henry T. Heald, a chief figure in the establishment of the army's vast war training program in higher educational institutions, reports that "since January, 1941, Illinois Tech has conducted the nation's largest war training program in a single city and at a privately operated college. More than 48,000 persons have been enrolled in engineering, science, and management war training courses [E. S. M. W. T. C.].

"From the original two campuses which existed in 1940 following the merger, Illinois Tech has expanded so as to include 14 campuses. All but one are in Chicago. This is in Cicero. In addition, the institute conducts 'in plant' war training courses at 23 industrial plants. Since 1941 the institute has established a 3 million dollar development program with two building units completed and several to be constructed as soon as war time restrictions are lifted."

Five hundred and one men were enrolled at the high point in the army specialized training program, 692 apprentice seamen of the navy V12 program, 800 in the signal corps' courses in pre-radar and code, and 110 women in the signal corps' inspection agency.

The grand total of persons trained for the war program exceeds 48,000 at the institute and 115 discharged veterans are now enrolled.

BALLET STARS

Drama Notes

Bigger and possibly better than ever, the ninth edition of the Shipstads' and Johnson's ice revue, known as "Ice Follies of 1945," opens at the Chicago Arena Nov. 3 and continues thru Nov. 19, with matinées on Nov. 5, 11, 12, 18, and 19. Included in the cast of 150 are Eddie and Roy Shipstad, Oscar Johnson, Heinie Brock, Norah McCarthy, Bobby Biake, Ruby Maxson, Hazel Franklin, Papez and Zwack, and the 80 "Ice Folliettes." Tickets are now on sale at the Arena.

• • •

"Skating Vanities of 1945," the roller skating show, opens at the Stadium Tuesday evening and continues thru Oct. 1. Gloria Nord, Ann Manion, Shirley Heart, Dolly Durkin, Frank Foster, and Lew Testa are among the featured members of the cast of 125. The production is staged by Gae Foster, and costumed by Joan Personette.

• • •

Marcus Heiman, of the United Booking Office, takes on a new role this season when he steps out as producer of Channing Pollock's new play, "Tangled Web." This is the script whittled from Pollock's short story, "The Professor's Alibi," and th chances are a silent production partner is his brother, John Pollock, general manager for John Golden. At any rate, when John Pollock was here with "Three Is a Family," he was prodding his brother into the dramatization.

• • •

Having settled down as Chicago residents, the players of "Kiss and Tell," now at the Studebaker, are much in demand on local radio shows. Billie Lou Watt, Katherine Warren, and Jack Davis make frequent appearances, and Miss Warren and Mr. Davis have been awarded honorary citations for their help in bond drives.

• • •

"Port of Chicago," the 1944 version of the historical play by Herma Clark and Alice Gerstenberg, will open the Uptown Players' 20th season at their theater, 1219 N. La Salle st., Friday evening at 8:30 and will continue each Friday and Saturday evening thru October. J. Bradley Griffin is the director, and the cast includes James Hargis Connelly, who will repeat his role of Samuel Jenkins, farmer.

• • •

The Actors Company of Chicago, which has abandoned semi-professional production until more of its members come home from war, has moved from the Forester theater to quarters in the Garrick building on Randolph st. The group is building a studio workshop, and is considering "Decision" as a possible production.

• • •

Billy Rose has expensive ideas for "The Seven Lively Arts," opening at New York's Ziegfeld theater in December. Having hired Beatrice Lillie, Bert Lahr, and Benny Goodman, plus Alicia Markova and Anton Dolin to dance in a new Stravinsky ballet, he expects people to pay accordingly. Opening night seats cost $24 for the best, tho you can sit in the rear of the balcony for $6. But this is not a record. Ray Goetz once charged $27.50 for Raquel Meller, and that same chanteuse garnered $11 at Chicago's Blackstone.

• • •

An interesting piece of theater planning is a production of "Sophie Halenczik, American," from the New Yorker stories by Rose Feld, with Katina Paxinou and Joseph Calleia, both seen in "For Whom the Bell Tolls," with Mr. Calleia directing. George Ross is co-adapter and producer with Meyer Devis, the bandleader.

• • •

Frank Fay, one of the better comedians, will make his début in a straight role sometime next month when he appears in Brock Pemberton's production of a comedy by Mary Chase, called "The Pooka." Mr. Fay plays a wealthy man "who succeeds in escaping reality after a 40 year tussle with it." That should be simple for a man who can cope with Aunt Agatha, the string saver.

• • •

When Fritz Kreisler's musical, "Rhapsody," opens at New York's Century theater Oct. 30, the cast will include Annamary Dickey, John Gurney, John Hammill, and Gloria Story. . . . The New Opera company would like to disentangle Clifton Webb and George Cukor from Hollywood and to add Leonora Corbett, all for the sake of an intimate musical called "Impromptu." . . . It will be Sara Allgood instead of Pauline Lord who appears in the mystery, "Sleep, My Pretty One."

• • •

Nice, but no surprise, to hear that Katharine Cornell's "The Barretts of Wimpole Street" is a smashing success overseas. Why should soldiers be different from other audiences? . . . George Abbott has cast Patricia Kirkland in a new play called "Snafu in Pomona," with Russell Hardie and Enid Markey. . . . Florence Ryerson and Colin Clement, who wrote Helen Hayes' "Harriet," are working with Elia Kazan on a comedy laid in San Francisco's Barbary Coast back in the Gibson Girl period. . . . Laurette Taylor is being coaxed to make a comeback.

• • •

"Oklahoma!" may go to war in style, as a special edition of unusual size is likely to be approved for U. S. O.-Camp Shows performance overseas. A proposal to do the musical in tabloid form was vetoed as unsatisfactory.

"Mankind are creatures of books, as well as of other circumstances." —LEIGH HUNT.

THE LITERARY SPOTLIGHT

by Fanny Butcher

A LONG cable from Larry Rue in London passes on to me a review of Bernard Shaw's latest book, "another best seller—this time before it has even been reviewed." . . . A printing of 84,000 copies was ordered before publication. . . . It's called "Everybody's Political What's What," and it certainly, according to Mr. Rue and Edward MacAlpine, tells everybody what's what. . . . Mr. Shaw describes the book as a child's guide to politics. . . . It deals with practically everything under the sun which has any bearing on man's conduct, and, they say, it is so simply and lucidly written that a child could follow it.

It is, says Mr. MacAlpine, a very depressing book in the sense that the blunders, stupidities, and cruelties which make up most of man's history are mercilessly marshaled and exposed for what they are. . . . But Shaw is hopeful because he feels that our catastrophic political failures, our national and international cruelties and vandalisms, are due to simple childish ignorance and not to original sin or natural depravity. . . . Mr. Shaw, of course, is willing [and eager] to erase that ignorance by sharing his own knowledge.

Is Human Nature Incurable?

The heading of Chapter I. reads: "Is Human Nature Incurably Depraved?" "If it is," the author avers, "reading this book will be a waste of time and it should be exchanged at once for a detective story or some pleasant classic, according to taste." . . . Altho, Mr. Shaw says, the book is itself a detective story in the sense that it tracks down mistakes that have landed us in a gross misdistribution of domestic income and in two World wars in 25 years. Mr. Shaw slyly adds that if we have neither the political capacity nor the good will to remedy our mistakes we had better not torment ourselves uselessly by making ourselves conscious of them. . . . We had better cling to our delusions and keep our self-respect.

Apparently the book is full of 88 years of Shavian philosophy about everything on earth, as well as about the state of man today. . . . Shaw does not claim that there is anything new in the book, Mr. Rue cables me. . . . Shaw says it has all been written and said before by himself and lots of others, but it needs to be said again and again if there's to be any development of the world. . . . He assumes that the prevailing cynicism and pessimism are due not only to ignorance of historical and contemporary facts, but to the drawing of wrong conclusions from the facts. . . . The time lag in education, he writes, varies from 100 to 2,000 years, and produces the quaint phenomenon known as old school ties, meaning government of modern states by cabinets wherein the outlooks on society are those of Noah and Samuel, of William the Conqueror and Henry VII., of Cromwell and Tom Paine, of Adam Smith and Robert Owen, of Jesus and Charles Darwin, all jumbled up in incalculable confusion.

Tackles Land Question.

Shaw goes after the land question, which he regards as so fundamental that "if we go wrong on it everything else will go wrong automatically." . . . He then attacks the British party system, democratic and dictatorial governments, insurance, banking, education, aestheticism, medicine, law . . . always amusingly, always with a goad to the reader to do his own thinking after he has learned his own lessons.

With a typically Shavian twist, says Mr. MacAlpine, the author has provided a chapter in which he reviews the book himself. . . . He says: "There are five main directions in which civilization can go wrong"—mostly by falling out of date and being overgrown with superstitions thru not weeding the garden. The five are its economics, its politics, its science, its education and its religion. . . . "I maintain," Mr. Shaw writes, "that in all five we are dangerously behind the times, and will go to pieces, as all former civilizations known to us have gone, unless we give our institutions a thoro overhauling pretty frequently."

Education Suggested as Cure.

The only radical cure for the world's political disease is a completely up to date education within every one's reach, technical, and compulsory up to a certain point [every child must learn the multiplication table, Mr. Shaw inserts] and beyond that point voluntary, rational, and aesthetic education to the limit of human knowledge and capacity."

The book sounds, from Mr. Rue's enthusiastic cable, like a boon. . . . It is certainly today's most important, and exciting, and interesting book, written by a man turned 88. . . . Dodd, Mead will publish an American edition of "Everybody's Political What's What" next month.

What Americans Think.

What the average American is thinking about politics and every other thing is analyzed by William A. Lydgate, editor of the American Institute of Public Opinion [the Gallup poll to you] in "What America Thinks." . . . It is going to be condensed in the November issue of Readers' Digest. . . . Compound digestion that might be called.

How Spanish Influences Span Ocean

"THE FIVE ARROWS," by Allan Chase. [Random House, $2.50.]

Reviewed by Walter Havighurst.

Allan Chase.

There is a well known saying that Spain is the key to two continents This swiftly paced novel demonstrates that events and policies in Spain act powerfully upon the life of a Latin American republic. The scene of Mr. Chase's story is the seaport capital of San Hermano, but the energies, political, and military, that threaten to engulf the country in fascism stem from Madrid and Berlin. The title of the book is taken from the insignia of the Falange, and the novel is based on a concept of global war.

Matthew Hall, foreign correspondent, had the good or bad fortune to be repeatedly in the midst of world shaking events. He was on H. M. S. Revenger when that great warship went down in the Mediterranean, and he spent three days on a life raft before being rescued. Before that he had been in Spain, behind Franco's lines and in one of Franco's prisons. Tho he lost his prison pallor he kept the dented face and the tenseness of mind and body that mark political prisoners of fascism.

As this novel opens he is on his way to the uneasy South American capital of San Hermano where a democratic president is dying and the Fascists are ready to seize the government. So Hall is again in the thick of things. Before he has a night's sleep in San Hermano, events begin to shape around him, events that threaten both his life and the free life of a democratic country.

• • •

"The Five Arrows" is a story of action, always graphic and sometimes dramatic; but it is also a story of ideas, of the clash of doctrines that underlie the world's turmoil. It is current history in the form of fiction. Allan Chase knows his scene and his people, and he doesn't pull his punches. His novel has clarity and impact; it is charged with sincere and articulate feeling.

This Is a Book Which Makes You Exercise Brain

"THE ADVENTURES OF THE YOUNG SOLDIER IN SEARCH OF THE BETTER WORLD," by C. E. M. Joad. [Arco, $2.]

Reviewed by Kelsey Guilfoil.

This book should carry on its jacket a warning: "Don't read this if you don't feel like thinking." For think you must, after reading Prof. Joad's brilliant, witty satire. In spite of what the author calls, in his preface, a tone of levity which crept into it, it touches some aspects of post-war reformation in a way which would do worlds of good to some of our planners of the "better world."

It is unfortunate, perhaps, that the scheme of the book, as well as its triple jointed title, should suggest Bernard Shaw's half-forgotten work, "The Adventures of the Black Girl in Her Search for God." Not only is Joad's work much the same in scheme, but it also presents the same sort of fantastic humor. And in both of them, to complete the parallel, there is an underlying seriousness which is closer to the eternal verities than all the solemn preachments of a college of dusty minded pundits.

It's pure fantasy, of course. A young soldier of an inquiring mind [he literally asks many questions] wanders off for a walk in the forest, where he meets a succession of strange beings, each representing one of the organizations or forces bent on reshaping the world. You'll have to read it for yourself to appreciate these queer beings, who are given diverting forms by the illustrator, Mervyn Peake.

The author is a distinguished English philosopher and man of letters, one of the members of the "Brains Trust" of the British Broadcasting corporation — England's "Information Please."

MacKinlay KANTOR

Author of HAPPY LAND and
THE VOICE OF BUGLE ANN

For sheer entertainment the forty stories in this big book make one of the happiest collections of recent years. Combining literary value with the quality of narrative delight, they stand as the representative work of one of the most sought-after and highly paid short story writers in America.

Mr Kantor does more than present these stories. He talks about them—why they were written, why he selected them, how much he was paid for them. In so doing, he manages to reveal so much of the honest detail of his craft that his notes and digressions serve as a unique and invaluable course in the technique of writing and selling.

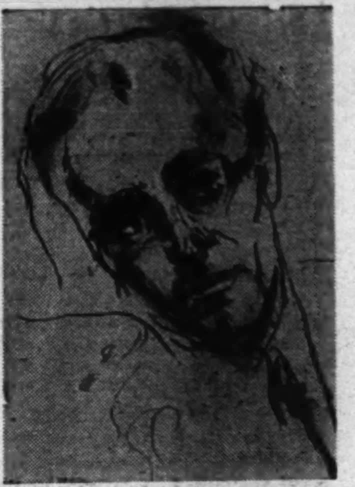
ADVERTISE IN THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE



Sketch of Chicago author Ralph Korngold, whose new biography, "Citizen Toussaint," is reviewed in this issue by Edward Barry.

Heroic Champion of Lowly People Defying Europe

"CITIZEN TOUSSAINT," by Ralph Korngold. [Little, Brown, $3.]

Reviewed by Edward Barry.

This is a carefully prepared and well written history of the most critical period in the bewildering series of civil and foreign wars which rocked Haiti in the late 18th and early 19th century. It is also a biography of an amazing man who had Lincoln's purity of character and Napoleon's military and administrative ability and who confronted and overcame difficulties more awesome than either of the two men with whom he can be compared ever encountered.

St. Domingo, the French part of the island of Haiti, was possibly the richest colony in the world at the time of the French revolution, but the enormous revenues which flowed from its sugar, cotton, indigo, and coffee plantations were tainted at their source by the fact that they were made possible only by the most merciless exploitation of the slave population. It was this condition which set the scene for Toussaint Louverture.

A Negro slave himself, and therefore largely cut off from sources of light and knowledge, Toussaint nevertheless raised himself to leadership of his own people and eventually to supreme power over the whole island. He fought the French, the British, the Spaniards. He fought the whites, the mulattoes, and in some cases [where defections had occurred] even the Negroes. He was finally betrayed thru treachery and died in one of Napoleon's prisons in France, but his work had been well done. The people whom he had armed and trained eventually defeated the formidable army which the reactionary Napoleon of the post-revolutionary epoch had sent to Haiti to restore slavery.

• • •

Perhaps the most astonishing element in Toussaint's character was his mildness. With every reason for the most intense hatred against the exploiting whites, he yet practiced a policy of conciliation. The atrocities, at least when Toussaint's control was effective, were mostly committed by the whites against the Negroes rather than the other way around. The blacks, only a generation or two removed from Africa, were able to give the whites, heirs of a long European tradition, some much needed lessons in gentleness and humanity.

Some Monkeyshines in a Staid Museum

"HOOKER'S HOLIDAY," by Wilfrid S. Bronson. [Harcourt, Brace, $1.75.]

This story of an adventurous monkey running riot in a museum is one of the funniest juveniles of the season. The author's adept drawings show how Hooker makes a monkey out of Professor Grampus and therefore gets to return to his zoo home. Previously Mr. Bronson write and illustrated, among others, "Horns and Antlers" and "The Grasshopper Book."

FRANCES DUNLAP HERON.

BOOKMAN'S HOLIDAY

By Delos Avery.

O, Henry James, I bought your books
And put them on the shelf [for looks],
And said, "Some day I'll surely read 'em,
But just at present I don't need 'em."

So there for twenty years they've stood,
While people say, "I hear they're good."
And Nora comes each week to dust 'em.
And once a year I readjust 'em.

Some day, perhaps, I'll cut the pages
And start to read [by easy stages]—
"The Golden Bowl," "What Maisie Knew,"
"Bostonians," or "Turn of Screw."

Meanwhile, it's comforting to know
One fact about that neat green row
Of volumes waiting on my shelf:
YOU found them hard to read YOURSELF.

The way I happened to find out about James' distaste for James is an illustration of what a bad habit it is to buy books and then neglect them. It was at least a dozen years ago I purchased a volume called "The Hogarth Essays" [Doubleday, Doran, 1928] and read them—all but one.

The one I skipped, until just recently [on account of its title] was "Henry James at Work," written by his amanuensis, Theodora Bosanquet. She was doing his typing for him in 1907, when he was preparing his Novels and Tales for the definitive New York edition.

"On a morning," said she, "when he was obliged to give time to the selection of a set of tales for a forthcoming volume, he confessed that the difficulty of selection was mainly the difficulty of reading them at all. 'They seem,' he said, 'so bad . . . that I cannot force myself to go thru them except with a pen in my hand, altering as I go the crudities and ineptitudes that to my sense deform each page.'"

Had I but read this at the time I bought the essays, how much friendlier my attitude toward Henry James might have been thru all these years! Who knows but that I might have tackled the green row of his books long ago, groaning in sympathy with their author?

Bosanquet told another odd thing: That James, in dictating, had to have his words taken down not by stenography but directly on the typewriter, the sound of its clicking [he explained] having a sort of catalytic effect on his flow of thought. But he insisted that the typewriter must be of a certain make [Remington, if you must know], because all others clicked out of tune. Poor Bosanquet, who had been trained on an Oliver, had to learn his kind to hold her job.

• • •

I can read Gertrude Stein, when she lapses into plain English prose, as in "Three Lives," or "The Autobiography of Alice B. Toklas"; I can read James Joyce, with the exception of certain passages which seem contra-indicated if it is near lunch time; I can also read Adler's "How to Read a Book"—but not all the books he tells how to read. And I have no doubt Stein and Joyce and James and Adler could all read each other. But I cannot read James—yet. I'd rather have Ilka Chase.

Another writer whose work I can take and like it is Miss Angna [pronounced Anzhna] Enters, whose autobiographic "Silly Girl" [Houghton Mifflin] came out only last March, so I am laudably prompt—for me—in getting around to it.

Miss Enters is a triple-talent person, writing, dancing, painting; and the clever trick she does is to get all three of her arts into her book—even the dancing. The sketches which are sprinkled thru the pages, some in color and some in black and white, have so much life and liveliness that she seems to step right out of the page and say, "Look! This is what I mean."

Maybe sometime after the war, when science has leisure to invent better things than lethal weapons, there will be a wonderful new kind of book with a built-in motion-picture-and-music gadget. If so, I hope the first publisher to adopt the innovation will choose somebody like Miss Enters for the initial experiment.

Speaking of gadgets suggests speaking of gags, and I feel pretty harsh about the "wolf" gags now so prevalent on the radio and all over Hollywood. You know: those noisy and noisome males who proclaim themselves to be howling prowlers and think they are a delicious terror to timid maidens. Just to remind them that their "modern" notion is centuries old, I quote from Burton's "Anatomy of Melancholy," published in 1621. Look:

"Donatus Altomarus saith that he saw two of them [wolfmen] in his time; Wierus tells of such a one at Padua, 1541, that would not believe to the contrary, but that he was a wolf; and Pausanias tells of a man that was 10 years a wolf, and afterward turned to his former shape. . . . [They] lie hid most part all day, and go abroad in the night, barking, howling, at graves and deserts; they have usually hollow eyes, scabbed legs and thighs, very dry and pale."

Painting with words [from Gertrude Atherton's "Adventures of a Novelist" [Blue Ribbon Books]: William Howard Taft [laughing] "shook in all his well tailored acres." Amy Lowell's "buoyant bulk and pouncing mind."

The cause of Taft's laughter, Mrs. Atherton said, was a quotation from Grover Cleveland about Woodrow Wilson: "Nature designed him for political success. He has the tongue of an angel, the brain of a Pitt, and he's the damndest liar that ever lived."

Surrealist Art.

"Abstract and Surrealist Art in America," with illustrations, will be published in October by Reynal & Hitchcock. Sidney Janis is the author.

Patrons Feel $24 Per Seat Is Too Much

By John Chapman.

NEW YORK [Special].—Announcement by Billy Rose that he will charge $24 per each for tickets to the opening of "The Seven Lively Arts" at his newly acquired Ziegfeld theater has, of all strange things, caused a flurry. A flurry in what is supposed to be a war mad, war rich town, where six bucks is the most you can pay for an ordinary theater seat.

It shows how people forget. They forget Coolidge, and Hoover, and Andrew Mellon. Used to thinking in billions, accustomed to fabulous income taxes, habituated to having their money taken before it has got warm in their pockets, they still think a $24 ticket is important.

They do not remember that in 1924 Florenz Ziegfeld sold the first four rows of his "Follies" premiere for $150 a seat—or that in those days theater seats had racks under them for gents' hats. They forget that in 1926 George White held the first two rows of "Scandals" at $100 a ticket, the next four rows at $50, and the next 10 at $35. On that one opening night Master White—who, the last time I saw him, was playing horses at Santa Anita—took in $19,000.

Nor, it seems, do people remember the opening of an Earl Carroll "Vanities" for $110 a ticket. Ray Kavanaugh, long time musical director for the Carroll shows, says he remembers that patrons for this high class dry goods show were given solid gold seat stubs as mementoes—and I think Mr. Kavanaugh is wrong. I went to that "Vanities." I cannot now recall who was in it, or if it had more than one joke, but I'm almost dead certain the $110 tickets were merely gilded pasteboard. About three times the size of the ordinary ducat, to be sure, but still pasteboard.

Broadway money in those times amounted to less than it does now. As Willard Keefe, one of the wisest of stage publicists, puts it, those times from about 1924 to Black Friday were the times when a tailor didn't bother to return a $100 bill he found in a suit sent for cleaning . . . because this would have affronted the owner.

So far as I know this kind of money is not being thrown around in the theater now. A price of $15 a ticket seems to be about the top a chump can pay for a fast pair to "Oklahoma," and even this is difficult to arrange, whereas in them golden days a Charlie would give a speculator a $100 bonus for a pair in row G, center section. City authorities, including the mayor and the license commissioner, plus a collector of internal revenue who loves to catch taxes from speculators, have held ticket scalping to a minimum.

I have heard of one ticket thief who prefers taking his profit on "Oklahoma" pasteboards in whisky, because this stuff is just as much fun as money and is easier to account for.

Twenty-four dollars is not too much for the reopening of the Ziegfeld theater, nor would $200 be, or $500, if Mr. Rose were impish enough to charge it. Any first class stage entrepreneur can always find a houseful of people willing to pay any price to see themselves at an opening. In the case of "The Seven Lively Arts," such side attractions as Beatrice Lille, Bert Lahr, Alicia Markova, Anton Dolin, Benny Goodman, and Igor Stravinsky will be thrown in free. Mr. Rose, as usual, is modest.

No show, of course, is worth $200, $150, $55 or $24. It is doubtful if any show is worth, in terms of rent money, shoe money or grocery money, the $6 which is now the Broadway maximum. But we are in for a period of higher box office prices, and for a year or so we may be paying $8.40 for a musical and $5 for a play. If you look at it coldly, this is silly, because if you have a little patience you can see Bing Crosby's movie, "Going My Way," for 15 cents. I saw it for a quarter the other afternoon.

Sooner or later the high price honeymoon will end. This time, maybe, the stage will figure out a way of getting down to where ordinary folk can afford it again. The stage has not always been quite honest about price cutting, but this time it may learn. In the Coolidge-Hoover-Mellon boom days alluded to at the beginning of this piece, there were emporiums like Leblangs, where you could buy two tickets for the price of one. You thought you were getting a bargain because your stub said your seat was worth $3, whereas you had paid only $1.50 for it. No manager ever came out and offered a $1.50 top to begin with.

These low priced plays did very well, as I recall. A thing like "Broken Dishes" or "Courage" could rock along for a year or more, making a nice profit selling itself at a 50 per cent discount, when scalpers were getting $25 a pair for the hit shows. Along with the present rate-upping, some from of rate cutting should now begin.

Students of India Cannot Afford to Miss This Book

"THE INDIAN PROBLEM," by R. Coupland. [Oxford, $5.]

Reviewed by Philo M. Buck Jr.

This timely book is one that no one who thinks or speaks of India today can afford to ignore. It is not propaganda. It is a dispassionate study and recital of facts, made by a professor at the University of Oxford, submitted to the warden and fellows of Nutfield college, Oxford university. Mr. Coupland is well qualified for the task. He has served his country on numerous royal commissions and was in 1942 a member of the Cripps' mission to India.

A careful check of the book fails to reveal a single inaccuracy. One may not always accept his generalizations—which are few—but one is compelled to accept this analysis of one of the most important problems in the world. It is unquestionably the most meticulous and ablest that the public—British, Indian, and American—has been offered. Before one dismisses the Indian problem, then, as something due to somebody's iniquities or greed, and offers some ready made easy or sentimental solution, one will be advised to read this book.

It is easy to read in spite of its 711 pages. It is in three parts, two of which have been previously published: I. The Indian Problem, 1833-1938; II. Indian Politics, 1936-1942; III. The Future of India.

Tho the utter seriousness of the problem is always evident and acknowledged—Mr. Coupland sees clearly that without peace and good will in India, there can be no assurance of peace in the world—yet his is not the counsel of despair. The book closes on a note of optimism and trust in the essential integrity of the Indian people.

Politics in India is different from anything the west can experience. It is more personal, they penetrate regions with us undreamed of. "Nowhere is politics more personal than in India, and nowhere is leadership more eagerly desired and loyally respected." How else account for the eternal youth of Mr. Gandhi's political leadership? Disagreement with his ideas, often fantastic, never for a moment lessens his iron hold on his party, the congress. It is the same with the lesser figures, like Mr. Nehru. Nor would one of them ever deny the voice of the master.

Political majorities and minorities, also, in India are never fluid like those of the west, with the confident hope of the minority that one day it can come into power. In India these are as fixed as the features of a landscape. One inherits his party with his community and religion. And it is this fact that is the core of the Indian problem. Even the bland Mr. Gandhi cannot brush it aside. In an India prematurely independent it may cause civil war and chaos. This, too, the mahatma accepts calmly, tho it could, and probably would bring on another World war.

THE MURDER CHART

By Drexel Drake.

ENTRY.	PERFORMANCE.	PAY-OFF.
"THE MURDER OF A QUACK," by George Bellairs. [Macmillan, $2.]	The body of Nathaniel Wall, famous bone setter, was found hanging in the locked consulting room of his house in Stalden. Inspector Littlejohn had only a sock as a clew to lead him to the murderer. Also, various spurious alibis confused the screening of suspects.	Well plotted and well written tale of a Scotland Yard detective doing a thorogoing job of solving a murder in a rural community. Humorous characterization is blended with portrayal of good sleuthing that opens surprise avenues.
"THE GLASS MASK," by Lenore Glen Offord. [Duell, Sloan & Pearce, $2.50.]	Mysterious searches in the attic of the old Tillsit mansion provided a lead that helped Todd McKinnon, mystery writer, and his fiancee, Georgine Wyeth, to determine which of aged Adeline Tillsit's heirs murdered her.	You may enjoy this tale of an involved family relationship and a heavily veiled crime if you don't mind leisurely narrative. Puzzle arouses little suspense, and detective job isn't too convincing, but story is diverting.
"DON'T LOOK BEHIND YOU," by Samuel Rogers. [Harper, $2.]	Murder of young woman in woods and foiled attempt at repeat performance, in small college town, bring unsuspected psychoses to surface among younger faculty group. Search for murderer disrupts a romance and produces startling repercussion.	Atmosphere of fear and terror pervades tale effectively. Romance is a bit synthetic but suspicions are capably created, and story builds up to exciting climax. Originality in plot.
"DATE WITH DANGER," by Roy Vickers. [Vanguard, $2.]	Bobby Chandler, London business girl, finds corpse of woman, is sought by police as murder suspect, but is shanghaied by secret service to recover important papers. Police, secret service agents, and spies make it a hectic round of peril for Bobby.	This story doesn't make sense at any stage, but it's high speed excitement from beginning to end, with a lavishly conceived whirl of thrills, and without lag in suspense.

AMONG THE AUTHORS

By Frederic Babcock.

SOME of the Chicago book jobbers and retailers have a hunch that "Forever Amber," to be issued by Macmillan Oct. 16, will be almost as big a hit as "Gone With the Wind," with which the same house made publishing history a few years ago. . . . "Amber" is like "G. W. T. W." in another respect; it runs to about a thousand pages. . . . Those who have seen the author, Kathleen Winsor, say she's beautiful enough to be starred in Hollywood as soon as her novel is sold to the movies. . . . She'll be here, for an autographing party at Marshall Field's, on Oct. 21. . . . She was an undergraduate at the University of California when she started writing, and it took her five years to complete the 1,400 page manuscript.

Last Christmas the Rev. John C. Evans, religion and education editor of THE TRIBUNE, wrote a story, "By Cornelius," for this paper. . . . Last Holy week he added, and saw published, five chapters, and now he's doing an epilogue. . . . Last week Willett, Clark signed him up for book publication. . . . The title will be changed, and the book brought out in time for the 1944 Christmas trade, when it may become a best seller. . . . Cornelius, in case you don't know [neither did we], was a centurion who was a critical figure in the development of the early Christian church.

As noted elsewhere in this section, Elizabeth Goudge's prize winner, "Green Dolphin Street," is now the No. 1 Best Seller in Chicago. . . . The booksellers say Edward Wagenknecht's review in this paper had a lot to do with the novel's success. . . . The title of Douglas Southall Freeman's third volume of "Lee's Lieutenants" is "Gettysburg to Appomattox." . . . It will appear Oct. 9 under the Scribner imprint. . . . Another strong bidder for popular approval this autumn will be Van Wyck Brooks' "The World of Washington Irving," to be published this week by Dutton. . . . Our favorite title, among those we have seen on the fall book lists, is "Half Past When." . . . Hassoldt Davis wrote the book; Lippincott will issue it Nov. 8. . . . It is said to have some of the quality of "Beau Geste."

• • •

On Saturday night, Oct. 7, the winners of two contests sponsored by THE TRIBUNE will be announced at the Cordon, 410 South Michigan avenue. . . . Two hundred dollars will go to the winner of the short story competition, and the same sum to the winner of the nonfiction race. . . . The contests, held in connection with the Midwestern Writers' conference in Chicago and the Fifth Annual Writers' conference in Evanston, were open to members of the armed forces of the United States. . . . Manuscripts came in from all over the world, and most of them were so worthy that the judges are still trying to decide among them.

Official Pictures Tell Story of War

"OUR ARMY AT WAR: The Story of American Campaigns in World War II. Told in Official War Department Photographs." [Harper, $3.]

A modern war is a lot of things. It is made up of marching men, mud and dust, ice and fire, brass hats and buck privates, lazy plumes rising from explosions, capsized ships, the queer expressions of wounded men, vapor trails in the sky, and a million other fragments that defy you to join them.

The war department has accepted the challenge in this book of official pictures. Linked in sequence to tell a connected story, pictures carry the war from Pearl Harbor to the aerial softening of Festung Europa that preceded the events of June 6. There are 482 pictures and four detailed maps. The book represents a difficult job stunningly well done. WALTER SIMMONS.

Much Weight and Detail in Gestapo Tale

"THE TERHOVEN FILE," by Robert Pick. (Lippincott, $2.75.]

Reviewed by James Gray.

Robert Pick.

In "The Terhoven File" Robert Pick has explored diligently and resourcefully into many of the sluggish and tainted backwaters of the Nazi movement. Using as a stick, with which to roil the waters, an incident of early National Socialist history which the Gestapo wishes to suppress, he brings to the surface some distasteful, yet persuasive findings about the timidity and meanness of human psychology.

A Jewish lawyer who has handled the Terhoven case escapes from Vienna when he realizes that he is in danger. But nowhere is his sanctuary really secure, for the Gestapo suspects him of having copies of the damaging material. His plight comes to the attention of various people in Italy, France, England, and America. Tho the reader never sees the lawyer, Simon, he looks into the lives of all of these other people—the wife who asks for a divorce as soon as her husband is in trouble, the French man of affairs who tries to use the refugee to his own advantage, the Gestapo agent who pursues him with a kind of immature malignity. The sordid vengeance of the Nazis puts its blight on every one involved. Those who wish to help do so half heartedly and blunderingly; those who do not reveal a degrading cynicism.

No doubt there is an awful freight of truth in this book. But it creaks under a crushing weight of detail. Heavy in style, discursive in its treatment of its too abundant materials, the book lacks an emotional focus. It is difficult to write a novel the central figure of which never appears. This one remains at best merely an impressive stunt.

Reviewer Finds Tough Going in Kapelner Story

"LONELY BOY BLUES," by Alan Kapelner. [Scribner's, $2.50.]

Reviewed by Kenneth Horan.

Alan Kapelner.

Theoretically this book is a musical feat its words and sentences keyed to the beat of the blues. Practically, it's tough going, a work of the imagination which shuffles into the consciousness by means of various sinister frustrations. Riding right along with it is a nice feeling of insanity, for not for a moment is its action anything but preposterous.

No doubt this tour de force expresses a mood, but I don't want to get into that mood. I want to stay sensible. The publishers of this rhapsody in purple claim that its story is a dynamic picture of loneliness. It can stay lonely for all of me. It does, of course, achieve the melancholy effect which I presume the author had in mind.

But I must confess that I did not finish reading "Lonely Boy Blues," because I was under the impression that if nothing intelligent or valuable happened for the first hundred pages, my chances of finding buried treasure were slim. However, I gleaned that lonely boy was the iron man of East St. Louis, and that his father, because of his magnificent physique, wanted him to be a strong man, and hustle trunks, but he, poor fellow, preferred the life of the mind.

The army turned him down. He wasn't as strong as he thought. And his story is awful, awful dreary stuff.

BOOKS ALIVE

by Vincent Starrett

IT HAS been suggested—by a woman, of course—that Sherlock Holmes was not a bachelor, as the world has long supposed; not incontestably, at any rate. He may, she thinks, have been a widower. There is nothing in the saga, she asserts, to deny the possibility.

Dear lady, your notion is preposterous, altho charming in attitude, and your study of the Sacred Writings is seriously at fault. Imprimis, it is to be remembered that all but four of the Holmes adventures—there are 60 in all—were chronicled by Dr. Watson, a rank sentimentalist. If at any time Watson had had the faintest reason to suppose Holmes a widower we should have a record of his effort to ascertain the facts, if not the facts themselves. There is no whisper of such a suspicion in his mind. He clearly tells us, in "A Scandal in Bohemia," that "all emotions, and that one particularly [i. e., love], were abhorrent to his [i. e., Holmes'] cold, precise, but admirably balanced mind." Other and similar clews to the same effect may be found—you look them up—in the stories called "The Dying Detective" and "The Greek Interpreter."

But perhaps you will think these only proof of your contention, and argue that, obviously, he had been unhappily married. Well, it might be urged that a man as untidy as Holmes in his personal habits, a man who kept his cigars in the coal scuttle, his tobacco in the toe of a Persian slipper, his unanswered correspondence transfixed by a jackknife in the center of his wooden mantel, could not ever have been a married man or he would have learned that such things are not done in the home; but I can hear you hoot at that deduction. Nor, probably, would you accept as final the little conversation between the detective and his biographer in the "Adventure of Charles Augustus Milverton," as follows:

Holmes: "You would not call me a marrying man, Watson?"
Watson: "No, indeed!"

So it is fortunate for those of us who believe in our Sherlock's indoctrinated bachelorhood that there exists a clear record of the situation in the Master's own words. You will find it in the concluding pages of "The Sign of the Four," where he tells the lovelorn Watson, himself about to take the leap, the reason he has never married. . . . "Love is an emotional thing," said Sherlock Holmes, "and whatever is emotional is opposed to that true, cold reason which I place above all things. I should never marry, myself, lest I bias my judgment."

All this without prejudice, of course, to the institution of marriage, often an admirable arrangement.

McCutcheon Anthology Planned.

A delightful event for booklovers is scheduled for the autumn months of 1945, specifically for those fortunate bibliophiles who are members of Chicago's famous Caxton club. Plans already are going forward to produce a definitive anthology of the work of John T. McCutcheon, THE TRIBUNE'S great cartoonist, whose drawings and books for years have attracted collectors of Americana to this unique and winning personality.

As I understand the project, here first announced, the book will be a survey of Mr. McCutcheon's career, the pictorial highlights of more than half a century, with critical and personal annotations by the artist. Thus the volume may include specimens of his earliest published work in "Debris, 1889," the first Purdue annual, a scarce opus that is also a first edition for Bruce Rogers, who was one of the cartoonist's classmates. In recognition of this association, it is probable that Mr. Rogers will be asked to design the present book. Franklin J. Meine and John Merryweather are in charge of publication arrangements for the club.

In addition to a representative selection of cartoons, whimsical and topical, the volume will contain examples of Mr. McCutcheon's book illustrations. These have been numerous along the years; many were made for the early stories and sketches of his friend, George Ade. I hope the editors will not pass up the enchanting seasonal drawings in "Clifford and John's Almanack," and I wish that years ago somebody had persuaded Mr. McCutcheon to illustrate "Tom Sawyer" and "Huckleberry Finn."

This is one of the happiest of recent ideas in book production de lust; it should result in one of the great collector's books of our time. No American is held in deeper affection among the bookly fraternity than John T. McCutcheon. In his humorous and romantic interpretations of the American scene—in such a series as the "Bird Center" cartoons, for example, and in such single masterpieces as his famous "Injun Summer"—he stands with Booth Tarkington and the best the country has to offer.

Unhappily, the book will not be for general sale. There will be some 300 copies only, privately printed for the Caxton club membership. No doubt they will give Mr. McCutcheon one—and how about a review copy for this department?

Of Reading in Bed.

Eugene Field should not be overlooked in the muster of bookmen who liked to read in bed, thinks John Valentine, and he refers me to a pleasant chapter in "The Love Affairs of a Bibliomaniac" that I should have remembered. Among the books the poet would have chosen for his bedside library, Mr. Valentine thinks, must be named Keightley's "Fairy Mythology," Crofton Croker's "Traditions of the South of Ireland," Nisbet Bain's "Cossack Fairy Tales," and Andrew Lang's chromatic scale of fairy anthologies.

Field affirms that "all good and true booklovers practice the pleasing and improving avocation of reading in bed," and quotes Cicero to his purpose. He also cites as an addict Richard Porson, the Greek scholar, who, besides piling books around his bed, added the comforts of a rollicking jug and a pipe. Nihil obstat.

Empire Room to Present New Show Thursday Night

Revue to Star John Hoysradt and Cavallaro

By Will Davidson.

Thursday is the night that two of the city's favorite entertainers take over the starring spots in the Empire room of the Palmer House. They are John Hoysradt, the immensely funny satirist, and Carmen Cavallaro, whose piano artistry is something seldom equaled in the room's decade of superb music.

Nirska.

Hoysradt, the ex-professor, the actor, the early-morning-hike enthusiast, has a delightfully satanic talent for dissecting the foibles of the human race and putting them on hilarious display.

Last winter Cavallaro came to a bandstand that had been occupied by such warm favorites as Griff Williams, Eddy Duchin, and Guy Lombardo and instantly won a place alongside the best of them.

These two men will have as support in the floor show Tommy Dix, young singing star of "Best Foot Forward," Johnny Mack, tap dancer, the acrobatic Juvelys, and the Merriel Abbott dancers in new routines.

Winnie Hoveler has never been one to let a little matter of impossibility deter her from staging a new routine. Maybe it delayed her now and then, but not for long. When you see the roller skating routine her line is presenting in the Pan American cafe of the Hotel La Salle, you'll see what I mean.

Winnie has taken some of the most hair raising of skate tricks and taught herself and her five fellow dancers to do them with the assurance of veterans. In groups and in concert they do spins and lifts that are not only amazing in themselves, but neatly blended into a musical routine. They were handicapped on opening night by Donny Kaye's wretched accompaniment, but that surely has been straightened out by now.

Winnie also has her girls doing a cowboy number and the stirring drum and baton routine, and thereby again proves that her act is a standout in its field.

The La Salle has veteran Joe Wallace as its emcee and raconteur now. Joe can still do Ted Lewis better than Ted and Joe Frisco better than Joe. His magical tomfoolery is still with us, and it's good for quick laughs.

HELD OVER

Benny Strong's band has proved so popular in the Walnut room of the Bismarck hotel that it has been held over until the holidays.
[Seymour Photo.]

Joe Denton, Kaye's amiable young singer, is another strong feature of this show, especially when he turns the Irish charm on "They Called It Ireland," and almost equally when he revives "You Made Me Love You." Kaye proves his musicianship with a beautifully played solo, "Time on My Hands."

• • •

Dorothy Hild is presenting her first Marine dining room show at the Edgewater Beach and it is a good start. Dorothy's shows so far have been designed for the Beach-Walk, but now the fall season has opened. In her current revue the accent is strongly on the Hild dancers and on the Ballerina Nirska. The latter does a colorful butterfly dance involving what seems to be acres of shimmering cloth flecked with the changing colors of the spotlight. The girls have wings, too, and make use of them quite effectively. Flashiest number in the Hild repertoire this time is a gay turn to Ellington's "The Sergeant Was Shy," involving trick costumes that change colors and designs under the application of various lights.

Frank Paris, the puppeteer, is one of the most imaginative in his field. His tango team is amusing and novel, and his ice skater, while not unique, is especially effective as a floor act. Mr. Paris, incidentally, does not use a platform. In the terraced Marine room this shouldn't be a handicap to many of the guests, and it enhances the illusion of the act.

Magic in a light manner, and about the fastest "mind reading" demonstration in the business is the offering of Mardoni and Louise. This team has long been a Chicago favorite, and deserve their position.

Emil Vandas makes frequent and excellent use of his violin section during his specialties in the show, and in his regular numbers. This big orchestra is an excellent one for the Marine room.

Boswelling the Bistros:

Oct. 4, the date the Stevens hotel reopens its remodeled Boulevard room, is also the day that Helene and Hayes, dancers, and Martin Barnett, comedy magician, take over the floor show duties in the Walnut room of the Bismarck hotel. Benny Strong plays on. And, incidentally, that cute song, "Stingy," which you've heard Benny feature on the air, is one of the many composed by Chicago's famous Dr. Benjamin Goldberg. . . . Sylvia Froos has taken over the singing spot in that corking good Latin Quarter show. The rest of the acts stay. . . . Jack Holst, parallel bar champion, is in the new Blackhawk restaurant show with Maurice and Maryea, and, of course, Carl Ravazza. . . . Gene Krupa won't come to the Sherman until Oct. 20—Bob Chester getting the call starting Oct. 6. . . . Melba Cordes, once one of Merriell Abbott's brightest stars, now is in charge of her own studio. And from her classes will come many of the Abbott dancers who are so traditionally a bright part of Palmer House shows. . . . Art [Latin Quarter] Goldie, the first night club press agent I ever met in Chicago, is now ye ed. of "Nite Life." . . . Look alikes, handsome Jim Hart, manager of the Ambassador, and handsome George Touraine, of the Boston hotel by the same name.

Opera Schedule

Casts for the five operas to be presented during the first week of the Chicago Opera season at the Civic Opera house are as follows:

Return of Francis Hackett to Reviewing Is Welcomed

By Harry Hansen.

New York.

THE best news that has come to New York's literary world in a month of Sundays is the return of Francis Hackett to regular reviewing. This elusive character, who has not been tied to a job since 1922, will write three reviews a week for the New York Times, succeeding John Chamberlain, who returns once more to the Luce pay roll by going to Washington to represent Life.

After a long residence abroad Mr. Hackett returned to the United States with his Danish born wife, Signe Toksvig, and has been living in Connecticut, writing books at intervals of years and profoundly hating bigness, regimentation, totalitarianism, and especially Hitlerism. We of the middle west have not forgotten his brilliant work on the literary review of the Chicago Evening Post from 1909 to 1911. He went east to become critic for the New Republic when that was born, leaving it in 1922 and going back to Ireland. For Mr. Hackett is a native of Kilkenny, and the individual role he has always played may be in his blood. To me his comment is especially welcome because his wide reading and good taste will put him on the side of literary merit, as against economic, political, and other influences in modern writing.

An Evangelist for Healthy Writing.

When Mr. Hackett began reviewing he was an evangelist for the fresh, healthy writing that was opening new windows in the early decades of this century. His thinking is progressive, his mind is open, but he is not the spokesman of a fashion. It is sometimes debatable how influential reviewers really are, but there is no doubt that they help create and sustain fashions in writing. When the anti-Puritan drive was being led by H. L. Mencken—the "Chicago movement" of the 1920s was a part of it—few conservative writers were able to get a hearing, despite the efforts of Irving Babbitt, Stuart Sherman, and Paul Elmer More. When the young radicals of the 1930s insisted that no writing was valuable unless it helped social reform and, specifically, Marxian doctrine, dissenters were on the defensive. But while timely issues are always novel, often exciting and always hotly advocated by belligerent spokesmen, they fade to their proper dimensions in the course of years.

The return of Mr. Hackett to reviewing is a symptom of the swing from economics to literature, tho social questions bulk as large as ever. Mr. Hackett is alert to what is going on, but he does not bear the banners of the avant-garde; he is 61. Edmund Wilson, now reviewing regularly in the New Yorker, is 49, and altho he lent himself strongly to the Marxian interpretation of literature at one time, it was probably because he is basically friendly to experimental writing. Mr. Hackett's biographies, "Henry VIII." and "Francis the First" were exceedingly well balanced books, and altho the author made use of modern methods, he did not allow any one influence, whether social or psychoanalytical, to dominate them. It was characteristic that Mr. Hackett's first review dealt with Mark Longaker's "Ernest Dowson."

Farrar's Withdrawal.

The publishing world was surprised to learn that John Farrar was "withdrawing" from the firm of Farrar & Rinehart, which he helped to found with Stanley M. Rinehart and Frederick Rinehart, sons of Mary Roberts Rinehart. They had been associated for over 20 years. The initiative came, I understand, from the Rineharts, and must have been difficult for all. Differences over publishing policy are said to be the reason. Mr. Farrar returned late in July from North Africa, where he had been working for the OWI for over a year, and is continuing with that work in New York. Mr. Rinehart tells me that no change in the name of the firm is contemplated at present. Mr. Farrar will probably continue in publishing later on. In the meantime the Rineharts are asking the literary world to meet their new editor, Philip Wylie, at an affair in the Barberry room next Thursday. This is the restaurant on E. 52d st., which was decorated by Norman Bel-Geddes and originally called the Elbow room at the suggestion of Alexander Woollcott.

Sam Johnson's Comeback.

Speaking of fashions in books, there was the cult of Samuel Johnson. The Johnson Literary club of the later decades of the 18th century in London was made for bibliophiles. There was the talk about writing, the play of personality, the charming social intercourse of another age, with a touch of the erratic that makes men "characters." Interest in Boswell and Johnson was at its height in the United States in the 1920s. First editions of the Dictionary and Boswell's "Life" were bid up at every auction. A. Edward Newton supported the Johnson museum in London. Col. Ralph H. Isham returned with unpublished manuscripts by Boswell from Malahide castle, Ireland, worth nobody knew how much. And some people, at least, read their Boswell. Then came the depression. . . . But all these matters have no significance for the scholar, who goes right on studying and publishes his findings whether or not they are timely. For instance, there's the forthcoming biography, "Samuel Johnson," by Joseph Wood Krutch, announced by Henry Holt & Co. When Mr. Krutch talks about literature and literary personalities, we listen. It is true that, many years ago, he, too, came under the influence of a literary fashion and wrote a biography of Poe that leaned heavily on the psychoanalytical method. But he has not been writing fashionable books for a long time and his Johnson is bound to be worth reading and may bring Johnson back into the talk of the town.

Storm Over Manhattan.

When Harcourt, Brace & Co. planned a treat for literary New York—a party for Katherine Anne Porter, who holds the esteem of her fellow craftsmen in high degree, it did not plan on competition. And truly, no other writer would have tempted the guests away from this opportunity to meet Miss Porter. But Sept. 14 at 5 was exactly the time the weather man set for New York's hurricane. And it came. Yet 75 members of the literary front reached the Ritz Carlton for the event, altho some of them suffered for their delay in getting home. Among these was the host, Donald Brace, who found that suburban trains had stopped at 9 and who sat around the waiting rooms until 3 a. m. Miss Porter, whose recent short stories appear in "The Leaning Tower and Other Stories," has just completed a fellowship at the Library of Congress and stopped over in New York on her way to Yaddo, the endowed writing colony at Saratoga Springs, to rest there for a few months.

Correspondent Jack Belden, author of "Still Time to Die," reviewed in this issue by Walter Simmons.

Cheaper Book Is Better in This Instance

"ART IN THE ARMED FORCES," edited by Aimée Crane. [Hyperion Press, $5.]

"G. I. SKETCH BOOK," edited by Aimée Crane. [Infantry Journal-Penguin Books, 25 cents.]

Reviewed by Marcia Winn.

These two collections of drawings and paintings made by Americans at war, and both edited by Aimée Crane, are a remarkable study in contrasts. One collection, the $5 one, is indifferent. The other, the 25 cent one, is excellent. Yet many of the pictures in the little paperbound sketch book also are in the fine, large clothbound edition.

To deal with the expensive edition first: Its art is by men of the army, navy, marine corps, merchant marine, and Coast Guard, and by women of the WAC—complete with glowing endorsements by generals and so on. Too much of it is poster art. Much of it is hideously stylized. Too much has neither feeling nor freedom. As for the WAC art, it is obvious that the women who drew it joined the WAC for patriotic motives, not for art. It is better forgotten, quickly.

Altogether, the large book contains 250 reproductions in black and white, and 16 pages in full color. Sketches, watercolors, and oils are included in the lot. Much of the work is by professional artists now in uniform, and some of it naturally is quite good. The majority is not.

The little sketch book not only is a beautifully portable thing, but it is vivid and alive and full of the freedom and promise the larger book lacks. It is in general informal, and in that lies its worth.

The old saw of you pays your money and you takes your choice is ably exemplified in the two volumes.

Correspondent Vents Scorn on the Complacent

"STILL TIME TO DIE," by Jack Belden. [Harper, $3.]

Reviewed by Walter Simmons.

War is a dirty business and no one knows it better than Jack Belden. He has spent the last seven years, mostly in retreat with beaten armies, in China, Burma, Africa, Sicily, and Italy. His leg was shattered by a German bullet at Salerno. His new book is the bitter, tortured, and despairing outcry of a disillusioned and contemptuous man who is sick of war but finds it so fascinating that he cannot stay home.

Ten years ago Belden was a beachcomber—a bum—in China. His phenomenal growth as a writer has inescapable parallels with that of Jack London, whom he probably scorns. Belden, indeed, scorns many things, many people. His rage is most riotous toward those who are well fixed and complacent, and this probably will discomfit the armchair reader until he reflects that he makes considerably less money than the well paid Belden does.

However, this very undisciplined vigor is the chief strength of Belden's writing. Half his book is devoted to the tragedy of China. [Incidentally, he reveals that Mme. Chiang presumes to give orders to the troops in the field.] The other half is devoted to Malta, the North Africa campaign, and Sicily-Italy. Belden thought that, up to Salerno, the American soldier still had a lot to learn. Of the war's generals he most admired Stilwell and Montgomery.

The story of these campaigns is told savagely, often in words they do not like in Boston. Better than any other correspondent, Belden succeeds in catching the mental attitude of the man in battle—his uncertainties, deprivations, his fierce resentment of the soldier in the rear area, and of the civilian snug at home. This is a book written with tremendous power. You may not like it, but neither can you forget it.

THE JUNIOR BOOKSHELF

By Agatha L. Shea.

TITLE.	SUBJECT.	VERDICT.
"CHANCHO—A BOY AND HIS PIG IN PERU," by Sutherland Stark. Illustrations by Rafaello Busoni. [Messner, $2.] [Junior Literary Guild.]	Jose Antonio had never had a pet of his own, and great was his delight when one day his father returned from market bringing, of all things, a little pink pig for him. This was indeed a surprise, and started Jose's adventure in search of the hidden treasure in which Chancho was the hero.	A good story of a boy's life in Peru, telling of the markets, of the native crafts and of the family life in the highlands. For fifth to sixth grade readers.
"YOUR CAREER IN MUSIC," by Harriett Johnson. [Dutton, $3.]	Panoramic view of music as an art and as a vocation, with particular emphasis on the latter. Includes various kinds of music from symphony to swing, and discusses possibilities and requirements in each field.	Unusually valuable vocational book in the music field. Answers most questions that young music aspirants ask. Author is music composer, teacher, and critic of the New York Post.
"GRANITE HARBOR," by Dorothy Maywood Bird. [Macmillan company, $2.]	Terry Blake was the popular leader of the younger set in Dallas before her family moved to the Lake Superior country with its ice and snow. She knew that she'd never like it, but soon skiing, skating, and even blizzards were all a part of her fun.	A good story of winter sport for upper grade readers.

Wylie's Novel Loaded with Ideas, Talk

"NIGHT UNTO NIGHT," by Philip Wylie. [Farrar & Rinehart, $2.75.]

Reviewed by Fanny Butcher.

Philip Wylie, whose "Finnley Wren" gave him a national following, and whose "Generation of Vipers" both added to and subtracted from it, has almost 20 books to his credit, all of them full of ideas as well as words. Now he has written another of his diatribes against man and man's insincerity in "Night Unto Night."

It may be called a ghost story, because there are some ghostly doings in it, but the best possible description of it is to be found in the words of one of the characters as she listens to another: "When you want to, you can talk like a locomotive on a downgrade. . . . You just think out loud." Mr. Wylie just thinks out loud and talks at double speed like a locomotive on the downgrade in this novel.

"Night Unto Night" is ostensibly about people, but it is really about ideas—all possible kinds of ideas about the state of society and the world, relationships between men and women, religion, illness, death, ghosts, psychoanalysis—anything, in fact, that any one of his unusual characters might be thinking about.

Those characters include a biochemist who discovers, when he tries to enlist in the army, that he is an epileptic [he doesn't know whether his epilepsy is potential or active, and he goes to Miami Beach to await developments]; Ann, whose naval officer husband has just been lost at sea and whose voice she hears in the gloomy old house on the beach where they had lived; a commercial artist who writes fables and talks them when he isn't writing them; a famed psychoanalyst and an army psychologist who do an analysis before the reader's eye; Ann's sister, who by Puritan standards hasn't a moral in her luscious body or a qualm in her soul, but whose amorality is finally resolved by the psychoanalyst.

The difference between Mr. Wylie's queer folk and the queer folk of other writers is that his people talk more than they act. They talk long pages. They empty their minds, which, however, like the magic pitcher, never run dry. They do little in this book—listen to ghostly sounds, watch the sea, swim in it, battle a tremendous tropic storm—but they talk all the time. It is that talk which will either delight or infuriate the readers. Sometimes it will do both—almost stimultaneously, because readers who are infuriated with the ideas may well be delighted with the way those ideas are presented.

Mr. Wylie has as lush a vocabulary as any among today's fictioneers. He himself seems infuriated by sham and perhaps even by sincerities which do not agree with his sincerities. His writing has the quality of excitement about it, no matter what he is writing about. Nobody can write better or more vivid description than he does. But he so seldom leaves the realm of talk to describe a scene or a person that when he does the reader is tinglingly conscious of the fact.

• • •

Mr. Wylie, for his furious lashing out with adjectives, might be called, among writers, a sting ray, a creature which Mr. Noah Webster declares "capable of inflicting severe wounds . . . especially to oysters."

Old Mother Goose in Brand New Form

"A PICTURE BOOK OF MOTHER GOOSE," by Berta and Elmer Hader. [Coward-McCann, $3.]

This new edition of an old favorite appears in time for early Christmas orders for nursery youngsters. The verses and the large and realistic illustrations on blue bordered pages fall into four divisions: Rhymes and songs, game songs, boys and girls from Mother Goose, lullabies. The two artists are husband and wife.

A TALE OF CIVIL WAR ON THE MISSISSIPPI

An Ironclad That Defied Union Navy

"BY VALOUR AND ARMS," by James Street. [Dial, $3.]

Reviewed by Kenneth C. Kaufman.

This is the story of three men and a gun, a big-bellied, 9 inch Dahlgren rifle, named Dolly, with a silver nameplate bearing the device, "Virtute et Armis." The men, a Missourian named Wyeth Woodward, a Cajan with mingled strains of noble Scot and royal Creek Indian blood, and an Englishman who had left the royal navy because of a fondness for drink, were the best gun crew in the Confederate navy. They loved Dolly with a love passing the love of women. They had salvaged her at the fall of Memphis, and got her installed on the Arkansas, the ironclad which the heroic Capt. Isaac N. Brown was building out of railroad iron, doorknobs, and balcony rails, stolen, smuggled, hauled in by floundering oxen, far up amidst the mud and mosquitoes of the Yazoo river.

That was in 1862. Farragut and the two Porters were lying by with their mighty fleets, the greatest weight of metal ever yet assembled in naval history, trying half-heartedly to capture Vicksburg from the river. The Arkansas, clumsy, creaking, groaning, steamed out of the Yazoo, defeated the Yankees in four pitched battles, and scattered their fleets up and down the river. She became a terror from Cincinnati to New Orleans, a legend, a ghost ship. Then the army ordered her to help Van Dorn take Baton Rouge, and when her engines broke down under Porter's guns, her commander scuttled her.

But the gun crew saved Dolly, got her back up to Vicksburg and served her against Sherman and McPherson until she exploded and crippled the Englishman. The Cajan had already fallen victim to malaria. And when Grant, by a combination of genius and bloody bulldogging, crushed Pemberton and broke the backbone of the Confederacy, Wyeth Woodward, last man of the Confederate navy in the west, slipped out of Vicksburg to his sweetheart in Natchez, was captured and paroled, and set out to make a new life for them in the New South that was to follow the war.

There is a secondary romance between the Englishman and the Cajan's cousin, also a villain of the Relentless Rudolph type, who doesn't quite live up to specifications, in spite of his being married to a tiger woman with a taste for trouble.

• • •

But what keeps the reader's toes tingling is the hair-trigger gamble of the Confederate agents getting iron for the Arkansas, the hairbreadth escapes, the hangings, shootings and stabbings by bushwhackers, spies and counterspies, mysterious underground hideouts, dirty scheming by cotton speculators and bribe taking Yankee officers, and the savage, blind fury of courage that strewed the swamps back of Vicksburg with bloody mud and guts. The romance sometimes gets lost in Mr. Street's enthusiasm for actual happenings so incredible as to shrivel fiction; that may be forgiven in favor of his gaunt realism and his fidelity to history. And the book hangs together, for its real hero is the Confederate navy on the Mississippi, one of mankind's great heroisms, too long neglected not only in song and story, but in history as well.

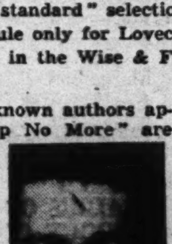
Derleth Collects Horror Stories for Connoisseurs

"SLEEP NO MORE," edited by August Derleth. (Farrar & Rinehart, $2.50.)

Reviewed by Edward Wagenknecht.

Mrs. Radcliffe, queen of the 18th century "Gothic" novels, distinguished between terror and horror. The first, not the second, was, she thought, the source of the sublime; it "expands the soul, and awakens the faculties to a high degree of life." Mr. Derleth subtitles this new anthology, "Twenty Masterpieces of Horror for the Connoisseur." For the connoisseur because, assuming that his customers already own the other anthologies, he has avoided the "standard" selections. As far as my knowledge goes, he has broken this rule only for Lovecraft's "The Rats in the Walls," which has just appeared in the Wise & Fraser "Great Tales of Terror and the Supernatural."



August Derleth.

The only well known authors appearing in "Sleep No More" are M. R. James, Algernon Blackwood, Thomas Burke, M. P. Shiel, Robert W. Chambers, and Alfred Noyes. Even these are represented by comparatively recondite tales: Shiel's "The 'House of Sounds," for example, has never before been printed in America. John Collier and H. R. Wakefield are known at least to the cognoscenti; Maurice Level is perhaps well known in France.

For the rest of the book Mr. Derleth draws upon such writers as Henry S. Whitehead, Howard Wandrei, Robert Bloch, and Hazel Heald [the only woman represented, and the author of one of the finest and most terrible yarns], whose fame has hitherto been limited to devotees of "Weird Tales" and kindred magazines, tho in several instances Mr. Derleth's own Arkham House of Sauk City, Wis., the only publishers in America devoted entirely to supernaturalism, is planning soon to grace them with the dignity of boards.

For Mr. Derleths' ideal one can have only praise; anthologists do far too much copying from each other. But if one asks whether the new collection equals those which include such tales as "All Hallows," "Afterwards," and "The Celestial Omnibus," I think one must reply frankly that it does not. These stories never lack art but they sometimes lack inevitability. There is a suggestion of professionalism; they are "worked up" for an occasion. Nor does this apply exclusively to the "Weird Tales" group. I cannot, for example, share Mr. Derleth's enthusiasm for the Shiel, whose cumbersome properties persistently remind me of the wonderful contraptions of "Rube" Goldberg.

The supernatural tale, like religion, is spoiled when you make a business of it; the greatest effects in this field are likely to be achieved by men like Walter de la Mare, who peer behind the veil almost unwillingly, because it seems necessary to do so in order to give a complete picture of human life. Nevertheless, there are fine stories here. I hope Mr. Derleth will place my name on the Arkham House mailing list.

1944's Finest First Novel, Says Critic of This Story

"BOSTON ADVENTURE," by Jean Stafford. [Harcourt, Brace, $2.75.]

Reviewed by Paul Engle.

This is the finest first novel of 1944. The texture of the writing, phrase by phrase, sentence by sentence, is aware, imaginative, rich, acute, rhythmical. By contrast with so many contemporary novels, by the authors of anywhere from three to 10 books, all the observations seem made for the first time, the places are acutely seen, the people are sharply alive in the story, as if they had been carved onto the page with a knife.

In spite of the fact that the book will be labeled "psychological," there is humor where there ought to be humor, and there is an ample use of real, objective, touched, and heard and smelled detail. The incidents are most of them small, unviolent, inner, but in every case the event is dramatized for the reader, it moves over the page as over an actual stage, with physical presences and heard sounds. It is "modern" without being forced, carefully contrived without being artificial, introspective without being unreal, serious without being solemn.

An amazing quality of the book is its solidity—from first chapter to last there is no faltering, no diminishing in force or in flow. The first chapter is a superb thing in itself, startling in its creation of individual persons.

Jean Stafford.

To announce that the book is about a girl growing up near and in Boston, with her own strange parents first, and later on with a genuine Boston lady, would be unjust, for it would suggest little of the book's liveliness, or of the remarkable faculty the author has for supercharging with interest and suspense the relationships of characters who outwardly have no unusual aspect at all. On Boston, the book is shrewd and right and sadly believable.

The gradual submission of the girl to the old woman who takes her over, the slow giving up to the inevitable future for the sake of a comfortable and interesting present, is finely and subtly done. The final sentences of the book come with a double and ironic strength when Miss Pride [the old woman; so curtly and aptly named] says to the girl as she is standing outside the door in winter: "Sonie, my dear, come out of the cold. You'll never get to be an old lady if you don't take care of yourself."

The one quarrel I have with the novel is: The girl does not really grow up in her responses and recollections. The story is told in the first person, as a recalling of the past. The kind of thing the girl remembers from her 10th year is the same kind of thing she remembers from her 20th. So that the little child seems almost as mature at the beginning as at the end. This may only be due to the fixed character of the girl after her maturity, but it makes rather less believable the early childhood. But the rest is so good, you must read it for yourself.

Anyway, We Now Know Which One Wrote This Book

"THE FOUR FEARS," by Sen. Elbert D. Thomas. [Ziff-Davis, $2.]

Reviewed by Walter Trohan.

Sen. Elbert D. Thomas.

One of the minor confusions that beset the press in the effort to reduce the "confusion worse confounded" that is Washington to something the folks in the saner reaches of the country can understand is the fact that there are three Thomases in the United States senate. It is no little problem to keep from scrambling up their names, trades, children, and politics.

Two are New Deal Democrats—Thomas, Elbert [D., Utah], and Thomas, Elmer [D., Okla.]. The other Thomas, John [R., Idaho], is a Republican. Two are Masons—Thomas [D., Okla.] and Thomas [R., Idaho]—and the other, Thomas [D., Utah] is a Pi Gamma Mu. Thomas [D., Utah] is a former professor of political science, Thomas [R., Idaho] is in the live stock business, and Thomas [D., Okla.] is a lawyer.

Thomas [D., Utah] speaks Japanese. Thomas [R., Idaho] and Thomas [D., Okla.] speak whenever opportunity offers. Thomas [D., Utah] admires Thomas Jefferson and Franklin D. Roosevelt. Thomas [D., Okla.] admires Franklin D. Roosevelt and Thomas Jefferson. Thomas [R., Idaho] has no admiration for Mr. Roosevelt. Thomas [D., Utah] has three daughters. Thomas [R., Idaho] has one daughter. Thomas [D., Okla.] has one son.

Thomas [D., Okla.] was born on a farm in Indiana. Thomas [R., Idaho] was born on a farm in Kansas. Thomas [D., Utah] was born in Salt Lake City. Thomas [D., Utah] has four college degrees, Thomas [D., Okla.] has three, and Thomas [R., Idaho] has none. Thomas [R., Idaho] has a book, Thomas [D., Okla.] has read a book, and Thomas [D., Utah] has written three books.

All of which gets this reviewer down to "The Four Fears," which is a clear call for idealism as the sure way to a lasting peace. The author asserts vigorously that there is no need to fear idealism, fear Russia, fear Britain, or fear revolution. Along the line he dismisses lesser fears.

Sen. Thomas [D., Utah] glides over points which would bring hours and days and years of debate in the senate as easily as Sen. Thomas [D., Okla.] would make a routine motion or Sen. Thomas [R., Idaho] would sell a steer. It is to be regretted that the problem of what to do with an evening cannot be settled in an American home as easily as the senator offers a formula for solving the problems of winning a lasting peace.

Two Books Discuss the Art of Living

"TECHNIQUE FOR LIVING," by James H. Smith and Natacha Rambova. [Duell, Sloan & Pearce, $1.50.]

"HOW TO RELAX," by William H. Miller. [Barnes, $2.]

To many of us, the technique of making a living has all too predominant a place in our thinking. The technique of living, which is far more important, is usually neglected. Both of these little books offer sound and practical advice on how to develop the art of relaxation—mental and physical. "Technique for Living" seems to have the edge in usefulness, as its friendly advice includes emotional control, too.

Notes of Music and Musicians

By Albert Goldberg

Adolph Busch.

Add to a calendar already extraordinarily full of musical events, nine concerts by distinguished recitalists and musical organizations to be given at Orchestra hall this season under the management of George A. Kuyper. Mr. Kuyper's first event will take place on Sunday afternoon, Dec. 10, when the Trapp Family Singers, who made a highly successful debut here last season, will give a program of Christmas music. Dates of other events in the series are not yet definite, but the list includes the only Chicago appearance of Vladimir Horowitz, as well as recitals by three other pianists: William Kapell and Alexander Brailowsky, who also will appear with the Chicago Symphony orchestra during the season, and Josef Hofmann. Patricia Travers, violinist, and Gregor Piatigorsky, cellist, both of whom are listed as Chicago Symphony soloists, will be heard in solo recitals. The only vocalist will be Todd Duncan, Negro baritone, creator of the role of Porgy in Gershwin's "Porgy and Bess." Adolf Busch, violinist, and founder of the Busch Quartet, will conduct his Little Symphony, and the soloist will be Eugene Istomin, 18 year old pianist, winner of the Leventritt award, who appeared last season as soloist with both the Philadelphia and New York Philharmonic orchestras.

The Howard Will concert management announces five recitals during the coming season in addition to the four chamber music concerts to be presented at Kimball hall by the Russian Trio and the Budapest String Quartet. Robert Hall Collins, baritone, will sing at Orchestra hall on Tuesday evening, Oct. 31. Mr. Collins is said to be a protege of Serge Koussevitzky, having sung with the Boston Symphony orchestra under that conductor's baton, and reëngaged for another appearance this season. Jane Johnson Burroughs, Indianapolis soprano, will give a recital at Kimball hall on Tuesday, Nov. 7 and Elizabeth Jefries, soprano, will be heard in the same hall on Tuesday, Nov. 14. Hugo Kolberg, former concert master of the Pittsburgh, Cleveland, and Metropolitan Opera orchestras, will give a recital on Tuesday, Jan. 30, and Mr. Will's present bookings will close with Camille Anderson, soprano, who will include a group of songs to the harpsichord accompaniment of Dorothy Lane, at Kimball hall on Monday, March 26.

• • •

The Chicago Concert and Opera guild, under the direction of Silvio Insana, will present "La Traviata" the the Eighth Street theater on Sunday, Oct. 8, at 8:15. Leading roles will be sung by Marilyn Sherman, Robert Fitzgerald, and Zisbra Alfred.

• • •

AT PALACE

Deanna Durbin and Gene Kelly as they appear in "Christmas Holiday" at the Palace.

Important additions to the faculties of two Chicago music schools are announced. Edith Mason, noted lyric soprano, formerly of the Metropolitan and Chicago Opera companies, will join the faculty of De Paul university school of music, to replace Maria Kurenko. Silvio Insana, director of the Chicago Concert and Opera guild, has been engaged by the Chicago Musical college as instructor of the opera class, in charge of coaching and staging. Hans Bassermann, assistant concert master of the Chicago Symphony orchestra, will assume charge of the class in chamber music at the same institution.

The United Lutheran choir will present Margery Mayer, contralto, and the Blue Jackets choir of the Great Lakes Naval Training center in concert next Sunday at 8, in the church auditorium at Ridgeland and Greenfield avs., Oak Park. The concert is open to the public and a free will offering will be taken, the proceeds to be invested in war bonds.

• • •

Joseph Lockett, American Negro pianist, will be heard in recital at Greater Bethesda church, 5300 S. Michigan av., on Friday at 8:30. Mr. Lockett has appeared as soloist with the Philadelphia orchestra and was chosen by the National Association of Negro Musicians to play before their 22d annual meeting at Cleveland this year.

• • •

The Hull House Music school has engaged Theodore Harrison as director of the adult chorus. Rehearsals will be held on Saturdays at 5.

• • •

Alexander Joseffer, pianist of the Ginsburg Ensemble of the Palmer House, will give a recital in Kimball hal on Monday, Oct. 23, at 8:30.

• • •

Many of the major orchestras of the country will observe the 70th birthday of the much discussed but little played modernist, Arnold Schoenberg, by performing his compositions this season. Two world premieres appear among the announcements: a theme and variations for orchestra [1943], to be played by the Boston Symphony orchestra under Serge Koussevitzky in October, and the "Ode to Napoleon" [1943], which will be performed by Artur Rodzinski and the New York Philharmonic on Nov. 23, 24, and 26. The second chamber symphony will be played by the New York City Symphony orchestra under Leopold Stokowski's direction on Nov. 20 and 21, and by the San Francisco Symphony orchestra with Pierre Monteux conducting in December. The concerto for string quartet and orchestra, after Handel, will be played by the Kansas City Philharmonic, Efrem Kurtz conductor, in December, and the variations will appear on the programs of Fritz Reiner and the Pittsburgh Symphony orchestra, Jan. 26 and 28. Chicago will hear the original version of the "Ode to Napoleon" in the Schoenberg concert under the composer's direction in the University of Chicago Composers series on Dec. 8, a performance which will be repeated at the University of Wisconsin the following day. And Désiré Defauw will include "Verklärte Nacht" on one of his early programs with the Chicago Symphony orchestra.

• • •

Leopold Stokowski will open the season of the New York City Symphony in the New York City center by conducting six pairs of concerts, beginning Oct. 9. Mr. Stokowski's musical plans for the center this year include modern opera, ballet, chamber music recitals, and student concerts. Two new operas will be presented—William Grant Still's "Troubled Island" with an all-Negro cast and Darius Milhaud's "Bolivar." The Stokowski opera presentations will be in addition to the regular season of standard operas to be given by the City Center Opera company under the direction of Laszlo Halasz. Stokowski's ballet plans include a revival of Stravinsky's "Rite of Spring."

• • •

Pianists—of whom the supply is usually far greater than the opportunities—may take heart from the announcement of Arthur Judson, president of Columbia Concerts, Inc., that practitioners of this instrument are in greater demand than ever before. Mr. Judson's organization has booked the 18 piano soloists and two piano duos on its list for more than 500 concerts next season.

• • •

Richard Strauss, last reported to have found refuge in Switzerland, is, according to latest accounts, under "house arrest" by Nazi authorities somewhere in Austria. . . . Tito Schipa, once popular tenor of the Chicago Opera, has been reported by a Rome correspondent of NBC as having sung for the Nazis in Germany during the last several years, and to be still in that country.

• • •

Dimitri Mitropoulos, regular conductor of the Minneapolis Symphony orcestra, has been appointed musical director of the Robin Hood Dell concerts of the Philadelphia orchestra for next season. Mr. Mitropoulos will conduct 22 of the 28 scheduled concerts, with the remaining six to be "Pop" programs under various conductors as yet unnamed.

• • •

Season subscriptions for the six piano recitals in the Musical Arts Piano series at Orchestra hall are still available at prices ranging from $1.80 to $6. The first concert will be given by Josef Lhevinne on Nov. 21.

This Town Called Hollywood

By Philip Scheuer

HOLLYWOOD [Special]. — Roger, the maitre d'hotel of the Sunset strip's swankiest night club, is probably one of the greatest authorities on Hollywood. For as an army travels on its stomach, so decidedly, does the movie colony; and Roger, who feeds all, knows all.

I caught him in an expansive mood. He had even prepared a personal list of "bests," which he said I could print. I print [parentheses are mine]:

Best dressed girl—Ginger Rogers.

Smoothest wolf—John Carroll.

No. 1 male gourmet—George Raft. Female—Gene Tierney.

Smartest couple on floor—the Phil Terrys [Joan Crawford.]

Most popular male patron [and biggest tipper] — Rex St. Cyr. Female—Virginia Hill.

Favorite customer [apparently as distinct from "most popular"] — Norman Reilly Raine.

Most desirable male escort—Turhan Bey [still?]

Most photographed celebrity — Jean Negulesco.

All headwaiters are career diplomats; they have to be. Roger, whose last name is Neury, is a Swiss who was trained in Lausanne. As part of the course he was apprenticed to the finest eateries in Paris, London, and Monte Carlo, learning to be a good cook, waiter, wine man, secretary, etc. He has been in Hollywood seven years; started at the old Club Casanova on the strip. People here are just learning how to eat, he said; they still haven't caught up with San Francisco, New Orleans, or New York.

Some of Roger's patrons let him do the ordering. "I have a photographic mind and know how to please them. Most celebrities are nice, especially if they have come up the hard way. Yes, they prefer to sit ringside, especially if they are new and feel the need of being noticed! The agents bring them, these starlets, and always in fur coats lent for the occasion. The established 'names' do not insist on ringside tables."

And how, I wanted to know, does one rate a ringside table — or for that matter, any table?

"Reservations," Roger said. I waited. He hesitated, then: "I'll tell you," he blurted. "It's a matter of instinct with me, with all maitre d's. People either belong or they don't; they're either good for the place or they're not." Those who "don't belong" he defined as "nouveaux riches, peasants, and just plain jerks," altho when pressed he admitted they had the same rights as any one else, and that "it" was not "their fault." [the continental style night club, I thought — last stronghold of class snobbery in America!]

ON THE ALERT

In a new type of role, Don Ameche keeps a close watch on the attacking Japs in "Wing and a Prayer." Roosevelt.

"And a $20 tip," I said. "That would help?"

A tip, Roger retorted, didn't mean anything to him. On the matter of gratuities in general, he shrugged, if one customer doesn't leave enough, another does, so that it "averages out." A minimum of "enough" would be $1.50. The waiters in a well regulated establishment receive good wages, and it is against their "code of honor" to pad a bill or resort to other dishonest practices.

"And how," I persisted, "would you discourage — well, say I'm a jerk. How would you turn me down?"

"Then I would have you shown to a corner table. I would say to a captain, 'Show this gentleman to the royal garden,' and he would know what to do.

If, after this, I made a scene, I would very probably be bounced. Roger and his alternate, Jean, used to take care of that little chore, if and when the need arose—but now they have relinquished it to a professional who is, Roger assured me, such a gentleman that being ejected by him would be a privilege.

And speaking of bouncers, a maitre d'hotel must rely on that instinct of his when it comes to okaying a check. He must be ready for any emergency. If a couple who are separated—like Lucille Ball and Desi Arnaz—or divorced—like Lana Turner and Stephen Crane—arrive in different parties, he must "hide" them from one another. Yet he mustn't hide them "too much," especially if there is a news cameraman on the premises. [Roger knows the value of publicity.] He must discourage table hopping by stags and refuse entrance to unescorted women, see that curfew is clamped down promptly at midnight and be prepared to expound the relative merits of champagne at the pop of a cork. And if a tourist wants an autograph, he really has to oblige with that, too.

Roger may as well get used to this last. As an embryo actor, the dapper headwaiter has played bits in most photographed celebrity Jean Negulesco's three directorial jobs—"Mask of Dimitrios," "The Conspirators," and "Nobody Lives Forever"—and is being tested for what he calls the "fourth part" in "A Bell for Adano." First thing he knows, he's liable to find himself on the other side of that rope cord, waiting, heart in throat, to be convoyed to ringside—or to some still unplanted "royal garden."

Approval of Contract Boy's Birthday Present

HOLLYWOOD.—Darryl Hickman, who celebrated his 13th birthday while playing the cabin boy role in "Two Years Before the Mast," has been acting before the movie cameras since he was 6 years old. One of his birthday "presents" was the ratification of his minor's contract with the studio by the court.

Vaudeville

Marjorie Garland. [Bruno of Hollywood Photo.]

Oriental theater. The Merry Macs [Jud McMichael, Ted McMichael, Lynn Allen and the "blend girl," Marjorie Garland] are co-featured with the madcaps of the mouth organ, Borrah Minevitch's original Harmonica Rascals. The Merry Macs are known for their appearance on many radio shows as well as their pictures and recordings. With the Harmonica Rascals is pint-sized Johnny Puleo and his antics, and the other acts include Rolla and Verna Pickert in "Youthful Dance Designs," and "Gautier's Steeplechase," an amusing animal novelty. Ray Lang and his orchestra furnish the musical background.

• • •

Chicago theater. Young vaudeville stars who began their careers at this theater have been held over for a second week—Harry Cool, romantic singer of ballads, and the Murtah Sisters, purveyors of comedy songs. The latter are daughters of a one time Chicago theater organist and made their first stage appearance as youngsters in a B & K Christmas kiddie show. Also on the bill are the Three Samuels, dance satirists, and Al Gordon and his dogs. Lou Breese and his orchestra provide the accompaniments and musical specialties.

New Idea in Lake Forest Garden Show

By Thalia.

A garden club show with a new idea was the "Collectors' Show" presented by the Lake Forest Garden club. It was given for the benefit of the nature classes which have so delighted the children of the neighborhood this year and evidences of whose enthusiastic studies filled the beautiful children's room of the Lake Forest library, where the show was held a week ago yesterday and today. It was, I hear, Mrs. Joseph Cudahy's idea and one which she will use in Palm Beach this winter when the Garden club there, of which she is president, will have a similar fascinating exhibit.

With gardens doing their patriotic best to supply food and with gardeners as scarce as a nightingale in these parts, it is difficult to have the customary shows of spectacularly heroic sized blooms. The other always successful garden show, the tour of beautiful private gardens, also is a war time casualty, since all the decorative gardens of America these days are suffering from the man and woman power shortage.

This year the Lake Forest Garden club members, among whom are some of the village's best known collectors of vintage china and glass and rare books with colored plates of fruits and flowers, assembled a "Collectors' Show" of superb examples of the finest items in the village. There were pieces of china and glass which, if they were able to tell it, could recount the history of two and more centuries and worlds.

The Lake Forest library was a perfect background for the show. Two great tubs of scarlet geraniums flanked the doorway and as the visitors entered the library they were greeted by a magnificent bouquet of cabbage sized dahlias on which irridescent blue butterflies seemed just to have alighted. It was arranged by Mrs. Alfred Hamill, one of the committee members, whose husband is president of the library. The lovely building was the generous gift in 1931 of Mrs. Stanley Keith and her sister, the late Mrs. Charles H. Schweppe, who also gave Chicago the great Shedd aquarium in memory of their father, John G. Shedd.

Mr. Hamill's own library is one of the great private collections in the midwest and is housed uniquely and magnificently in a vast room whose shelves are topped with great circular windows like glorified ships' portholes. When the plans for the Lake Forest library were made, institutionalism was taboo and the re-

Fashions and Fancy

The knockout table decorations that the Kenwood Garden club put together for the Garden club of Illinois' president's council luncheon last Monday served double duty, for the next day the stunning autumn arrangement appeared on a horseshoe shaped table at the Woman's Athletic club when the Kenwood Social Service club met for luncheon to discuss plans for a "Lucky 13 Cocktail Party" Friday, Oct. 13, at the Racquet club. The runner down the center of the table was of pastel green, tan, and white striped wallpaper, which ended in an off center cornucopia shaped roll at either end of the

House Already Sold Out for Four Tribune Fashion Shows

Clubs to Hold Public Forums on Vital Topics

By Irene Steyskal.

Give a housewife a new broom, and watch the dust fly. Give a clubwoman a new season posing challenging problems, and see every clinging remnant of summer inertia dislodged in a clean sweep. It's a picture vibrating with energy that this week of fall openings presents, with interest ranging from benefit teas and musicals to public forums on issues of national and international scope.

Under the latter grouping comes the first assembly of the Conference of Jewish Women's Organizations tomorrow afternoon in its rooms at 220 S. State st., a meeting pointed toward clarifying party views on some of the issues involved in the November elections. Mrs. David Wodlinger, the chairman for the program, has gathered a panel of four women, all well known locally or on the national scene, to explain the Republican and Democratic stands on "National and International Issues at Stake in the 1944 Elections."

From New York will come Josephine Schain to participate in the discussion. Miss Schain, who, by appointment of the president, represented the United States at the International Food conference in Hot Springs, Va., is a writer and lecturer. She is chairman of the National Committee for the Cause and Cure of War. Another easterner on the panel will be Mrs. Katherine Elkus White, from New Jersey. Mrs. White is the daughter of Judge Abram I. Elkus, former United States ambassador to Turkey. She is an alumna of Vassar and is a leader in public welfare projects in her state.

Participants from this vicinity will be Mrs. William H. Spencer and Mrs. Bernice Van der Vries. Mrs. Spencer, a lecturer on economics, heads the government and foreign policy committee of the Illinois League of Women Voters. She is the wife of the regional director of the war man power commission. Dr. Spencer is on leave from the University of Chicago, where he was dean of the school of business. A veteran in state politics, Mrs. Van der Vries is the 7th district representative in the Illinois assembly.

Ordinarily, conference meetings are attended by the presidents of member groups and delegates, but tomorrow's program will be opened to visitors, and after the forum a reception and tea will be held for the guest speakers.

shelves are topped with great circular windows like glorified ships' portholes. When the plans for the Lake Forest library were made, institutionalism was taboo and the result is, except for its formal entrance hall, a formalized and enlarged home library. Two outdoor courts, one for children, the other for adults, are separated only by French doors from the reading rooms and, winter and summer, remind one that this is a country library where the outdoors is at home indoors.

In the adults' courtyard, despite occasional sprinkles, tea was served on Saturday from a bright yellow covered table flanked by huge scarlet geraniums. The "tearoom" was under the supervision of Mrs. Charles De Long, whose sister, Mrs. John Andrews King, had worked indefatigably for the show's success.

Mrs. King created one of the most ingenious table settings I ever saw. Using one of the round reading tables, she surrounded the stationary lamp in its center with a garland of tiny red and yellow tomatoes entwined in green leaves, drooping from five bright yellow candlesticks, with brilliant green gooseberries spilling out of the candle holders instead of candles. Accented by five small bouquets of zinnias, mostly red, and two beautiful little French jars [belonging to Mrs. Ed-

Friday, Oct. 13, at the Racquet club. The runner down the center of the table was of pastel green, tan, and white striped wallpaper, which ended in an off center cornucopia shaped roll at either end of the horseshoe. Mrs. Kenath T. Sponsel, president of the service club, who with Mrs. Raymond Lukens designed the table setting, spent many anxious moments preventing the guests from flattening out those artistic rolls. At either end of the center table was a bronze statue of a small child, drapped in fall foliage which trailed away on the table ending in large bunches of green grapes, and luscious purple grapes were tucked in the child's arms. Bronze containers filled with more of the foliage and grapes were placed at strategic intervals.

The clothes on the screen at the Saddle and Cycle club a few nights ago when a preview of "Greenwich Village" was shown, were of an era of a couple of decades ago, but those in the audience were distinctly 1944. Mrs. John D. Richardson II, here from her husband's navy post in California, wore one of the new, softly draped feminine looking black frocks and with it an irresistible confection of a stiffened black net hat, one part of which dipped low over her forehead. Mrs. Winfield Ellis, who has a clever way with needle and thread, fashioned herself one of the new head hugging turbans out of black velvet, twisted high, and decorated with long shiney coq feathers streaming downward from the highest point. She wore it with a black frock, the skirt of which was draped upward toward a gold nail studded belt. Trimming the bodice were a series of gold geese in flight. Wearing an attractive short dinner-dress was Mrs. Roy L. Flannery, whose frock combined a salmon pink velvet low necked bodice embroidered in gold sequins with a clinging black crepe skirt.

have joined to accord THE TRIBUNE'S American Fashions show, red letter event of Oct. 5 and 6, the supreme tribute: The house is sold out. Mail orders have swept up all tickets for each of the four productions in the studio theater of W-G-N.

Spectators at the afternoon and evening presentations will see 35 or more glamorous costumes of tomorrow, modeled by charming mannequins, competing for major prizes in The Tribune's $5,000 contest. Under the direction of Mrs. Grace Pickering, noted fashion authority whose talent has brought the annual Tribune competitions to an authoritative position in American styling, these costumes have been fabricated by leading dressmakers from the best designs submitted by contestants.

Dramatizing the heritage of history and tradition that underlies the vogues of our day, a historical prolog will provide a background of thought provoking pageantry for the formal presentation of the new American Fashions. From the antiquity of Greece and Egypt, and from later epochs in other lands, fashions worn by beauties of the ages will emerge upon the stage in this handsomely dressed prolog.

Under the supervision of Henry Weber, musical director of W-G-N, a salon group selected from among outstanding musicians of Chicago will provide an atmospheric setting for the historical prolog and for ions to follow.

Mary Afflick of the W-G-N staff will direct the staging of the show. Sparkling descriptions of the contest fashions which will be heard during the parade of American Fashions will be by Rhea Seeger, fashion editor of THE TRIBUNE. There will be three broadcasts of the show; hours for these will be announced later.

By ballot, the audience itself will select the winners of the major prizes of the contest after seeing competing models upon the familiar runway. A grand prize of $2,000 will be awarded for first place, $1,000 for second place, and $500 for third place. In addition, $50 will be awarded for each contest costume modeled in the fashion show.

The speed with which tickets for the show disappeared, assuring capacity audiences, was no surprise to Mrs. Pickering.

"New interest is stirring," she commented yesterday. "The American woman is looking to the post-war world, and she has a natural curiosity to know what fashion has in store.

"But there is more to the story. She knows that American designers before the war were in tow of Paris, and that for four years they have been on their own. She is curious to see how the newest offerings of American design compare with current fashions of Paris."

to visitors, and after the forum a reception and tea will be held for the guest speakers.

Church women of Protestant denominations are bringing a unique figure in world education to the Chicago temple to speak Tuesday night, and the public is invited to hear him. He is Dr. Frank C. Laubach, affectionately known on this continent and in missionary lands half around the world as the "apostle to the illiterates." With the awakening neighborly interest in the Latin American countries of this hemisphere, we are hearing much these days about the "each one teach one" movement under way in regions where illiteracy is a major problem. The method is Dr. Laubach's. Nine of the South American countries have adopted Dr. Laubach's reading charts. When he recently returned to Peru, the energetic missionary found that 14,000 paid teachers and unnumbered thousands of volunteers were using his teaching method.

Dr. Laubach is now working with Walt Disney in Hollywood on films to teach the unlettered in Latin America. Haiti recently decorated him with its Order of Honor and Merit for his work on the island, where it is estimated that, thru his efforts, 70,000 Haitians have been taught to read and write simple English. Dr. Laubach began his

Fresh from the Hills . . . . Ozark Superstitions

By Marge of Sunrise Mountain Farm

[Copyright: 1944: By The Chicago Tribune.]

WE had been visiting with Cannie Baker, down at Mountain Home, Ark., and had progressed from the living room, with its big biblical posters showing events in the life of Paul, to the adjoining room where a stack of quilts was almost as high as the ceiling. After selecting the quilts we wished to buy, we opened the screen door which led to the little porch, just as the front door did.

"O, no! Not that door!" shouted Cannie. "Go on out the door you come in at. So you won't bring bad luck!"

And believe me, we went to the other door. Down here in the Ozarks, superstitions are taken seriously. And there are literally hundreds of them. In fact, there are so many superstitions that a sensitive person might get plumb discouraged, just thinking of the things that are said to foretell bad luck. However, there is consolation in the fact that there are many contradicting superstitions. Like the superstitions about moving a broom into a new home. Some schools of thought say one should never move a broom for fear of bringing bad luck. Others say it is O. K. to move a broom if the handle is pointed into the new home when it is carried thru, the door. And still another group says it assures good luck when moving into a new home if one takes in a broom, a sack of salt, and a looking glass before anything else is moved in.

Don't throw water out of the house after dark for fear of hitting one of the "little people" that might be lurking about.

When it comes to the superstition about repaying salt that has been borrowed, everybody agrees that it just mustn't be done, for fear of bad luck. Likewise all superstitious people believe that one must not sweep a floor after dark. If you do, you "sweep sorrow to your heart." And ashes must not be carried out after sundown. My club sister, Mrs. Ogle, who knows perhaps more superstitions than any one, says there's a certain amount of reasoning in these superstitions. She says if any one starts stirring up the dust just at bedtime, it's likely to settle on the the faces of sleeping members of the family and cause illness. And ashes thrown out hurriedly after dark might set the house on fire. But actually, these beliefs can be traced to old Irish superstitions which forbade throwing water or dirt out of the house after dark for fear of hitting one of the "little people" that might be lurking about. It might make him angry and that isn't good! Another superstition about the broom says it is bad luck for two people to sweep a room at the same time. Likewise it's bad luck for one person to hand another one the broom. It should be laid down by one and picked up by another. And never, never step over a broom. Why, an unmarried girl may ruin her chances of marriage, says an old superstition.

If your dog habitually runs away, you can fix that, say the superstitious ones. Just snip a little hair from his tail and put it under the doorstep. He will always come back. It is bad luck for a black cat to cross one's path, but the bad luck can be overcome if the person will turn around and take three steps backward across the cat's path. It is also possible to overcome the bad luck that would otherwise be inevitable, so they say, if one must go back for a forgotten article. Just make a cross in the ground with your toe and spit on it, before you start back. Then in the house, sit down, make a wish and count to 10 before you start out again. If this delay makes you miss your train, it's bad luck either way.

• • •

If you sneeze before breakfast, runs an old superstition, you will hear of a death of some one you know. And you'll get the same news if you see your dog sleeping on his back with his paws all drawn up. You can even get an inkling of the place from which the news will come, because the dog's tail will be pointed in that direction! If the dog gets under a window and howls, it is said to be the sign of a death in the family, but if the dog is sitting out in the yard, howling at the moon, think nothing of it. If a bird flies into a house where there is illness, the sick person will die, runs another Ozark superstition. Another of my club sisters, Maud Rowlett, tells of the time when she was ill and a bird flew into the house, refusing to leave. Poor Maud was practically overwhelmed by the loving care given to her, because every one thought sure she was on her deathbed. Finally a cat got the bird, and Maud was soon up doing her regular house work, which includes milking 12 cows night and morning. Death is also foretold, says a superstition, if a clock strikes an odd number when it should strike an even one, or if the clock suddenly stops for no good reason at all.

If you carry a hoe cr an ax thru the house, Ozarkians say it means bad luck. And if you are working with some one and bump heads it means you will be working together at that same time the next year, which may be good luck or bad! If one person opens a jackknife and another closes it, that's bad luck, too. And it's also bad luck to rock an empty rocking chair. Another thing, don't ever watch a loved one out of sight when he leaves on a journey, runs an old superstition. He won't come back.

Superstitions about babies start at birth. If a daughter is born on her mother's birthday, she will have bad luck. [Never have a cake of her own, probably.] And never, never must a baby be allowed to look into a mirror. Another superstition says that if a mother wants to eat some food that might react unfavorably on her nursing baby, she should give the baby a tiny taste of the food before the mother eats her portion. In this way, colic is warded off. The baby will have the disposition of the first person who carries him outside the house in which he was born, so they say. And if the baby says "Mother" before he says "Daddy" his mom can prepare for a baby girl next time. There is also a prevalent belief that a cat will suck a baby's breath; no one will believe that a cat found in a baby's crib had been lured by the fragrance of warm milk about the child's face.

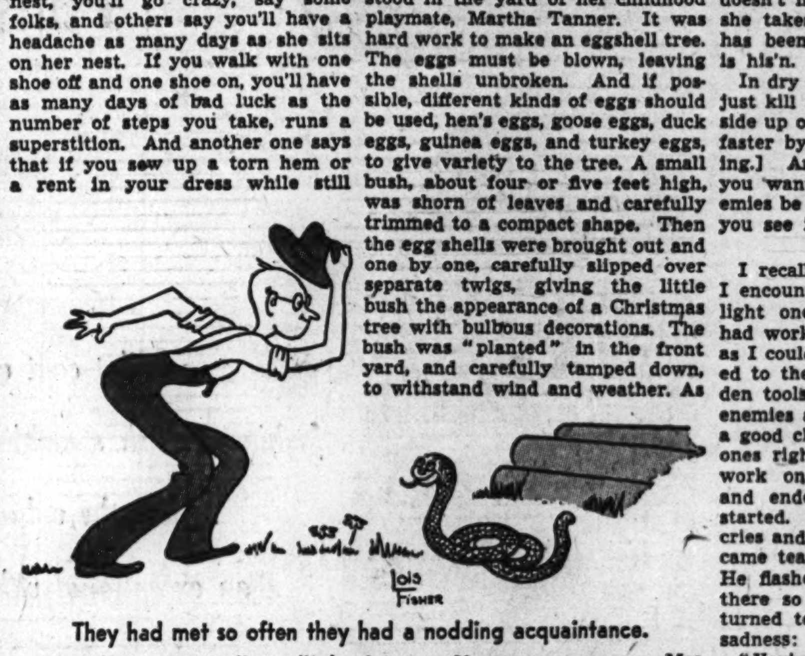
If you part your hair in the middle you will never have a headache, runs a Missouri superstition. If you comb your hair after dark it will make you forgetful, and if you throw your hair combings outside where the wind can blow thru them, you can expect a wallopin' good headache. Even more dire results can happen. If a bird picks up the combings and puts them in her nest, you'll go crazy, say some folks, and others say you'll have a headache as many days as she sits on her nest. If you walk with one shoe off and one shoe on, you'll have as many days of bad luck as the number of steps you take, runs a superstition. And another one says that if you sew up a torn hem or a rent in your dress while still wearing it, as many lies will be told about you as the number of stitches you take.



They had met so often they had a nodding acquaintance.

A rooster crowing near the back door is a sure sign of company. It's also sign of company to drop a knife or a fork, the knife foretelling masculine company, the fork, female. If you drop the dishrag that means some one who is dirtier than you is coming.

A more tangible superstitious omen is the "eggshell tree." This was put up in the yard of a home to assure [they hoped!] good health and good luck. My good friend, Mary Elizabeth Mahnkey, who writes such delightful Ozark poetry, recalls that an eggshell tree stood in the yard of her childhood playmate, Martha Tanner. It was hard work to make an eggshell tree. The eggs must be blown, leaving the shells unbroken. And if possible, different kinds of eggs should be used, hen's eggs, goose eggs, duck eggs, guinea eggs, and turkey eggs, to give variety to the tree. A small bush, about four or five feet high, was shorn of leaves and carefully trimmed to a compact shape. Then the egg shells were brought out and one by one, carefully slipped over separate twigs, giving the little bush the appearance of a Christmas tree with bulbous decorations. The bush was "planted" in the front yard, and carefully tamped down, to withstand wind and weather. As late as 30 years ago, says Mrs. Mahnkey, one of these could have been seen at Granny Howe's place, at Mincy, Mo. This is another superstition that might be traced back to Irish folklore, for eggshells are mentioned freely in tales of charms and witches' brews!

If a boy wishes to attract a certain girl, all he has to do is buy a package of gum and "charm" it. To do this he extracts one of the sticks from the package and puts it in his armpit for perhaps five or 10 minutes. Then he puts it back with the other sticks, shuffles them, and holds out the pack to the girl, allowing her to choose one stick. It doesn't matter which stick of gum she takes . . . the whole package has been "charmed" and the gal is his'n. [It says here!]

In dry weather, if you want rain, just kill a snake and hang it belly-side up on a fence. [I can get rain faster by hanging out a big washing.] And speaking of snakes, if you want to kill off all your enemies be sure to kill the first snake you see in the spring.

I recalled this superstition when I encountered a snake just at twilight one spring evening after I had worked in the garden as long as I could see and had finally started to the tack room with the garden tools. I couldn't think of any enemies at the moment, but it was a good chance to nip any potential ones right in the bud! I went to work on the snake with the hoe and ended his summer before it started. The Jedge heard my battle cries and the furious whacking and came tearing out with a flashlight. He flashed it on the snake, lying there so still and limp. Then he turned to me, saying with infinite sadness:

"You've killed my friend!"

It was the big harmless king snake that had lived five years under our woodpile, catching rats and mice. While he and the Jedge were not exactly buddies, they had met so often they had a nodding acquaintance, like two fellows who meet each morning at the same bus stop.

So because silly superstition can do more harm than good, I hope you don't believe a single one of these.

ward L. Hasler], it made a unique table decoration which probably will be copied eagerly by hostesses who wish they had thought of the idea first.

A pair of huge bouquets on either side of the mantel in the large reading room caught every eye. Giant dahlias, the faintly reddened leaves of prunus so arranged that the leaves banked the flowers from either side in pyramids of color, were dramatized by pendants of the scarlet deadly nightshade. In an adjoining, smaller room, where prints and works of art were installed by Walter Brewster, glowed the most dramatic small mantle bouquets of the show. In two long and narrow deep blue vases, which belong to the Brewsters, Mrs. Gilbert E. Porter III. arranged a startling mass of deep salmon-pink geraniums, a few sprigs of the bright orange berries of mountain ash and backgrounded them with one tall, fat, jagged cactus leaf and two thin cactus spikes.

Among the treasures in that room was a magnificent Bristol glass epergne made in 1810, which belongs to Mrs. Stanley Keith, and an amusing sailor's gambling glass from the famous old H. M. S. Renown. The rare piece is owned by Mrs. J. Ogden Armour. Another unique item was a 17th century French Verre [glass] de Nevers, a religious "picture" done in tiny bits of glass and shells and peopled with the famous Nevers figurines. The town of Nevers was then famous for its miniatures in glass. Incidentally, Mrs. Potter Palmer owns one of the most unusual collections of Nevers miniatures in the country. Mrs. Palmer, who is still in Bar Harbor, Me., where she has spent the summer, has just welcomed a new daughter-in-law into the family, the wife of Lt. Potter Palmer III.

Mrs. Brewster installed the "modern room." Above the warm, honey colored shelves were bowls of strange tropic growths sent especially from the Fairchild tropical gardens in Florida. One table was dressed with fine examples of modern table adornments and on another was a group of modern scripture, including a small fountain by Sylvia Shaw Judson and a large woman's head carved in wood by Hubert Ropp. Mrs. Brewster had filled the top of the head with shaggy maroon dahlias and put a few around its base, and it looked exactly like a lovely brown skinned maiden in a chic hat and boa of velvety flowers.

Mrs. Brewster, who has been envied for years for her beautiful and dramatic flower arrangements and who of late has lectured before the Art institute and other audiences on the subject, gave an illuminating and illuminated lecture, with colored slides, to overflow audiences on Saturday and Sunday afternoons and on Saturday evening.

Beautiful books with floral and fruit prints were loaned by Mrs. Cudahy, Mrs. Albert D. Farwell, Mrs. Thomas A. Connors, Mrs. Paul Magnuson, Mrs. Brewster, and others. And among the spectacular china was the Royal Crown Derby [1800] which belongs to Mrs. Cudahy and the 1790 Worcester belonging to Mrs. D. Mark Cummings.

Fall seemed undeniably here when the Council on Foreign Relations opened the season with a talk by Keith Wheeler, correspondent of the Chicago Times on "How Long, the Road to Tokyo." The lecture was preceded by the election of officers. Frederic C. Woodward retired as president to become a member of the directorate and was succeeded by Walter T. Fisher as president. Meyer Kestnbaum is the 1944 vice president and Stephen Y. Hord, treasurer. Almost 800 assembled to hear young Mr. Wheeler give a first hand account of the capture of Saipan. His vivid recital of the suicidal refusal of both Jap civilians and soldiers to surrender emphasized his thesis that the road to Tokyo will be long and costly in American lives.

An unexpected guest of honor at the meeting was Lt. Louis Gros, whom I had heard talk a day or so before at a meeting of the Chicago chapter of France Forever. He is an eminent French historian who escaped from France just as the Germans arrived and went to England to become a member of the staff of Gen. De Gaulle. He came to this country on a double mission. One of his objects is to gather first hand information on the American idea of a world organization to preserve peace. The other is to make an official collection of the important books on international relations which have been published here since 1940.

Lt. Gros made one minor suggestion about the world's dealing with the conquered Germans which has not, so far as I know, been made to Chicago audiences. The Germans, he said, have a profound respect for, as well as a personal delight in, uniforms. He suggested that no German be allowed to wear a uniform for any reason and that all civil as well as military allied authority in Germany be uniformed. He felt that the uniform loving Germans would automatically transfer their respect for authority to the men in uniform.

When he was asked why a general election was not ordered immediately by the De Gaulle provisional government he pointed out a fact that many of his questioners had forgotten—that 20 per cent of the voters are still held prisoners in forced labor or concentration camps in Germany. Lt. Gros said with as much vehemence as historians permit themselves that the small nations of Europe look upon France as their spokesman and any world organization in which France did not have a potent part would be doomed.

work preparing and adapting phonetic reading charts when he first went to the Philippines in 1915 as a missionary to the Moros. He became known thruout the islands as the miracle man of the Moros, for it was no usual thing for a stranger to win the confidence of the Moslem tribes on Mindanao who were not given to accepting civic movements with unquestioning eagerness.

Since those early years, Dr. Laubach has adapted his system to 80 different languages and dialects.

He appears at the temple—the lecture is set for 7:30 o'clock—under auspices of the women's division of the Church Federation of Greater Chicago, the program being one in the 8th annual interdenominational missionary institute. The institute, expected to draw 300 delegates, will be held Tuesday and Wednesday in the McCormick Memorial Y. W. C. A. Mrs. J. T. Hermansader is general chairman for the meeting, and Mrs. Roy A. Graham and Mrs. George R. Wilson have charge of the program.

By way of special compensation to the industrious board members of the Lake View Musical society, who have been working like the proverbial beaver in preparation for the club's forthcoming benefit concert, Mrs. Kissak Herbekian is entertaining at a tea from 4 to 7 o'clock today in her home at 6317 Sheridan rd. Members of the Manuel and Williamson harpsichord ensemble—the musicians giving the concert on Oct. 5 in Orchestra hall—will attend Mrs. Herbekian's party as special guests.

Philip Manuel and Gavin Williamson are the Chicago musicians who have been largely responsible for reviving interest thruout the country in the harpsichord and the music written for that parent instrument of the piano. They and Dorothy Lane are the harpsichordists of the ensemble, and the other instruments are played by Franz Polesny, Victor Charbulak, Milton Preves, Dudley Powers, Florian Mueller, and Emil Eck, all from the Chicago Symphony orchestra. Lilllian Chookasian, the contralto whose performance this season in Grant park inspired an ovation, is to appear with the ensemble. Her husband, George Davejan, is in the service, but he was given a special leave to attend the Grant park concert, and his friends are all interested in the possibility of his being in the audience at Orchestra hall.

One of the ingenious promotional ideas for the concert, originating with Mrs. Edgar C. Welborn, has materialized in a corner window of Marshall Field & Co., where a harpsichord gives the motiff to a special display. Mrs. Frederic Tellander, president of the society, and Mrs. Charles Buresch report a "gratifying" advance sale of tickets, and Mrs. Russell Hobbs, assigned to box sales, said last week that she had only three boxes still available. Mrs. Henry B. Vanzwoll reports a lengthening list of sponsors.

The society's war work, in accord with the character of the club, has been in the field of music, providing instruments, recordings and sheet music for camps and hospitals at home and overseas. It is to finance this work and a newer rehabilitation program for service men that the benefit concert has been planned.

Mrs. Fred W., Oak Park, Ill.—I washed my own walls this summer for the first time with a mixture of soapy water and cleaning powder. I took a tip from a friend and added enough flour to make a paste. This made mixture cling to walls until powder had done its work and dissolved the dirt. It was quite a help.

Grace J., Moline, Ill.—The first year I was married I was forever wiping up grease from the stove after I had fried fish. Now I turn a collander upside down over fish, and the steam escapes thru the holes, the fish browns nicely, and no more grease spatters on stove.

Jane W., Traverse City, Mich.—When I want to eradicate wrinkles from knitted garments, stretchy jerseys, nobby crepes, and others that just don't like to be pressed, I slip garments on hangers. Then I stuff sleeves with tissue; close all fastenings, and let them keep me company during a hot bath or shower. Most wrinkles will take to flight after a few minutes in a steamy atmosphere.

La Chinois
AN OFF-SET OF EASE

How well the French have always known how to off-set the harshness of life with the delights of art and ease! From change, pleasant, diverting change, comes true rest and fresh enthusiasm.

So it is that in times like these it seems opportune to offer our friends the most distractingly lovely of personal apartments, bedrooms in the Chinois style.

Complete groups of furnishings have been custom made for us to our designs, and we have used some of our considerable store of pale tinted satins for upholsteries and hangings.

Now our Chinois ensembles are in place, and in their realm you may see expanses of misty tinted wood, touched with fine carving, and decorated with motifs of ecstatic Oriental fantasies.

Flowers, as if from Paradise, in the subtlest and most alluring of colorings and forms, and fluent arabesques support pagodas, lanterns, ladies, bridges, herons and gnomes. Other divertisements are many, fans, ribbons, gnarled trees.

Queen Marie Antoinette, Mme. de Pompadour and others of the court circles of Louis XV and Louis XVI, and fashionables in London, too, found nothing else so enchanting as these Chinoiseries. They were created by Pillement, a master of ornament. And as then, so even now.

Fort Sheridan Soldiers Form an Art Group

By Eleanor Jewett.

Last week the mail bag produced several items of more than personal interest. Lt. H. Raymond Davis, stationed at Fort Sheridan, dropped a note that said among other things: "We at Fort Sheridan have started a small art group as a means of getting together one night a week to paint and criticize each other's work. The studio is open for enlisted personnel as part of the morale building program, to give the men who have little to do a place to further their skill and enjoyment of painting or drawing."

Lt. Davis opens vistas of a new field of opportunity for some of our Chicago painters who might like an occasional visit to Fort Sheridan with friendly criticism or instruction as their goal.

Anna Lynch sends a note with a sadder trend: "Have you heard of the passing away of a former Tree Studio painter, Indiana Gyberson? She had been in the east for several years with relatives and friends. Her work, figure painting, had a distinction all her own." There are many who will remember the exquisite craftsmanship and succulent color that stamped Miss Gyberson's painting. Her pictures had an oriental flavor, rich and mystical. They were among the most beautiful and original produced by the Tree Studio group. Indiana Gyberson's death puts another debit sign to the ledger which already is too heavy with the names of Pauline Palmer and Anna Lee Stacey.

Orville Porterfield voices a complaint in his note: "How can a shut-in learn of coming art exhibitions in time to prepare his paintings for entry, and how does one obtain a prospectus when he doesn't even know the address of the exhibition chairman?" The various art columns in the Chicago papers usually give notice of future exhibits in time for interested artists to note their dates and places. Clip the art column and write at once to the person in charge of the exhibit.

There are several local groups of exhibiting artists among which one can usually choose one for membership. There is the Business Men's Art club. There is the No-Jury Society of Artists. There are exhibits at the Art institute open in many cases to the outside artist. There is the All-Illinois Society of the Fine Arts of which Mrs. Nellie Deachman is exhibition chairman, with headquarters at the Stevens hotel. No one can guarantee a painter that his work will be hung, but there are many opportunities each season for him to take a sporting chance with a jury or show director. The fee for most exhibits is small.

Adam Emory Albright writes from Warrenville: "Ivan and Malvin have completed the paintings of Dorian Gray for M. G. M. in Culver City and have returned from California." Ivan Le Lorraine Albright and Malvin Marr Albright are the two distinguished Chicago painters whose commission in Hollywood has been food for conversation for some months. Any one knowing their work, and in particular the grewsome effects Ivan can obtain by a mere turn of the wrist, will await the opening of the picture "Dorian Gray" with relish.

Adam Emory Albright, gifted father of the talented twins, is noted for his beautiful studies of children. He and Frank G. Peyraud and Charles W. Dahlgreen are to have a group exhibit of their work in October at the Chicago Galleries, 215 N. Michigan av.

Antonin Sterba, who is showing a portrait of a young woman in the current artist-member show at the Chicago Galleries, writes: "Jodie, the subject of the portrait, is my son's wife. My son is a major now somewhere on the fighting front in Europe. In fact, from his last letter I learn that he is an acting lieutenant colonel." Last season one of Mr. Sterba's finest paintings was a portrait of his son, at the time a lieutenant. Mr. Sterba's "Self-Portrait" was another distinguished contribution to last season's shows.

The Institute of Design, 247 E. Ontario st., has been enjoying a students' exhibition so successful and popular that it is being continued to Oct. 6. On Oct. 15 an exhibit of the work of the famous French painter, Fernand Leger, will open at the institute. Leger is now living in New York and his impressions of Manhattan skyscrapers are amazing in color and line. Moholy-Nagy is president of the Institute of Design, which formerly was known as the School of Design in Chicago.

Dudley Crafts Watson is giving a series of seven lectures on Mexico in Fullerton hall this fall. They include a complete survey of his 20 journeys to Mexico. Each lecture will be given three times each weekend, starting this week. The Friday lectures begin at 7:30 p. m., the Sunday lectures at 3:15 p. m., and the Monday lectures at 8 p. m.

Today's subject is "Michoacan," then follow "Jalisco," "Guanajuato," "Orizaba Valley," "Oaxaca," "Sunday in Mexico City," and "Cuernavaca to Acapulco." Mr. Watson is taking another group to Mexico in March for a three and a half weeks' motor trip and then leaving by himself for a long stay in South America, where he will make an enormous number of pictures showing the arts, crafts and places of interest of each of the republics.

Child Benefit League Plans Tag Day Oct. 2

Needs of children's charitable organizations and institutions thruout the city will be told at a rally and luncheon at 12:30 o'clock tomorrow at the Medinah club, which will bring in attendance some 250 women members and friends of the Chicago Children's Benefit league, one of the city's oldest tag day organizations. Mayor Edward J. Kelly, Jesse A. Jacobs of the Chicago Association of Commerce, and Maj. Frank L. Beals, assistant superintendent of Chicago schools, are scheduled to address the assemblage.

The meeting is a forerunner of the league's 37th annual tag day, which is set for Monday, Oct. 2. Proceeds from the tagging is allocated to the 50 charitable organizations of the city — all member units of the league—whose volunteer workers assist in the day's program. These include orphanages, crippled children's homes, free clinics, day nurseries, neighborhood houses, and hospital wards for children. The president, Mrs. Harry L. Starkey, has announced this year's ambitious goal to be $110,000.

Reservations for the luncheon may be made thru Mrs. Starkey or members of the league's executive board: Mrs. Henry W. Bernhardt, Mrs. Royal D. Dwight, and Mrs. Peter J. Doretti, vice president; Mrs. William Hazlett, recording secretary; Mrs. Paul B. Smithson, corresponding secretary, and Mrs. William Raiser Jr., treasurer. Committee chairmen include Mrs. Henry R. Bafetti, Mrs. Lee H. Williams, Mrs. K. I. Songe, Mrs. Henry Christiansen, Mrs. Edward J. Hayes, and Mrs. Sidney A. Goreham.

The Wesley Hospital Woman's auxiliary, which assists on tag day on behalf of the children's ward free bed work at Wesley, will make final plans for its participation in the tagging at a meeting at 10:30 o'clock tomorrow morning in the Dixon chapel of the Chicago temple. Mrs. Harry E. McKee of the Euclid Avenue Methodist church of Oak Park is the auxiliary's tag day chairman.

Mrs. Bishop O. Lovejoy, auxiliary president, has called a preliminary session of her executive board for 10 o'clock.

When Chicago Was Young

By Herma Clark

Letters from aMrtha Freeman Esmond to her friend Julia Boyd of New York.

Chicago, Sept. 25, 1896.

Dear Julia: I am sitting in the library waiting for Will to come down to dinner. We shall spend a quiet evening at home with the October magazines which I bought at McClurg's today. I always enjoy the Atlantic Monthly and I want to read the latest instalment of Kate Douglas Wiggin's story, "Marm Lisa," which I began last month. Besides this, we shall both enjoy Edward Everett Hale's "'Tis Sixty Years Hence at Harvard." I find other names in the list of authors which are attractive—our own poet, Harriet Monroe; Alice Morse Earle, whose New England articles are always so good, and John Burroughs, the naturalist. In Harper's Monthly we are eagerly anticipating Du Maurier's new story—a sequel, I believe, to "Trilby"—called "The Martians." The illustrations are his own, of course, and will be delightful, I know. It's wonderful to be at once a novelist and an illustrator.

Louise Blish.
Mrs. G. M. McBean.

O, I must tell you of a question put to Will by one of his clients lately. He had been reading "Trilby" and inquired what the word "Viola" meant. "O," said Will, "I should translate it 'Behold!' or 'There you are.'" "Gosh!" returned his client. "I been usin' it and thought I was swearin' in French."

The Sisters of Mercy yesterday celebrated the fiftieth anniversary of the establishment of their order in Chicago. We know several families who have girls in their school, St. Xavier's Academy, on Wabash av. near 29th st., and we were in consequence invited to the exercises held there. It is the oldest Catholic school in Chicago and fashionable south side families send their daughters there. The afternoon program was in charge of the alumnae of St. Xavier's academy and was impressive, with Archbishop Feehan giving the address. Lovely Louise Blish and Susie Bonfield sang. Then came a procession bearing a gilt model of a handsome brougham presented to the Sisterhood by the Alumnae association. Mother Superior Genevieve responded to the presentation with dignity and grace.

I couldn't but compare our Protestant way of giving with this impressive procession. I am sure we are as generous as are our Roman Catholic friends, but we don't make such an occasion of our gifts. I think we make a mistake by not being a bit more ceremonious. Why don't we decorate our giving, so to speak? I begin to believe that a procession to honor our clergy and religious workers would do their souls good—ours, too, perhaps. It is well, probably, not to exalt the clergy over-much, for they are but human, but we are too apt to criticise. We never err on the side of too much praise.

Weren't you pleased with Gladstone's searching speech at Liverpool, protesting against Turkish atrocities? Retired tho he is, his voice carries great weight in England and indeed thruout the world. Not content with pointing out the atrocities, Gladstone presented a plan which would help stop them, without bringing on a European war. The first step, he said, should be the recall of the British ambassador to Turkey, followed by the dismissal of the Turkish ambassador from London. Then, when diplomatic relations had been suspended, England should notify the Sultan that she would consider means of enforcing her just and humane demands. But will the British government act on his suggestion? I fear not.

Here comes Will and I must close.
Ever with love,
MARTHA FREEMAN ESMOND.

A. C. McClurg and company celebrates this year its centennial and an interesting brochure written by John Drury on this old firm has just come to hand.

Friends Still Write Us.

W. H. Mathews complains gently that Martha never says a word about the grain and lumber boats on the Chicago river, and he thinks she wasn't very energetic if she never walked to the lake to see the monstrous waves during the "big May gale." [Note by Editor: Martha's shoes were tight and didn't encourage walking.] John H. Lang, a Hoosier, wouldn't like to see the Poem of the Week department discontinued, tho he hasn't always taken advantage of it. . . . T. F. Delaney, Chicago, commends Martha as "no snapper-up of unconsidered trifles" . . . Harry Long, La Crosse, Wis., terms the letters "bright markers along memory lane" . . . Carolyn D. Tyler, poet and artist, writes: "Surely no one enjoys Martha's letters more than I do, for hardly one fails to mention people or events I have known or known of." . . . Mrs. Laura Dempsey Johnson, Evanston, enjoys the column because the Dempsey family has lived in or near Chicago for more than a hundred years, and her mother, a cousin of Archbishop Feehan, has told her many stories of early Chicago, of the fire and of Lincoln's funeral procession. John T. Dempsey, candidate for the office of State's Attorney, is a descendant of the John Dempsey who settled near Joliet in 1840. . . . Mrs. Owen D. Brady, Chicago, writes: "Reading the column is one of my weekly 'musts'" . . . Henry Reinach calls it the "sweet song of our dear Chicago."

"Port of Chicago."

If you didn't see this drama of old Chicago last season, you will be glad to know that it will be given again by the Uptown Players at the theater, 1219 N. La Salle st., starting Sept. 29 and continuing thru October [Friday and Saturday evenings only.]

Eastern Shore Colonies Hold Garden Shows

BEVERLY, MASS. Gladioli in the full of their many colored glories, dahlias at their September best, and other late season blooms were featured at garden shows which brightened the calendar for flower lovers along the north shore this week. The north shore is one of the real garden spots of New England, a stretch of shore where the sea seems to invigorate plant life and to bring out the best in colors. This week there were vegetable shows in connection with many of these exhibits. All the way from Nahant to Rockport there were shows this week.

Among the Chicagoans who have beautiful gardens, and most of them vegetable as well as flower gardens, are the Frederick Clay Bartletts of Beverly Cove and Grafton Wood farm at Essex, the John Alden Carpenters at Sunset Hill, Beverly Cove; Mrs. William H. Moore at Rockmarge, Pride's Crossing; Mrs. Thomas Leiter at Edgewater, Beverly Farms; Mrs. William J. Kenly at Hyghe Contente, Manchester; Mrs. Ira Nelson Morris at Magnolia; the Arthur G. Leonards and the John Clays at Eastern Point, Gloucester; Mrs. Barrett Wendall Jr. at Hamilton, and Mrs. Richard T. Crane Jr. at Castle Hill in Ipswich.

Business Club Women Will Open Season

Mrs. S. Katherine Maddux.

Regular meetings at the College club will be resumed by the Alliance of Business and Professional Women of Chicago tomorrow, the group gathering at 6 o'clock for dinner, entertainment, and reports from delegates on the biennial national conference of business groups held in New York during the summer.

It was the Illinois federation that gave the National Federation of Business and Professional Women the slogan for the season, "Toward Victory and Beyond." Representing the Chicago alliance at the conference were the president, Mrs. S. Katherine Maddux; Miss Marie Erikson, 2d vice president; Miss Celia Howard, who is a past president of the Illinois and a past vice president of the National federation, and Miss Jane A. Magan, state federation board member. Each will review a specific part of the summer conference.

The program of entertainment for the evening will be a reading of "Sunday Afternoon," by Miss Irene Shantz.

Calendar of Chicagoland Club Events

Mrs. Harry W. Raymond.

Program blueprints for the 1944-'45 season will be drawn up by three departments of the Illinois Federation of Women's Clubs, meeting this week at federation headquarters, 30 W. Washington st. Mrs. Harry W. Raymond has called a planning conference of her legislation department for 1:30 o'clock tomorrow afternoon, and at 10 o'clock Wednesday morning, Mrs. W. D. Burks of Villa Park will conduct a similar session of the international relations department. The division of public health and hygiene, whose interest now is centered in recruiting young women for training in occupational therapy, will meet with its chairman, Mrs. Frank J. Christenson of Cicero, at 1:30 o'clock Friday.

A suggestion that a year's course in motion picture writing and production be offered seniors in high schools and junior colleges recently was endorsed by the federation's board of directors, and the motion picture department, whose members originated the idea, will send letters embodying the suggestion to Dr. William H. Johnson, superintendent of Chicago public schools, to Msgr. D. F. Cunningham, superintendent of Catholic parochial schools in Chicago, and to D. H. Nichols, superintendent of schools for the state of Illinois.

Dr. Helen Dwight Reid, only woman member of the executive council of the American Society for International Law, will speak before the Chicago branch of the American Association of University Women at 3 o'clock next Sunday afternoon in the parish house of the First Unitarian church, 1174 E. 57th st. "American Foreign Policy: Recent Trends and Precedents" will be her subject. New associate in international relations of the headquarters staff of AAUW, Dr. Reid spoke last week in Evanston under the auspices of the North Shore branch of the association. She holds degrees from Vassar and Radcliffe, has taught government at the University of Buffalo, and has lectured at the Hague Academy of International Law. Following the program, which marks the opening of the new season, a tea will be given for the guest speaker. Dr. Gertrude Smith of the University of Chicago is branch president.

The Lake City Woman's club, which is headed by Mrs. Rudolph Baumel, will have a 12:30 o'clock luncheon Wednesday at the Morrison hotel, with a card party afterward. Among special guests will be Mrs. David C. Slagle, president of 1st district of the Illinois Federation of Women's clubs.

• • •

Thirteenth Engineers post, No. 513 of the American Legion and its auxiliary unit will have a joint installation of officers Saturday evening at 185 W. Madison st. Eric Gelzer is new post commander, and Mrs. Louis Dill, auxiliary president.

• • •

To mark the opening of the new season, the Northern Illinois branch of the National League of American Pen Women will give a musical and tea at 2 o'clock next Sunday afternoon in the home of the president, Mrs. Carl Victor Wisner of 1319 E. 50th st. Original compositions of Mrs. Wisner will be presented by Leonard Huber, baritone, who will be accompanied at the piano by Joseph Anderson. Mrs. Minnie Moreland Dow, former president, will read from her own book of poems, and "News Notes from National" will be given by Mrs. Mathilde Ernestine, who does publicity work for the National league.

• • •

The Germania Woman's club will officially open the autumn season with a luncheon and card party, at 12:30 o'clock tomorrow at the Germania club, which will bring as special guests Mrs. Theodore Kuehl, president of Altenheim; Mrs. Carl Buehler, president of the Woman's Aid society of the Uhlich orphanage, and Mrs. Jacob Pister, president of the Chicago Columbia club. Mrs. Harry E. Hoff is president-founder of the club, which includes in its war service activities classes in home nursing, blood donor groups, and packaging of gifts for war prisoners. Before the attack on Pearl Harbor, Mrs. Hoff organized the club's Red Cross unit, which has won recognition for the perfection of its work in surgical dressings, sewing, and knitting.

ENSIGN'S BRIDE

Mrs. Samuel A. L. Morgan Jr., the former Marjorie Greenfield, whose marriage to Ensign Morgan, son of Mr. and Mrs. Morgan of New York, took place recently. The bride, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harlan G. Greenfield of Evanston, will be a senior at Northwestern university. She accompanied Ensign Morgan to San Francisco, Cal., where he awaits further orders.

Chicago Girl Scout Board Plans Session

Mrs. Charles Heitzman.

When the board of directors of the Girl Scouts of Chicago holds its first meeting of the season at 10:45 tomorrow morning at the Girl Scout offices, 35 E. Wacker dr., both business and pleasure will be in order. Highlighting the meeting will be a talk by Mrs. Charles Heitzman on her recent experiences in Rio de Janeiro. She was one of two American delegates invited by the Bandeirantes, Brazilian Scouts, to attend their silver jubilee encampment in Rio de Janeiro from Aug. 12 to 20.

Mrs. George O. Bayrd heads the Chicago Girl Scout board, with Mrs. Richard Mayer, Mrs. Snelling Robinson, Mrs. H. M. Ross, Mrs. William Hutchinson, Mrs. Charles H. Davis, Mrs. Albert Dyon, Mrs. D. Roy Howland, and Mrs. A. K. Selz serving as officers. Recent additions to the list of directors of the organization are Mrs. Dan Kelly, Mrs. Robert B. Emery, Mrs. William Friedeman, Mrs. Homer P. Hargrave, Mrs. William Harrison Fetridge, and Mrs. Hartley Laycock Jr.

At 12:30 o'clock the board will meet for luncheon at the Carson Pirie Scott & Co. tearoom, where it will be joined by the professional staff of the organization. Several additions have been made to the staff under an expanded program of service. Mrs. Alpha White will assist in the group organization department. Miss June Cash is the new registrar. Miss Jane Lippold is serving as public relations secretary. In the district field department the Misses Marie Cassettari, Joan Hack, Rachel Brent, Idalynn Herzberg, and Gretchen Reighard are assuming new duties, while Mrs. Frank Sullivan and Miss Marie Kelly will handle the extensive camp program.

Soda should seldom be used in cooking, since it destroys vitamins.

Chicago Jewish Juniors to Open Season Today

Miss Harriet Farkas.
[Koehne Photo.]

The Chicago section of the National Council of Jewish Juniors, which is celebrating its silver anniversary year, will hold its opening meeting of the season at 2:30 o'clock today at the Drake hotel. A business meeting will precede the afternoon's entertainment, a "Sophisticated Marionette Show." Miss Joy Hope Blossteen, president of the Chicago section, will present plans for the birthday year, which will include a birthday week-end celebration Nov. 17-19. Assisting Miss Blossteen will be Miss Claire Louise Kohn, Miss Muriel Horwich, Miss Adele Graff, Miss Peggy Levine, Miss Josephine Simons, and Miss Lottie Zare, all officers, and a board of 50 directors.

The Career Group of the National Council of Jewish Women will hold its first membership tea of the club year at 2:30 o'clock Sunday, Oct. 1, in the council club rooms at 185 N. Wabash av. Miss Harriet Farkas, membership chairman, will be in charge of the meeting, assisted by Mrs. Sam Fefferman as co-chairman. Miss Reta J. Korr is president of the group. The entertainment program for the afternoon will be a dramatic reading of "Mud on the Stars," by William Bradford Huie, given by Miss Billie Hyman. Following the reading, tea will be served.

Chicago Junior Ort to Resume Activities Today

Chicago Junior Ort will open its autmun activities with a program meeting and installation of officers at 2:30 o'clock this afternoon at the Midland hotel, 172 W. Adams st. Following a talk on "Anti-Semitism in the Post-War Period," by Dr. M. C. Thomas, secretary of the Chicago Teachers' union of the University of Wisconsin and professor at the Abraham Lincoln school, there will be dancing and music.

Cocoa Bean Taxes.

Cocoa beans were collected as taxes by the Aztec emperor.

Jewish Service Clubs to Resume Their Activities

A Yom Kippur dance Wednesday night in the Mural room of the Morrison hotel will mark the opening of the autumn season for the Kaye E. Geman Memorial club of the Chicago Consumptive Aid society. Service men and women will be special guests at the party, proceeds from which will go toward the maintenance of the Fox River sanitarium. Morris Mann is dance chairman, and Anne Berebit Goldblatt is in charge of tickets.

On the Wednesday following, the Jewish Consumptive Relief Society of Chicago will have its first fall meeting—a late breakfast and games party—at the Standard club. Hostesses will include Mrs. Charles Levy, Mrs. Benjamin Levy, Mrs. Ethel Pacyna, Mrs. Louis Rose, Mrs. Emil Stern, and Mrs. Harry Wolper.

The Blanche Miller Aid, affiliated with the Rest Haven Convalescent home, will sponsor a card and games party at 8 o'clock Sunday evening, Oct. 15, in the Grand ballroom of the Hamilton hotel. Mrs. Ann Blaz, chairman, will be assisted in arrangements by the president, Mrs. Janice Furstman.

Wh. Mountain Autumn Colors Lure Visitors

WHITE MOUNTAINS, N. H.

During the smart autumn season in the White Mountains of New Hampshire, many Chicagoans find their way here to enjoy the famed foliage, which is spread over mountain and meadow like a huge Persian carpet. Several now are at the Mountain View House, Whitefield, among them Dr. Carl Davis.

Mrs. F. A. Ingalls of Chicago, in company of Mrs. James B. Curtis of New York, also is at the Mountain View House for an autumn sojourn. They attended the tea and musicale given there on Saturday afternoon, following a community putting match.

Mrs. William H. Bush of Lake Shore dr. also was noted at the tea and other festive affairs of the week.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Mons of Kenilworth were joined this week at the Mountain View House, Whitefield, by Mr. and Mrs. Richard B. Wigglesworth who came from their summer home at Marblehead on the north shore of Massachusetts. Mr. Mons has entered this week's golf events and, with Mrs. Mons, also was invited to attend a picnic breakfast party on Tuesday.

Miss Lois Poole returned this week to Chicago after spending several weeks at Spalding inn, Whitefield. Mrs. Robert Macdougal of Chicago plans to remain at the inn thru autumn. She is accompanied by her sister, Mrs. B. B. Turck of Tryon, N. C. Mrs. John Taylor Pirie who was there, has gone this week to spend some time in New York before returning to Lake Forest. Mrs. Ralph H. James and Miss Margaret Enders also concluded a sojourn there and have returned to Chicago.

Mrs. Ernest Poole, an active member of the White Mountain Garden club, attended its annual meeting and luncheon at Peckett's on Sugar Hill last Thursday. The Pooles usually remain late in the autumn at their Franconia summer home.

Mr. Poole was invited this week to speak before members of a men's luncheon club at Littleton and predicted that Russia soon would be fighting Japan, basing his knowledge upon his lifetime acquaintance with Russia and the Russians. He was a war correspondent there during the first World war, writing articles for the Saturday Evening Post.

Miss Katharine M. Strenz of Chicago is enjoying the mountain climbing at the Crawford House, Crawford Notch, where she recently arrived after a visit to Montreal, P. Q.

Mr. and Mrs. David Sparks of Alton, well known in Chicago musical circles, are at their summer home, Whitefield, N. H., but will leave next week for home and hope, during the coming winter, to visit Mr. Sparks' uncle, Hosea Sparks of Evanston, at his winter home in Palm Beach, Fla. On Thursday night Mr. and Mrs. Sparks gave a buffet dinner for 40 at Clover Meadow, their Whitefield estate.

Lt. [j. g.] L. L. Gorsline of Evanston and Mrs. Gorsline are at Crawford Notch for some mountain climbing.

Mr. and Mrs. Freeman Hinckley of Chicago are expected soon for their annual visit to Whitefield, where several of his old friends from Boston come for the autumn.

Julia DenHerder, Mrs. D. H. Cisney Wed to Brothers

Mrs. William B. Gray. [Moffett Photo.]

Announcement is made of the marriage of Miss Julia DenHerder, daughter of George J. DenHerder of Zeeland, Mich., to Ralph B. Gray, and of Mrs. Dorothy Conwall Hood Cisney, daughter of Mrs. Ruth Hood of Fort Worth, Tex., and of the late Dr. Walter Sherrer Hood, to William Buckingham Gray. The two brothers, who are sons of the late Mr. and Mrs. William H. Gray of Chicago, were married within two hours of each other on July 22, and each served as best man for the other.

Ralph Gray and his bride repeated their wedding vows at 5 p. m. in the Fourth Presbyterian church. The marriage of Mrs. Cisney to William Buckingham Gray took place at 7 p. m. in the South Shore Country club. Later there was a dinner for the two bridal parties at the club, and both couples left on wedding trips to Arizona and the southwest. The Ralph Grays will live in LaPel, Ind., and his brother and his bride are at home in Lakeview av.

AWVS Members to Hear 2d Talk on Citizen Duties

The second of two classes on the theme, "Rights and Privileges of Citizenship," directed toward a nontechnical outline of the nation's political setup, will be conducted by the American Women's Voluntary services at 7 o'clock Tuesday evening at service headquarters, 160 N. La Salle st. Mrs. Vera Ulrey Clark, an AWVS member and former candidate for the state legislature, will be principal speaker at the meeting, which is open without charge to the public.

At 6:30 o'clock the following Monday evening the educational department will introduce a course on "Personality Building," designed to give pointers on increased efficiency in the home and in public and social life. Lessons in poise, grooming, and posture will be included. A class in war geography is scheduled at 2 o'clock that afternoon at the Field building, 135 S. La Salle st., where a class on radio law and code also will be conducted at 6:30 o'clock Wednesday evening, Oct. 4. French is to be taught at AWVS headquarters, beginning at 7 o'clock Tuesday, Oct. 3.

Rosalyn Cohen Recently Wed to Nathan Cabin

Announcement is being made by Mr. and Mrs. Harry Cohen of N. Kimball av. of the recent marriage of their daughter, Rosalyn, to Nathan Cabin, son of Mr. and Mrs. Morris Cabin of N. Lawndale av. The wedding took place in the Hotel Sovereign, where a reception followed. Mr. Cabin and his bride are living in Chicago.

THE TRIBUNE TRAVELERS' GUIDE

Look Ahead to '45—Vacation at Tabor Farm

SODUS, Mich. [Special].—Joe Bachunas is still doing business at the same old stand.

To those who know Tabor farm—located on a bluff overlooking the St. Joe river in the heart of the fruit country just eight miles southeast of Benton Harbor—that's good news. And to the uninitiated it holds a promise for a rest and a vacation at one of the middle west's best equipped resorts.

The chief charm of Tabor farm lies in the genial hospitality dispensed by Joe, his wife, and a competent staff of assistants. But there are many other inducements to make your visit enjoyable and to make a visitor want to return. Not the least of these are the orchards and vineyards scattered over the rambling premises, where fresh fruit and grapes are yours for the picking and eating.

In addition there's a sporty, nine hole golf course, an outdoor swimming pool, and shuffleboard courts. In the main lodge, where informality is the order of the day and night, are facilities for card playing, ping pong, and, in the evening, dancing.

But one of the unforgettable memories a visitor takes away after a visit at Tabor farm are those moments spent in the dining room. When the bell rings announcing meal time, you are assured a treat, for the food is excellent and abundant, even in these days of scarcity and rationing. As if three Tabor farm meals a day were not enough, there's also a midnight snack every night.

Joe reports that Tabor farm has enjoyed one of the best years in its history. He's closing Oct. 1 for the season, but, for the person who is looking ahead to a vacation next year and wants to spend it in pleasant, congenial, and restful surroundings, it will be well to remember Tabor farm.

Acapulco, Mex., Prepares for Fall, Winter Guests

ACAPULCO, Mexico [Special].—This tropical resort on the Pacific is becoming a sportsman's paradise, with emphasis on fishing tournaments, sail fish rodeos, tarpon meets and aquatic sports scheduled for autumn and winter.

Acapulco's varied topography provides both a beach and fishing haunt for every mood and angler. For the vacationist in search of rest there are miles of palm lined beaches where coral reefs project out of a sparkling sea. Torch fishing and harpooning are among the thrilling native sports being introduced to visitors.

Acapulco is a land where flowers never die. Gorgeously hued poinsettias, ruby red hibiscus and bougainvillia, embower the pastel colored houses and cling everywhere.

New State Parks and Lakes Add to Tennessee Charm

NASHVILLE, Tenn. [Special].—Drama and history unite their past with many cherished reminders over modern highways of Tennessee. From the Old Wilderness road, which linked the early nation east and west, and the Old Warriors path of 200 years of war made Indian history, one may visit Tennessee's new state parks.

The Tennessee Valley authority has added a great state park system with the largest chain of lakes known in the history of engineering. Exclusive of Great Smoky mountains national park, there are 18 recreational state parks of over half a million acres. Two of the new parks are the Morris lake, bordering 72 miles of shoreline and consisting of 3,887 acres, and Big Ridge park of 4,500 acres. Pickett State park and forest contains 11,500 acres and has been developed from the primitive vastness of the Cumberland mountain area. Standing Stone state park and forest of 8,500 acres was the hunting ground of the fighting Cherokees.

Among the other parks of recreational interest are Shelby Forest park, Chickasaw State park, Montgomery Bell park, Cedar of Lebanon State park, Harrison Bay State park, and other recreational areas.

About a bank within a bank for women only

INDIVIDUAL DESKS FOR CUSTOMERS' USE

TYPICAL of The First National Bank's ability to provide maximum service for its customers is the unique Women's Banking Department—Chicago's only bank within a bank exclusively for women.

Since its inception, more than 35 years ago, the Women's Banking Department has grown steadily in popularity. Today over 8,500 women have a combined balance of many millions of dollars on deposit in this department. Individual accounts range from the requested minimum average balance of 500 dollars to well over a third of a million dollars.

Centrally located, but set off from main banking rooms, the Women's Banking Department business is conducted in an unusually quiet atmosphere. At individual desks, customers unhurriedly prepare deposit slips, write checks, or attend to their other banking needs. Courteous, efficient clerks are available to give every wanted assistance in these transactions. Connected with the Women's Banking Department is a restful lounge—a favorite meeting place for many of our women customers because of its convenient location.

Customers of the Women's Banking Department obtain a complete banking service. Services available through the department include: checking accounts, loans on stocks and bonds, money transfers, travelers' checks and letters of credit. Personal introductions to officers of the Trust, Bond, Real Estate Loan, Foreign Banking Departments and Safe Deposit Vaults are provided whenever wanted.

To women who are interested in opening a checking account in the bank within a bank for women only, we extend a cordial invitation to visit our Women's Banking Department—2nd floor, Dearborn.

Baby Learns Thru Activity and Curiosity

By Gladys Huntington Bevans.

[Copyright: 1944: By News Syndicate Co., Inc.]

We drew up beside a park path and waited while a dubious war time tire was being examined.

Idly I gazed about and the only thing in my line of vision that was moving was a small daintily clad little figure. He had at hand all he needed to make an 18 month old little boy [that's an age guess] happy: A bench to climb on, soft grass still green holding such treasures as stones, sticks, a stray acorn, and a great tree with a trunk just right for playing hide and seek or peek-a-boo—not to mention pigeons and squirrels to follow. But, alas! There was no one to play hide and seek or peek-a-boo with.

A woman sat on the bench, and—this is literally true—for the 15 minutes I sat there she said nothing to the child but:

"Get up off your knees!

"Do you hear me! Get right up off your knees!

"Stop that!

"Come here!

"Come back!

"Don't do that—look at your knees.

"Come back or I'll spank you.

"Put that down—you'll get your hands dirty—look at your coat!

"Keep away from that tree," ad infinitum.

As I watched there wasn't one thing that child did that he should have been kept from doing. Fortunately for him, he seemed quite unperturbed and paid no attention to his mentor, whoever she was—nurse, mother, or relative. He merely did the usual things a runabout loves to do—he bent down and picked up infinitesimal objects [the way they do]; he reeled around and around the bench; he took little flights away from the home base, around the other side of the tree, spreading his arms wide to encircle its solid roughness, and peering hopefully [being evidently an incurable optimist!] around it, on the chance of a game.

You may say this was an extreme case of "don'ting." I thought so, too.

And yet—was it? As soon as I called it to myself an extreme case I began to think of hours I have spent giving outings to our own "young" in the park watching mothers and nurses do this very thing. I brought to mind visits I've made, or visitors with children who have come to my house, when some sort of command or direction was given, or a repeated "don't" every few minutes. When I see this sort of thing going on it makes me wish some one with a loudspeaker could get up and broadcast this advice:

LET THEM ALONE!

Just from the practical standpoint it's better, because if you're always at them they don't listen [fortunately for them!]. They become mother-deaf. You get no results. Also you save a lot of wear and tear on yourself if you cut out the eternal do's and don'ts.

As for the good of the children—well, it seems obvious to me. This is the age of ceaseless activity and endless curiosity. Fall in with this need to a reasonable degree and you'll be surprised at the interest and harmony that will take the place of pulls and rubs.

Newest Shower Curtains Are Real Beauties

By Edith Weigle.

Gone are the days when shower curtains looked and smelled like rubber, when they stuck tightly together in folds, and when they cracked and went to pieces in short order. They are now things of beauty, an asset to the decorative scheme of the bathroom, and they are as practical and durable as they are good looking.

One large firm making jungle hammocks for our forces on the hot, humid islands of the South Pacific uses the same water repellant and mildew resistant processes on the shower curtains it sells at home. Even the thread used to stitch the center seam and hemlines is pre-shrunk, so there is never any "puckering." This same thread also is embroidered around the eyelets at the top of the curtain, making them less conspicuous and impervious to rust.

These shower curtains are made in beautiful, light colors in a wide range of clear hues: daffodil yellow, light blue, pink peach, green and rose, to name a few, and the material is rayon taffeta. Measurements are 6 by 6 feet.

• • •

There also are two delightful printed patterns in this specially treated, silky fabric. One is a design of red roses scattered over a white ground, a pink ground, or one of light yellow. The other has delicate ferns in silver on white, black on white, rose on white or white on yellow, white on blue or on peach or light green. Choose bathroom window curtains to match, measuring 54 inches long by 36 inches wide, and made with attractive ruffles.

You can get the sets just mentioned, or the shower curtains alone, as you prefer.

And they are very easy to clean. Simply wash them in warm, sudsy water, rinse, and press on the wrong side while still damp with a warm, not a hot, iron. [This fabric should never be dry cleaned.]

You'll find it easy to match any of the colors with bath towels. For instance, the large white Turkish towels with a single huge chintz rose appliquéed in the center of one end would be perfect with the rose print shower curtain.

And plain pastel peach bath towels and wash cloths blend with the plain peach shower curtains. Bath mats, too, are available in most of the colors.

• • •

Many readers complain that landlords will not let them paint the walls of the bathroom anything except white. The answer is simply to enliven the decorative scheme by using colorful printed window and shower curtains. They will bring in the pattern needed to break the monotony of all that snowy expanse. Match one of the hues of the pattern in towels, bath mat, and wash cloths and you'll have a fresh and charming room.

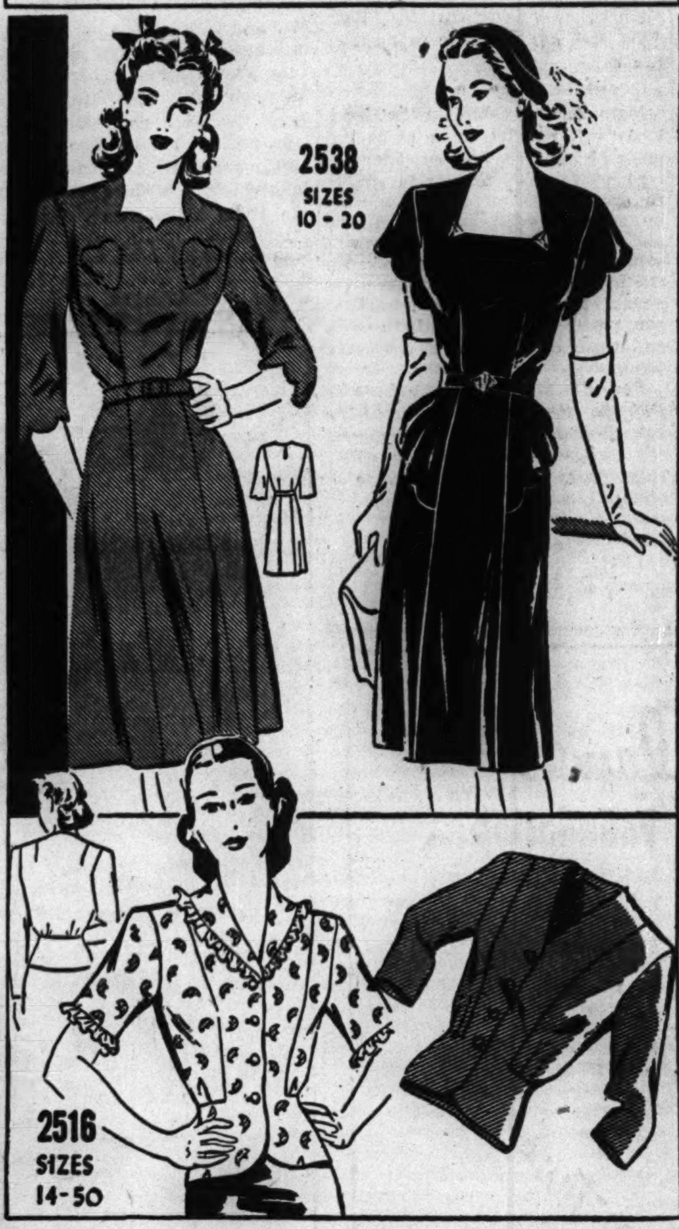
Patterns by Clotilde



By Clotilde.

Two extremely versatile patterns, illustrated today, are the basis for at least four autumn wardrobe items. The dress design may be either "after-fivish" or softly tailored for day time occasions, while the blouse pattern makes either a woolen or crepe jacket or a frilled topper for skirts.

The frock may have a low U neckline to be accented with jeweled clips, a frilled peplum and scallops on the cape sleeves to echo the treatment. In this version, in either crepe or satin, it has social ways. The same design, with heart shaped neckline, bracelet length sleeves, and without a peplum but with heart cut pockets, is lovely in lightweight woolen or crepe for office or school wear.

The blouse may have either long or short sleeves, and the collar is optional.

Style No. 2538 is designed for sizes 10 to 20. Size 16 requires 3½ yards of 39 inch fabric for tailored dress; 3⅛ yards for dressier version.

Style No. 2516 is designed for sizes 14 to 50. Size 36 requires 1⅞ yards of 39 inch fabric with 1¾ yards of ruffling for blouse; 2 yards for jacket.

Each pattern is 10 cents, plus 2 cents for mailing.

The bidding:

South	West	North	East
1 spade	2 clubs	2 diamonds	2 hearts
4 spades	Double	Pass	Pass
Redouble	Pass	Pass	Pass

Opening lead: Eight of hearts.

Today's hand was submitted to me as a tale of horror, by a correspondent who, for reasons that may become obvious, has asked that his name be undisclosed. He stated that the narrative had first been offered to a periodical trading under the name of "Adventure Stories" but had been rejected.

The letter speaks for itself: "I have been plodding along for a number of years with this game of contract, and it gives me comfort to believe that I am somewhat above the average. I follow the magazines and the daily columns studiously; I admire from afar the masters and their brilliant execution of coups and end plays. I have studied their technique and have waited years for an opportunity to emulate their brilliancies. None ever came, or if it did I failed to recognize it. At long last providence sent me the above hand.

"I was West playing in a duplicate with a young lady whose charm was out of all proportion to her talent. When this hand came along, I felt the time was ripe to open up the guns and my double of four spades was based largely on this consideration and partly on the reasoning that when she bids them she has them.

"I opened the eight of hearts and my fair partner cashed three tricks in that suit, without any trace of emotion. On the third trick I had to select a discard. I found myself carelessly reaching for a club, when I paused a moment to consider. Since declarer had bid four spades and redoubled with three losing hearts in his hand, there was a strong probability that he expected to lose no other tricks, especially since he was missing some strength in the trump suit. If declarer were void of diamonds the only way to beat the hand would be to get rid of the ace, and put myself in a position to overruff. In any event the discard of the diamond, absolutely guarantees the defeat of the contract, because if declarer ruffs with the king my jack-nine-two will become promoted to a trick. So I shed the ace, honest I did. My partner promptly led the jack of clubs. With as much politeness as I was able to muster, I asked my darling why she had not led a diamond. Her reply was: 'I didn't know whether to lead the king or a small one, so rather than show my ignorance, I led your suit.'"

Margaret Jane Regan Wed to Roger Patrick

In a ceremony on Sept. 5 in the chapel of the Epworth Methodist church, Miss Margaret Jane Regan became the bride of Roger Patrick, son of Mr. and Mrs. Roger C. Patrick of Mason City, Ia. The bride is the daughter of Mrs. John W. Willoughby of Oakesdale, Wash. Mr. Patrick is a W-G-N announcer.

Lady of the House

The Wind.

I think I have always loved the wind—even in its sternest moods. I loved to run into the teeth of it, and let it blow my hair, while childish ears heard strange music in its vagrant stirrings and talks of many things.

I like the warm breath from the south that heralds the first thaws of spring; the mad March gale that swirls the "sugar snow" about my ears The deceptive April wind that one moment comes "whispering lightly from the west" of a blue sky day and the next sobs fiercely thru a storm of tears.

I like the soft, moist wind of a May evening that wanders up from the wood and gathers the scent of apple bloom from the old orchard and the breath of rain-wet lilacs by the gate. The fresher winds of summer as they toss the clover heads and ripple the grain fields and blow strong from the northern hills to fill our sails as we skim down the bay.

I like the morning wind that blows in the cool, fresh dawn before the heat of the day; the evening wind that caresses the silver head of the tired old woman at the open window and kisses the cheek of the child on his cot.

I like the autumn winds that toss the gold and crimson leaves against the paling sun and blow a scud of clouds across the hunter's moon. keening because the summer's laid away.

I like the winter winds that shrill thru the gaunt and naked woods and shake the doors and rattle the windows and push icy fingers thru every little cranny, and make deep organ pipes of the chimneys—when I am safe inside. . . . And often, as Wordsworth did—

"I have dropped my pen and listened to the wind
That sang of trees uptorn and vessels tost;
A midnight harmony, and wholly lost
To the general sense of men by chains confined
Of business, care, or pleasure—or resigned
To timely sleep."

Vacation Note.

There's a spot in the Ouichita valley
Where the breeze whispers all the day long;
Where the crepe myrtle sways
Thru the long summer days
And the lilt of the mocking bird's song
Fills the air with such torrents of music
The sky seems to bend down to hear,
While the soft summer breeze,
Softly stirring the trees,
Wanders aimlessly, carelessly near.

In my beautiful Ouichita valley
With its mountains so friendly and near;
I have chosen a spot
And I'll build me a cot,
And I'll live there—one month each year.
Florence Denison.

Alone.

Could I have borne your son
Pierced with sharp desire
The gates of heaven, locked for me,
This glacier that engulfs my heart
Would have melted now and set me free.
Your son; my compensation for your loss
A haunting echo of your love,
A soothing calm descended on a sea, storm tossed,
The magic dawn emerging from the dark of night,
A touch of stardust in my eyes, forever now denied,
All these were mine, and more
Could I have borne your son.
Could I have borne your son,
This agony of soul may not have been,
The peace for which you gave your blood
Is not for me, nor can it stem this flood
Of loneliness. O, wake my love,
Fill my arms and stanch these bitter tears!
There is no answer to my cry
Held in a sea of emptiness for endless years.
Grace Borchert.

My Prayer.

O, make me worthy, gracious Lord,
For this, thy precious gift to me.
The little son so newly come,
From out thy vast eternity.
Grant by Thy love to make me wise,
Nor ever falter on the way,
To guide this precious child and help
His stumbling footsteps day by day.
O, let me fail not in my task,
Strengthen me ever by Thy grace,
That I may lead this little one
So he, too, may behold Thy face.

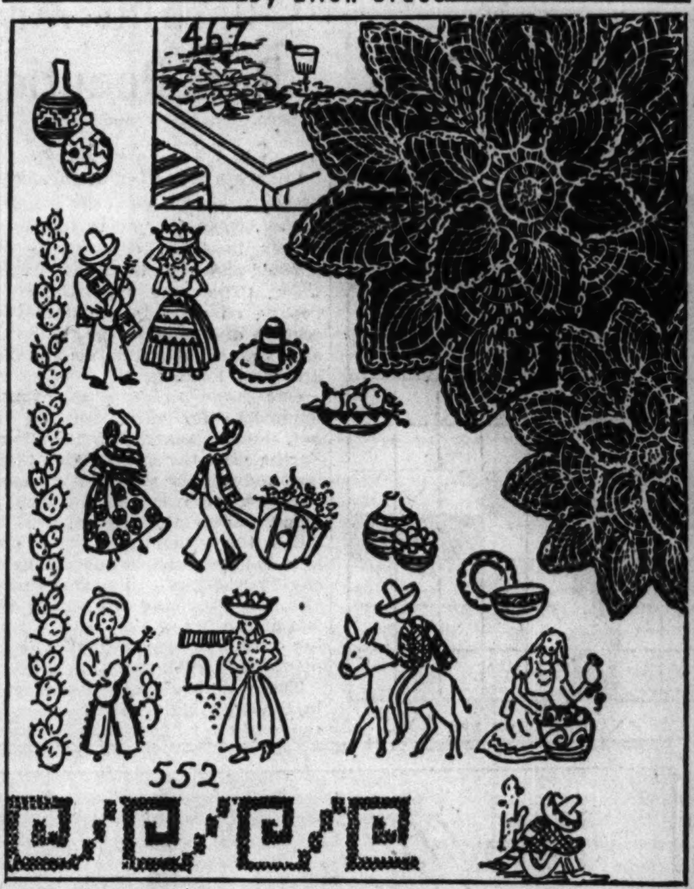
Designs for Needlework

By Ellen Bruce



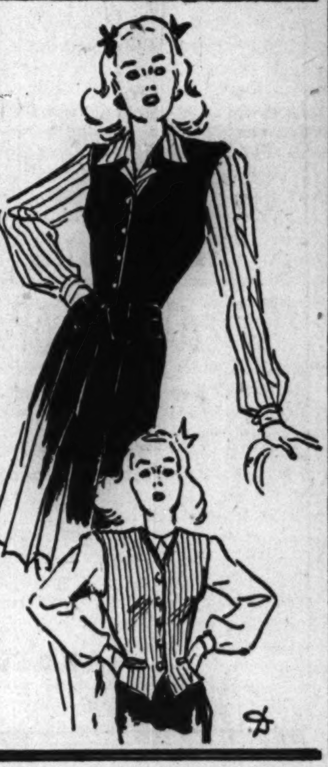
Embroidery designs of old Mexico are popular motifs for all types of household items as well as clothes designed in the Mexican theme. These 16 motifs range in size from 2 by 2 to 3⅛ by 4⅛ inches. The hot iron transfer pattern also contains borders in cross stitch and outline stitch.

For those whose favorite crochet design is the pineapple pattern, this lovely circular doily is an ideal choice for a luncheon table. Ivory mercerized crochet cotton is used, and six skeins are sufficient for eight place mats.

For the hot iron transfer pattern, No. 552, and instructions for crocheting the doily, No. 467, send 10 cents in stamps or coin, plus 2 cents to cover mailing cost, FOR EACH PATTERN, to the Needlework Bureau, Chicago Tribune, 220 Fifth av., New York 1, N. Y.

Fashions

By Angela



Weskits with their trim, slim lines are a wearable and popular fashion adjunct, and are to be found in a wide color range, in plain, plaid, and checkered materials, and in every wardrobe. The weskit also allows the blouse fancier chance for as many changes as the budget will allow.

An ideal flannel weskit with a matching brown skirt can serve as the basis of smart mix or match ensembles, since it may be worn with checked or plaid skirts. The skirt, which is sold separately, has three inverted plaits in front, a single kick plait in the back, and a zipper up the side. The white silk shirt with convertible neckline has brown pin stripes which match the skirt and jacket. The full sleeves are gathered into a tight cuff and fasten with two pearl buttons which match the front buttoning.

A wide wale corduroy weskit is another favorite model for wear under suits, or with contrasting skirts. Available in all bright colors, it is well tailored, with tiny slit pockets and matching bone buttons.

Some Favorite Pickle Recipes Printed Today

By Mary Meade.

[Copyright: 1944: By The Chicago Tribune.]

When readers of this column ask for the same recipe year after year, I know for certain that it's a GOOD recipe! "Those were the best pickles I ever made, but now I've lost the recipe." That's been a common complaint for the last month.

Therefore I thought it might be smart to publish a few of these sought after pickle recipes before we put away the pickling equipment until the 1945 season.

Quick Dill Pickles.

Pack even sized, washed cucumbers into clean jars. Put a spray of dill in each jar. Bring to boil a pickling solution made in this proportion: 1 cup salt, 1 quart vinegar, 3 quarts water. Pour over the pickles in the jars; seal and store for at least six weeks before using. The cucumbers take that long to cure. A clove of garlic and a tiny hot pepper may be placed in each jar, if liked.

The sensational popularity enjoyed by the dill pickle recipe is due largely to its simplicity. Old fashioned mustard pickles take more time and fussing, but they're worth it. "Best I ever made" is the tribute which more than one Tribune reader has given these pickles.

Old Fashioned Mustard Pickles.

3 medium heads cauliflower
2 pounds pearl onions
3 quarts tiny cucumbers
3 bunches celery
1 cup dry mustard
⅓ cup turmeric
⅓ cup curry powder
2⅓ cups flour
3 cups brown sugar
6 quarts vinegar

Wash cauliflower and divide into small clusters. Slice clusters thru the middle once. Peel onions, scrub cucumbers [gherkin size], and wash and cut up celery. Place vegetables in brine made in the proportion of 2 cups salt to 1 gallon water. Soak over night. Make mustard sauce by mixing dry ingredients, adding vinegar, and letting the mixture come to a boil, stirring constantly to keep smooth. Bring mixed vegetables in brine just to the boiling point, then drain well and add to mustard sauce. Heat to boiling point, pack into clean hot jars and seal.

Creamy pepper relish has the virtue of doubling as a sandwich spread, just as it comes from the jar. This is a kitchenette size recipe.

Creamy Pepper Relish.

1 pint ground green tomatoes
2 red peppers, ground
2 green peppers, ground
1 teaspoon salt
½ cup liquid
1 cup ground sweet pickles
3 eggs
1 cup sugar
1 cup sour cream
2 tablespoons prepared mustard
2 tablespoons flour
½ cup vinegar

Combine tomatoes, peppers, and salt. Let stand a few minutes and drain. Return ½ cup of the drained liquid to the vegetables. Cook until tender, and add pickles. Mix eggs, sugar, cream, mustard, and flour with vinegar, and cook until thick and creamy, stirring constantly. Add vegetable mixture, cook 5 minutes longer, and seal in sterilized jars.

Many a reader has asked us for this recipe for pepper mangoes.

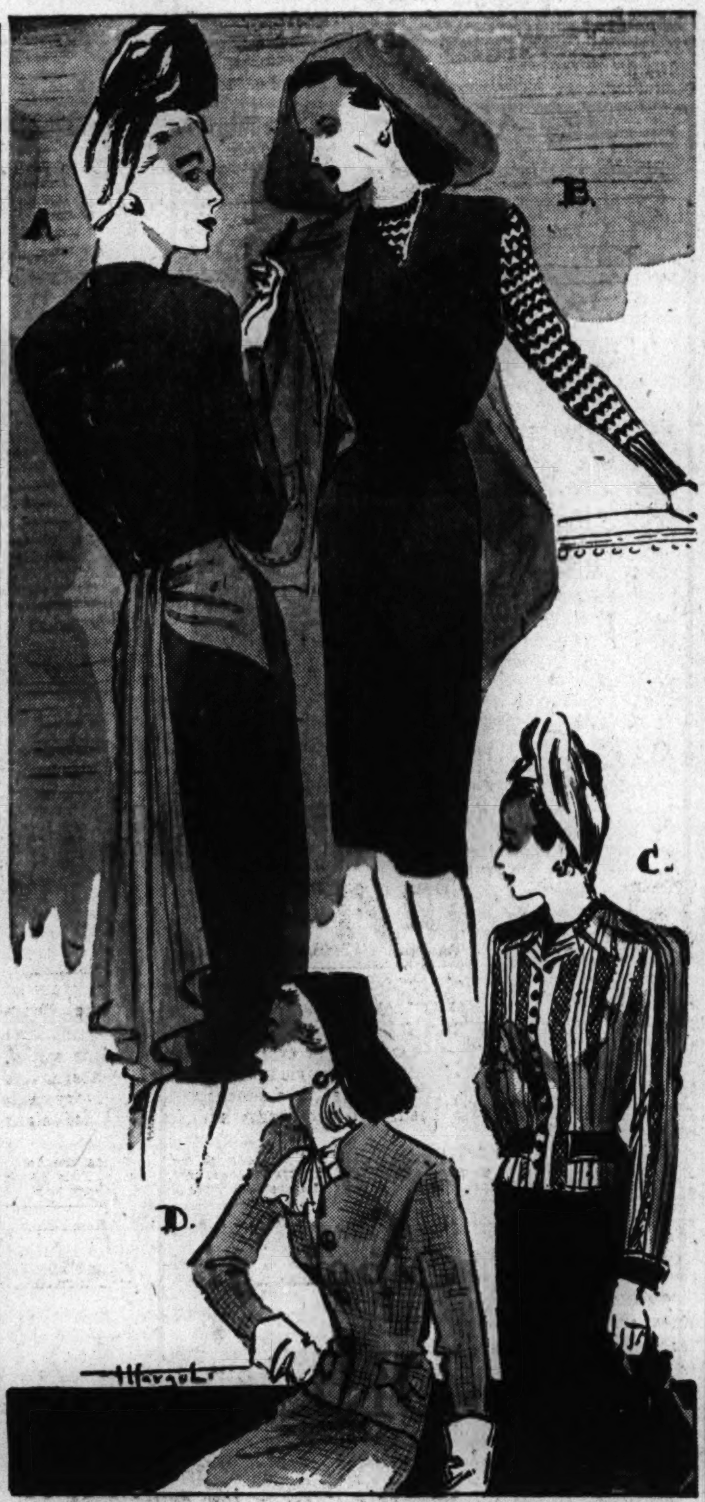
Pepper Mangoes.

2 dozen large green peppers
2 quarts chopped cabbage
1 cup chopped red peppers
1 cup chopped celery
3 tablespoons salt
1 cup sugar
⅓ cup white mustard seed
Vinegar to cover mangoes

Choose peppers with half inch stems, if possible. Soak peppers for 24 hours in brine made by dissolving 1 cup salt in 1 gallon water. Drain, wash in cold water, and drain again. Carefully cut off a slice of each pepper at the stem end, and remove seeds.

To prepare filling, mix vegetables and salt, and let stand overnight. Drain and add mustard seed and sugar. Stuff peppers with this relish and tie tops back in place or fasten them with toothpicks. Place stuffed peppers in clean jars, cover with hot vinegar and seal at once.

TURN IN WASTE FATS FOR POINTS AND PENNIES!



A . . . Sophisticated brown and black afternoon dress buttons down back. Neckline is high and round, and fitted sleeves are long. Twin brown panels tie at back. • B . . . Smart town and country ensemble consists of black suit with ginger and black knitted sleeves and gilet, and short black coat which boasts back flare and black saddle stitching. • C . . . Stunning black and brown striped wool jacket is dramatized by dull black skirt. • D . . . Two toned brown checked wool is used for slim suit. Jacket features fancy pockets and unusual neckline.

On the House

By Louise Bargelt

One innovation for our post-war homes will be the heating of our houses by zones, or zone control. . . . A house, either a new or an existing one, can be divided into two or three or even more zones, depending on its size, and this will give the effect of some two or three or more independent heating plants. . . . No one will have to "roast" in the living room to keep the bedrooms warm, while service portions, kitchens, etc., can be kept as cool as desired, while dining rooms, dens, and living rooms are comfortably warm. . . . The advantages of this zone control are well worth checking for our post-war homes!

Whether of not your plans for a post-war home are completed, you may be one of thousands of future owners who are already looking around for a house site which will suit the house you intend to build, and located in a neighborhood which offers the highest possible percentage of qualities you consider desirable. . . . We've prepared a free leaflet: "Shopping for a Site for Your Post-War House."

[For above information on zone control and leaflet on buying a site for your post-war house, please send stamped, addressed envelope to Louise Bargelt, Home Owners' editor, The Chicago Tribune.]

Newest Color Duet Is Black, Ginger Brown

By Rea Seeger.

The best color combination of the year will be brown and black. Brown, fragrant, spicy brown of gingerbread; black, the dull black that brings out the rich depth of the brown. You'll see this duet in dresses, suits, ensembles of dress or suit teamed with a companion topcoat, gloves, bags, and hats. Besides being one of the most subtle and elegant of contrasts, it is the most practical because the accessory hunt is narrowed down to brown or black and all the colors that go with either brown or black.

The smartest ensembles are those of suit with short, flaring topcoat. For a slim suit of either black or gingerbread brown can be topped with contrasting coats. The topcoat can be worn with dresses already in the wardrobe, and the suit, of course, quickly and easily teams with capes, other coats, or fur coats.

Even the brown or black fur coat gets into the picture with this gingerbread brown and black color scheme. Most milliners have presented many hats of these two colors. Some spectacular bags feature the two handsome colors, while the blouse collections offer tempting models of either color, accentuated with the contrast color, and some half and half affairs.

Dashing short capes of black have brown fur linings. Double or convertible capes without fur feature black on one side, brown on the other. Coats and jackets come in this turnabout combination, and many black fabric winter coats trimmed with black fur boast brown linings. It's a fascinating array this fall, for all the early collections star this unusual black and brown contrast idea.

Many flattering day time or afternoon dresses are marvels of ingenuity, because of the clever way brown is introduced without a patchy effect. Brown panels on a dull black dress, waistcoat effects, diagonal bands thru the midriff section, yokes, half and half sleeves, wide swathed belts, peplums, bows, appliqued motifs, inserts, and all the time tested dressmaker details that always make the most effective tho simple looking dresses, are shown.

Fitted full length coats, the snappy young swagger coats with a back flare, and the spectator sports coats in classic straight lines, come in this rich deep brown—all are ready to dramatize dresses of dull black. And to finish the fashion picture, the newest, most beautiful, floor length dinner and evening gowns are of this ginger brown.

Sketched are four new gingerbread brown and black costumes to be found in a smart boulevard shop here in Chicago. There are others with the same smart color scheme and high fashion details. For further information call Superior 0200.

A Weekly Sponsored Column of Things Advertised and Interesting

New York, N. Y., Sept. 24th. Thought you might like to clip these two recipes . . . they're guaranteed to please the he-man in your family . . . with a flavor designed especially to make him remember what a grand cook he married! That tangy, smooth-textured flavor of HEINZ Prepared Mustard goes a long way toward making these quick, economical dishes so good . . . for HEINZ "stone-grinds" American-grown mustard seeds the genuine old-fashioned way to give extra freshness and flavor!

OLD-FASHIONED COLE SLAW

Beat 2 eggs slightly. Add ⅓ cup water, ⅓ cup Heinz Cider Vinegar, ⅓ cup sugar, 1 tsp salt, ⅛ tsp. pepper, 1½ tsp. Heinz Prepared Yellow Mustard, blending well. Cook, stirring until thick. Cool. Pour over 4 cups shredded cabbage. Mix thoroughly. Serve in cups of crisp lettuce. Serves 8.

BROILED LAMB KIDNEYS

Wash and halve 8 lamb kidneys. Remove white fibrous tissue. Brush with melted fat and broil until tender. Heat 4 tbs. butter or margarine, ½ tsp. Heinz Prepared Brown Mustard, ½ tsp. Heinz Worcestershire Sauce, ⅓ cup Heinz "57-Sauce" together and serve over broiled kidneys. Serves 4.

Last week I recommended that we start PACQUINS handcare NOW in order to safeguard the smooth, youthful appearance and whiteness of your hands before the Fall season begins. Use PACQUINS HAND CREAM after dipping hands in water, and ALWAYS before you go to bed. See how you help protect handskin against chap and roughredness . . . how more lily-white and youthful in appearance your hands look! There's another immediate help PACQUINS can give . . . a wonderful and soothing lubricant for the "small-fry" on their first back-to-school days! Playground dirt, chalk and schoolroom washings are apt to cause chap and rawness. Try the helpful qualities of PACQUINS . . . at Drug, Department & 10c stores.

FRESH from the TREES!

Nothing like the taste of FRESH oranges . . . and nothing worse than an acid-bitter imitation of their goodness. That's where the makers of WELCH'S Grape Juice were smart . . . putting only the finest, selected FRESH oranges into their new Orange Marmalade! It appeals even to those who normally don't like marmalades . . . combining the taste of fresh oranges into a sweet that lacks bitterness of European types. Ask your Grocer for WELCH'S Orange Marmalade . . . and if you're not entirely satisfied, drop me a line at 271 Madison Ave., New York 16, N. Y., and your money will be returned by the manufacturer!

"School-tips" for Mothers...

Clanging of school bells isn't for youngsters' ears alone,—it's a call to Mothers, too . . . a reminder they'd better check up on their ABC's of school-tog buying! Best advice I can give with regard to much-needed polo shirts and socks is that you look for the famous trade name GORDON . . . backed by a 72-year reputation for fine quality at reasonable prices! More than that . . . GORDON shirts and socks for children are styled in colors and designs young-fry will be happy to wear . . . and they're made of the finest yarns and fastest dyes that will withstand hard wear and frequent launderings. And since they're knit wear, there's no problem of ironing! Let the name GORDON be your "primer" to back-to-school buying . . . and you can't go wrong!

Smart Smoking...

If you're a fastidious woman, please check and double check various cigarette brands . . . see if you don't agree with me that VICEROY Cigarettes are the SMART smoke for the SMART woman! They're provided with round, smooth filter tips that check so many tobacco irritants from the fragrant smoking blend . . . and even more important, they hold the tobacco IN the cigarette. Thus, there are no loose tobacco crumbs scattering through your purse and flecking onto your teeth. The filter tip gives you a firm "mouthpiece", too, so that you run no danger of cigarette paper sticking unbecomingly to your lips. Try VICEROYS . . . I know you'll like them!

GIRDLES... with REAL Elastic!

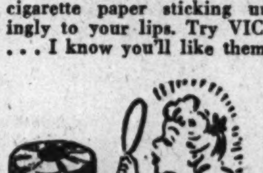
When you find JUST what you're looking for these days, it's like striking gold! Girdles, for example, with real elastic in them . . . and that's exactly what you get when you find a VELVET GRIP GIRDLE or GARTER BELT. In these days when they could easily have skimped on elastic, the VELVET GRIP people have stuck to their guns and put as much elastic in their garments as ever! All materials are tops, too,—so is the excellent workmanship and the fine styling in all VELVET GRIPS. Like all good things, they're scarce . . . so don't be discouraged by one "no" . . . try, try again . . . and when you find one . . . GLORY in it! They're worth the effort!



Remember when YOU received your first box of face powder? Wasn't it a wonderful feeling, this gift that tacitly admitted you to the "grown-up" world? Then let me suggest YARDLEY English Complexion Powder as about the most enchanting gift you could find for a young girl . . . a truly "famous name" gift of powder that's expertly blended with a "mist blown" smoothness . . . in your choice of 8 beautiful shades. Cost is just $1 a box at finer shops everywhere. Try YARDLEY Powder for yourself, too . . . choose English Peach, Zinnia or Rose Rachel to "color-light" your complexion with a flattering glow that seems to come from WITHIN!

ONE Cream for ALL Purposes!

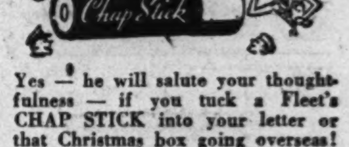
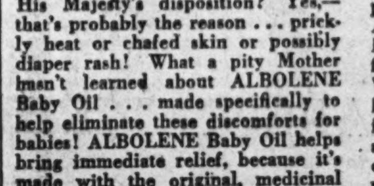
Any economy-wise woman will applaud a product that does SEVERAL important jobs for her at ONE time! That's the reason I'm so fond of the Angelus ALL-PURPOSE Creme from the House of LOUIS PHILIPPE . . . for it cleanses, smooths, helps nature refine pores and acts as an excellent powder base! What more can you ask of ONE good cream? What makes this ALL-PURPOSE Creme even better news is its extremely low cost . . . 49c for a big Economy Jar of fragrantly scented cream that's as smooth as rich country cream! Also a 79c size. Ask for it at Cosmetic Counters!



Yes — he will salute your thoughtfulness — if you tuck a Fleet's CHAP STICK into your letter or that Christmas box going overseas! Sun and cold, drying winds and dust, extremes of temperature, all are especially hard on tender lip membranes, for nature forgot to supply them with lubricating sebaceous glands. So send a CHAP STICK, — for its medication gives wonderful relief to chapped, cracked, parched and roughened lips. Cost is 25c at Drug Stores — and why not buy one for every member of your family at the same time? Autumn, with changing weather, brings special danger of chapped lips!

Smart...because she's Comfortable!

If easing into new and heavier Fall shoes is a problem to you, —let DR. SCHOLL'S Foot Balm come to the rescue! It's soothing and refreshing . . . as comforting as a caress! Rub it right into your feet and see how it relieves burning or any pinched feeling caused by shoe pressure or too much walking and exertion . . . a soothing, fragrant balm that's stimulating, refreshing and wonderfully relieving! Drug, Shoe, Department Stores and Notion Counters carry DR. SCHOLL'S FOOT BALM . . . ask for it and find new pleasure in walking!



Guess what's causing the quirks in His Majesty's disposition? Yes,—that's probably the reason . . . prickly heat or chafed skin or possibly diaper rash! What a pity Mother hasn't learned about ALBOLENE Baby Oil . . . made specifically to help eliminate these discomforts for babies! ALBOLENE Baby Oil helps bring immediate relief, because it's made with the original, medicinal mineral oil, Liquid Albolene, which doctors have prescribed for over 65 years! It's wonderfully protective as a fine lubricant, and equally helpful in its mild, antiseptic and soothing action. Cost is moderate,—and you'll find it at your Druggist's in a big 6-oz. bottle! Ask for ALBOLENE Baby Oil today!

Why Be Jealous?

Does the sight of a trim-slim figure start the green-eyed monster a-gnawing at you? Then why not try to do something about those excess pounds that spoil your figure? The AYDS Vitamin Candy Reducing Plan is the easier way to do it! Just follow directions . . . eat AYDS Vitamin Candy before meals to help lose weight each week. AYDS are fortified with important vitamins and minerals to aid in preventing deficiencies and hidden hunger many reducing diets cause, and AYDS dull the appetite for rich, high-caloried foods. Cost of a month's supply is $2.25. Ask for AYDS at The Fair, Boston Store, Mandel's and leading Drug Counters.
